

OLD ENGLISH SERIES • VOLUME 12

THE OLD ENGLISH BEDE

BEDE

Historia ecclesiastica gentis Anglorum

The Old English Bede

Part Two: The Church of Theodore and the Saints of Bede's Own Day with a word-for-word interlinear English translation preserving the original word order

CANES NOBILES · MMXXVI

Copyright © 2026 Christopher Hench All rights reserved

Published by Canes Nobiles

The source text is in the public domain

Volume 12 of the Canes Nobiles Old English interlinear texts

The Old English text follows Thomas Miller's text, The Old English Version of Bede's Ecclesiastical History of the English People, Part I, Early English Text Society, Original Series 95–96 (London: Trübner, 1890–91), pages 16 to 24 and 252 to 488

Set from page scans of that printing

Translated and composed with AI, edited by Christopher Hench Artwork by Esther Steves

The text is Miller's, founded on Tanner 10 where that manuscript is present and on the Cotton, Oxford, and Cambridge copies where it is not; the and-sign of the manuscripts, which his font sets as a figure 7, is printed here as ꝛ, and his italic expansions of their abbreviations are set in roman.
A dagger marks what he leaves as corrupt and an asterisk his conjecture.
The margin gives his page and line where a paragraph begins.

CONTENTS

The Chapters of the Fourth Book	9
The Chapters of the Fifth Book	15

BOOK IV

I · Theodore Sent to Britain	21
II · Theodore's Visitation and the Schools of Kent	28
III · Chad at Lichfield, and His Death	32
IV · Colman in Inishbofin and Mayo	46
V · The Death of Oswy and the Synod of Hertford	49
VI · Bisi and the Two East Anglian Sees	55
VII · Winfrith Deposed, Earconwald and Barking	56
VIII · The Light over Barking	58
IX · The Boy Æsica	61
X · The Nun's Light Before Dawn	63
XI · Torhtgyth's Vision of Æthelburh	64
XII · Torhtgyth's Death	68
XIII · Hildelith and the Blind Woman Healed	70

BOOK IV

(continued)

XIV · King Sebbi Becomes a Monk	73
XV · Leutherius, Hædde, and Cædwalla	78
XVI · Rochester Sacked and Wilfrid Expelled	79
XVII · Wilfrid Among the South Saxons	82
XVIII · Wight Conquered and Its Two Princes	89
XIX · The Synod of Hatfield	93
XX · John the Arch-Chanter	97
XXI · Æthelthryth	100
XXII · The Battle on the Trent	110
XXIII · Imma's Bonds	111
XXIV · Hild of Whitby	118
XXV · Cædmon	130
XXVI · The Burning of Coldingham	139
XXVII · Ecgfrith's Fall and Aldfrith	148
XXVIII · Cuthbert Made Bishop	153
XXIX · Cuthbert on Farne and in His See	158
XXX · Cuthbert and Herbert	164
XXXI · Cuthbert's Body Found Whole	169
XXXII · Baduthegn Healed	173
XXXIII · The Eye Healed by Cuthbert's Hair	177

BOOK V

I · Æthelwald Stills the Storm	181
II · John of Hexham and the Dumb Youth	185

BOOK V

(continued)

III · The Nun of Watton	189
IV · The Gesith's Wife	194
V · The Gesith's Servant	196
VI · Herebald's Fall	199
VII · Cædwalla and Ine at Rome	206
VIII · Theodore's Death and Berhtwald	209
IX · Ecgberht's Mission Forbidden	211
X · Willibrord Among the Frisians	216
XI · The Two Hewalds	218
XII · Swithberht and Willibrord Consecrated	223
XIII · Drythelm's Vision	227
XIV · The Thane and the Two Books	243
XV · The Smith Who Saw Hell	249
XVI · Hædde, Aldhelm, and the South Saxon See	253
XVII · Cenred, Offa, and the Life of Wilfrid	256
XVIII · Hadrian, Albinus, and Acca	274
XIX · Nechtan and Ceolfrith's Letter	277
XX · Iona Keeps the Right Easter	281
XXI · Tobias, the Comets, and Ceolwulf	286
XXII · The State of Britain, and Bede's Own Works	289

AFTER THE HISTORY

The West Saxon Genealogy	299
------------------------------------	-----

THE CHAPTERS OF THE FOURTH BOOK

The list of the fourth book, thirty-one entries for its thirty-three chapters: Theodore's coming and his visitation, Chad and Colman, the synods of Hertford and Hatfield, the wonders at Barking, King Sebbi's monkhood, Wilfrid among the South Saxons, Wight's conversion, John the arch-chanter, Æthelthryth, the freed captive, Hild and the brother gifted with song, Coldingham's fire foretold, the deaths of Ecgfrith and Hlothhere, and Cuthbert's life, death, and miracles.

Her onginneð seo feorðe bók.

16.28

Here begins the fourth book

I. Ðætte forðferdum Deusdedit ðon arcebiscope, Wigheard

16.29

One That departed Deusdedit the archbishop Wigheard wæs þam biscophade to onfonne to Rome onsended: ac him was the bishopric to receive to Rome sent but him þær forðferendum, Ðeodorus wæs to arcebiscope gehalgod there dying Theodore was as archbishop consecrated ꝥ mid Adriane þam abbude wæs to Breotone onsended.

and with Hadrian the abbot was to Britain sent

II. Ðæt Ðeodorus se arcebiscope * gondferend ealle

16.33

Two That Theodore the archbishop (conjecture) going-through all Angelcynnes cyricean mid * rihtgeleaffulre soðfæstnysse, of-English-race churches with (conjecture) right-believing truthfulness ꝥ swylce eac mid halgum gewritum ꝥ stæfcræftum hi and likewise also with holy writings and letters them georne het beon lærede: ꝥ þæt Putta for Damiano earnestly commanded be taught and that Putta for Damian æt Hrofeceastre to biscope wæs gehalgod.

at Rochester as bishop was consecrated

- 18.4 III. Ðæt Ceadda, be þam ðe we ær bufan spræcon, Three That Chad about whom that we before above spoke Myrcna mægðe wæs biscop seald: 7 be his life, 7 be of-Mercians province was bishop given and about his life and about his forðfore, 7 be his byrigenne. his departure and about his burial
- 18.7 IV. Ðæt Coloman se biscop, forletenre Breotone, twa Four That Colman the bishop left Britain two mynstro on Scottum geworhte, oðer þam Scottum, oðer monasteries among Scots built one for-the Scots other ðam Engliscan, ðe he mid hine ðider gelædde. for-the English whom he with him thither led
- 18.10 V. Be deaðe Oswies 7 Ecbyrhtes þara cyninga: 7 be Five About death of-Oswy and of-Ecgberht the kings and about þam sinoðe þe geworden wæs æt Heortfeorda, þam wæs the synod that held was at Hertford over-which was foresittende se arcebiscop Deodorus. presiding the archbishop Theodore
- 18.13 VI. Ðæt adune asetton of þam biscoprice Winfriðe, Seaxulf Six That down set from the bishopric Winfrith Seaxulf his biscoprice onfeng: 7 Erconwold Eastseaxum wæs biscop his bishopric received and Earconwald to-East-Saxons was bishop seald.
given
- 18.15 VII. Ðæt on Berccingum þam mynstre mid heofonlice leohte Seven That at Barking the monastery with heavenly light getacnod wæs, hwær gesette beon sceoldon þa lichaman betokened was where placed be should the bodies haligra fæmnena.
of-holy maidens

- VIII. Ðæt on þam ylcan mynstre sum lytel sweltende 18.18 Eight That in the same monastery a little dying cniht be naman genemde ða mynsterfæmnan, ðe him boy by name named the monastery-maiden ubo him æfterfyligende wæs: 7 þæt oðru of lichaman utgange following was and that other from body going-out sumne dæl geseah þæs heofonlican leohtes. some part saw of-the heavenly light
- IX. Hwylce heofonlicu tacnu ætywde wæron, þa ða seo 18.22 Nine What heavenly tokens shewn were when that the modur sylf ðære gesomnunge of middanearde ferde. mother herself of-the congregation from middle-earth departed
- X. Ðæt Torhtgyð seo Godes þeowen ðreo gear æfter ðære 18.24 Ten That Torhtgyth the of-God handmaid three years after of-the hlæfdian forðfore þa geta on life hæfd wæs. lady departure then yet in life held was
- XI. Ðæt æt þam lictune ðæs mynstres an blind wif 18.26 Eleven That at the burial-ground of-the monastery a blind woman hire wæs gebiddende; 7 forðam onfeng þam beorhte hire herself was praying and therefore received the brightness of-her eagenas.
eyes
- XII. Ðæt se cyning ðære ylcan mægðe Sebbe on munuclicum 18.28 Twelve That the king of-the same province Sebbi in monastic drohtoðe his lif geendode. way-of-life his life ended
- XIII. Ðæt Westseaxna biscophad for Eleutherio Hædde wæs 18.30 Thirteen That of-West-Saxons bishopric for Eleutherius Hædde was onfonde, 7 ðone æt Hrofeceastre for Puttan Cwihelm receiving and that at Rochester for Putta Cwihelm onfeng, 7 for him Gifmund: 7 eac hwylce ða wæron received and for him Gebmund and also which then were Norðanhymbra bisceopas.

of-Northumbrians bishops

- 18.33 XIV. Ðæt se steorra ætywde, se is cometa nemned, 7 Fourteen That the star appeared which is comet named and þreo monað wæs wuniende, and symble on uhtatid wæs three months was remaining and ever at dawn-time was upyrnende. On þam ylcan geare Ecfrið Norðanhymbra cyning rising-up In the same year Ecgrith of-Northumbrians king adræfde Wilfirð þone arwyrðan biscop.

drove-out Wilfrid the venerable bishop

- 20.3 XV. Ðæt Willferð biscop Suðseaxna mægðe to Criste Fifteen That Wilfrid bishop of-South-Saxons province to Christ gecyrde, seo hwæðere, him ðanon gewitendum, for ðære turned which however him thence departing for the grimman feonda ofðrycnesse agenne biscop habban ne mihte. grim of-enemies oppression own bishop have not could

- 20.6 XVI. Ðæt þæt ealond Wiht onfeng cristene bigengan, þæs Sixteen That the island Wight received Christian inhabitants of-which twegen cynelice cnihtas æfter þon onfangenan fulluhtes bæðe two royal boys after the received of-baptism washing sona wurdon ofslegene.

soon were slain

- 20.9 XVII. Be þam sinode se wæs geworden on þam felda, Seventeen About the synod which was held in the field se wæs genemned Hæþfeld, andweardan þam ærcebiscope which was named Hatfield present the archbishop Theodore.

Theodore

XVIII. Be Iohanne þam heahseangere þæs apostolican setles, 20.11 Eighteen About John the arch-chanter of-the apostolic see se for lare com to Breotone.

who for teaching came to Britain

XIX. Ðæt seo cwen Æðeldryð clæne fæmne þurhwunode, 20.13 Nineteen That the queen Æthelbryth pure maiden continued þære lichama on byrigenne gewemmed beon ne mihte: ȝ whose body in burial corrupted be not could and be þam hymene þe we be hire geworhton.

about the hymn that we about her made

XX. Ðæt se biscop Ðeodorus betweox Ecgferðe ȝ Æðelrede 20.16 Twenty That the bishop Theodore between Ecgfrith and Æthelred þam cyningum sibbe geworhte.

the kings peace made

XXI. Ðæt ða benda sumes gehæftes * tolysed 20.18 Twenty-one That the bonds of-a captive (conjecture) loosed wæron, þonne for him mæssan sungene wæron.

were when for him masses sung were XXII. Be life ȝ forðfore Hilde þære abbudissan. 20.20

Twenty-two About life and departure of-Hild the abbess

XXIII. Ðæt on hire mynstre wæs sum broðor, þam 20.21 Twenty-three That in her monastery was a brother to-whom godcundlice forgifen wæs seo gyfu to singanne.

divinely given was the gift to sing

XXIII. Hwile gesihð sumum Godes were ætywde, ær 20.23

Twenty-four What vision to-a of-God man appeared before þam ðe þæt mynster æt Coludes byrig mid bryne fornumen that that the monastery at Coldingham — with burning consumed wære.

were

- 20.25 XXV. Be deaðe þara twegea cyninga Eoferðes 7 Twenty-five About death of-the two kings of-Ecgfrith and Hloðheres. of-Hlothhere
- 20.26 XXVI. Ðæt se Drihtnes wer Cuðbryht wæs biscop geworden, Twenty-six That the of-Lord man Cutbbert was bishop become 7 þæt he ða gyt on munuclicum life geseted lærde 7 and that he then yet in monastic life set taught and bodade. preached
- 20.28 XXVII. Ðæt se ylca wer Cuðbryhtus on ancerlife geseted Twenty-seven That the same man Cutbbert in anchorite-life set an easpring of drigre eorðan gebiddende up gelædde, 7 a spring from dry earth praying up led and ænne æcer of ðam gewinne his agenre handa ofer þa a field from the labor of-his own hand beyond the tid ðæs sæwetes onfeng. time of-the sowing received
- 20.31 XXVIII. Ðæt se ylca biscop Cupbryht his forþfore ða Twenty-eight That the same bishop Cutbbert his departure the toweardan Herebryhto þam ancran foresæde. coming to-Herbert the anchorite foretold - 20.33 XXIX. Ðæt his lichoma æfter endleofon gearum his Twenty-nine That his body after eleven years of-his byrigenne wæs clæne ælcere brosnunge funden 7 gemeted: burial was pure of-every corruption found and discovered 7 æfter noht mycele fyrste ðæs his æfterfyligend of and after not great space after-that his successor from þyssum middanearde geferde. this middle-earth departed

XXX. Ðæt æt his reliquium nu niwan wæs sum man 22.1

Thirty That at his relics now newly was a man gehæled fram þære adle his eagan.

healed from the disease of-his eyes

XXXI. Ðæt oðer æt his byrigenne fram lyftadle wæs 22.3 Thirty-one That another at his tomb from palsy was gehæled. Her endað seo feorðe bók.

healed Here ends the fourth book

THE CHAPTERS OF THE FIFTH BOOK

The list of the fifth book, twenty-one entries for its twenty-two chapters: Æthelwald's storm and Bishop John's healings; Cædwalla's baptism at Rome; Berhtwald and Tobias; Ecgberht's thwarted mission, Willibrord's in Frisia; the man who rose from death, two shown their sins and hell; Adamnan, Aldhelm, and the South Saxon bishops; Cenred and Offa at Rome and Wilfrid's death; Ceolfrith's letter to the Pictish king; Iona's Easter; and the state of Britain.

Her onginneð seo fifte bók. 22.5

Here begins the fifth book

I. Ðæt Æðelwold Scē Cupberhtes æfterfyligend on 22.6

One That Æthelwald of-Saint Cuthbert successor in ancersetle ond life geseted þam winnendum broðrum on sæ anchorite-seat and life set for-the struggling brothers on sea gebiddende ðone storm he gesette ȝ gestilde.

praying the storm he settled and stilled

II. Ðæt se biscop Iohannes ænne dumbne monn gebiddende 22.9

Two That the bishop John a dumb man praying gehælde.

healed

- 22.11 III. Ðæt se ylca biscop an adliende mæden gebiddende Three That the same bishop a sick maiden praying gehælde.
healed
- 22.12 IIII. Ðæt he anes gesiðmannes wif untrum mid gehalgode Four That he of-a gesiðb-man wife sick with hallowed wætere gelacnode.
water cured
- 22.14 V. Ðæt se ylca biscop anes gesiðmannes cniht gebiddende Five That the same bishop of-a gesiðb-man boy praying fram deaðe gecigde.
from death called
- 22.16 VI. Ðæt he his preosta ænne of horse fallende ȝ Six That he of-his priests one from horse falling and gebrysedne gelice gebiddende ȝ bletsigende fram deaðe bruised likewise praying and blessing from death gecyrde.
turned
- 22.18 VII. Ðæt Ceadwala Westseaxna cyning to gefulliane com to Seven That Cædwalla of-West-Saxons king to be-baptized came to Rome: swa eft his æfterfyligend Ine ða ylcan þærscwaldas Rome as afterward his successor Ine the same thresholds þara eadigra apostola estful gesohte. of-the blessed apostles devout sought
- 22.21 VIII. Ðæt, forðferdum ðeodoro, ðone arcebiscopphád Beorhtwald Eight That departed Theodore the archbishopric Beorhtwald onfeng; ȝ, betweox oðra monige þe he gehadode, eac received and among others many that he ordained also swylce Tobium ðone gelæredestan wer ðære cyrican æt likewise Tobias the most-learned man of-the church at Hrofesceastre biscop gehalgode.
Rochester bishop consecrated

VIII. Ðæt se halga wer Ecbyrht becuman wolde on Germaniam 22.25

Nine That the holy man Ecgherht come wished into Germany to bodianne godcunde lare. Ac he ne mihte: ac Wihtbyrht to preach divine teaching But he not could but Wihthberht ðyder becom for him, 7 ðær nowiht ne fremede; 7 þa thither came for him and there nothing — accomplished and then eft wæs ham hweorfende on Scotland, þanon he ær becom. again was home turning into Ireland whence he before came

X. Ðæt Wilbrord on Frysena lande bodiende monega to 22.29

Ten That Willibrord in of-Frisians land preaching many to Drihtne gecyrde: 7 þæt his geferan twegen healicne Lord turned and that his companions two lofty martyrdom wæron þrowiende.

martyrdom were suffering

XI. Ðæt se arwurða wer Swiðbyrht on Breotone, 7 22.32

Eleven That the venerable man Swithberht in Britain and Wilbrord æt Rome biscopas wæron Fresna ðeode gehalgode.

Willibrord at Rome bishops were of-Frisians nation consecrated

XII. Ðæt sum on Norðanhymbra mægðe of deaðe arisende 22.34

Twelve That one in of-Northumbrians province from death arising sume swiðe ondryslicu 7 eac to gewilnienne, ða þe he some very terrible and also to be-desired those that he geseah, secgende wæs.

saw telling was

XIII. Ðæt ongean þam oðer, to deaðe becumende, geseah 24.3

Thirteen That against that another to death coming saw him fram deofflum tobrohte beon ða boc his agenra to-himself by devils brought be the book of-his own synna.

sins

- 24.5 XIII. Ðæt eft oðer sweltende him þa getealdan stowe Fourteen That again another dying for-himself the appointed place mid helwarum his agenra wita geseah. with bell-dwellers of-his own torments saw
- 24.7 XV. Ðæt monega cyricean on Hibernia lærendum Athamanó Fifteen That many churches in Ireland teaching Adamnan þa eallgeleaflican Eastran onfengon: 7 be Ealdelme, se the catholic Easter received and about Aldhelm who ða bók ‘de uirginitate’ 7 eac oðra manega geworhte: ge the book about virginity and also others many made and eac þæt Suðseaxan agenne biscopas onfengon Eadbyrht 7 also that South-Saxons own bishops received Eadberht and Eollan; 7 Westseaxan onfengon Danielum 7 Aldelum: Eolla and West-Saxons received Daniel and Aldhelm 7 be Aldelmes gewritum. and about of-Aldhelm writings
- 24.12 XVI. Ðætte Cynred Mercna cyning 7 Offa Eastseaxna Sixteen That Cenred of-Mercians king and Offa of-East-Saxons cyning on munuclicum hadum to Rome becom, 7 þær king in monastic orders to Rome came and there heora lif geendode: 7 be life 7 forðfore þæs arwurðan their life ended and about life and departure of-the venerable biscopes Wilfriðes.
bishop Wilfrid
- 24.15 XVII. Ðæt þam eaufæstan abbude Adriano Albinus Seventeen That the pious abbot Hadrian Albinus æfterfyligde: 7 fram þam biscope Wilfriðe Acca his succeeded and from the bishop Wilfrid Acca his mæssepreost biscopphade onfeng. masspriest bishopric received

XVIII. Ðæt se abbud Ceolfrið Peohta cyninge, Neaton wæs 24.18

Eighteen That the abbot Ceolfrið of-Picts to-king Nechtan was haten, heahcræftigan somod 7 eac epistolam be healdnesse called master-builders together and also letter about observance rihtre Eastran onsende.

of-right Easter sent

XVIII. Ðæt þa munecas on Hii þam ealonde mid him 24.21

Nineteen That the monks on Iona the island with them ðam underþeoddum mynstrum þa ða rihtgeleaffullan Eastran, the subject monasteries then the right-believing Easter bodiendum Ecbyrhte 7 lærendum, weorþian ongunnon.

preaching Ecgerht and teaching to-keep began

XX. Be forðfore Tobias þæs biscopes æt Hrofesceastre 7 24.24

Twenty About departure of-Tobias the bishop at Rochester and Ecgyrhtes þæs arwurþan biscopes on ðone forman Easterdæg:

of-Ecgerht the venerable bishop on the first Easter-day 7 ðy ylcan geare forðferde Osric Norðanhymbra cyning.

and in-the same year departed Osric of-Northumbrians king

XXI. Hwylc se staðol is on andweardnesse Angelcynnes 24.27

Twenty-one What the state is in the-present of-English-race þeode ge eac ealre Breotone.

nation and also of-all Britain

BOOK IV

I · THEODORE SENT TO BRITAIN

In the year of the eclipse and the plague, Archbishop Deusdedit and King Eorcenberht of Kent died, and the priest Wigheard, sent to Rome for consecration, died there of the plague. Pope Vitalian offered the see to the abbot Hadrian, who declined and proposed Theodore of Tarsus, a monk of sixty-six learned in Greek and Latin. Theodore was consecrated and, after delays in Gaul, where Ebroin held Hadrian, reached Canterbury the next year.

Þy gemyndgadan gere þære foresprecenan sunnan 252.4 In-the mentioned year of-the aforesaid of-sun asprungennisse 7 hræðe sona þæs æfterfylgendan wooles eclipse and quickly soon of-the following pestilence 7 moncwilde, ðy geare Deusdedit se sexta ærcebiscop and mortality in-the year Deusdedit the sixth archbishop Contwaraburge cirican forðferde þy ærran dæge iduum of-Canterbury church departed on-the previous day of-the-Ides Iuliarum. Swelce eac Erconberht Contwara cyning þy ylcan July Likewise also Eorcenberht of-Kent king in-the same monðe ond dæge forðgeleorde, 7 his riices eðel forlet month and day passed-away and of-his kingdom homeland left Ecgberhte his suna, þæt he hæfde 7 heold anes wonðe to-Ecgberht his son which he had and held of-one lacking twentig wintra. Ða blon micelre tiide se biscopdom, ða twenty winters When ceased for-great time the bishopric then wæs sended to Róme from Ecgberhte 7 from Osweo was sent to Rome by Ecgberht and by Oswy Norðanhymbra cyninge Wigheard mæssepreost, swa swa we of-Northumbrians king Wigheard masspriest so as we in þisse ærran béc feaum wordum forecwædon. Wæs se mon in this former book with-few words said-before Was the man in ciriclecum þeodscipum of Ongolcynne wel gelæred. Swylce in churchly disciplines of English-race well taught Likewise hy eac þa cyningas begen ætgædre sendon þæm apostolican they also the kings both together sent to-the apostolic papan micle gife on monegum goldfatum 7 seolforfatum: pope great gifts in many gold-vessels and silver-vessels ond bædon, þæt he Wigheard Ongolcynnes ciricum to and asked that he Wigheard of-English-race to-churches as ærcebiscope gehalgode. Ða he ða to Róme cwom, þa wæs archbishop consecrated When he then to Rome came then was in þa tid Uitalius pápa þæs apostolican seðles aldorbiscop. in that time Vitalian pope of-the apostolic see chief-bishop Æfter þon þe he þone intingan his siðfætes þæm apostolican After that that he the cause of-his journey to-the apostolic papan gecyðed hæfde, þa æfter medmicelre tíde se Wigheard pope made-known had then after brief time the Wigheard 7 lytestne alle his geferan, þa ðe mid him cwomon, þy and almost all his companions those who with him came by-the ofercumendan woole fordilgade wæron 7 forðgeleorde. overcoming pestilence destroyed were and passed-away 252.23 Ða hæfde se apostolica papa geþeht be þissum þingum Then had the apostolic pope counsel about these things 7 georne sohte, hwelcne ærcebiscope he onsendan meahte and earnestly sought which archbishop he send could Ongoldæode ciricum. Ða wæs in Niridano þæm mynstre, þæt is of-English-nation to-churches Then was in Niridanum the monastery that is unfeor þære byrig Neapoli in Campanie þære mægðe, Adrianus not-far from-the city Naples in Campania the province Hadrian abbud. Wæs se mon in halgum gewreotum 7 in mynsterlecum abbot Was the man in holy writings and in monastic þeodscipum 7 in ciriclecum wel gelæred, 7 weorðlice getýd disciplines and in churchly well taught and worthily instructed ge in Lædenisc gereorde ge in Grecisc. Ða het se papa both in Latin language and in Greek Then commanded the pope þone mon to him gelaðian, 7 heht þæt he biscop hade the man to him invite and commanded that he bishopric onfenge 7 to Breotone ferde. Ða ondswarede he him 7 received and to Britain went Then answered he him and cwæð, þæt he wære swa micles hades unwyrðe; 7 cwæð þæt said that he were so of-great order unworthy and said that he meahte oðerne getæcnan, þe biscop hada wyrðra wære ge on he could another point-out who of-bishopric worthier were both in gelærednesse ge on his lifes gegearnunges ge on gedefre ȝldo. learning and in of-his life merit and in fitting age Tæhte þa þam biscop in þam neahnunnumynstre sumne Pointed-out then to-the bishop in the neighboring-nunnery a gedefne munuc, þæs noma wæs Andreas. Ac ða wiðstod his fitting monk whose name was Andrew But then withstood his lichomlic untrymnes, þæt he biscop beon ne meahte. Eft se bodily infirmity that he bishop be not could Again the papa nedde þone abbud Adrianus, þæt he biscop onfenge. pope compelled the abbot Hadrian that he bishopric received Ða bæd he hine eldenne 7 fyrstes, hwæðer he æfter fæce Then asked he him delay and respite whether he after space meahte oðerne findan, þe mon to biscop hadian meahte. could another find whom one as bishop ordain could Wæs in þa tid sum munuc in Róme, se wæs cuð Adrian 254.15 Was in that time a monk in Rome who was known to-Hadrian þam abbude, þæs noma wæs Theodorus. Se wæs acenned in the abbot whose name was Theodore He was born in Tarso Cilicio: wæs se mon ge in weoruldgewreotum, ge in Tarsus of-Cilicia was the man both in secular-writings and in godcundum, ge in Grecisc ge in Læden wel gelæred; 7 he divine both in Greek and in Latin well taught and he gecoren wæs in his þeawum 7 arwyrðre ældo, þæt is þæt he choice was in his customs and venerable age that is that he hæfde syx 7 syxtig wintra. Þeosne mon Adrianus se abbud had six and sixty winters This man Hadrian the abbot þæm papan cyððe, 7 sægde þæt he to biscope gehalgad to-the pope made-known and said that he as bishop consecrated beon meahte: 7 he þæt geþafode. Ond hwæðre þis áræddon he could and he that consented And however this they-arranged betweenum him, þæt he se abbud his latteow beon sceolde between them that he the abbot his leader be should in Breotone, forþon þe he ær twiga þa dælas Gallia rices in Britain because that he before twice the parts of-Gaul kingdom fore missenlecum intingum geferde 7 gesohte, 7 forþon þe for various causes traveled and visited and because that him se weg þæs siðfætes genoh cuð wæs, 7 eac swylce þæt to-him the way of-the journey enough known was and also likewise that he wæs in his agnum geferscipe wel gemonnad; ond þonne he was in his own company well manned and then gen eac þætte he scolde his fultemend beon in godcundre yet also that he should his helper be in divine lære, ond þæt he geornlice bihealdan scolde, þæt he nowiht teaching and that he earnestly watch should that he nothing widerweardes þære soðfæstnesse þæs geleafan Greca þeawe in of-contrary to-the truth of-the faith of-Greeks by-custom in Ongolcynnes cirican inn gelædde, þe he ofer beon sceolde. of-English-race church in brought which he over be should

254.30

Ða wæs he ærest to subdiacone gehalgad; 7 þa baad Then was he first as subdeacon consecrated and then waited feower monað, oððæt him feax geweoze, þæt he to preoste four months until to-him hair grew that he as priest bescoren beon meahte, forþon þe he ær sceare hæfde shorn be could because that he before tonsure had eastleoda þeawe Scē Paule þæs apostoles. Þa wæs of-eastern-peoples by-custom of-Saint Paul the apostle Then was he gehalgad from Uitalio þām papan to biscope ymb syx he consecrated by Vitalian the pope as bishop about six hund wintra 7 eahta 7 syxtig wintra from Drihtnes hundred winters and eight and sixty winters from of-Lord menniscnesse, þy seofeðan dæge 7 þy drihtenlecan incarnation on-the seventh day and on-the Lordly Kalendarum Aprelium. 7 swa ætgædre mid Adriano þām of-the-Kalends April and so together with Hadrian the abbude in sexta Kalendas Junias wæs to Breotone onsended. abbot on sixth Kalends June was to Britain sent Þa ferdon heo ætgædre ærest to Masilia 7 þonon þurh Áréla 256.6 Then went they together first to Marseilles and thence through of-Arles lond, þæt heo cwomon to Iohanne þām ærcebiscope þære land that they came to John the archbishop of-the ceastre; 7 him sealdon Uitalianus gewrit þæs papan, þæt heo city and him gave of-Vitalian letter of-the pope that them mon mid áre onfenge. 7 he swa dyde; hæfde heo mid micelre one with honor received and he so did had them with great áre mid him, oðþæt Ebrinus se ealdormon him spede 7 honor with him until Ebroin the ealdorman to-them means and leafnesse sealde to ferenne, swa hwider swa heo woldon. Ða leave gave to travel so whither so they wished Then ferde Theodorus se biscop to Ægelberhte biscope Parissiorum, went Theodore the bishop to Agilbert bishop of-Paris bi þām we beforan sægdon; ond from him fremsumlice wæs about whom we before said and by him kindly was onfongen, 7 micle tid mid him wel gehæfd wæs. Adrianus received and great time with him well held was Hadrian ferde ærest to Emme Senonum 7 æfter þām to Pharaonem went first to Emmo of-Sens and after that to Faro Mælda biscopum, ⁊ longe mid him wel gehæfd wæs. Forþon of-Meaux bishops and long with him well held was Because hy nedde se towearda winter, þæt heo stille wunedon, swa them compelled the coming winter that they still remained so hwær swa heo meahten. Ða ðæt þa cuðe ærendwrecan sægdon where so they could When that the known messengers said Ecgberhte þæm cyninge, þætte se biscop wære in Froncna ríce, to-Ecgberht the king that the bishop were in of-Franks kingdom þone þe hy Osweo bædon from þam Romaniscan biscope, ða whom that they Oswy asked from the Roman bishop then sende he sona Reðfrið his gerefan þider, þæt he scolde hine sent he at-once Ræðfrið his reeve thither that he should him fetigan ⁊ to him gelædan. Ða he þa þider cwom, þa nom fetch and to him lead When he then thither came then took he Theodor biscop mid Ebrinus leafnesse þæs ealdormonnes, he Theodore bishop with of-Ebroin leave of-the ealdorman ⁊ hine gelædde to þam porte, þe is nemned Cwæntwic. and him led to the port which is named Quentovic 256.23 Ðær hine gestod sumu untrymnis, ⁊ he þær fæc gewunade; There him came-upon some infirmity and he there a-while remained ⁊ sona swa he trumian ongon, swa eode he in scíp ⁊ and soon as he grow-strong began so went he into ship and ferde to Breotone. Ebrinus se ealdormon genom Adrianum went to Britain Ebroin the ealdorman took Hadrian þone abbud ⁊ on fæstene hæfde, forþon he resade, þæt the abbot and in prison held because he suspected that he hæfde caseres ærendo sumo to Breotone cyningum wið he had of-emperor errand some to of-Britain kings against Froncna ríce, þæs he ða micle gemenne hæfde. Ac þa he of-Franks kingdom of-which he then great care had But when he þa soðlice onget ⁊ onfand, þæt hit swa ne wæs, swa he then truly perceived and found that it so not was as he resade, þa onlesde he hine 7 let feran æfter þam biscope.

suspected then released he him and let go after the bishop

Ond sona þæs þe he to him cwom, þa sealde he him

And soon that that he to him came then gave he him

Scē Petres mynster, þær þæra ærcebiscopa liic bebyrged of-Saint Peter monastery where of-the archbishops bodies buried seondon, swa swa we ær beforan sægdon. Forþon se are so as we before above said Because the apostolica papa bebead Theodore biscope, þa he from him apostolic pope commanded to-Theodore bishop when he from him ferde, þæt he him on his biscopscire gerisne stówe foresége went that he to-him in his bishopric fitting place provided 7 salde, in þære he mid his geferum wunian meahte.

and gave in which he with his companions dwell could Þa cwom he Theodor biscop to his cirican in Contwara 258.1

Then came he Theodore bishop to his church in of-Kent burg þy æfteran gear e halgunge ðy syxtan dæge city in-the second year of-consecration on-the sixth day Kalendarum Iuniarum. 7 he lifde on biscopphade aan 7 of-the-Kalends June and he lived in bishopric one and twentig wintra 7 þreo monað 7 syx 7 twentig daga.

twenty winters and three months and six and twenty days

Theodore went through the whole island, the first archbishop all the English obeyed; he and Hadrian taught scripture, meter, astronomy, and grammar, and some pupils knew Greek and Latin like their own tongue. Church chant spread from Kent to every church. Rebuked for his irregular consecration, Chad offered to resign, and his ordination was completed; Putta, a simple man schooled in church discipline and Roman chant, became bishop of Rochester.

258.5 Ond he sona ðurhferde eall Breotone ealond, swa hwyder And he at-once traversed all of-Britain island so whither ymb swa Ongolþeode drohtedon 7 wunedon; 7 he lustlice about so English-nation lived and dwelt and he gladly from eallum onfongen wæs, 7 his word geornlice geherdon. by all received was and his words earnestly they-heard Ond he rehte endebyrdnesse lifes æteawde, 7 rihte Eastran And he right order of-life showed and right Easter to weorðianne lærde. Ond him Adrianus se abbud mid ferde, to keep taught And him Hadrian the abbot with went 7 to eallum rehte fultemade. Wæs he ærest ærcebiscopa, and in all rightly helped Was he first of-archbishops þæt him eall Ongolcyn hyrnesse gefafode. Ond forðon heo that to-him all English-race obedience granted And because they begen wæron ge se biscop ge se abbud, swa swa we both were both the bishop and the abbot so as we ær cwædon, wel gelæred ge on godcundum gewreotum before said well taught both in divine writings ge in weoruldcundum, ond heo gesomnodon micelne þreat and in secular and they gathered great troop discipula; 7 heo betweoh halige bec 7 ciriclicne þeodscipe of-disciples and they among holy books and churchly discipline in metercræft 7 in tungolcræft 7 in grammaticcræft týdon in meter-craft and in star-craft and in grammar-craft instructed 7 lærdon. Wæs þæt sweetol tacn, þætte heora discipulas and taught Was that clear token that their disciples wæron wel gelærde ge in Grecisc gereorde ge in Lædenisc; were well taught both in Greek language and in Latin ond him þa swa cuðe wæron swa heora agen, þe heo in and to-them those so known were as their own which they in fedde wæron. Ne wæron her æfre, seopðan Ongolcyn Breotone fed were Not were here ever since English-race Britain gesohte, gesæligran tide ne fægeran. Wæron her strónge sought happier times nor fairer Were here strong cyningas 7 wel cristne ond eallum ellreordum cynnum ut kings and well Christian and to-all foreign-tongued races out in miclum ege; ond ealra willa hleonade to geheranne þa in great awe and of-all will inclined to bear the gefean þæs heofonlecan rices; ond swa hwelce men swa joys of-the heavenly kingdom and so which men so swa wilnaden þæt heo in halgum leorningum tyde wæron, as desired that they in holy learnings instructed were heo hæfdon gearwe magistras, þa ðe heo lærdon 7 tydon. they had ready masters those who them taught and instructed Swylce eac sónas to singenne in circan, ða ðe oððæt 258.24 Likewise also tones to sing in church those which until in Cent áre menn cúðon, of þære tide ongunnon men in Kent alone men knew from that time began men leornian þurh ealle cirican Ongolcynnes. Ond ærest, buton learn through all churches of-English-race And first except Iacobe þæm songere bi þæm we beforan ær sægdon, James the singer about whom we above before said wæs songes magister Norðanhymbra cirican Ædde haten, was of-song master of-Northumbrians church Eddi called þæs freo noma wæs Steffanus. Wæs se asponen from Cent whose free name was Stephen Was he enticed from Kent from Wilferðe þæm arwyrðan biscope, se ærest betweoh by Wilfrid the venerable bishop who first among biscopum, þa ðe of Ongolþeode wæron, regollicne þeaw bishops those who of English-nation were regular custom to lifgenne Ongolcynnes ciricum sægde 7 lærde.

to live of-English-race to-churches said and taught

- 258.33 Þa ferde Theodor biscop geond ealle Ongolcynnes mægðe, Then went Theodore bishop throughout all of-English-race provinces 7 biscopas halgode in gelimplecum stowum. Ond þa þing, and bishops consecrated in suitable places And the things þe he unfulfremed gemette, mid heora fultume he ða rehte that he imperfect found with their help he then corrected 7 bette. Betweoh þon, þa he Ceddan biscop mid wordum and amended Between that when he Chad bishop with words þreade, þæt he rihtlice gehalgad ne wære, þa ondswarede rebuked that he rightly consecrated not were then answered he eaðmodre stefne: Gif þu þæt wast, þæt ic unrehtlice be with-humble voice If thou that knowest that I wrongly biscopphade onfeng, ic lustlice from þære þegnunge gewite, bishopric received I gladly from the office depart forþon ic þy hade mec seolfne næfre wyrðne demde. Ac because I of-the order me self never worthy judged But for intingan hersumnesse ic haten gefafoðe, þæt ic þone for cause of-obedience I commanded consented that I the had underhnah, þeah ðe ic unwyrðe wære. Þa he ða order undertook though that I unworthy were When he then gehyrde þa eaðmodnesse his ondsware, cwæð he þæt he heard the humility of-his answer said he that he þone biscopphad forlætan ne scolde. Ac he eft his hadunge the bishopric leave not should But he again his ordination mid ciriclice rihte gefylde. In þa tíð Deosdedit se biscop with churchly right completed In that time Deusdedit the bishop forðferde; ⁊ Contwara burge biscop soht ⁊ sendeð wæs departed and of-Kent city bishop sought and sent was to hadienne. Ond Willferð biscop eac swylce of Breotone to be-ordained And Wilfrid bishop also likewise from Britain in Gallia rice to hadienne sendeð wæs. He ða eac in into of-Gaul kingdom to be-ordained sent was He then also in Cent mæssepreostas ⁊ diaconas hadode, oðþæt þe Theodor Kent masspriests and deacons ordained until that Theodore ærcebiscop to his seðle cwom. Sona þæs ðe he cwom archbishop to his see came Soon that that he came to Hrofesceastre, ⁊ forðferdum Damiano þam biscope se to Rochester and departed Damian the bishop the biscophad longe blon, þa gehadode he sumne mon, se wæs bishopric long ceased then ordained he a man who was má in ciriclecum þeodscipum ⁊ in lifes bylwitnesse gelæred, more in churchly disciplines and in of-life simplicity taught þon he from wære in worulde þingum, þæs noma wæs than he active were in of-world things whose name was Putta. Wæs he swiðost in cirican songcræft getyd Romanisce Putta Was he most in church song-craft instructed by-Roman þeawe, þone he geleornade from Scē Gregories discipulum. custom which he learned from of-Saint Gregory disciples

At Wulfhere's request Theodore gave the Mercians Chad, whom he lifted onto a horse to stop him walking. Chad held his see at Lichfield and founded a monastery at Barrow. After two and a half years the monk Owine heard angels' song come down on the church where Chad prayed; Chad said they would fetch him in seven days, and died. Eggerht told of a man who saw Cedd's soul come with angels for Chad's. His tomb heals the sick, and Winfrith succeeded him.

260.22 In ða tid wæs in Mercna mægðe Wulfhere cyning. Ða In that time was in of-Mercians province Wulfhere king Then forðferdum Gearomonne biscope bæd he Theodor biscop, departed Jaruman bishop asked he Theodore bishop þæt he him 7 his leodum biscop funde 7 sealde, þa that he to-him and his people bishop found and gave then ne wolde he him neowne biscop halgian, ac bæd Osweo not would he for-him new bishop consecrate but asked Oswy Norðanhymbra cyning, þæt he him Ceaddan gehalgodne of-Northumbrians king that he to-him Chad consecrated biscop sealde, se ða in his mynstre, þæt is in Læstinge, in bishop gave who then in his monastery that is in Lavingham in stillnesse liifde. Þegnade Wilferð biscop þone biscophad in stillness lived Served Wilfrid bishop the bishopric in Eoforwicceastre 7 eac swylce in eallum Norðanhymbrum ge York and also likewise in all Northumbria and eac in Peohtum, swa Osweoes ríce wæs þæs cyninges. also among Picts as of-Oswy kingdom was of-the king Ond forþon þeaw wæs þæm ilcan arwyrðan biscope, þæt And because custom was to-the same venerable bishop that he þæt weorc þæs halgan godspelles, ma þurh his fota he the work of-the holy gospel more through of-his feet gong gefremede, þonne on horse ride, heht hine Theodor going performed than on horse rode commanded him Theodore biscop rídan, þær him se weg lengra gelumpe. 7 he swiðe bishop ride where to-him the way longer befell and he greatly wið þon wonn for geornfulnessse 7 for lufan þæs aarfæstan against that strove for zeal and for love of-the pious gewinnes. Ða nedde se ærcebiscop hine swiðe, þæt he ridan labor Then compelled the archbishop him greatly that he ride scolde, swa hwyder swa ðæs þearf wære, 7 efne æt nehstan should so whither so of-that need were and even at last mid his seolfes hondum up on hors hof; forþon he ðone with his own hands up on horse lifted because he the mon micelne 7 haligne gemette in his lifes geearnungum. man great and holy found in of-his life merits

Ða onfeng Ceadda biscopdóm Mercna þeode ætgædre 7 262.4 Then received Chad bishopric of-Mercians nation together and Lindesfearena; ond he sona æfter bisene haligra fædra of-Lindsey and he at-once after example of-holy fathers in micelre fulfremednesse lifes þone biscophad heold 7 in great perfection of-life the bishopric held and þegnade. Sealde him 7 geaf Wulfhere se cyning fiftig hida served Gave to-him and granted Wulfhere the king fifty hides in Lindisse him mynster on to getimbrenne in þære stowe in Lindsey for-him monastery on to build in the place þe is nemned Æt Bearwe. In þæm mynstre nu gen oð to which is named At Barrow In the monastery now yet until to dæge þa sweðe áwuniað regollices lifes, þe he þær gesette. day the traces remain of-regular life which he there established Hæfde he biseopseðl in þære stowe, þe geceged is 262.11 Had he bishop-seat in the place which called is Liccedfeld, þær he forðferde 7 bebyrged is. Þær gen to Lichfield where he departed and buried is There yet to dæge seðel is Mærcna mægðe para æfterfylgendra biscopa. day seat is of-Mercians province of-the succeeding bishops Getimbrede he eac sundorwíc noht feor from þære cirican, Built he also separate-dwelling not far from the church bi ðæm he deagolice mid feaum broðrum, þæt is seofonum by which he secretly with few brothers that is seven oðþo eahtum, he gewunade, þæt he him gebæd, 7 his bec or eight he was-wont that he himself prayed and his books rædde, swa oft swa he from þæm gewinne þære þegnunge read so often as he from the labor of-the ministry godcundre lare æmetig wæs. Ða he ða in þære mægðe of-divine teaching free was When he then in the province tu ger 7 þridða healf þa cirican wuldorlice heold 7 rehte, two years and third half the church gloriously held and ruled ða cwom seo tíð, ðy uplican dome stihtigende, bi þære then came the time by-the upper judgment ordaining about which spriced ð Ecclesiastes seo bók: Tempus mittendi lapides et speaks Ecclesiastes the book Time of-sending stones and tempus colligendi: þætte tíð wære stánas to sendenne 7 time of-gathering that time were stones to send and tíð to somnienne. Ða cwom micel wæl 7 moncwild time to gather Then came great slaughter and mortality godcundlice sendeð, þæt þurh lichoman deað þa lifigendan divinely sent that through of-body death the living stanas þære cirican of eorðlicum seþlum to þæm heofonlican stones of-the church from earthly seats to the heavenly timbre gebær. Mid þy þa monige of þære gesomnunge þæs building bore With that then many of the congregation of-the ilcan árwyrdan biscopas of lichoman alædde wæron, þa cwom same venerable bishop from body led-out were then came his tíð, þæt he scolde of middangearde to Drihtne feran. his time that he should from middle-earth to Lord go

Ða gelomp sume dæge, þæt he wæs in þæm foresprecenan 262.27 Then happened on-a day that he was in the aforesaid wicum mid áne breðer wuniende, þæs noma wæs Ówine. dwelling with one brother dwelling whose name was Owine His oðre geferan fore gelimplicum intingum hwurfon to His other companions for suitable causes returned to cirican in þæt mynster. Wæs he se ilca Oowine munuc church in the monastery Was he the same Owine monk micelre geearnunge mon, 7 mid hlutre ingehygde þæs of-great merit man and with pure intention of-the uplecan edleanes wæs iu middangeard forlætende; 7 he upper reward was formerly middle-earth leaving and he wæs þurh all meodum 7 Gode gecoren; ond him Drihten was through all worthy and by-God chosen and to-him Lord synderlice his deagolnisse onwrah. Cwom he mid Æðelþryþe specialy his secrets revealed Came he with Æthelþryth of Eastenglum; ond he wæs hire þegna 7 huses 7 hire from East-Angles and he was of-her thanes and house and of-her geferscipes ofer all aldormon. Ða Godes geleafa þa weox company over all chief When of-God faith then grew 7 háat wæs, þa þohte he þæt he sceolde worulde wiðsacan, and hot was then thought he that he should world renounce 7 þæt unaswundenlice swa gedyde; 7 hine middangeardes and that unslothfully so did and himself of-middle-earth þingum to þon ongyrede 7 genacodade, þæt he eal forlet, things to that unclothed and stripped that he all left þa ðe he hæfde, nemne his ánfealdne gegyrelan, ond cwom those which he had except his single garment and came to Læstinga ea to þæm mynstre þæs aarwyrðan biscopes. Bær to Lastingham — to the monastery of-the venerable bishop Bore him æxe 7 adosan on honda; tacnode in þon, þæt he for-himself axe and adze in hands signified in that that he nales to idelnesse, swa sume oðre, ac to gewinne in þæt not-at-all to idleness as some others but to labor into the mynster eode; 7 þæt seolf eac swylce mid dædum gecyðde. monastery went and that same also likewise with deeds made-known 264.9 Ond forþon þe he lyt genihtsumade in smeauunge 7 in And because that he little sufficed in study and in leornunge haligra gewreota, he þy ma mid his hondum learning of-holy writings he the more with his hands wonn 7 worhte þa þing, þe nydbearfleco wæron. Þæs labored and wrought the things which necessary were Of-that is to tacne, þæt he mid þone biscop in þæm foresprecenan is as token that he with the bishop in the aforesaid wicum for his arwyrdnesse 7 for his geornfullnesse betweoh dwellings for his reverence and for his zeal among þa broðor wæs hæfd. Ðonne heo inne heora leornunge the brothers was held When they inside their learning 7 heora † becrædon beedon, þonne wæs he ute and their (corrupt) book-readings practiced then was he outside wyrcente, swa hwæt swa þearf gesegen wæs. working so what so need seen was 264.16 Ða he þa sume dæge hwæthwugu swelces úte dyde, 7 his When he then on-a day something of-such outside did and his geferan to byrig to cirican eodon, swa heo gelomlice dydon, companions to city to church went as they frequently did ond se biscop ána in þære cirican oðþo in becrædinge oððo and the bishop alone in the church either in book-reading or in gebedum geornful wæs, þa gehearde he semninga, swa in prayers zealous was then heard he suddenly so swa he eft æfter þon sægde, þa swetestan stefne 7 þa as he afterward after that said the sweetest voice and the fægrestan singendra 7 blissiendra of heofonum oð eorðan fairest of-singing-ones and of-rejoicing-ones from heavens to earth astigan. Ða stefne 7 þone song he cwæð þæt he ærest descend The voice and the song he said that he first geherde from eastsuðdæle heofones, þæt is from heanisse þære heard from south-east-part of-heaven that is from height of-the winterlecan sunnan upgonge, 7 þonon to him sticcemælum wintry sun rising and thence to him little-by-little nealecton, oðþæt he bicwom to þeacan þære cirican, þe se approached until it came to roof of-the church which the biscop in wæs; 7 ingongende ealle gefylde, 7 in ymbhwyrfte bishop in was and entering all filled and in circuit ymbsealde. Ond he þa geornlice his mod aðenede in þa þing surrounded And he then earnestly his mind stretched to the things ðe he gehyrde. Ða geherde he eft, swa swa healfre tíde fæce, which he heard Then heard he again so as of-half hour space of hrofe þære ilcan cirican up astigan þone ilcan blissesong, from roof of-the same church up ascend the same bliss-song 7 þy ylcan wege, þe he ær cwom, upp oð heofonas mid and by-the same way that it before came up to heavens with unasecgendre swetnesse eft hweorfan. Ða wunade he ðær unspeakable sweetness again return Then remained he there sum fæc tíde wundriende 7 wafiende, 7 mid behygdige some space of-time wondering and marveling and with anxious móde þohte 7 smeade, hwæt þa þing beon sceolde. mind thought and considered what the things be should Ða ontynde se biscop þæt eaghþyrel þære cirican 7 mid his 264.32 Then opened the bishop the window of-the church and with his honda slóg tacen, swa swa his gewuna wæs, gif hwylc mon hand struck sign so as his custom was if any man úte wære, þæt he in to him eode. Ða eode he sona in outside were that he in to him went Then went he at-once in to him. Cwæð he se biscop him to: Gong hræðe to cirican, to him Said he the bishop him to Go quickly to church 7 hat ure seofon broðor hider to me cuman: 7 þu eac and command our seven brothers hither to me come and thou also swelce mid wæs. Pa heo þa to him cwomon, þa monade likewise with be When they then to him came then admonished he heo ærest, þæt heo betweenan him þæt mægen lufan 7 be them first that they between them the virtue of-love and sibbe 7 betweohn eallum Godes monnum geornlice heolde; peace and among all of-God men earnestly held ond eac swelce þa gesetenesse þæs regollican þeodscipes, þe and also likewise the institution of-the regular discipline which hy from him geleornodon 7 on him gesegon, oðþe in they from him learned and in him saw or in þara forðgeleoredra fædra dædum oðþe godcundum gemete, of-the departed fathers deeds or in-divine measure þæt heo þa ungewergedre geornfulnisse fylgden 7 læsten. that they those with-unwearied zeal followed and performed Æfter þon he únderþeodde 7 him sægde, þæt se dæg After that he added and to-them said that the day swiðe neah stode his forðfore, 7 þus cwæð: Se leofa very near stood of-his departure and thus said The dear cuma 7 se lufiendleca, se ðe gewunade ure broðor neosian, guest and the lovely he who was-wont our brothers visit se cwom swelce to dæge to me 7 mec of worulde cegde he came likewise to day to me and me from world called 7 laðode. Forðon ge þonne nu eft hweorfað to cirican and summoned Therefore ye then now again return to church 7 biddað ure broðor, þæt heo mine forðfore mid heora and bid our brothers that they my departure with their gebedum 7 benum Drihtne bebeoden, ond swelce eac prayers and supplications to-Lord commend and likewise also heora seolfra forðfore, þære tide is uncuð, þæt heo gemynen of-their selves departure of-which time is unknown that they remember mid wæccenum ⁊ gebedum ⁊ mid godum forecuman.

with vigils and prayers and with good-deeds forestall

Mid þy he ða þas word ⁊ þyses gemetes monig to him 266.17

With that he then these words and of-this sort many to them sprecende wæs, ⁊ heo onfongenre his bletsunge swiðe unrote speaking was and they received his blessing very sad ut from him eodon, ða hwearf se ána eft in to him, se out from him went then turned he alone again in to him who ðe þone heofonlican song gehyrde, ⁊ hine eaðmodlice on — the heavenly song heard and himself humbly on eorðan astreahte fore þone biscop; ⁊ þus cwæð: Min fæder, earth stretched before the bishop and thus said My father mot ic þe ohtes ahsian. Cwæð he: Ahsa þæs þu wille. Þa may I thee aught ask Said he Ask that thou wilt Then cwæð he: Ic þa la halsie ⁊ bidde fore Godes lufan, þæt þu said he I then lo entreat and pray for of-God love that thou me gesecege hwæt se song wære blissiendra, þe ic gehyrde me tell what the song were of-rejoicing-ones which I heard of heofonum cumendra ofer þas cirican ond æfter tide eft from heavens coming over this church and after time again hweorfendra to heofonum. Ondswarede he se biscop: Gif þu returning to heavens Answered he the bishop If thou sónges stefne gehyrde ⁊ þu heofonlic weorod ongete ofer of-song voice heardest and thou heavenly host perceivedst over us eac cuman, ic ðe bebeode on Drihtnes noman, þæt þu us also come I thee command in of-Lord name that thou þæt nænegum men cyðe, ne secge ær minre forðfore.

it to-no man make-known nor tell before my departure

Ic þe soðlice secgo, þætte þæt wæron engla gastas þe þær

I thee truly say that those were of-angels spirits who there cwomon, þa me to þam heofonlecan medum cegdon ȝ came who me to the heavenly rewards called and laðodon, þa ic symle lufade ȝ wilnade. Ond æfter seofon summoned which I ever loved and desired And after seven dagum heo eft hweorfende ȝ cumende me gehehton; ȝ days they again returning and coming me promised and me þonne mid him lædan woldon. me then with them lead would 266.33 Þæt wæs swa soðlice mid dæd gefylled, swa him to cweden That was so truly with deed fulfilled as him to said wæs. Ða wæs he sona gehrinen lichomlicre untrymnesse, ȝ was Then was he at-once touched by-bodily infirmity and seo dæghwamlice weox ȝ hefgade; ȝ þa ðy seofoþan dæge, it daily grew and grew-heavy and then on-the seventh day swa him gehaten wæs, æfter þon þe his forðfore getrymede mid as him promised was after that that his departure (be)-fortified with onfongennesses þæs Drihtenlecan lichoman ȝ blodes, þætte seo reception of-the Lordly body and blood that the halige sawl wæs onlesed from þæs lichoman hefignessum, ȝ holy soul was released from of-the body burdens and mid engla latteowdome ȝ geferscipe, swa riht is to gelyfanne, with of-angels leadership and fellowship as right is to believe þa ecan gefean ȝ þa heofonlecan eadignesse gestah ȝ gesohte. the eternal joys and the heavenly blessedness ascended and sought 268.6 Is þæt hwelc wundor, þeah ðe he þone dæg his deaðes oðþe Is that any wonder though that he the day of-his death or ma þone Drihtnes dæg bliðe gesége, þone he symle sorgende rather the of-Lord day blithe saw which he ever anxious bád, oð þæt he cwome? Forðon betweohn monige geearnunge awaited until that it came Because among many merits his mægena in forhæfednesse ȝ in eaðmodnesse ȝ in of-his virtues in abstinence and in humility and in godcundre lare 7 in gebedum 7 in wilsumlicre þearfeðnisse divine teaching and in prayers and in voluntary poverty 7 eac oðerra mægena, þæt he wæs swa swiðe Drihtnes ege and also of-other virtues that he was so greatly of-Lord to-fear underþeoded ond swa swiðe his þara nehstena dogra gemyndig subjected and so greatly of-his the last days mindful in eallum his weorcum, þætte — swa swa me sum broðor in all his works that so as me a brother sægde of þæm þe me in wreotum cýde 7 lærde, 7 se said of those who me in writings made-known and taught and he wæs in mynstre 7 in his lareowdome afeded 7 gelæred; wæs was in monastery and in his teachership brought-up and taught was his noma Trumberht; sægde he — gif he æt leorninga sæte his name Trumberht said he if he at learning sat oððe elles hwæt dyde, gif semninga mare blæd windes astah, or else what did if suddenly greater blast of-wind arose þæt he sona instæpe Drihtnes mildheortnesse gecegde 7 þa that he at-once instantly of-Lord mercy called-upon and the miltse bæd monna cynne. Gif þonne swiðra wind arás, þonne mercy asked of-men for-race If then stronger wind arose then tynde he his béc 7 forpleat in his ondwilitan 7 geornlice shut he his books and fell-forward on his countenance and earnestly in his gebede hleoðrade: ond þonne he gen, gif strengra in his prayer called-out and then he yet if stronger storm 7 genip swiðor þreade, 7 legete 7 þunorrade storm and darkness more pressed and lightnings and thunders eorðan 7 lyfte brægden 7 fyrhten, þonne eode he to cirican earth and air shook and frightened then went he to church 7 bighgdelice in gebedum 7 on sealmsonge fæste moode and carefully in prayers and in psalm-song with-firm mind awunade, oððæt þære lyfte smyltnis eft hwearf 7 cwom. remained until of-the air calm again returned and came 268.23 Mid þy hine frugnon 7 ascodon his geferan, for hwon he With that him questioned and asked his companions for why he þis dyde, ondsvarode he: Ac ge ne leornodon: Quia intonuit this did answered he But ye not learned For thundered de celo dñs et altissimus dedit uocem suam: misit sagittas from heaven Lord and the-Highest gave voice his sent arrows suas et dissipauit eos, fulgora multiplicauit et conturbauit his and scattered them lightnings multiplied and troubled eos: ðætte Drihten hleoðrað of heofonum 7 se hehsta seleð them that Lord thunders from heavens and the highest gives his stefne; he sendeð his stræle 7 heo toweorpeð; legetas his voice he sends his arrows and them scatters lightnings gemonigfealdað 7 heo gedrefeð. Forþon Drihten lyfte ontyneð, multiplies and them troubles Because Lord air opens windas weceð, legetas sceotað of heofonum 7 hleoðrað, winds rouses lightnings shoot from heavens and thunders þæt he eorðbigengan awecce hine to ondrædanne; þæt he that he earth-dwellers rouse him to fear that he heora heortan in gemynd gecege þæs toweardan dómes; their hearts into mind call of-the coming judgment þæt he heora oferhygd toweorpe 7 geþyrstignesse drefe, to that he their pride scatter and boldness trouble to heora mode * gelæddre þære forhtiendan tíde, hwonne their mind (conjecture) led-back the fearful time when he, heofonum 7 eorðan byrnendum, toweard sy in heofones he heavens and earth burning coming be in of-heaven wolcnum in micelre meahthe 7 þrymme to demanne cwide 7 clouds in great might and majesty to judge quick and deade. Forþon us gedafenað, þæt we his heofonlicre monunge dead Therefore to-us befits that we his heavenly admonition mid gedefenlice ége 7 lufan ondswarige; þætte, swa he lyft with fitting awe and love answer that so he air onstyrge ond his hond swa swa us to sleanne beotiende stir and his hand so as us to strike threatening æteaweoð, ne hwæðre nu gyt slæð, þæt we sona cleopien ȝ shows not however now yet strikes that we at-once call and bidden his mildheortnesse, ȝ geondsmeage ða deagolnesse usse pray-for his mercy and search-through the secrets of-our heortan ȝ gec læsnien þa unsyfernesse uncysta, ȝ bihigdelice heart and cleanse the uncleanness of-vices and carefully dón, þæt we næfre ne geearnien þæt we slegene beon scylon. do that we never — earn that we struck be must Gepwærað eac swylce þære onwrigenesse ȝ þære gesegene þæs 270.8 Agrees also likewise with-the revelation and the account of-the foresprecenan broðor bi forðfore þisses biscopes ȝ eac þæt aforesaid brother about departure of-this bishop and also the word þæs arwyrðan fæder Ecgberhtes, bi þæm we beforan word of-the venerable father Ecgberht about whom we above sægdon. Se geo ær mid þone ilcan Ceaddan in Hibernia said Who formerly before with the same Chad in Ireland Scotta ealonde, begen in geoguðe, in munuclife in gebedum ȝ of-Scots island both in youth in monk-life in prayers and in forhæfdnesse ȝ in leornunge haligra gewrita Gode lifdon. in abstinence and in learning of-holy writings to-God lived Ac he Ceadda eft æfter fæce in his eðel hwyrðe in But he Chad afterward after space into his homeland returned in Breotone; se Ecgberht þær in elþeodignesse fore Godes noman Britain he Ecgberht there in exile for of-God name awunode oð his lifes ende. Mid þy ða æfter longre tiide remained until of-his life end With that then after long time cwom to him of Breotone fore neosunge intingan se halgesta came to him from Britain for of-visiting cause the holiest wer ȝ se forhæfdesta, Hygebald hatte, se wæs abbud in man and the most-abstinent Hygebald was-called who was abbot in Lindesse, þa spræcon heo be liife haligra fædra, swa swa Lindsey then spoke they about life of-holy fathers so as halige men gedafonode, 7 þæt eac onhyrgan wolden. Betweoh to-holy men befitted and that also imitate would Among þa cwom gemynd þæs arwyrdan biscopes Ceaddan. Þa those came mention of-the venerable bishop Chad Then cwæð he Ecgberht: Ic wat sumne mon in þissum ealonde nu said he Ecgberht I know a man in this island now gena in lichoman lifigende, mid þy se wer of middangearde yet in body living with that the man from middle-earth leorde, þæt he geseah †Ceaddan sawle his broðor mid engla passed that he saw of-Cedd soul of-his brother with of-angels weorude of heofonum astigan: 7 gefetedon his sawle 7 mid host from heavens descend and fetched his soul and with him genoman 7 eft hweorfan to þam heofonlecan rice. them took and again return to the heavenly kingdom 270.26 Hwæðer he þæt bi him seolfum cwæde þe bi oðrum men Whether he that about him self said or about other man hwelcum, þæt us is uncuð. Hwæðre þa swa micel wer hit some that to-us is unknown However when so great man it gecwæð, we weotan þæt hit soð wæs. Þa forðferde Ceadda said we know that it true was Then departed Chad þy syxtan dæge Nonarum Martiarum: 7 wæs ærest bibyrged on-the sixth day of-the-Nones March and was first buried bi Scā Marian cirican. Ac æfter fæce, þær getimbrede cirican by of-Saint Mary church But after space there built church þæs eadgan aldores þara apostola Scē Petres, þa wæron of-the blessed chief of-the apostles of-Saint Peter then were in þa his bân geseted. In æghwæðre þara stowa gewuniað into that his bones placed In each of-the places are-wont to tacnunge his mægenes 7 halignisse gelomlecu wundor as token of-his virtue and holiness frequent wonders hælo geworden beon. Þæs is to tacne, þætte neowan sum of-healing done be Of-that is as token that newly a gebræcseoc man, mid þy he þurh monige stowe dwoliende frantic man with that he through many places wandering orn 7 ferde, þa bicwom he þider on æfenne, ne weotendum ran and went then came he thither in evening not knowing oððo ne gemændum þæm heordum þære stowe, 7 þær ealle or not caring the keepers of-the place and there all neaht wæs restende: 7 þa on morne gehælde witte arás night was resting and then in morning with-healed wit arose 7 ut eode. Þa wundredon ealle mēnn 7 on þæt gefegon, and out went Then wondered all men and at that rejoiced hwylc wundor þær hælo þurh Drihtnes gife æteawde 7 what wonder there of-healing through of-Lord grace appeared and geworden wæs. Is ofer his byrgenne stówe treowgeweorc on done was Is over of-his tomb place wood-work in gelicnesse medmicles huses geworht mid hrægle gegyrwed. likeness of-small house made with cloth covered Þonne is on þæm medmicel pyrel geworht, þurh þæt Then is in the small hole made through which gewuniað þa men, þa ðider for intingan wilsumnisse cumað, are-wont the men who thither for cause of-devotion come heora hond insendan 7 dæl þære moldan þonon neoman. their hand in-send and part of-the dust thence take Mid þy heo þa in wæter sendað 7 untrumum monnum 272.8

With that they it into water send and to-sick men 7 neatum to byrgenne sellað, 7 heo sona from hefignesse and cattle to taste give and they at-once from heaviness þære untrumnesse generede beoð, 7 þær gefean þære of-the infirmity saved are and there joy of-the willendan gesynta onfoð. desired health receive

- 272.12 In þæs biscopes stówe gehalgode Theodor biscop Wynnferð In of-the bishop place consecrated Theodore bishop Winfrith godne wer 7 gemetfæstne, se fore wæs in þegnunge good man and modest who before was in ministry biscophades, swa swa his foregengan, Mercna mægðe 7 of-bishopric so as his predecessors of-Mercians province and Middelengla 7 Lindesfaronas; in eallum þæm Wulfhere, se ða of-Middle-Angles and of-Lindsey in all which Wulfhere who then gena lifende wæs, riices onweald hæfde. Wæs se Wynnferð yet living was of-kingdom power had Was the Winfrith of þæs biscopes geferscipe, þæm he eft æfterfylgde, ond of of-the bishop company whom he afterward succeeded and under him diaconðegnung micelre tide brucende wæs. under him deacon-service for-great time enjoying was

IV • COLMAN IN INISHBOFIN AND MAYO

Colman left Britain with all the Scots from Lindisfarne and thirty English monks, and built a monastery on the island of Inishbofin. The Scots wandered off each summer and harvest and came back in winter to share what the English had gathered, so Colman bought land in Ireland at a place called Mayo and settled the English there. That monastery, now large, still holds English monks living by their own labor under a rule and an abbot.

- 272.19 Betweohn ðas ðing ða Colmanus se biscop, se of Scottum Among these things then Colman the bishop who from Scots cwom wæs Breotone forlætende, ond mid hine genom ealle came was Britain leaving and with him took all þa Scottas, þa he on Lindesfarena ea gesomnade, swelce the Scots whom he on Lindisfarne — gathered likewise eac þritig monna of Ongolpeode; æghwæðre þara wæron in also thirty men of English-nation each of-those were in drohtunge munuclifes geornlice 7 wel gelærde; 7 he forlet conduct of-monk-life earnestly and well taught and he left in þære cirican sume broðor. Ærest he cwom to Hii þæm in the church some brothers First he came to Iona the ealonde, þonon he wæs sendeð Ongolþeode Godes word to island whence he was sent to-English-nation of-God word to bodienne 7 to læranne. Æfter þon he gewat to sumum preach and to teach After that he departed to a medmiclum ealonde þæt is feor ascaden from Hibernia to small island that is far separated from Ireland to westdæle; is in Scyttisc genemned Inisbofinde, þæt is ealond west-part is in Scottish named Inisbofin that is island hwitre heahfore. Ða he þa in þæt ealond cwom, þa of-white heifer When he then into the island came then getimbrede he þær mynster 7 þa munecas þær gestaðolode, built he there monastery and the monks there established þa he of æghwæðrum cynne gesomnade 7 mid hine brohte. whom he from each race gathered and with him brought Ða heo þa þær gestaðolode 7 gesette wæron, þa ne 272.31 When they then there established and set were then not meahte heo betweoh him geþwærgan 7 geweorðan. Forþon could they between them agree and accord Because þe Scottas on sumera 7 on hærfesttide, þonne mon wæstmas that Scots in summer and in harvest-time when one fruits insomnode, þon forleton heo þæt mynster ond þurh cúðe stówe gathered-in then left they the monastery and through known places swicedon 7 foron, 7 þonne on wintra eft ham hwurfon 7 wandered and traveled and then in winter again home returned and wilnedon þara góða gemænelice brucan, þe Ongle gewunnon wished the goods in-common enjoy which English won 7 gegearwodon. Ða sohte Colmanus þisse gewesnisse 7 and prepared Then sought Colman of-this dissension and þisse unsibbe læcedom; eode þa ymb monige stowe ge neah of-this discord remedy went then about many places both near ge feor; þa gemette he sume gerisne stowe in Hibernia and far then found he a fitting place in Ireland mynster on to timbrenne, þæt on Scyttisc gereorde Maigeo monastery on to build which in Scottish language Mayo is nemned. Ond he gebohte noht micelne dæl þæs londes is named And he bought not great part of-the land mynster þær to getimbrenne æt sumum gesiðe, þe þæt lond monastery there to build from a gesith who the land ahte, ðære arædnisse toætededre, þæt heo eac swylce for hine, owned the condition added that they also likewise for him se ðe him þa stowe gesalde, á þa stondendan munecas þær who — them the place gave ever the abiding monks there to Drihtne cleopodon 7 for hine þingodon. Ond he hraðe to Lord called and for him interceded And he quickly þær mynster getimbrode, 7 him se gesið eac fultmade 7 there monastery built and him the gesith also helped and ealle þa neahmen; 7 he ðær þa Englescan men gesette 7 all the neighbors and he there the English men set and gestaðolede, ond Scottas forlet in þæm foresprecenan ealonde. established and Scots left in the aforesaid island 274.15 Þæt mynster oð gen to dæge Englisce men þær in That monastery until yet to day English men there in elpeodignesse habbað. Is þæt þæt mynster, þæt is nu micel exile have Is that the monastery that is now great of medmiclum gefremed, þe gewunelice is Muigeo nemned; from small made which customarily is Mayo named ond geo geara þær eallum gehwerfdum to þæm betran and formerly of-yore there all turned to the better gesetenessum, nu gen æðele weorod nimeð muneca, þa of institutions now yet noble company holds of-monks who from Ongolcynne þær gesomnode seondon, 7 to bysene arwyrðra English-race there gathered are and to example of-venerable fædra under regole 7 abbude in micelre forhæfdnesse 7 fathers under rule and abbot in great abstinence and clænnisse lifes bi heora agnum hondgewinne lifgað. cleanness of-life by their own hand-labor live

V · THE DEATH OF OSWY AND THE SYNOD OF HERTFORD

Oswy fell ill in 670, meaning to end his life at Rome with Wilfrid as his guide, and died, leaving Ecgfrith his heir. In Ecgfrith's third year Theodore gathered the bishops at Hertford, and the synod's record follows in his voice: they accepted chapters of the canons — a common Easter, no bishop intruding on another's diocese or a monastery, no wandering monks or clergy, a yearly synod at Clofesho, precedence by consecration, and lawful marriage.

Ða wæs ymb syx hund wintra 7 hundseofontig wintra from 274.23 Then was about six hundred winters and seventy winters from Drihtnes menniscnesse, þæt is þæt æftere ger þe Theodor biscop of-Lord incarnation that is the second year that Theodore bishop in Breotone cwom, þætte Oswio Norðanhymbra cyning wæs into Britain came that Oswy of-Northumbrians king was gestonden untrymnesse, on þære he eac forðgeorde, þa he assailed by-infirmity in which he also passed-away when he hæfde yldo eahta 7 fiftig wintra. Wæs he se cyning in þa tid had age eight and fifty winters Was he the king in that time bicumen in swa micle lufan þære Romaniscan cirican gesetenisse come into so great love of-the Roman church institution 7 þære apostolican, þæt gif he from þære untrymnesse gehæled and the apostolic that if he from the infirmity healed wære, þæt he wolde to Rome feran 7 þær æt þam halgum were that he would to Rome go and there at the holy stowum his lif geendigan, ond Wilferð biscop bæd, þæt he him places his life end and Wilfrid bishop asked that he to-him þæs siðfætes latteow wære, 7 him micel feoh 7 unlytel wið of-the journey leader were and to-him great money and not-little for þon gebead. Ða forðferde he þy fiftegðan dæge Kalendarum that offered Then departed he on-the fifteenth day of-the-Kalends Martiarum, ond Ecgferð his sunu forlet yrfeweard his rices.

March and Ecgfrith his son left heir of-his kingdom 276.3 Ðæs cyninges rices þy þridan gear Theodor biscop Of-the king reign in-the third year Theodore bishop gesomnade biscoþa gemot 7 seonoð ætgædre mid mongum gathered of-bishops meeting and synod together with many magistrum cirican, ða ðe regollican gesetenesse haligra fædra masters of-church those who regular institution of-holy fathers ge lufedon ge cuðon. Ða heo ætgædre gesomnade wæron, he both loved and knew When they together gathered were he ða geornlice ongon læran to healdenne þy moode, þe biscope then earnestly began teach to hold with-the mind that to-bishop gedafonode, þa þing þa ðe geþwæredon annesse þære ciricican befitted the things those which agreed with-unity of-the churchly sibbe. Ðære seonoðlecan dæde þeosses gemetes gewrit is.

276.10 peace Of-the synodal deed of-this sort writing is In noman Drihtnes Godes 7 ures Hælendes Ihū Xri, In name of-Lord God and of-our Savior Jesus Christ ricsiendum in ecnesse 7 steorendum his cirican þæm ilcan reigning in eternity and governing his church the same Drihtne Hælendum Criste, licade us efencuman æfter þeawe Lord Savior Christ pleased to-us come-together after custom arwyrðra rehta smeagende bi þæm nedþearflecum intingum of-venerable laws considering about the necessary causes Godes cirican. Efencwomon we in þas stówe, þe is cweden of-God church Came-together we into this place which is called Heorotford, þy twenteogðan dæge 7 þy feorðan Septembris Hertford on-the twentieth day and on-the fourth of-September monþes; wæs seo æreste indictio. Ic Theodor, þeah ic unwyrðe month was the first indiction I Theodore though I unworthy sy, wæs ic from þæm apostolican seðle sended biscop Contwara be was I from the apostolic see sent bishop of-Kent burge cirican. Ond se arwyrðesta sacerð 7 usser broðor city church And the most-venerable priest and our brother Bise Eastengla biscop, ond swelce eac usser broþor 7 sacerð Bisi of-East-Angles bishop and likewise also our brother and priest Wilferð Norþanhymbra biscop þurh his agenne ærendwrecan Wilfrid of-Northumbrians bishop through his own messenger ætwæs. Eac swylce ætwæron ure broðor 7 sacerdas was-present Also likewise were-present our brothers and priests Putta, Cantwara ceastre biscop seo is cweden Hrofesceaster, Putta of-Kent city bishop which is called Rochester Leotherius Westseaxna biscop, Wynferð Mercna biscop. Mid Leutberius of-West-Saxons bishop Winfrith of-Mercians bishop With þy we ða togædre cwomon 7 æfter endebyrdnesse ætsomne that we then together came and after order together sæton, cwæð ic: Ic bidde eow eac, þa leofestan broðor, for ege sat said I I pray you also the dearest brothers for fear 7 lufan ures Hælendes, þæt we ealle gemænlice smeagan and love of-our Savior that we all in-common consider for ussum geleafan, þæt þa domas 7 þa gesetenesse, þa ðe for our faith that the decrees and the institutions those which from halgum fædrum 7 gecorenum arædde 7 gesette wæron, by holy fathers and chosen appointed and established were þætte þá from eallum us ungewemmedlice healdene wæron. that those by all us inviolately held were 276.28 Þa ic ða þas 7 monig oðer sprecende wæs, þa ðe to When I then these and many other speaking was those which to Godes lufan gelumpon 7 to annesse þære halgan cirican, of-God love pertained and to unity of-the holy church þa frægn ic anra gehwylcne heora æfter endebyrðnesse, then asked I of-ones each of-them after order hwæðer heo gefæfedon þa domas to healdenne, þa ðe whether they consented the decrees to hold those which geara from halgum fædrum gesette wæron. Ond ealle þa of-yore by holy fathers established were And all the biscopas him ondsworodon 7 cwædon, þæt him eallum þa bishops him answered and said that to-them all those wel licodon, ond hy ealle þa bliðe mode lustlice healdon well pleased and they all them with-blithe mind gladly hold woldon. Ða eowde ic him sona þa ilcan boc þara regola; would Then showed I them at-once the same book of-the rules 7 of þam ilcan bocum tyn capitulas, þa ic geond and from the same books ten chapters which I throughout stowe awrat 7 ic wiste þæt swiðost nedðearflecu wæron, places wrote and I knew that most necessary were sealde ic him, 7 bæd þæt heo ealle þa geornlice heoldon. gave I them and asked that they all them earnestly held 278.5 Is se æresta capitul: þæt we ealle gemænelice healdan þone Is the first chapter that we all in-common hold the halgan dæg Eastrena þy Drihtenlecan dæge æfter þæm holy day of-Easter on-the Lordly day after the feowerteogðan monan þæs ærestan monþes. Se æftera is: fourteenth moon of-the first month The second is þætte nænig biscop oðres biscopes scire inswoqe, ac þætte he that no bishop of-other bishop diocese invade but that he þoncful sy steore him þæs bibodenan folces. Se þrida is: content be with-rule to-him of-the committed people The third is þætte þa mynster, þa þe Gode gehalgode syn, nænegum that the monasteries those which to-God consecrated be to-no biscope alefed seo in ængum þinge heo unstillian, ne owiht bishop permitted be in any thing them disturb nor anything of heora eahtum þurh nednyme ongeneman. Se feorða is: of their possessions through force take-away The fourth is þætte munecas ne leoren of stówe to oðerre, ne of mynstre that monks not pass from place to other nor from monastery to oðrum, nemne þurh leafnesse his agnes abbudes; ac þæt to other except through leave of-his own abbot but that heo áwunien in þære hersumnesse, þe hy Gode gehehton in they remain in the obedience which they to-God promised in þa tid heora gehwyrfnesse. Þonne is se fifta: þæt nænig Godes the time of-their conversion Then is the fifth that no of-God þeow biscopes gefera forlæte his ægenne biscop, 7 geond servant of-bishop companion leave his own bishop and throughout missenlice stowe fere 7 eorne; ne he ower, þær he cyme, various places go and run nor be anywhere where he come onfongen sy, buton biscopes tacne oððe gewrite. Gif he æne received be without of-bishop token or writing If he once siða onfongen, haten ham hweorfan, ne wille, se þe hine time received commanded home return not will be who him feormade 7 se þe gefeormad wæs, seon heo begen biscopes harbored and he who harbored was let-be they both of-bishop dome scyldige. Ðonne is se sexta: þætte elþeodige biscopas to-judgment guilty Then is the sixth that foreign bishops 7 Godes þeos seon þoncfulle heora gestliðnesse 7 feorme; and of-God servants be content with-their hospitality and food 7 nængum heora alefed sy ænge sacerdlíce þegnunge don and to-none of-them permitted be any priestly ministry do buton þæs biscopes leafe, þe hy on his scire gefeormad syn. without of-the bishop leave that they in his diocese harbored be 278.23 Se seofoda is: þætte twigea on gere seonoð gesomnode.

The seventh is that twice in year synod gathered Ac forþon missenlice intingan 7 unæmtan oft gelimpað, But because various causes and hindrances often happen licade us eallum gemænelice, þætte in Agustus Kalende æne pleased to-us all in-common that in August Kalends once siða on gere seonoð gesomnode in stowe, seo is nemned time in year synod gathered in place which is named Clofeshoh. Se eahtoða is: þætte nænig biscopa hine oðrum Clofesbo The eighth is that none of-bishops himself to-other forbære þurh unrehte willunge, ac ealle ongete þa tide prefer through wrong desire but all perceive the time 7 endebyrdnesse his halgunge. Se neogoða capitul wæs and order of-his consecration The ninth chapter was gemænelice asmead: þætte weaxendum þæm rime geleafsumra in-common considered that increasing the number of-faithful ma biscopa ætecte wæron. Se teogoða is for gesinhigum: more bishops added were The tenth is for married-couples þætte nængum alefed sy nemne ælice gesinscipe habban; ne that to-none permitted be except lawful marriage have nor ænig mæghæmed ne unclæne fremme, ne nænig his agen wiif any incest nor unclean commit nor any his own wife forlæte, nemne, swa þæt halig godspel læreð, for intingan leave except as the holy gospel teaches for cause dyrnre forlegenesse. Gif hwelc mon his agnum wīfe wiðscufe, of-secret fornication If any man his own wife reject þæt him mid rehte æ forgifen 7 geþeoded wæs, gif he who to-him with right law given and joined was if he rihtlice cristen beon wille, ne gegaderie he hine to ængum rightly Christian be will not let-join be himself to any oðrum, ac swa áwunie oðþo wið his agen wiif geþwæriē. other but so let-remain or with his own wife let-be-reconciled

The synod was held in 673, the year Ecgberht of Kent died and his brother Hlothhere began a reign of thirteen years and seven months. Bisi, the East Anglian bishop at Hertford, had succeeded Boniface, but illness kept him from his duties, and two bishops, Æcci and Badwine, were consecrated in his place while he lived. The province has had two bishops ever since.

Wæs ðæs seonoð geworden þy geare ymb syx hund wintra 280.7

Was this synod held in-the year about six hundred winters ȝ þreo ȝ hundseofontig from Drihtnes menniscnesse, þy and three and seventy from of-Lord incarnation in-the geare eac Ecgberht Contwara cyning forðferde in Iulius year also Ecgberht of-Kent king departed in July monðe: ȝ Hloðhere his broðor feng to his rice, þæt month and Hlothhere his brother succeeded to his kingdom which he hæfde þreottynne winter ȝ seofon monað.

he had thirteen winters and seven months

Donne wæs Biise Eastengla biscop, þe we sægdon þætte 280.12

Then was Bisi of-East-Angles bishop who we said that in þæm foresprecenan seonoðe wære; wæs he Bonefatus in the aforesaid synod were was he of-Boniface æfterfylgend þæs biscopes, þæs we beforan gemyndgodon, successor of-the bishop whom we above mentioned se wæs micelre halignesse ȝ æfestnisse mon. Forðon þa who was of-great holiness and piety man Because when Bonefatus forðferde æfter seofontyne gearum his biscopphada, Boniface departed after seventeen years of-his bishopric þa gehalgode Theodor biscop after him þone Biise to biscope; then consecrated Theodore bishop after him the Bisi as bishop ond þa gena bi him lifgendum, þæt he wæs bewered from and then yet by him living that he was hindered from þære biscopþegnunge mid hefigre untrymnesse, wæron twegen the bishop-ministry with heavy infirmity were two biscopas Ecce ȝ Beadowine fore hine gecorene ȝ gehalgode. bishops Æci and Badwine for him chosen and consecrated Of þære tide oð to dæge seo mægð hafað twegen biscopas.

From that time until to day the province has two bishops

VII · WINFRITH DEPOSED, EARCONWALD AND BARKING

Theodore deposed Winfrith of the Mercians for disobedience and put Seaxwulf, founder of Medeshamstede, in his place; Winfrith ended his life at Barrow. Earconwald became bishop of the East Saxons in London. His litter still healed the sick, and chips from it cured them. Before his consecration he had founded two monasteries, Chertsey for himself and Barking for his sister Æthelburh, who ruled it worthily.

280.21 Æfter ðissum nales micelre tide forðaurne, wæs Theodor After this not-at-all great time elapsed was Theodore ærcebiscop abolgen from Wynferðe Mercna biscope þurh archbishop angered by Winfrith of-Mercians bishop through gewyrht sumre unhearsumnesse. Pa benom he hine his deserving of-some disobedience Then deprived he him his biscopscire ȝ on his stowe gehalgode Seaxwulf biscop, se wæs bishopric and in his place consecrated Seaxwulf bishop who was timbrend ȝ abbud þæs mynstres, æt Medeshamstede is cweden, builder and abbot of-the monastery at Medeshamstede is called in Gyrwa londe. Wynferþ hwearf to his mynstre, þæt is nemned in of-Gyrwe land Winfrith returned to his monastery that is named æt Bearwe, ȝ þær on godre drohtunge his lif geendade. at Barrow and there in good conduct his life ended

Ða eac swylce he gesette Eastseaxum Erconwald biscop Then also likewise he appointed for-East-Saxons Earconwald bishop in Lundenceastre. Wæron heora cyningas in þa tiid Sebbe in London Were their kings in that time Sebbi ȝ Sighere, þara we beforan gemyndgodon. Þæs biscopes and Sighere whom we above mentioned Of-the bishop lif ȝ drohtunge in biscopshade ge ær biscopshade is life and conduct in bishopric and before bishopric is sægd þætte wære þæt halgeste, swa swa eac swylce æfter said that were the holiest so as also likewise afterward mid heofonlicra mægena tacnum gecyðed wæs. Ond forþon with of-heavenly virtues tokens made-known was And for seopþon longe his horsbær, þe hine mon untrumne on bær, afterward long his horse-litter which him one sick on bore wæs from his discipulum gehealden; ȝ monige untrume, þa was by his disciples kept and many sick those ðe in lenctenadle oðþo in oðerre hefignesse ȝ untrumnesse who in ague or in other heaviness and infirmity gewérgade wæron, þær æt hælo onfengon. Ond nales þæt an wearied were there at health received And not-at-all that alone þætte þa untruman, þa ðe under þa bære oðþo to gesette that the sick those who under the litter or thereto set [wæron], gehælde wæron, ac swelce eac þa scæfpan, þe ðær were healed were but likewise also the shavings which there on genumene wæron, ȝ to untrumum monnum gelædde, from taken were and to sick men brought hræðe him læcedóm gebæron ȝ brohton. Ðes halga wer, quickly to-them medicine bore and brought This holy man ær þon þe he biscop geworden wære, tu æðele mynster he before that that he bishop become were two noble monasteries he getimbrede, oðer him seolfum oðer Æðelburge his sweostor, built one for-him self other for-Æthelburb his sister 7 æghwæðer þara regollecum þeodscipum wel gesette. Him and each of-them with-regular disciplines well established For-himself he getimbrade in Súdrigna lande bi Temese streame in stowe, he built in of-Surrey land by of-Thames stream in place seo is geceged Ceortes eig, his sweoster, in Eastseaxna mægðe which is called Chertsey — for-his sister in of-East-Saxons province in stowe seo is nemned in Bercingum, in þære heo meahte in place which is named at Barking in which she could Gode wilsumra wífmonna lareow 7 festermodor gestondan. to-God of-devoted women teacher and foster-mother stand 282.16 Ða heo þa onfeng þæm gerece þæs mynstres, heo When she then received the government of-the monastery she efenwyrðe heo in eallum þingum þæm biscope 7 hire breðer equal-worthy herself in all things to-the bishop and her brother in rehtum life 7 in regollecum gegearwode, swa þætte eac in right life and in regular made so that also swylce mid heofonlecum wundrum æfter gecyþed wæs. likewise with heavenly wonders afterward made-known was

VIII • THE LIGHT OVER BARKING

When the plague reached Barking and took the monks, the abbess asked the sisters where their own burial ground should be. One night, as the nuns sang at the brothers' graves, a light like a great sheet came down over them, moved to the south side of the monastery, and rose into heaven, showing the place. An old brother said its rays, coming through the chinks of the doors and windows, outshone the daylight.

282.20 Forðon in ðissum mynstre, þæt is in Bercingum, monig Because in this monastery that is at Barking many tacn gastlicra mægena gefremed wæron, þa ðe to gemynde tokens of-spiritual virtues performed were those which for memory 7 to timbernesse þara æfterfylgendra from monegum, þa and for edification of-the successors by many those ðe hit cuðon, awriten hæfd wæren, þa sumu woe nu who it knew written kept were of-which some we now gémdon geþeodan in þis user ciriclice stæ.

cared join into this our churchly history

Mid þy seo hreonis þæs oft cwedenan wooles feor 7 282.25

With that the storm of-the often mentioned pestilence far and wide all wæs forhergende 7 forneomende, þa cwom he eac wide all was ravaging and carrying-off then came it also swylce in þone dæl þæs mynstres, þe ða wæpnedmen in likewise into the part of-the monastery which the males in wæron; ond dæghwamlice gehwær of weorulde to Drihtne were and daily everywhere from world to Lord genumene wæron. Þa wæs seo abbudisse 7 seo modor þære taken were Then was the abbess and the mother of-the gesomnunge bighygdig 7 sorgende, in hwylce tid þone dæl congregation anxious and sorrowing in which time the part þæs mynstres, þe se þreat þara Godes þeowa in wifhada in of-the monastery which the troop of-the of-God servants in womanhood in wæs, þæt ilce wite gehrine, ða ongon heo gelomelice in was the same punishment touched then began she frequently in gesomnunge þara sweostra secan 7 ascian, in hwelcre stowe congregation of-the sisters seek and ask in which place þæs mynstres heo woldon, þæt heora liictún geseted wære, of-the monastery they wished that their burial-ground placed were þæt heo mon bebyrgan meahte, þonne þæt gelumpe, þæt heo that them one bury might when that happened that they of middangearde genumene wæron þy ylcan gehrore, þe from middle-earth taken were by-the same fall which heo oðre gesegon. Mid þy heo þa nænge cuðe ondswaro they others saw With that she then no certain answer findan meahte, þeah þe heo georne sohte æt þām sweostrum, find could though that she earnestly sought from the sisters þa gelomp, þæt heo seolfa mid eallum þām swustrum þa then happened that she self with all the sisters the cuðestan ondsware þære uplican foreseonesse onfeng. Forþon most-certain answer of-the upper providence received Because sumre neahte, þa se sealmsong gefylled wæs þæs uhtlecan on-a-certain night when the psalm-song fulfilled was of-the matin lofsonges, þa wæron ða Cristes þeowe utgongende of cirican praise-song then were the of-Christ servants going-out from church to byrgenne þara broðra, þa ðe heo of þissum leohte to burial of-the brothers those who them from this light foreodon, 7 þær þa wunelecan lofsongas Drihtne sungon. preceded and there the customary praise-songs to-Lord sang 284.12 Ða wæs þær semninga heofonlic leoht onsended 7 cwom Then was there suddenly heavenly light sent and came ofer heo ealle, ond swa swa micel scéte heo ealle oferbrædde, over them all and so as great sheet them all overspread 7 heo mid swa micelre fyrhtu 7 wafunge gesloh, þæt heo and them with so great fright and amazement struck that they þone song, þe heo sungon, forhtiende forleton. Wæs seo the song which they sang fearing left Was the beorhtnes þæs onsendan leohtes mara, þon sunnan leoht bið brightness of-the sent light greater than of-sun light is æt middan dæge. Ða wæs æfter medmiclum fæce, þæt hit at mid day Then was after brief space that it wæs up ahæfen of þære stówe 7 gewat in suðdæl þæs was up raised from the place and departed into south-part of-the mynstres, þæt is be westan þære cirican. 7 þær þa sum monastery that is to-the west-of the church and there then some fæc wunade, 7 him þa stowe wæs ontynende, þe heo ær space remained and to-them the place was disclosing which they before ymbpeahdedon; ⁊ swa eallum geseondum úp in heofonas deliberated and so all seeing up into heavens gewat, þætte nængum heora tweo wæs, þætte þæt seolfe leoht departed that to-none of-them doubt was that the same light þa sawle þara Cristes þeowa wæs gelædende ⁊ onfonde in the souls of-the of-Christ servants was leading and receiving into heofonas, þætte þæt eac swylce þa stowe him æteawde, þær heavens that it also likewise the place to-them showed where heora lichoman restan scoldon ⁊ æriste dæges bidan. Þæs their bodies rest should and of-resurrection day await Of-the leohtes scima wæs swa micel, swa swa sum ald broðor on light brightness was so great so as an old brother in morgenne sægde, se ðe in þa ilcan tid in þære cirican mid morning said he who in the same time in the church with oðre gingran breðer æt gebede wæs, cwæð he, þæt þæs leohtes another younger brother at prayer was said he that of-the light scima þurh þa cinan þære dura ⁊ þurh þa eagþyrel ineode, brightness through the chinks of-the doors and through the windows went-in þæt hit ealle beorhtnesse dæghwamlices leohtes oferswiðde. that it all brightness of-daily light overcame

IX • THE BOY ÆSICA

In the same monastery a boy of three named Æsica, brought up among the nuns, was taken by the plague. Dying, he called three times on one of the sisters, Eadgyth, as though she stood beside him. She fell ill of the same disease that day and died the same day, following the child who had called her to heaven.

Wæs in ðæm ilcan mynstre cneohtcild sum; ne wæs yldre þon 284.30 Was in the same monastery boy-child a not was older than þrywintre, wæs his noma Æsica, se fore þære cildlecan eldo three-winters-old was his name Æsica who for the childish age þa gena wæs in þara fæmnena mynstre Gode gehalgodra feded then yet was in of-the maidens monastery to-God consecrated fed 7 læred. Ða wæs he gehrinen mid þa foresprecenan aðle. and taught Then was he touched with the aforesaid disease Ða he ða to þæm ytmæstan dogor bicwom, þa cleopode he When he then to the last day came then called he ðriga 7 ááne of þæm gehalgedum fæmnum Criste hire agne thrice and one of the consecrated maidens to-Christ her own noman cegde, swa swa he hire ondweardre to spræce, 7 name called so as he her present to spoke and cwæð: Eadgyð, Eadgyð, Eadgyð; 7 swa wæs geendiende þis said Eadgyth Eadgyth Eadgyth and so was ending this wilwendlice liif, 7 in þæt ece ineode. Ond sona þa seo transitory life and into the eternal entered And at-once then the fæmne, þe he sweltende cegde, in þære stowe þe heo wæs, maiden whom he dying called in the place that she was þære ilcan untrymnesse wæs gehrinen, 7 þy seolfan dæge, by-the same infirmity was touched and on-the same day þe heo geceged wæs, of þeossum leohte wæs atógen: 7 that she called was from this light was drawn-away and þone wæs fylgende, se ðe hy cegde, to þæm heofonlecan rice. him was following he who her called to the heavenly kingdom

Another sister, dying of the plague, asked at midnight for the lamp to be put out, saying the house was so full of light that their lamp seemed dark to her. When no one would listen, she told them her own light would come at dawn, for a holy man who had died that year had promised it. She died at daybreak.

Eft sumu of þæm ilcan Godes þeowum mid þa foresprecenan 286.10 Again one of the same of-God servants with the aforesaid aðle wæs gestonden 7 to þæm uutmæstan dogor gelæded. Þa disease was assailed and to the utmost day led Then ongon heo semninga on midde neaht cleopian þæm þe hire began she suddenly in mid night call to-those who her þegnodon; bæd þæt hy þæt blæcern 7 þæt leoht adwæscten, served asked that they the lamp and the light quenched þæt þær inne onbærned wæs; 7 þæs heo gelomlice bæd 7 which there inside kindled was and that she frequently asked and monade, 7 hire nænig hwæðre hyran wolde. Ða æt nehstan urged and her none however obey would Then at last cwæð heo: Ic wat þæt ge wenað, þæt ic úngewitge móde sprece. said she I know that ye think that I with-witless mind speak Ac hwæðre witað ge þæt hit swa nis. Forþon ic eow soð secgu, But however know ye that it so not-is Because I you truth say þæt ic geseo þis hus mid swa micle leohte gefylled, þætte þæt that I see this house with so great light filled that the eower blæcern 7 leoht me is eallinga þeostre gesegen. Ond your lamp and light to-me is altogether dark seen And ne þa gena, þeah þe heo þus spræce, hire ænig ondsvarade not then yet though that she thus spoke her any answered oðþe gefafian wolde. Cwæð heo eft: Bærnað nu eower blæcern or consent would Said she again Burn now your lamp ȝ leoht, swa longe swa ge willen. Weotað ge hwæðre þæt þæt and light so long as ye will Know ye however that that nis min, forþon min leoht me to cymeð, þonne hit dagian not-is my because my light me to comes when it dawn onginneð. Ongon him þa secgan, þæt hire æteawde sum begins Began to-them then say that to-her appeared a halig wer, se þy ylcan geare forðferde, ȝ hire cwæde to, holy man who in-the same year departed and her said to þonne dagunge tid cwome, þæt heo wære to þæm ecan leohte when of-dawning time came that she were to the eternal light ferende. Pære gesyhðe soð wæs hraðe gecyðed ȝ geseðed going Of-the vision truth was quickly made-known and proved ymb þæs dæges upyrne in þære fæmnan deaðe ȝ forðfore. about of-the day rising in of-the maiden death and departure

XI • TORHTGYTH'S VISION OF ÆTHELBURH

As Abbess Æthelburh neared her death, the nun Torhtgyth, purified by nine years of sickness, saw at dawn a body brighter than the sun, wrapped in a sheet, drawn up to heaven as if by golden ropes, and knew one of the congregation would soon die. A few days later Æthelburh died. A paralyzed nun, carried to the abbess's body, prayed to be released and died twelve days later.

286.28 Mid ðy ða eac seo arfæste modor Gode þære leofan With that then also the pious mother to-God of-the dear gesomnunge Æðelburg abbudisse wæs of middangearde to congregation Æthelburh abbess was from middle-earth to geleoranne, ða æteawde sweoster wundorlic gesyhð, þære noma pass then appeared to-a-sister wondrous vision whose name wæs Torhtgyð. Seo monig ger in þæm ilcan mynstre wuniende was Torhtgyth Who many years in the same monastery dwelling wæs, ⁊ heo symle in ealre eaðmodnesse ⁊ in hluttornisse was and she ever in all humility and in purity ⁊ in clænnisse geornlice Gode þeodde; ond wæs fultumend and in cleanness earnestly to-God served and was helper regollices þeodscipes þære ilcan moder ⁊ abbudissan, ⁊ of-regular discipline to-the same mother and abbess and þa geongran lærde ⁊ clænsade ge mid lare ge mid lifes the younger taught and cleansed both with teaching and with of-life bysene. Þære sweostor mægen þæt æfter þæs apostolis cwide in example Of-the sister virtue that after of-the apostle saying in untrymnesse gefremed wære, wæs heo semninga gehrinen mid infirmity perfected were was she suddenly touched with hefigre untrymnesse lichoman, ⁊ þurh nigon ger full mid heavy infirmity of-body and through nine years full with þa arfæstan foreseonisse ures alesendes swiþe swenced wæs, to the pious providence of-our Redeemer greatly afflicted was to þon þætte, swa hwæt swa in hire unclænes betweoh þa mægen that that so what so in her of-uncleanness among the virtues þurh unwisnesse oððo þurh ungemænne gelumpe, þætte eal through unwisdom or through carelessness happened that all þæt se ofn þære singalan costunge asude. Þeos sweostor that the oven of-the continual trial seethed-away This sister sumre neahte, þa hit dagian ongon, wæs utgongende of on-a-certain night when it dawn began was going-out from hire cleofan, þe heo inwunade. Þa geseah heo sweotole her chamber which she dwelt-in Then saw she clearly swa swa monnes lichoman mid scetan bewundenne, se so as of-man body with sheet wound which wæs beorhtra þon sunne, in heanisse boren beon. was brighter than sun in height borne be

- 288.13 Wæs he ærest up ahefen of þæm huse, þe ða sweostor in Was it first up raised from the house which the sisters in reston. Mid þy heo þa geornlecor bihealdende wæs, hwelcum rested With that she then more-earnestly beholding was by-what teonde úp ahefen wære se wlite þæs wulderlecan lichoman, þe drawing up raised were the form of-the glorious body which heo sceawiende wæs, ða geseah heo, swa swa mid gylldnum she beholding was then saw she so as with golden rapum he in þa uplecan ahefen wære, oðþæt þe openiendum ropes it into the upper raised were until that opening heofonum in gelæded wæs, 7 me from hire gesegen beon ne heavens in led was and more by her seen be not meahte. Ða þohte heo bi þære gesyhðe; 7 hire nænig twoe could Then thought she about the vision and to-her no doubt wæs, þætte hwylchugu hraðe of þære gesomnunge sweltende was that some-one quickly from the congregation dying wære, þære sawl þurh þa godan weorc 7 þa scinendan, þe were whose soul through the good works and the shining which heo dyde, swa swa þurh gylldne rapas to heofonum ahefen she did so as through golden ropes to heavens raised beon sceolde. Ðæt þa soðlice swa gelomp. Forðon, nales be should That then truly so happened Because not-at-all monegum dagum betweoh gesettum, Gode seo leofe modor many days between set to-God the dear mother þære gesomnunge of hefignesse lichoman alæded wæs; 7 of-the congregation from heaviness of-body led-out was and hire seo halige sawl þæs heofonlecan eðles ingong gestág. her the holy soul of-the heavenly homeland entrance ascended
- 288.26 Swylce eac in þæm ylcan mynstre wæs sum æðele nunne Likewise also in the same monastery was a noble nun æfter þeosse worulde wyrðnisse, 7 in lufan þære towearðan after of-this world dignity and in love of-the coming weorulde micle æðelre. Seo monegum gearum swa eallre world much nobler Who for-many years so of-all þegnunge hire lichoman ofgefen 7 forlæten wæs, þæt heo service of-her body given-up and forsaken was that she nænig lim onstyrian meahte. Ða heo þa geascade, þæt no limb stir could When she then learned that þære arwyrðan abbudissan lichoma wæs in cirican broht 7 of-the venerable abbess body was into church brought and geseted, oðþæt hine mon byrgan sceolde, þa bād heo þæt set until it one bury should then asked she that hy mon þider gebære. Ða ðæt þa swa wæs, þa onhelde her one thither bore When that then so was then inclined heo to þam liice ond in gemet þara biddendra, swa swa she to the body and in manner of-the praying so as heo to hire lifigendre spræce, bād þæt heo funde 7 ábæde she to her living spoke asked that she found and obtained æt þæs arfæstan sceppendes mildheortnesse, þæt heo from from of-the pious creator mercy that she from swa miclum clæmnessum 7 swa singalum onlesed beon so great pains and so continual released be moste. Ne hire bene later gehyrde wæron þon æfter twelf might Not her prayers later heard were than after twelve dagum, þæt heo wæs of lichoman gelæded, 7 for þæm days that she was from body led and for the hwilwendlecum geswencnessum ece mede 7 edlean onfeng. transitory afflictions eternal reward and recompense received

Torhtgyth lived three more years, so wasted that little but her bones was left, and at last lay speechless for three days. Then she looked up and spoke with a visitor, asking that her death not be long delayed, and said it was her mother Æthelburh. She died the following night.

290.6 Mid ðy ða þa seo foresprecene Cristes þeowe Torhtgyð þreo With that then then the aforesaid of-Christ servant Torhtgyth three ger þa gena æfter þære hlafðigan forðfore in þissum life years then yet after of-the lady departure in this life hæfd wæs, ond heo swa swiðe mid þa untrymnesse þe we held was and she so greatly with the infirmity that we forecwædon, soden wæs, þætte na þa baan an to lafe wæron: said-before seethed was that not the bones alone to remnant were ȝ æt nehstan, þa seo tîd nealecte hire tolesnesse, nales and at last when the time approached of-her release not-at-all þæt an oðerra leoma ac swylce eac þære tungan onstyrenesse that alone of-other limbs but likewise also of-the tongue movement biswicade. Pa wæron þreo dagas ȝ þreo neaht fulle, þæt heo failed When were three days and three nights full that she wæs uncwisse, þa wæs heo semninga mid gastlicre gesihðe was speechless then was she suddenly with spiritual vision gereted, ȝ hire muð ȝ hire eagan ontynde ȝ locade up gladdened and her mouth and her eyes opened and looked up in heofon ȝ þus ongon sprecan to þære gesihðe, þe heo into heaven and thus began speak to the vision which she bihealdende wæs: Me is, cwæð heo, þin cyme on miclum ðonce; beholding was To-me is said she thy coming in great thanks ȝ þu eart leof wilcuma. Pa heo þa ðis cwæð, þa geswigade and thou art dear welcome-guest When she then this said then was-silent heo hwon, swa swa heo bidende wære his ondsware, þone þe she a-little so as she awaiting were his answer whom that heo geseah ⁊ þæm þe heo tosprecende wæs. Eft heo, swa she saw and to-whom that she speaking-to was Again she so swa heo leohtlice gebylged wære, æfter þon heo cwæð: Nænge as she lightly offended were after that she said In-no þinga ic þas bliðe aberan mæg. Eft heo midmicel fæc geswigade. way I this blithely bear can Again she brief space was-silent Cwæð þa ðriddan siðe: Gif hit nænge þinga to dæge beon 290.20 Said then on-third time If it in-no way to day be mægge, ic halsio þætte ne sy long fæc bitweonum. Swigade can I beseech that not be long space between Was-silent þa eft hwon, swa swa heo ær dyde, ond þa ðus þæt word then again a-little so as she before did and then thus the word betynde ⁊ geendade: Gif hit eallunga þus aræded seo, ⁊ þes closed and ended If it altogether thus decreed be and this cwide onwended beon ne mote, ic biddo ⁊ halsio þæt ne sy sentence changed be not may I pray and beseech that not be mare fæc betweenum, þon þeos nehste neaht án. Þa heo more space between than this next night alone When she þa þis cwæð, þa frugnon heo þa ymsittendan, mid hwone then this said then asked her the sitters-around with whom heo sprecende wære. Cwæð heo: Mid mine þa leofestan she speaking were Said she With my the dearest modor Æðelburge. Þa ongeton hy in þon, þæt heo to þon mother Æthelburb Then perceived they in that that she to that cwom, þæt heo hire sægde þa neahtide hire gelearnesse. came that she to-her said the night-time of-her passing ⁊ eac swa wæs, swa swa heo bād: þa se dæg ⁊ seo and also so was so as she asked when the day and the niht forðgewat, þæt heo wæs onlesed from bendum hire night passed that she was released from bonds of-her lichoman ⁊ untrymnesse, ⁊ to gefean ineode ecre hælo. body and infirmity and to joy entered of-eternal salvation

XIII · HILDELITH AND THE BLIND WOMAN HEALED

Æthelburh's successor Hildelith moved the bones of the monastery's dead into the church of Saint Mary, where light and fragrance often appeared, as a book of Barking's wonders records. A gesith's wife who had gone blind was led to the nuns' burial ground, prayed there with faith, and walked home cured.

292.1 Ða æfterfylgde Æðelburge in abbudissan þegnunge seo Then succeeded to-Æthelburh in of-abbess office the wilsume Godes þeowe, þære noma wæs Hildelid. Ond heo devoted of-God servant whose name was Hildelith And she monig ger, þæt is oð ða ytmæstan elde hire, þam ilcan many years that is until the last age of-her the same mynstre fromlice fore wæs æghwæðer ge in þara þinga monastery vigorously over was both and in of-the things foresceawunge, þa ðe to gemænum brocum belumpun, ge providing those which to common uses belonged and eac in gehælde regollices þeodscipes. Ða licade hire fore also in keeping of-regular discipline Then pleased to-her for nearonisse þære stowe, þe þæt mynster ongetimbred is, narrowness of-the place which the monastery built-on is þæt heo wolde þa baan up adon þara Cristes þeowa, þe that she would the bones up take of-the of-Christ servants who ðær bebyrgede wæron, ⁊ in cirican gesettan þære eadigan there buried were and in church set of-the blessed fæmnan Scā Marian ⁊ þær in ánre stowe healdan. Ond þær virgin Saint Mary and there in one place keep And there swiðe oft seoððan beorhtnes heofonlices leohtes æteawde; 7 very often afterward brightness of-heavenly light appeared and eac oft micel swetnes wundorlices stences becwom, 7 monig also often great sweetness of-wondrous odor came and many oðer tacn 7 wundor æteawdon, þa mæg in þære bec other tokens and wonders appeared which can in the book gemetan, swa hwylc swa heo rædeð, þe we þas of alæson. find so which so it reads that we these from gathered Þonne is sum wundor hælo, þe us nis to forlætenne, þe 292.14 Then is a wonder of-healing which to-us not-is to omit which seo ilce booc sagað, þætte æt liictune geworden wære Gode the same book says that at burial-ground done were to-God þære leofan gesomnunge. Wæs sum gesið þær on neaweste. of-the dear congregation Was a gesith there in neighborhood Ða gestod his wiif untrymnes on hire eagam: 7 þa ðurh Then came-upon his wife infirmity in her eyes and then through dagas þæt heo hefegedan 7 þeostrodon, þæt heo æt nehstan days that they grew-heavy and darkened that she at last nænigne dæl leohtes sciman geseon meahte. Mid þy heo þa no part of-light brightness see could With that she then sum fæc on þisse blindnisse wæs, þa wæs sumre neahte, þær some space in this blindness was then was on-a-certain night where heo betyned wunade, þætte hire becwom on mod, gif heo to she enclosed remained that to-her came in mind if she to þam mynstre gelæded wære Godes þara gehalgedra fæmnena, the monastery led were of-God the consecrated maidens ond heo þær æt þara haligra reliquium hire gebede, þæt heo and she there at of-the saints relics herself prayed that she meahte þæt forlorene leoht eft onfon. Ne heo þa ne ælde, ac might the lost light again receive Not she then — delayed but sona gefylde þæt hire on mod becwom. Ða wæs heo gelæded at-once fulfilled what to-her in mind came Then was she led from hire þeowum ⁊ þignenum to þam mynstre, þe þær by her servants and maidservants to the monastery which there neah wæs. Þær heo wæs ondettende, þæt heo hæfde onwalgne near was There she was confessing that she had whole geleafan hire hælo. Ða wæs heo gelæded to liictune þara faith of-her healing Then was she led to burial-ground of-the Godes þeowa; ⁊ mid þy heo þær longe gebegdum cneom of-God servants and with that she there long with-bent knees hire gebæd, sona geearnode þæt hire bene geherde wæron. herself prayed at-once earned that her prayers heard were 292.29 Ond sona þæs þe heo fram þam bede aras, ær þon þe heo And soon that that she from the prayer arose before that that she of þære stowe eode, þæt heo onfeng gife þæs bedenan leohtes. from the place went that she received gift of-the prayed-for light Ond seo ær hire þeowa hondum þyder gelæded wæs, heo And she-who before of-her servants by-hands thither led was she þa freo on hire fota gongum bliðe ham hweorfende wæs, efne then free on of-her feet goings blithe home returning was even þon gelicost, swa swa heo to ðon þæt wilwendlice leoht an to-that likest as as she for that the transitory light alone forlete, þæt heo in hire hælo æteawde, hu micel leoht Cristes þa lost that she in her healing showed how great light of-Christ the halgan in heofonum ahten, ⁊ hwylc gifu heora mægenes wære. saints in heavens had and what grace of-their virtue were Sebbi of the East Saxons, a pious king who would have been a monk but for his wife, took the habit from Bishop Waldhere after thirty years' reign and gave great sums to the poor. Dying, he feared some unseemly word or movement and asked that only the bishop and two thanes be present. A vision told him he would die in three days, and he died quietly. His stone coffin, too short, was found to fit.

Ƣære tide Eastseaxna rice fore wæs, swa swa seo ilce bók 294.3

At-that time of-East-Saxons kingdom over was so as the same book sagað, Gode se wilsuma wer, þæs noma wæs Sebbe, þæs we says to-God the devoted man whose name was Sebbi whom we beforan gemyndgodon. Wæs he se mon æfest in his dædum above mentioned Was he the man pious in his deeds ȝ gelóm in halgum gebedum ȝ swiðe geornful in arfæstum and frequent in holy prayers and very zealous in pious wæstmum ælmessena; ond he sundorliif ȝ munucliif wæs fruits of-alms and he solitary-life and monk-life was forebeorende allum þam weolum ȝ arum þæs eorðlecan riices.

preferring to-all the riches and honors of-the earthly kingdom

Ƣæt lif he oft ȝ geara wolde geceosan ȝ Ƣæt eorðlice

That life he often and formerly would choose and the earthly rice forlætan, gif him ne wiðstóde Ƣæt wiðerworde mód kingdom leave if him not withstood the hostile mind his wiifes. Ƣonon monegum wæs gesewen ȝ oft cweden, of-his wife Thence to-many was seen and often said þætte swelces modes wer ma gedafonade beon to biscope that of-such mind man more befitted be as bishop gehalgad, þonne cyning wære. Mid þy he ða þritig wintra in consecrated than king were With that he then thirty winters in þæm rice áwunade ȝ wæs cempa þæs heofonlecan rices, the kingdom remained and was soldier of-the heavenly kingdom þa wæs he lichomlicre untrymnesse micelre swiðe þread, 7 then was he by-bodily infirmity great greatly afflicted and þære forðferde. Ða monade he his wif, þæt heo þa gena of-which departed Then admonished he his wife that they then yet ætgædre Gode þeowde, þa heo ma ætgædre ne meahton together to-God served when they more together not could middangeard lufian ne middangearde þeowian. Ða he þæt middle-earth love nor to-middle-earth serve When he that þa for his untrymnesse uneaðe þurhteah, þa cwom he then for his infirmity with-difficulty accomplished then came he to Lundenceastre biscope, þæs noma wæs Waldhere, se wæs to of-London bishop whose name was Waldhere who was Ærconwaldes biscopes æfterfylgend; ond þurh his bletsunge of-Earconwald bishop successor and through his blessing þone æfestnesse had underfeng, þone he longe ær wilnade. the of-piety order received which he long before desired

294.20

Swylce he brohte þæm ilcan biscope micel feoh 7 unlytel Likewise he brought to-the same bishop much money and not-little þearfum to gedælanne; ond þæs ealles nowiht him seolfum to-poor to distribute and of-that all nothing for-him self wæs gehaldende, ac he má wilnade þearfan gaste wunian was keeping but he rather desired poor in-spirit dwell for heofona rices lufan. Mid þy he ða hefgad wæs mid þa for of-heavens kingdom love With that he then burdened was with the foresprecenan untrymnesse, 7 he onget þæt him deaðes dæg aforesaid infirmity and he perceived that to-him of-death day toward wæs, þa ongon þæs cynelecan módes monn him coming was then began of-the royal mind man himself ondrædan, þonne he to deaðe cumende wære 7 mid micle sære fear when he to death coming were and with great pain wæced þy læs he owiht unwyrþes oðþe ungerisnes dyde mid his weakened the less he anything of-unworthy or of-unseemly did with his múþe, oðþe mid oðerra lima styrenesse. Gehet him þa to þære mouth or with of-other limbs movement Summoned him then to of-the foresprecenan Lundenceastre biscop, in þære he ða wunade; bæd aforesaid London bishop in which he then dwelt asked hine þæt he him forgéfe, þonne he forðferan scolde, þæt þær him that he to-him granted when he depart should that there má monna inne ne wære, þonne se biscop ⁊ twegen his þegna. more of-men inside not were than the bishop and two of-his thanes Ða gehet se biscop, þæt he leoflice swa gedyde, swa he hine 294.32 Then promised the bishop that he lovingly so did as he him bæd, þa wæs æfter medmiclum fæce, þætte se ilca Godes wer asked then was after brief space that the same of-God man his leomu in stilnesse gesette ⁊ hine gerestan wolde, ⁊ his limbs in stillness set and himself rest would and onslepte. Ða geseah he frefrende gesihðe, seo him ealle þa fell-asleep Then saw he comforting vision which from-him all the nearonesse þære gemyndgadan sorge afyrde, ond eac swelce anxiety of-the mentioned sorrow removed and also likewise him æteawde, hwelce dæge he sceolde þis hwilwendlice lif to-him showed on-which day he should this transitory life geendian. Geseah he, swa swa he seolf a eft æfter sægde, þry end Saw he so as he self afterward after said three wæpnedmen to him cuman mid beorhtum hræglum gegyrede. males to him come with bright garments clothed Ðara wæs án gesittende beforan his reste, ⁊ stodon his Of-whom was one sitting before his bed and stood his geferan oðre, þa ðe mid him cwomon. Ða frugnon heo companions other those who with him came Then asked they þone sittendan bi his stealle, hu be him geweorðan scolde, the sitting-one about his state how about him become should þone þe hy untrumne neosian cwomon. Cwæð he, þætte sawl whom that they sick visit came Said he that soul butan ængum sare 7 mid micle beorhtnesse leohtes wære without any pain and with great brightness of-light were útgoingende of lichoman: 7 him eac cyððe 7 sægde, going-out from body and him also made-known and said þæt he þy þridðan dæge forðferan sceolde. Æghwæper þara that he on-the third day depart should Each of-the þinga swa gefylled wæs, swa he of þære gesyhðe geleornade. things so fulfilled was as he from the vision learned Forðon æfter þy þridðan dæge, gefylleddre nontíde, þa Because after the third day at-fulfilled none-time then semninga wæs, swa swa he leohtlice onslepte, buton ænigre suddenly was so as he lightly fell-asleep without any gefelnisse sáres þone gast onsende 7 forðgeleorde. feeling of-pain the spirit sent-forth and passed-away 296.16 Ða gearwodon heo his lichoman to byrgenne stænenne þruh.

Then prepared they his body for burial stone coffin Ða heo þa ongunnon þone lichoman þær insettan, þa wæs When they then began the body there in-set then was se lichoma sponne lengra þære þryh. Ða heowon heo þone the body by-a-span longer than-the coffin Then hewed they the stán, swa swiðe swa heo meahton, 7 toætétcon lengeo þære stone so greatly as they could and added length of-the þryh twegra fingra gemet. Ac ne ða gen swa þætte heo coffin of-two fingers measure But not then yet so that it þone lichoman neoman meahte. Ða wæs micel unedelicnes the body take could Then was great difficulty geworden bi his byrgennesse, þa þohton heo 7 spræcon, become about his burial then thought they and spoke þæt hy oðpe oðre þruh sohton oððe þone lichoman on that they either other coffin sought or the body at cneom gebegde, to þon þæt heo hine þær in gedon meahton. knees bent to that that they it there in put could

Ac þa wundorlicwise 7 efne heofonlic wæs geworden, þætte But then wondrous-wise and even heavenly was done that bewerede þætte nohwæðer þissa beon sceolde. Stóð se biscop prevented that neither of-these be should Stood the bishop 7 þæs cyninges suna twegen æt þæm líce, Sigeheard 7 and of-the king sons two at the body Sigeheard and Swefred, þa æfter him to ríce fengon, 7 eac micelu Swefred who after him to kingdom succeeded and also great mengeo manna. Ða wæs semninga gemeted seo þruh gerisenre multitude of-men Then was suddenly found the coffin with-fitting lenge to gemete þæs lichoman, to þon þætte from dæle þæs length to measure of-the body to that that from part of-the heafdes eac swylce meahte wongere between geseted beon; 7 head also likewise could pillow between set be and from dæle þara fóta feower fingra gemet seo þruh wæs þæm from part of-the feet of-four fingers measure the coffin was than-the lichoman lengre. Ða wæs se Godes mon bebyrged in Scē body longer Then was the of-God man buried in of-Saint Paules cirican þæs apostoles, þæs monungum he gelæred Paul church of-the apostle by-whose admonitions he taught wæs 7 geleornade, þæt he ða heofonlecan eadignesse gehyhte. was and learned that he the heavenly blessedness hoped-for Leutherius was the fourth bishop of the West Saxons, after Birinus, Agilbert, and Wine. After King Cenwalh's death the ealdormen divided the kingdom for ten years, and in their time Leutherius died and Theodore consecrated Hædde in London. Cædwalla then overthrew the ealdormen, reigned two years, and left his kingdom for Rome.

- 298.1 Se feorða biscop Westseaxna Leutherius wæs haten. Se æresta The fourth bishop of-West-Saxons Leutherius was called The first wæs Birinus; se æftera wæs Ægelberht; þrida wæs Wīne. Þa was Birinus the second was Agilbert third was Wine When Cenwalh se cyning forðferde, in þæs rīce se ilca Leutherius Cenwalh the king departed in whose reign the same Leutherius wæs biscop geworden, þa fengon aldormen to þæm rīce þære was bishop become then succeeded ealdormen to the kingdom of-the þeode, ⁊ betweoh him todældon, ⁊ tȳn ger hæfdon. ⁊ in nation and between them divided and ten years had and in heora rīce Leutherius se biscop forðferde; ond Theodor biscop their reign Leutherius the bishop departed and Theodore bishop fore hine gehalgode Hædde to biscope in Lundenceastre. for him consecrated Hædde as bishop in London On þæs biscopes tide wæron oferswiðde ⁊ geflymde þa In of-the bishop time were overcome and put-to-flight the aldormen: ond Cædwalla feng to Westseaxna rīce. ⁊ ealdormen and Cædwalla succeeded to of-West-Saxons kingdom and mid þy he tu ger rīce hæfde ⁊ cyning wæs, þa wæs with that he two years kingdom had and king was then was he inbryrdd mid lufan þæs uplecan rīces ⁊ þæt eorðlice he inspired with love of-the upper kingdom and the earthly forlet in þæs ilcan biscopes tid, 7 to Róme ferde 7 þær left in of-the same bishop time and to Rome went and there his líf geendade, swa swa heræfter is swutolecor to secgenne. his life ended so as hereafter is more-clearly to say

XVI · ROCHESTER SACKED AND WILFRID EXPELLED

In 676 Æthelred of Mercia ravaged Kent and destroyed Rochester, and Putta, given a church by Seaxwulf, taught church song; Cwichelm and then Gebmund succeeded him. Two years later a comet appeared, and Wilfrid was driven from his see. Bosa and Eata were consecrated for Deira and Bernicia, Eadhæd for Lindsey, and later Tunberht for Hexham and Trumwine for the Picts.

Þa wæs ymb syx hund wintra 7 syx 7 hundseofontig æfter 298.13 Then was about six hundred winters and six and seventy after Drihtnes menniscnesse, þætte Æðelred Mercna cyning gelædde of-Lord incarnation that Æthelred of-Mercians king led wærge weorod, 7 Cent forhergode, 7 cirican 7 mynster buton accursed host and Kent ravaged and churches and monasteries without gesihðe arfæstnesse oðþe Godes egsan hwyrfdæ 7 fornom: ond regard of-piety or of-God fear overturned and destroyed and Hrofesceastre eac swelce, in þære wæs Putta biscop, þeah þe Rochester also likewise in which was Putta bishop though that he in ða tid þær ondweard ne wære, he mid gemæne hergunge he in that time there present not were he with common ravaging fornom. Ða he ða þæt onfond, þæt his cirice eallum hire destroyed When he then that found that his church of-all her æhtum wæs bereafod 7 forhergad, þa cerde he to Seaxwulfe possessions was bereft and ravaged then turned he to Seaxwulf Mercna biscope: 7 he him gesealde sumre cirican eahte of-Mercians bishop and he to-him gave of-a church possession ȝ medmicel lond. Ond he in þære cirican Gode þeowode, and small land And he in the church to-God served ȝ swa hwyder ymb swa he beden wæs, ferde ȝ ciricsong and so whither about so he asked was went and church-song lærde; ȝ þær in sibbe his lif geendade. For þæm Theodor taught and there in peace his life ended For him Theodore biscop in Hrofesceastre Quichelm to biscope gehalgode; ac he bishop in Rochester Cwichelm as bishop consecrated but he æfter medmicelre tide for wæðnesse weoruldgoda from þæm after brief time for poverty of-worldly-goods from the biscopseðle gewát. He ða Gefmund for hine to biscope gesette. bishop-seat departed He then Gebmund for him as bishop appointed 298.28 Ða wæs ymb tu ger, þæs þe Æðelred Mercna cyning Then was about two years after-that that Æthelred of-Mercians king Centlond forhergode, þæt is þæt nigoðe ger Ecgfrīðes rices Kent ravaged that is the ninth year of-Ecgfrith reign þæs cyninges, ða æteawde in Agustus monðe neowe steorra, of-the king then appeared in August month new star se is cweden cometa; ȝ þreo monað wæs awuniende, ȝ which is called comet and three months was remaining and in uhttide wæs upeornende ȝ micelne scíman wæs beorende in dawn-time was rising-up and great brightness was bearing swa swa scinendes leges. Ðy ylcan gere wæs towestnis ȝ so as of-shining flame In-the same year was dissension and unsib geworden betweoh Ecgfrīð cyning ȝ þone árwyrdan discord become between Ecgfrith king and the venerable biscop Wilferð. ȝ se ilca biscop wæs ascofen ȝ adriften bishop Wilfrid and the same bishop was thrust-out and driven of his biscopseðle, ond twegen biscopas on his stówe from his bishop-seat and two bishops in his place gesette, þa ðe Norðanhymbra þeode fore wæron, þæt wæs set those who of-Northumbrians nation over were that was Boosa, se styrde Dera mægðe, 7 Eata Beornicea. Hæfde Bosa who governed of-Deirans province and Eata of-Bernicians Had Bosa in Eoforwiicceastre seðl, ond Eata in Eagostaldes ea Bosa in York see and Eata in Hexham — 7 in Lindisfaronæ ea: wæron heo begen of munuchade and in Lindisfarne — were they both from monkhood in biscophad gecorene. Mid þæm wæs eac Eadhæd in into bishopric chosen With them was also Eadhæd in Lindisse mægðe to biscope gehalgod, þa neowan Ecgfrīð of-Lindsey province as bishop consecrated which newly Ecgfrith se cyning geeode, þa he oferswiðde 7 geflymde Wulfhere the king conquered when he overcame and put-to-flight Wulfhere in gefeohte. Ond seo ilce mægð ærest þeosne biscop agenne in battle And the same province first this bishop own onfeng. Se æftera wæs Æðelwine; se þrida Eadgar; se received The second was Æthelwine the third Edgar the feorða Cyneberht. Hæfde seo mægð ær Eadhæde Seaxwulf fourth Cyneberht Had the province before Eadhæd Seaxwulf biscop, se eac swelce wæs Mercna biscop 7 Middelenla. bishop who also likewise was of-Mercians bishop and of-Middle-Angles Ac he wæs of Lindesse adrifen, þa Ecgfrīð heo geeode, 7 300.15 But he was from Lindsey driven when Ecgfrith it conquered and in þara oðerra mægða gerece awunade. Wæron gehalgode in of-the other provinces government remained Were consecrated in Eoforwīc, Eadhæð, Boosa, 7 Eata from Theodore in York Eadhæd Bosa and Eata by Theodore biscope. Ond he ða eac swylce æfter þrim gearum Wilferðes bishop And he then also likewise after three years of-Wilfrid onweggewitenesse þissa rime twegen biscopas toætecte, departure of-these to-number two bishops added Trumberht to cirican Heagostaldes ea — 7 Eata hwearf to Tunberht to church of-Hexham — and Eata returned to Lindesarona ea — 7 Trumwine to Peohta mægðe, seo in þa Lindisfarne — and Trumwine to of-Picts province which in that tid wæs Ongolcynrice underþeoded. Eadhæð he gesette to time was to-English-race-kingdom subjected Eadhæð he appointed as biscope Hrypsetna cirican, þa he of Lindesse hwearf, forðon bishop of-Ripon-folk church when he from Lindsey returned because þa Æðelred Mercna cyning þa mægðe onfeng 7 beget. then Æthelred of-Mercians king the province received and got

XVII · WILFRID AMONG THE SOUTH SAXONS

Driven from Northumbria, Wilfrid turned to the South Saxons, still beathen though their king Æthelwulf had been baptized in Mercia. He baptized their leading men, a three years' drought broke on the day of their baptism, and he taught them to fish. Æthelwulf gave him Selsey, where he freed two hundred and fifty slaves and built a monastery. Cædwalla killed Æthelwulf, and the province, with no bishop of its own, came under Winchester.

300.25 Ða Wilferð biscop adrifen wæs of his biscopscīre 7 longe When Wilfrid bishop driven was from his bishopric and long geond monige stowe ferende wæs, 7 he Rome gesohte 7 throughout many places traveling was and he Rome sought and eft hwearf to Breotone. Ond þeah þe he for feondscipum again returned to Britain And though that he for enmities þæs gemyndgedan cyninges in his eðel oððe in his of-the mentioned king into his homeland or into his biscopscire onfongen beon ne meahte, ne meahte he hwæðre bishopric received be not could not could he however from þære þegnunge beon bewered godspel to lærenne. Ac from the ministry be hindered gospel to teach But he cerde to Suðseaxna mægðe, seo æfter Contwarum suð 7 he turned to of-South-Saxons province which after Kent south and west belimpeð to Westseaxna gemære. Is þæs londes seofon west extends to of-West-Saxons border Is of-the land seven þusendo, ond heo þære tide þa gena hæðnum bigongum thousand-(bides) and they at-that time then yet to-beaten rites þeowdon. Pisse þeode se biscop Cristes geleafan word ȝ served To-this nation the bishop of-Christ faith word and fulwihteþæp þegnade. Wæs Æðelwalh þære þeode cyning baptism-bath ministered Was Æthelwalh of-the nation king noht micelre tide ær in Mercum gefulwad þurh Wulfheres not by-great time before in Mercia baptized through of-Wulfhere lare ȝ geornfulnisse Mercna cyninges. Eac swelce þa he teaching and zeal of-Mercians king Also likewise when he æt fulwihte bæde onþwegen wæs, him to godsuna onfeng, at of-baptism bath washed was him as godson received ond to tacne þære sibbe him twa mægðe forgeaf, þæt is and as token of-the kinship to-him two provinces gave that is Wihte ealond ȝ Meanware mægðe in Westseaxna þeode. of-Wight island and of-Meonware province in of-West-Saxons nation Wæs he se cyning swiðe gefeonde in þæs biscopes cyme. Ond 302.8 Was he the king greatly rejoicing in of-the bishop coming And he ærest ealdormen þære mægðe ȝ cyninges þegnas mid he first ealdormen of-the province and of-king thanes with þa halgan wyllan þwoh fulwihtes bæðes; ond mæssepreostas the holy spring washed of-baptism bath and masspriests Eappa ȝ Peadda ȝ Burghelm ȝ Oidde þæt oðer folc ge Eappa and Padda and Burgbhelu and Eddi the other folk both þa ge æfterfylgendre tide fulwadon. Seo qúen þonne, þære then and in-following time baptized The queen then whose noma wæs Æbbe, in hire mægðe, þæt is in Hwiccum, name was Eafe in her province that is among Hwicce wæs gefulwad. Wæs heo Eanfriðes dohtor Eanheres broðor, was baptized Was she of-Eanfrið daughter of-Eanbere brother þa begen wæron Cristne mid heora folce. Ac eal seo mægð who both were Christian with their people But all the province Súðseaxna wæs unwis þæs godcundan noman 7 geleafan.

of-South-Saxons was ignorant of-the divine name and faith 302.17 Wæs þær sum múnuc of Scotta cynne, se wæs Dicul haten;

Was there a monk of of-Scots race who was Dicul called hæfde he medmicel mynster sum in þære stówe, þe is had he small monastery a in the place which is nemned Bosanham. Wæs mid wuda 7 mid sæ ymsald, 7 named Bosham Was with wood and with sea surrounded and in þæm wæron fif gebroðor oððe syxe in þearfendum life in it were five brothers or six in needy life 7 earmlecum Drihtne þeowiende. Ac nænig mon in þære and poor to-Lord serving But no man in the mægðe ne heora lif onhyrgan wolde ne heora lare gehyran.

province — their life imitate would nor their teaching bear 302.23 Ond þa Wilferð biscop in þære þeode godcunde lare

And then Wilfrid bishop in the nation divine teaching lærde, nales þæt an þætte from yrmðum écre niðrunge, taught not-at-all that alone that from miseries of-eternal damnation ac swylce eac from þæm mánfullan wæle hwilwendlicre but likewise also from the wicked slaughter of-temporal forwyrdre generede. Forþon þrym gearum ær his cyme in destruction saved Because for-three years before his coming into þa mægðe þæt þær nænig regn in þæm stowum cwom; 7 the province that there no rain in the places came and þonon se grimmeṣta hungor þæt folc wæs wæcende, 7 heo thence the grimmest hunger the folk was weakening and they mid arleasre cwale fylde wæron. Þæt is to tacne: secgað with impious death felled were That is as token say men, þætte oft feowertig monna oðþe fiftig somed, þa ðe men that often forty men or fifty together those who mid þy hungre gewæcte wæron, þæt heo earmlice bi hondum with the hunger weakened were that they miserably by hands nóman 7 ealle ætgædre of sæs ófre ut feollan, 7 woldon took and all together from of-sea shore out fell and would heo sylfe oðþe offyllan oðþe adrencan. Ond þa þy sylfan them selves either kill or drown And then on-the same dæge, ðe seo þeod Cristes geleafan onfeng 7 fulwihte, ða day that the nation of-Christ faith received and baptism then astah 7 cwom smolt regn 7 micel 7 genihtsum; 7 þa descended and came gentle rain and great and abundant and the lond greowon 7 blostmedon, ond æfter cwoín god gear 7 lands grew and blossomed and after came good year and wæstmbeorende. Ond swa awurpon þa aldan dysignesse 7 fruit-bearing And so cast-off the old folly and deofolgild onscunedon, ond ealra heora heortan 7 lichoman idol-worship shunned and of-all their hearts and bodies wynsumedon in þone lifgendan God; 7 þone ongeton, se ðe rejoiced in the living God and him perceived he who soð God is, ond þæt heo seolfe wæron ge on þæm nearran true God is and that they themselves were both in the nearer gódum, ge on þæm utteran mid heofonlice gife gewelgade. goods and in the outer with heavenly grace enriched Forðon se biscop, mid þy þe he in þa mægðe cwom 7 304.6 Because the bishop with that that he into the province came and swa micel wite hungres þær geseah, lærde he ða þæt hie in so great torment of-hunger there saw taught he then that they in fiscaðe him ondlifene sohton; forþon ðe æghwæðer ge sio fishing for-themselves food sought because that both and the sæ ge hiora eá fiscum genyhtsumade. Ac sio ðeod þone cræft sea and their rivers with-fish abounded But the nation the craft þæs fiscoþes ne cuðe, nemne to ælum anum. Ða gesomnodon of-the fishing not knew except for eels alone Then gathered þa bisceopes men þa ælnet æghwonan þe hie meahton, 7 the of-bishop men the eel-nets from-everywhere that they could and sendon in ðone sæ. 7 seo godcunde giofu him gefultumade sent into the sea and the divine grace them helped þæt hie sona gefengon þreo hund fiska missenlicra cynna. that they at-once caught three hundred fishes of-various kinds Ond ða in þreo todældon: hundteontig hie sealdon þearfum, And them in three divided hundred they gave to-poor hundteontig þæm ðe þa net ahton; hundteontig hy him hundred to-those who the nets owned hundred they for-them selfum to nytte dydon. Pære fremsumnesse se bisceop ealra selves for use did By-that kindness the bishop of-all hiora heortan in his lufan gecerde: ond ðy neodlicor þurh their hearts into his love turned and the more-eagerly through his lare þa heofonlican god gehyhton, þæs ðenunge hie his teaching the heavenly goods hoped-for by-whose ministry they ða hwilwendlican god namon 7 onfengon. the transitory goods took and received 304.20 Ðære tide Æþelwalh se cyning geaf 7 sealde ðæm arwyrðan At-that time Æthelwalh the king gave and granted to-the venerable bisceope Wilferþe seofon 7 hundehtatig hida londes, ðæs bishop Wilfrid seven and eighty hides of-land whose noma is Syleseá, þæt he meahte his men on gehabban þa þe name is Selsey that he might his men on keep those who mid him wraccdon. Is sio stow æghwonan mid sæ ymbseald with him were-exiles Is the place on-every-side with sea surrounded butan westan; ðonan hit hafað ingang, swa micelre brædo except west whence it has entrance of-so great breadth swa mon mæge mid liðeran geweorpan. Mid ðy he þa se as one can with sling throw With that he then the bisceop þa stowe ónfeng, þa gestapelode he þær mynster ond bishop the place received then founded he there monastery and þæt to regollife gesette swiþust of þam broðrum, þe he it to regular-life established chiefly of the brothers whom he mid him brohte. Þæt git to dæge his æfterfylgend bisceopas with him brought That yet to day his successor bishops habbað 7 agon. Þenode se arwyrða bisceop Wilferð in ðæm have and own Served the venerable bishop Wilfrid in the dælum ða bisceopðenunge arwyrðlice fif gear, þæt is oð parts the bishop-ministry reverently five years that is until Ecgferþes deað þæs cyninges. Ond forðon him Æþelwalh se of-Ecgfrith death of-the king And because to-him Æthelwalh the cyning mid æhte þære foresprecenan stowe ealle ða spede king with possession of-the aforesaid place all the wealth þe þær on wæron mid lande oñd mid monnum sealde which there on were with land and with men gave 7 forgeaf, ond he ealle oñ Cristes geleafan gesette 7 mid and granted and he all in of-Christ faith set and with fulwihte bæpe aþwoh. Betwih ða twa 7 hundteontig 7 of-baptism bath washed Among those two and hundred and fiftig þara manna esna ond menena gefulwade; 7 ealle ða fifty of-the men of-slaves and of-bondwomen baptized and all those swa swa he þurh fulwihte from deofles ðeowdome gehælde, so as he through baptism from of-devil servitude saved 7 eac swilce mennisce ðeowdome onlesde 7 hie gefreode. and also likewise from-human servitude released and them freed Betwih þas ðing þa wæs cumende Ceadwalla mid weorode 306.5 Among these things then was coming Cædwalla with host Westseaxna æþeling, geong 7 from, þa he wreccea wæs, oñd of-West-Saxons prince young and vigorous when he exile was and ófsloh Æþelwalh ðone cyning 7 þa mægþe mid grimme wæle slew Æthelwalh the king and the province with grim slaughter 7 herige ongebræc. Ac he wæs sona ðonon adrifen from ðæs and plunder broke But he was at-once thence driven by of-the cyninges ealdormonnum Berhthune 7 Ándhune, þa syððan king ealdormen Berhtun and Andhun who afterward þære mægþe rice hæfdon. Para se ærra wæs fram þam of-the province rule had Of-whom the former was by the ylcan Ceadwala ofslegen, þa he Westseaxna cyning wæs, 7 same Cædwalla slain when he of-West-Saxons king was and þa mægþe mid hefigran þeowdome gehnægde. Swylce eac Ine, the province with heavier servitude humbled Likewise also Ine se ðe æfter Ceadwalan tó rice feng, gelicre geswencednesse he who after Cædwalla to kingdom succeeded with-like affliction monigra geara tide þa mægþe yfelade. For þære wisan wæs of-many years for-time the province afflicted For that reason was geworden þæt eallre þære tide hi agenne bysceop habban become that for-all the time they own bishop have ne mihton. Ac þa Willferð bysceop wæs eft ham gelaðad, not could But when Wilfrid bishop was again home invited heora se æresta bisceop, syððan hie Westseaxna bysceopum their the first bishop afterward they of-West-Saxons to-bishops underþeodde wæron, þa þe wæron on Wintaceastre. subjected were those who were in Winchester

Cædwalla took the Isle of Wight, still heathen, and vowed a quarter of the land and plunder to God, giving Wilfrid three hundred hides. Two young brothers of the island's king fled and were betrayed; the abbot Cyneberht obtained leave to instruct and baptize them before their execution, and they went to death gladly. The chapter ends with the island's position and the tides of the Solent.

Æfter þon þa þe Ceadwala wæs gemægenad ⁊ gestrongod 306.18 After that when that Cædwalla was empowered and strengthened on Westseaxna rice, þa geeode he eac ⁊ onfeng Wiht þæt in of-West-Saxons kingdom then conquered he also and seized Wight the ealond, þæt eal wæs oð þa tid deofolgildum geseald. Ond he island which all was until that time to-idol-worship given And he gelice þy † troiscan wæle ealle þa londbigengan wolde ut like the (corrupt) destructive slaughter all the inhabitants would out amærian ⁊ his agenra leoda monnum gesettan. Secgað men, exterminate and of-his own people with-men settle Say men þæt he eac wære mid gehate hine seolfne bindende — þeah that he also were with vow him self binding though þe he ða gena in Criste ne wære eft acenned þurh fulwihtes that he then yet in Christ not were again born through of-baptism bæð—, þæt gif he þæt ealond gegan meahte, þæt he his þone bath that if he the island win could that he of-it the feorðan dæl ⁊ þære herehyðe for Gode gesealde. ⁊ he þæt swa fourth part and of-the booty for God gave and he that so gelæste, þæt þone dæl he Wilferðe biscope for Gode gesealde performed that the part he to-Wilfrid bishop for God gave to brucenne, se in þa tid of his þeode þider cwom ⁊ þær to use who in that time from his nation thither came and there ondweard wæs. Is þæs ilcan ealondes gemet æfter Ongolcynnes present was Is of-the same island measure after of-English-race eahte twelf hund hida. ⁊ he þa þam biscope gesealde in reckoning twelve hundred hides and he then to-the bishop gave in æht þreo hund hida, ⁊ þær eahta to. Ond he þa þone possession three hundred hides and there possessions to And he then the dæl, þe he onfeng, bebead sumum his preosta, þæs noma part which he received committed to-one of-his priests whose name wæs Berhtwini, se wæs his sweostor sunu. Ond he sealde him was Beornwine who was of-his sister son And he gave to-him mæssepreost, þæs noma wæs Hiddila, se eallum þæm þa ðe masspriest whose name was Hiddila who to-all those who — woldon gehælde beon Godes word ⁊ fulwihte bæð þegnode. wished saved be of-God word and of-baptism bath ministered 308.5 Nis þonne no to forswigienne, ðætte in fruman þa Not-is then at-all to pass-over-in-silence that in beginning those ðe of þam ilcan ealonde þurh geleafan gehælde wæron, who from the same island through faith saved were twegen cynelice cneohtas þa mid synderlicre Godes gife two royal boys who with special of-God grace wæron gesigefæste, þa wæron Aarwaldes broðor þæs ealondes were victorious who were of-Arwald brothers of-the of-island cyninges. Ða Ceadwalla se cyning mid þy here in þæt ealond king When Cædwalla the king with the army into the island for, þa flugon þa cneohtas út of þæm ealonde, ⁊ wæron went then fled the boys out from the island and were gelædde in þa neahmægðe, seo is gecegd Eota lond, in sume led into the neighbor-province which is called of-Jutes land into a stowe seo is nemned Æt Stane. Woldon heo ⁊ wendon, place which is named At Stone Wished they and thought þæt heo þær meahton deagle ⁊ beholene beon fróm ónsyne that they there could secret and hidden be from sight þæs unholdan cyninges. Him ða wæron heo þær gemeldode; of-the hostile king To-him then were they there betrayed

7 se cyning heo ofslean het. Ða þæt þa gehyrde and the king them slay commanded When that then heard sum abbud 7 mæssepreost, þæs noma wæs Cyneberht, se an abbot and masspriest whose name was Cyneberht who hæfde þonon noht feor sum mynster in þære stówe, þe is had thence not far a monastery in the place which is gecegd Hreodford, þa cwom he to þæm cyninge, se ða in called Redbridge then came he to the king who then in þæm ilcan dælum deagollice læcnod wæs from his wundum, the same parts secretly healed was from his wounds þa ðe him gedonne wæron, þa he feaht 7 wonn on those which to-him done were when he fought and strove on Wiht ðæt ealond. Ond hine bæd, gif þa cneohtas aninga Wight the island And him asked if the boys necessarily ofslegene beon sceoldon, þæt he him alefde 7 forgef, þæt slain be should that he to-him permitted and granted that he moste heo gelæran in þa gerynu þæs cristnan geleafan. he might them teach in the mysteries of-the Christian faith Ða forgef se cyning him þæt 7 alefde. Ond he ða Then granted the king to-him that and permitted And he then heo intimbrede 7 gelærde mid soðfæstnesse worde 7 mid them instructed and taught with of-truth word and with fulwihtes bæðe heo from synnum aðwoh: 7 heo gewisse of-baptism bath them from sins washed and them certain gedyde 7 gelærde bi ingonge þæs ecan rices. Ond se made and taught about entrance of-the eternal kingdom And the quellere him oferstod: 7 heo sona unforhte 7 bliðe executioner them stood-over and they at-once unafraid and blithe underhnigon þone wilwendlecan deað, þurh þone heo ne underwent the transitory death through which they not tweodon ferende beon to þæm ecan ríce heora sawla. doubted going be to the eternal kingdom of-their souls

308.21

308.28 Ono þisse endebyrdnesse, æfter þon þe ealle Breotone Lo in-this order after that that all of-Britain mægðe Cristes geleafan onfengon, onfeng eac Wiht þæt provinces of-Christ faith received received also Wight the ealond. Hwæðre in þæm nænig for ermþo þære utlecan island However in it none for misery of-the foreign underþeodnesse onfeng biscoplicre þegnunge hād ær Daniele, subjection received of-episcopal ministry order before Daniel se þa wæs Westseaxna biscop. Is þis ealond geseted onegen who then was of-West-Saxons bishop Is this island set opposite midle Suðseaxna ⁊ Westseaxna; is sá between geseted middle of-South-Saxons and of-West-Saxons is sea between set þreora mila brad, se is gecegd Soluente. In þæm sá beoð of-three miles broad which is called Solent In the sea are twegen sáflódas, þa ðe ymb Breotone of þæm ungeendedan two sea-floods those which about Britain from the endless norðgarsecge becomað ⁊ astigað: ⁊ dæghwamlice him north-ocean come and rise and daily them between feohtende ongen cumað, ⁊ geendade þy compe in between fighting against come and ended the conflict into þone sá eft togotene hweorfað, þonon heo ær cwomon. the sea again poured-out return whence they before came

Hearing that the church of Constantinople was troubled by heresy, Theodore gathered the bishops at Hatfield and set down their faith. The synod's record, dated by the reigns of four English kings, confesses the Trinity, receives the five councils of Nicaea, Constantinople, Ephesus, Chalcedon, and Constantinople again, with the synod held at Rome under Pope Martin, and condemns those the fathers condemned.

Bissum tidum gehyrde Theodor biscop þone geleafan þære 310.3

In-these times heard Theodore bishop the faith of-the cirican Constantinopoli þurh gedwolan Euticetis swiðe gedrefde church Constantinople through heresy of-Eutyches greatly troubled beon. Ond he ða wilnade, þæt he Ongolþeode cirican, þæm be And he then desired that he of-Engliſh-nation church which he ða fore wæs, from þisses gemetes woole clæne awunade.

he then over was from of-this sort pestilence clean kept

Ond gesomnedum þreate árwyrdra biscopa 7 monigra lareowa

And gathered troop of-venerable bishops and of-many teachers on syndrige frægn 7 ascode, hwylces geleafan heo wæren; in severally asked and inquired of-what faith they were ond mid anmodre gepafunge ealra heo on rehtum geleafan and with unanimous consent of-all them in right faith gemette. 7 þeosne geleafan he gemde bebeodan 7 gefæstnian found and this faith he cared commend and make-fast mid seonodlecum stafum to intimbernesse 7 to gemynde with synodal letters for instruction and for memory þara æfterfylgendra. Para stafa 7 gewrites is þes fruma.

of-the successors Of-the letters and writing is this beginning

In nomine Dni nri Ihū Xri Saluatoris: in noman usses 310.13

In name of-Lord our Jesus Christ Savior in name of-our Drihtnes Hælendes Cristes, ricsiendum ussum þam árfæstan

Lord Savior Christ reigning our the pious hlafordum Ecgfrīðe Norðanhymbra cyninge þy tegðan gere lords Ecgfrith of-Northumbrians king in-the tenth year his rīces, under þām fitegðan dæge Kalendarum Octobris, of-his reign under the fifteenth day of-the-Kalends October þy eahteðan indictione, ond Æðelrede Mercna cyninge in-the eighth indiction and Æthelred of-Mercians king þy syxtan geara his riices, 7 Ealdulfe Eastengla cyninge in-the sixth year of-his reign and Ealdwulf of-East-Angles king þy seofonteogedān geara his rices, ond Hlothere Contwara in-the seventeenth year of-his reign and Hlothhere of-Kent cyninge his rices þy seofedān gear; foresittendum Theodore king of-his reign in-the seventh year presiding Theodore mid Godes gife ærcebiſcope Breotone ealondes 7 Contwara with of-God grace archbishop of-Britain island and of-Kent burge ceastre; ætgædre mid hine sittendum oðrum biſcopum borough city together with him sitting other bishops Breotone ealondes árwyrdum werum; ond foregesettum þām of-Britain island venerable men and set-before the swiðe halgum godspellum in þære stowe, þe is nemned very holy gospels in the place which is named Hæðfeld; ætgædre we wæron smeagende rehtne geleafan 7 Hatfield together we were considering right faith and rehtwuldriende. We asetton, swa swa usser Drihten Hælende right-glorifying We set-forth so as our Lord Savior Crist in menniscum lichoman sealde his discipulum, ða ðe Christ in human body gave to-his disciples those who hine ondweardlice geseƿon 7 gehyrdon his word. Ond he him in-person saw and heard his words And he sealde haligra fædra herebeacen, id est Credo; ond gemænlice gave of-holy fathers ensign that is Creed and in-common ealle halige 7 ealle seonoðas 7 ealle þreat gecorenra all saints and all synods and all troop of-chosen lareowa þære rehtgelefdan cirican. Ðas we seondon arfæstlice teachers of-the orthodox church These we are piously fylgende 7 rihtwuldriende; æfter heora lāre þa ðe wæron following and right-glorifying after their teaching those who were godcundlice inbryrde, geþwærelice we gelyfað ondettende.

divinely inspired harmoniously we believe confessing

Ond we ondettað æfter halgum fædrum swæslice 7 soðlice, 312.2

And we confess after holy fathers properly and truly

Fæder 7 Sunu 7 Haligne Gast, Þrignisse in Annisse

Father and Son and Holy Spirit Trinity in Unity efenspedelice, ond Annesse in þære Þrignesse, þæt is ænne consubstantial and Unity in the Trinity that is one

God in þreom astondnessum oðþo hadum efenspedelecum

God in three subsistences or persons consubstantial efenlices wuldres 7 aære. Ond þisses gemetes men æfter of-equal glory and honor And of-this sort men afterward setton 7 spræcon, þa ðe belumpon to ondetnesse rihtes set and spoke those which belonged to confession of-right geleafan. 7 þas swelce eac toætecte se halga seonoð faith and these likewise also added the holy synod his stafum: We onfengon þa halgan fíf seonoðas 7 þa to-its letters We received the holy five synods and the rehtgelefdan eadigra fædra 7 Gode ondfengra: þæt is ða orthodox of-blessed fathers and to-God acceptable that is those ðe in Nicena gesomnade wæron, þreo hund biscopa 7 which in Nicaea gathered were three hundred bishops and eahtatýne wið þæm arleasum Arreum eretici 7 his lāre; eighteen against the impious Arius heretic and his teaching ond in Constantinopoli wæron gesomnade hundteontig 7 and in Constantinople were gathered hundred and fiftig biscopa wið wedenheortnisse Macedones 7 Eodoxæ fifty bishops against madness of-Macedonius and of-Eudoxius

7 heora lare; ond in Efessum tu hundteontig biscopa wið and their teaching and in Ephesus two hundred bishops against þone wyrrestan Nestorium 7 his lare; ond in Calcidone the worst Nestorius and his teaching and in Chalcedon syx hund biscopa 7 þritig wið Eotycem 7 Nestorium six hundred bishops and thirty against Eutyches and Nestorius 7 his lare; ond eft in Constantinopoli se fifta seonoð and his teaching and again in Constantinople the fifth synod wæs gesomnad, in Iustinianes tide þæs geongran caseres, was gathered in of-Justinian time of-the younger emperor wið Peodorum 7 Theodoreti 7 Iiba þæm ereticum 7 against Theodore and Theodoret and Ibas the heretics and heora lárum. Ond we onfengon eac þone seonoð, se wæs their teachings And we received also the synod which was geworden in Rome byrig in Martinus tíide þæs eadgan papan, held in of-Rome city in of-Martin time of-the blessed pope þy nigoðan gere Constantines ríce þæs arfæstan caseres. in-the ninth year of-Constantine reign of-the pious emperor 312.22 Ond we wuldriað usserne Drihten Hælendne Crist, swa swa And we glorify our Lord Savior Christ so as þas wuldredon, noht toætecende oðþe onweg ateonde þæs these glorified nothing adding or away taking of-that þe heo wuldredon. Ond we ámænsumiað mid heortum which they glorified And we anathematize with hearts 7 mid muðe, þa ðe heo amænsumedan: ond þa ðe and with mouth those whom they anathematized and those whom heo onfengon, we eac swelce onfoð, wuldriende God Fæder they received we also likewise receive glorifying God Father butan fruman, 7 his Sunu þone acennedan of Fæder, without beginning and his Son the begotten of Father acennedne ær worulde, 7 Haligne Gast forðleorendne of begotten before world and Holy Spirit proceeding from Fæder 7 Suna unasecgendlice, swa swa þa bodedon 7 Father and Son ineffably so as those preached and lærdon, þa ðe we bufan gemyndgodon, þa halgan apostole taught those whom we above mentioned the holy apostles 7 witgan 7 lareowas. Ond we ealle mid Cristes rōde and prophets and teachers And we all with of-Christ rood tacne fæstnodon 7 underwreoton, we þa ðe asetton þone token fastened and underwrote we those who set-forth the allican geleafan 7 þone rihtan mid Theodore ærcebiscope. catholic faith and the right with Theodore archbishop

XX · JOHN THE ARCH-CHANTER

John, arch-chanter of Saint Peter's, came with Benedict at Pope Agatho's command to teach Rome's chant at Wearmouth and to learn the English church's faith. He taught the singers by voice and set the year's chant in a book still kept there. Taking the synod's record to Rome, he died soon after crossing the sea and was buried at Tours; the record reached Rome and was welcomed.

Wæs eac swylce in þæm seonoðe, 7 ætgædre trymede þa 314.1 Was also likewise in the synod and together confirmed the domas þæs ilcan geleafan se arwyrða wer Iohannes, Scē decrees of-the same faith the venerable man John of-Saint Petre cirican þæs apostolis heahsongere 7 abbud Scē Peter church of-the apostle arch-chanter and abbot of-Saint Martines mynstres, se neowan cwom from Rome þurh hæse Martin monastery who newly came from Rome through bidding Agothones þæs papan. Wæs him latteow se arwyrða abbud, of-Agatho the pope Was to-him leader the venerable abbot þe mon heht Benedictus. Mid þy se ilca Benedictus mynster whom one called Benedict With that the same Benedict monastery getimbrode in Breotone in áre Scē Petres þæs aldorapostoles built in Britain in honor of-Saint Peter the chief-apostle in þære stowe, þe mon hateð Æt Wiramupan, þa cwom he in the place which one calls At Wearmouth then came he to Roome mid his efnwyrhtan 7 geferan þæs ilcan weorces to Rome with his fellow-worker and companion of-the same work Ceolferð, se æfter him þæs ilcan mynstres abbud wæs. Wæs Ceolfrith who after him of-the same monastery abbot was Was his gewuna, þæt he eac oft ær on þære fóre wæs. Ond he his custom that he also often before on the journey was And he arwyrðlice from þære eadgan gemynde Agothones þæs papan reverently by the blessed memory of-Agatbo the pope onfongen wæs. Ond he bæd 7 onfeng in trymnesse þæs received was And he asked and received in confirmation of-the mynstres freodómes from him, þe he geworhte, priuilegium monastery freedom from him which he made privilege of þære apostolican aldorlicnesse getrymede, æfter þon from the apostolic authority confirmed after that þe he wisse þæt Ecgfrifes willa wæs þæs cyninges ond that he knew that of-Ecgfrith will was of-the king and his leafnes wæs. Forþon þe him þa londare forgeaf 7 his leave was Because that to-him the land-possession gave and sealde, þe he þæt mynster on getimbrade. Ða onfeng he granted which he the monastery on built Then received he eac þone foresprecenan abbud Iohannem 7 in Breotone also the aforesaid abbot John and into Britain gelædde, þæt he sceolde in his mynstre þone song læran led that he should in his monastery the song teach to twelf monþum, þe he æt Scē Petre geleornade. for twelve months which he at Saint Peter learned

Ða dyde he Iohannes, swa þæs pápan bebod wæs; 314.19 Then did he John as of-the pope command was endebyrdnesse 7 þeaw þæs songes cwicre stæfne þæs order and custom of-the song with-living voice of-the foresprecenan mynstres sangeras lærde; 7 þa þe se hring aforesaid monastery singers taught and those which the circle ealles geares in weorðunge symbeldaga abædde, eac swilce of-all year in celebration of-feast-days required also likewise stafum awrát 7 on béc gesette, seo in þam ilcan mynstre with-letters wrote and in book set which in the same monastery oð þis is gehealden, ond from monegum siððan oft until this is held and by many since often gehwider emb writen wæs. everywhere about written was Swylce he Iohannes eac oðer bebod from þæm apostolican 314.26 Likewise he John also other command from the apostolic pápan onfeng, þæt he þæt sceolde geornlice gewitan 7 pope received that he that should earnestly know and geleornian, hwylces geleafan Ongolcynnes cirice wære, 7 him learn of-what faith of-English-race church were and to-him þæt gesægde, þonne he eft to Rome hwurfe. For þære wisan that said when he again to Rome returned For that reason wæs se seonod gesomnad in Breotone, þe we ær sægdon. was the synod gathered in Britain which we before said 7 þa wæs gemeted in eallum ungewemmed geleafa 7 riht; and then was found in all unblemished faith and right ond him wæs seald seo bysen on gewrite þæs seonodes, and to-him was given the copy in writing of-the synod þæt he sceolde to Róme lædan. Ða he þa wæs to his that he should to Rome bring When he then was to his ylde hweorfende, þa æfter medmiclum fæce þæs þe he sá people returning then after brief space after-that that he sea oferfaren hæfde, þa wæs he gehrinen mid untrymnesse 7 crossed had then was he touched with infirmity and forðferde. 7 his lichoma from his freondum 7 for Scē departed and his body by his friends and for of-Saint Martines lufan wæs to Turnan gelæded, 7 þær arwyrðlice Martin love was to Tours brought and there reverently bebyrged in þæm mynstre, þe he fore wæs in abbuddome. buried in the monastery which he over was in abbacy Ond þeah þe he in þam siðfæte forðferde, nohte þon læs And though that he on the journey departed not-at-all the less seo bysen þæs rihtan geleafan Ongelciran to Róme gelæded the copy of-the right faith of-English-church to Rome brought wæs, ond from þæm apostolican pápan 7 allum, þe þe was and by the apostolic pope and all those who hine gehyrdon oðþe reordan, þancwyrðlice wæs onfongen. it heard or read thankfully was received

XXI · ÆTHELTHRYTH

Æthelbryth, daughter of the East Anglian king Anna, stayed a virgin through two marriages, as Wilfrid testified, and at last left Ecgfrith to become a nun and then abbess of Ely. She wore wool, rarely bathed, and seldom ate more than once a day. Sixteen years after her death her sister Seaxburh had her bones raised; the body was found uncorrupted, a surgeon's incision healed, and a coffin from Grantchester fitted it exactly.

- 316.9 Onfeng Ecgfrith se cyning gemæccan 7 wif, þære noma wæs Received Ecgfrith the king consort and wife whose name was Æðeldryð, Annan dohtor Eastengla cyninges, þæs we oft ær Æthelbryth of-Anna daughter of-East-Angles king whom we often before gemyndgodon. Wæs se mon god 7 æfest, 7 þurh eal ge mentioned Was the man good and pious and through all both ón móde ge on dædum æðele. Brohte heo ær oðer wer him in mind and in deeds noble Brought her before other man him to wífe Suðgyrwa aldormon, þæs noma wæs Tondberht; ac to wife of-South-Gyrwe ealdorman whose name was Tondberht but æfter medmiclum fæce, þæs þe he hy to wífe onfeng, he after brief space after-that that he her to wife received he forðferde. Ða wæs heo seald 7 forgifen þam foresprecenan departed Then was she given and granted to-the aforesaid cyninge. Þæs gemanan myd þy heo wæs twelf winter brucende, king That marriage with that she was twelve winters enjoying hwæðre heo mid ecre onwalhnesse mægðhades wuldorlice yet she with eternal integrity of-maidenhood gloriously áwunade; swa swa me seolfum frinendum, mid þy sumum remained so as to-me self asking with that to-some monnum cwom in tweon hwæðer hit swa wære, þa þære men came in doubt whether it so were then of-the eadgan gemynde Wilferþ biscop sægde; 7 cwæð, þæt he wære blessed memory Wilfrid bishop said and said that he were se cuðesta geweota hire clænnisse 7 hire mægðhades, to ðon the surest witness of-her chastity and of-her maidenhood to that þætte Ecgfríð se cyning him geheht ge lond ge micel feoh that Ecgfrith the king to-him promised both land and great money to gesyllenne, gif he ða cwene gesponan 7 gelæran meahte, to give if he the queen entice and persuade could þæt heo brucan wolde his gesynscypes; forþon he geara that she enjoy would his marriage because he well wiste þæt heo nænigne wæpnedmon ma lufade þonne hine. knew that she no male more loved than him Nis þæt to geórtrywanne, þæt in usse eldo þæt beon meahte, 316.26 Not-is that to doubt that in our age that be could þætte forðgongendre eldo oft geworden getreow spell cyðað that in-former age often happened true stories make-known ȝ secgað, þurh anes Drihtnes gife ȝ þæs ilcan, se ðe hine and say through of-one Lord grace and of-the same he who himself gehatende wæs mid us eac wunian aa oð weorulde ende. promising was with us also dwell ever until of-world end Wæs eac swelce þæs godcundan wundres sweetol tacnung, Was also likewise of-the divine wonder clear token þæt þære ilcan fæmnan lichoma bebyrged brosnian ne meahte, that of-the same maiden body buried decay not could þæt heo from werlicre hrinenesse ungewemmed áwunade. Bæd that she from male touch undefiled remained Asked heo swiðe longe þone cyning, þæt heo moste weoruldsorge she very long the king that she might world-care ȝ gemænne forlætan, ȝ heo forlete in mynstre þæm and care leave and her (be)-let in monastery to-the soðan cyninge Criste þeowian. Þæt heo þa æt nehstan ma true king Christ serve That she then at last more þurhteah, ða eode heo in Æbban mynster þære abbudissan, achieved then went she into of-Æbbe monastery of-the abbess seo wæs Ecgfriðes fāðe þæs cyninges; þæt is geseted in who was of-Ecgfrith aunt of-the king that is set in þære stowe, þe mon nemneð Coludis byrig. ȝ heo þær the place which one names Coldingham — and she there haligrefste onfeng ȝ Godes þeowhade from þæm foresprecenan boly-veil received and of-God service from the aforesaid biscope Wilferðe. Ða wæs emb an ger æfter þissum þæt bishop Wilfrid Then was about one year after this that heo wæs abbudisse geworden, in þæm þeodlonde þe is she was abbess become in the district which is geceged Elige, þær heo mynster getimbrode Gode wilsumra called Ely where she monastery built to-God of-devoted fæmnena. 7 heo fæmne monigra modor ongon beon, ge maidens and she maiden of-many mother began be both mid bysenum heofonlices lifes ge eac mid monungum.

with examples of-heavenly life and also with admonitions

Secgað men be hire, seoðþan heo mynster gesohte, þæt Say men about her since she monastery sought that heo næfre linnum hræglum brucan wolde ac wyllenum.

she never linen garments use would but woolen Ond seldon in hatum baðum heo baðian wolde, buton

And seldom in hot baths she bathe would except þam hyhstan symbelnessum 7 tidum æt Eastran 7 æt the highest festivals and times at Easter and at Pentecosten 7 þy twelftan dege ofer Geochol. 7 þonne Pentecost and on-the twelfth day after Yule and when heo ærest þurh hire þegnunge 7 hire þinenna þa oðre she first through her ministry and of-her handmaids the other Cristes þeowas, þa ðe þær wæron, † onþwegne, þonne of-Christ servants those who there were (corrupt) washed then wolde heo ealra nyhst hy baþian 7 þwean. 7 seldon, would she of-all last herself bathe and wash and seldom buton maran symbelnessum 7 tidum oðþe maran nydþearfe, except greater festivals and times or greater necessity má þonne æne siðe on dæge þæt heo wolde mete þycgan. 7 more than once time in day that she would food take and symle, gif hire hefigre untrymnesse ne bewere, of þære tide ever if her heavier infirmity not prevented from the time uhtsanges oð hluttorne dæg in cirican in halgum gebedum of-matins until clear day in church in holy prayers stod. Sume men eac swylce sægdon, þæt heo þurh witedomes stood Some men also likewise said that she through of-prophecy gast þa adle forecwæde, þe heo on forðferde; ond swelce spirit the disease foretold which she of departed and likewise eac þara Godes þeawa rim, þa ðe of heora mynstre of also of-the of-God servants number those who from their monastery from middangearde wæron to geleorenne, þæt heo sweotolice eallum middle-earth were to pass that she clearly to-all cyððe. Ða geleorde heo to Drihtne on middum hire hiwum made-known Then passed she to Lord in midst of-her household æfter seofon gearum, þæs þe heo abbudessan had onfeng. after seven years after-that that she of-abbess order received 318.30 Ond þa, gelice swa swa heo bebead, nales in oðre stówe And then likewise so as she commanded not-at-all in other place butan in middum hire hiwum æfter endebyrdnesse, þe heo but in midst of-her household after order that she geleorde, in treowenre þryh wæs bebyrged.

318.14

passed in wooden coffin was buried 318.33 Ða feng after hire in þa þegnunge abbudissan Seaxburh Then succeeded after her in the office of-abbess Seaxurb hire sweostor, þa hæfde to wife Ærconbyrht Contwara her sister whom had to wife Eorcenberht of-Kent cyning. Ond mid þy Æðeldryð wæs syxtyne gear bebyrged, king And with that Æthelthryth was sixteen years buried þa licode þære abbudissan hire mægan, þæt heo hire ban up then pleased to-the abbess her kinswoman that she her bones up adyde 7 in neowe þruh gesette 7 in circan gedyde. Ða took and in new coffin set and into church put Then heht heo sume broðor faran 7 þone stán secan, þæt mon commanded she some brothers go and the stone seek that one meahte þa ðruh of geheawan 7 gewyrca. Ða eodon heo might the coffin from hew and make Then went they in scíp, forþon Elia lond is æghwonan mid wætrum 7 mid into ship because of-Ely land is on-every-side with waters and with fenum ymbseald, ne hit micle stánas hafað. Ða cwomon fens surrounded nor it great stones has Then came heo to sumre ceastre gehrorenre noht feor þonon, seo is on they to a city fallen not far thence which is in Englisc Grantacester geceged. 7 heo sona gemetton bi þære English Grantchester called and they at-once found by of-the ceastre wallum þruh of hwitum stáne fægere geworhte, 7 city walls coffin of white stone fairly wrought and seo wæs swilce eac gerisenlice gehleodad mid gelice stane. Pa it was likewise also fittingly lidded with like stone Then ongeton heo sona, þæt heora ærende wæs 7 heora siðfæt perceived they at-once that their errand was and their journey from Drihtne seolfum gehradod 7 gesyndgad; 7 heo þæs by Lord self sped and prospered and they of-that Gode þanc sægdon, 7 þa þruh to þæm mynstre gelæddon. to-God thanks said and the coffin to the monastery brought Mid þy þa se lichoma þære halgan fæmnan 7 þære Cristes 320.14 With that then the body of-the holy maiden and of-the of-Christ brýde openre þære byrgenne wæs forð on leoht gelæded, þa bride with-opened the tomb was forth into light brought then wæs he gemeted swa ungebrosnad 7 swa ungewemmed, swa was it found so uncorrupted and so undefiled as heo þy ylcan dæge forðfered 7 bebyrged wære; swa swa se she on-the same day departed and buried were so as the foresprecena biscop Wilferð 7 monige oðre, þa ðe hit cuðon, aforesaid bishop Wilfrid and many others those who it knew cyðdon 7 sægdon; ac hwæðre cuðran gewitnesse Cyneferð made-known and said but however of-surer witness Cynefrith læce, se æt hire wæs, þa heo forðferde 7 eft þa hire physician who at her was when she departed and again when her lichoman mon of byrgenne uphof. Wæs his gewuna þæt he body one from tomb up-lifted Was his custom that he sægde, þa heo untrumu wæs, þæt heo hæfde micelne swile said when she sick was that she had great swelling on hire sweoran. Ða heht me mon, cwæð he, þæt ic þone on her neck Then commanded me one said he that I the swile gesticade, þætte seo sceðþende wæte ut fleowe, seo þær swelling lanced that the harmful moisture out flowed which there in wæs. Mid þy ic þæt þa dyde, þa wæs heo gesegen þurh in was With that I that then did then was she seen through twegen dagas, þæt hire leohtor 7 wel wære, swa þætte monige two days that to-her lighter and well were so that many tealdon, þæt heo gehæled beon meahte from þære untrymnesse. reckoned that she healed be could from the infirmity

Ða þy þridan dæge heo wæs eft hefigad mid þæm ærrum Then on-the third day she was again burdened with the former sarum, 7 sona wæs gerisen 7 genumen of middangearde, pains and at-once was seized and taken from middle-earth 7 eal þæt sár 7 þone deað mid ecre hælo 7 liife onwænde. and all the pain and the death with eternal health and life exchanged 320.30

Mid þy þa æfter swa monegum gearum hire lichoma wæs With that then after so many years her body was of byrgenne up ahæfen, þa aþenedon heo 7 aslōgon geteld from tomb up raised then stretched they and pitched tent ófer, 7 eal seo gesomnung broðra 7 sweostra on twa healfe over and all the congregation of-brothers and sisters on two sides singende ymbstodon. Ond seo abbudisse in þæt geteld eode singing stood-around And the abbess into the tent went 7 fea monna mid heo, þæt heo þa bân woldon up adon 7 and few of-men with her that they the bones would up take and inþwean 7 gefeormian æfter monna gewunan. Ða semninga wash and cleanse after of-men custom Then suddenly gehyrdon we þa abbudissan inne hludre stefne cleopian: Seo heard we the abbess inside with-loud voice call Let-be wuldor, cwæð heo, Drihtnes noman. Ða æfter medmiclum fæce glory said she of-Lord to-name Then after brief space þa cleopode me mon 7 cegde in. Onwreogon þa duru þæs then called me one and summoned in Uncovered then door of-the geteldes; þa geseah ic lichoman þære halgan Godes fæmnan tent then saw I body of-the holy of-God maiden up ahēfenne of byrgenne 7 on bedde gesetedne: 7 wæs up raised from tomb and on bed set and was slæpendum men gelicra þonne deadum. Ða onwreogon heo eac to-sleeping man more-like than to-dead Then uncovered they also hire ondwilitan 7 eowdon me ða wunde þæs snides, þe ic her countenance and showed me the wound of-the incision which I geo ær dyde. Ða wæs heo fæstlice gehalad, þætte wundorlice formerly before made Then was it firmly healed that in-wondrous gemete for openre wunde 7 geoniendre, mid þa heo bebyrged manner for open wound and gaping with which she buried wæs, þa seo þynneste dolgswæð 7 seo læsseste æteawde; ge was then the thinnest scar and the least appeared and eac ealle þa scytan, þe se lichoma mid bewunden wæs, swa also all the sheets which the body with wound was so onwalge 7 swa neowe 7 swa clæne æteawdon, swa swa þy whole and so new and so clean appeared so as on-the seolfan dæge hire þam clænum leomum ymbseald wæron. same day her to-the clean limbs put-around were Secgað eac men, þa heo þrycced wæs 7 swenced mid swile 322.15 Say also men when she pressed was and afflicted with swelling 7 sare hire swiran, þæt heo wære swiðe lustfulliende þisse and pain of-her neck that she were greatly delighting of-this untrymnesse cynne, 7 heo gewunalice cwæde oft: Ic wat infirmity in-kind and she customarily said often I know cuðlice, þæt ic be gewyrhtum on minum sweoran bere þa certainly that I by deserts on my neck bear the byrðenne þisse aðle 7 þisse untrymnesse, in þam ic gemon burden of-this disease and of-this infirmity in which I remember mec geo beran, þa ic geong wæs, þa iidlan byrðenne me formerly bear when I young was the idle burden gyldenra sigila. Ond ic gelyfo, þætte me forðon seo uplice of-golden necklaces And I believe that me therefore the upper arfæstnis wolde mec hefigade beon mid sære mines sweoran, mercy would me burdened be with pain of-my neck þæt ic swa wære onlesed þære scylde þære swiðe idlan that I so were released of-the guilt of-the very idle leasnisse, mid þy me nu for gólde 7 for gimum of vanity with that to-me now for gold and for gems from swiran forðhlifað seo readnis 7 bryne þæs swiles 7 wærce. neck stands-forth the redness and burning of-the swelling and ache 322.25 Hwæt þa gelomp mid þa gehrinenisse þara ilcena gegyrelena, Lo then happened with the touching of-the same garments þe mon of hire lichoman dyde, þætte deofulseoce men 7 which one from her body took that devil-sick men and monige oðerre untrymnesse oft gehælde wæron. Swelce eac seo many of-other infirmity often healed were Likewise also the þrúh, in þære heo ærest bebyrged wæs, monegum monna, þe coffin in which she first buried was to-many of-men who heora eagan sárgedon 7 hefigodon, wearð to hælo, þonne heo their eyes ached and grew-heavy became for health when they heora heafod 7 heora eagan to onheldon 7 him to gebædon: their head and their eyes to inclined and it to prayed 7 sona seo ungescrepnes þæs sares 7 þære hefignesse from and at-once the discomfort of-the pain and of-the heaviness from heora eagan gewat. Ono hwæt heo þa þwogon 7 baðodon their eyes departed Lo what they then washed and bathed þone lichoman þære halgan fæmnan, 7 mid neowum hræglum the body of-the holy maiden and with new garments gegyredon 7 in cirican bæron 7 in þa stænenan þruh clothed and into church bore and into the stone coffin gesetton, þe ðyder gelæded wæs; 7 þær nu gena oð þisne set which thither brought was and there now yet until this ondweardan dæg in micelre arwyrdnesse is hæfd. Wæs þæt eac present day in great reverence is held Was that also micel wundor, þæt seo þruh wæs swa gescrepe þære fæmnan great wonder that the coffin was so fitting of-the maiden lichoman gemeted, swa swa heo synderlice hire gegearwad to-body found so as it specially for-her prepared wære. Swelce eac seo heafodstow wundorcræftiglice geworht 7 were Likewise also the head-place wondrously wrought and gescrepelice geheowod æteowde to þam gemete hire heafdes. fittingly hewn appeared to the measure of-her head Is Elia lond in Eastengla mægðe huhugu syx hund hida in 324.6 Is of-Ely land in of-East-Angles province roughly six hundred hides in ealondes gelicnesse. Is eal, swa swa we cwædon, mid fenne of-island likeness Is all so as we said with fen 7 mid wætre ymb-sald: ond mid genihtsumnesse ælo, þa and with water surrounded and from abundance of-eels those ðe in þæm ilcan fennum fongne beoð, hit noman onfeng. which in the same fens caught are it name received Þær wilnode mynster habban seo gemyndgode Cristes þeowe, There desired monastery have the mentioned of-Christ servant forðon heo of þære ylcan mægðe Eastengla lichoman because she from the same province of-East-Angles of-body frympe lædde, swa swa we foresprecende wæron. origin drew so as we speaking-before were

In Ecgfrith's ninth year he fought Æthelred of Mercia by the Trent, and Ecgfrith's brother Ælfwine, a young man loved by both peoples, was killed. Theodore stepped in before the feud could grow, and brought the kings to peace with a payment instead of further bloodshed; the peace lasted long.

324.13 Py nigoðan geara Ecgfrīðes rices þæs cyninges wæs geþeoded In-the ninth year of-Ecgfrith reign of-the king was joined ȝ ongunnen hefig gewinn ȝ micel gefeoht between hine ȝ and begun heavy war and great battle between him and Æþelred Mercna cyning. Þa wæs ofslegen in þæm gefeohte Æthelred of-Mercians king Then was slain in the battle be Treontan þære ea Ælfwine Ecgfrīðes broðor þæs cyninges, by Trent the river Ælfwine of-Ecgfrith brother of-the king geong æðeling eahtatnewintre. Se wæs swiðe lufiendlic ȝ leof young prince eighteen-winters-old He was very lovable and dear æghwæðerre þeode, forðon þe his sweostor, seo wæs Osþryð to-each nation because that his sister who was Ostbryth haten, hæfde Æðelred Mercna cyning him to wīfe. Mid þy þa called had Æthelred of-Mercians king him to wife With that then grimran gefeohtes ȝ lengran feondscipes ontimber between of-grimmer battle and of-longer enmity matter between þa reðan cyningas ȝ þa folc wæs gesegen up cumende, þa the fierce kings and the folks was seen up coming then ðeodor Gode se leofa biscop mid godcunde gife ȝ fultume Theodore to-God the dear bishop with divine grace and help mid his halwendre trymenesse ȝ lare þa ongunnon bernisse with his salutary exhortation and teaching the begun fire swa micelre frecennisse allinga adwæscte, to ðon þæt he of-so great danger altogether quenched to that that he gesibbode þa cyningas betweohn 7 þa folc, þætte næniges reconciled the kings between and the folks that of-no monnes feorh to lose wearð, ne mara blodgyte wæs for þæm man life to loss became nor more bloodshed was for the ofslegenan cyninges breðer; ac he mid fea wið hine geþingade, slain of-king brother but he with money with him settled þæt heora sib wæs. Ðære sibbe wære micelre tide æfter that their peace was Of-the peace covenant for-great time after ðon betweoh þa ilcan cyningas 7 heora ríce awunedon. that between the same kings and their kingdoms remained

XXIII · IMMA'S BONDS

In that battle the young thane Imma was left for dead, captured, and passed himself off as a poor peasant. Whenever he was bound his bonds fell off, because his brother Tunna, thinking him dead, was saying masses for his soul. His captor, discovering he was a king's thane, spared him and sold him to a Frisian in London, whose fetters also failed. Ransomed through Hlothhere of Kent, Imma went home and learned the cause.

In þæm foresprecenan gefeohte, þa Ælfwine þæs cyninges 326.1 In the aforesaid battle when Ælfwine of-the king broðor ofslegen wæs, wæs sum gemyndelic wise geworden, brother slain was was a memorable thing done seo nis to forswigienne, ac heo brycað monigra hælo, gif which not-is to pass-over-in-silence but it profits of-many salvation if heo asægd bið. Wæs þær ofslegen in þæm gefeohte betweoh it told is Was there slain in the battle among oðere sum geong cyninges þegn Ecgfrīðes, þæs noma wæs others a young of-king thane of-Ecgfrith whose name was Imma. Mid þy he þa þy dæge ond þære æfterfylgendan Imma With that he then on-the day and on-the following nihte betweoh þara oðerra ofslegenra [líc] geliic deadum night among of-the other slain bodies like to-dead læg, ða æt nyhstan onfeng he gaste 7 wearð geedwerped lay then at last received he spirit and was restored 7 up asæt 7 seolfa his wunde wrað, swa swa he meahte. and up sat and self his wounds bound so as he could Ond æfter þon he hine gereste medmicel fæc, ða ahof hine And after that he himself rested brief space then raised himself up 7 ongan aweg gan, gif he hwær ænigne freond metan up and began away go if he anywhere any friend meet meahte, þe his gymenne dyde 7 his wunda læcnian wolde. could who of-him care did and his wounds heal would Ða he ða þæt dyde, þa wæs he gemeted 7 genumen from When he then that did then was he found and taken by þæm monnum þæs feondlecan weorodes; 7 þa læddon hine the men of-the hostile host and they led him to heora hlaforde, þæt wæs Æðelredes gesið þæs cyninges. to their lord that was of-Æthelred gesith of-the king Ða frægn hine se, hwæt he wære, þa ondred he ondettan, Then asked him he what he were then feared he confess þæt he cyninges þegn wære, ac sæde, þæt he folclíc mon that he of-king thane were but said that he common man wære 7 þearfende 7 gewiifad hæfde; 7 þætte he forðon were and needy and married had and that he therefore in þa fyrð cwome, þæt he sceolde cyninges þegnum heora into the army came that he should of-king to-thanes their ondlifen 7 mete lædan mid heora heafodgemæccum. sustenance and food bring with their head-companions 326.19 Ða onfeng se gesið hine 7 his gýman dyde 7 his Then received the gesith him and of-him care did and his wunde het læcnian. Ða he ða ongon trumian 7 wounds commanded heal When he then began grow-strong and haligan, þa bebead he þæt hine mon gebunde, þy læs he heal then commanded he that him one bound the less he on niht onweg fluge 7 bestæle. Ða ne meahte hine mon in night away fled and stole-away Then not could him one gebindan; forðon sona þæs þe heo onweg eodon, þa ðe bind because soon that that they away went those who hine bundon, þonne toslupon ða bendas 7 tolesde wæron. him bound then slipped-apart the bonds and loosed were Hæfde he agenne broðor mæssepreost, þæs noma wæs Tuna, 326.25 Had he own brother masspriest whose name was Tunna se wæs abbud in þæm mynstre 7 in þære ceastre, seo nu who was abbot in the monastery and in the city which now oð þis is nemned from his noman Tunnanceaster. Mid þy until this is named from his name Tunnacaster With that he hine hyrde in þæm gefeohte ofslegenne, þa cwom he 7 he him heard in the battle slain then came he and sohte in þæm wæle his líc, hwæðer he hit findan meahte. sought in the slaughter his body whether he it find could Ða funde he oðerne þurh eal þing him þone gelicestan, Then found he another through all things to-him the likest þa tealde he þæt he hit wære. Bær hine þa to his then reckoned he that he it were Bore him then to his mynstre, 7 arlice bebyrgde: ond fore alysnese his sawle monastery and honorably buried and for release of-his soul gelomlice mæssesong dyde. Ðære mærsunge wæs geworden, frequently mass-song did By-the celebration was become þæt ic ær cwæð, þæt hine nænig mon meahte gebindan, that I before said that him no man could bind ac sona instæpe þa bendas toslupon, 7 he onlysed wæs. but at-once instantly the bonds slipped-apart and he released was 328.4 Betweenh þa þing þa eac se gesiþ, se ðe hine hæfde, ongon Among those things then also the gesiþ he who him had began wundrian ⁊ hine frignan, for hwon hine mon gebindan ne wonder and him ask for why him one bind not meahte. Ond hine ascode hwæðer he ða alysendlecan rúne could And him asked whether he the loosing runes cuðe, ⁊ þa stafas mid him awritene hæfde, be swylcum knew and the letters with him written had about such men leas spel secgað ⁊ spreocað, þæt hine mon forþon men false stories say and speak that him one therefore gebindan ne meahte. Þa ondswarede he þæt he noht bind not could Then answered he that he nothing swylcra cræfta ne cuðe. Ac ic hæbbe, cwæð he, in minre of-such crafts — knew But I have said he in my mægðe minne broðor mæssepreost; ond ic wat, þæt he mec province my brother masspriest and I know that he me ofslegene talað ⁊ for mec gelomlice mæssan deð. ⁊ gif ic slain reckons and for me frequently masses does and if I nu in oðrum life wære, þonne wære min sawl þær þurh his now in other life were then were my soul there through his þingunge from þæm écum bendum ⁊ witum onlysed. Mid intercession from the eternal bonds and torments released With þy he ða hwylce hugu tid mid þone gesið hæfd wæs, þa that he then some — time with the gesiþ held was then ongeton hy, þa hine geornlecor sceawodon, of his ondwliton perceived they who him more-earnestly observed from his countenance ⁊ on gebærum ⁊ eac swylce on his wordum, þæt he ne and in bearing and also likewise in his words that he not wæs of þearfendum folce, swa swa he sægde, ac þæt he wæs was of needy folk so as he said but that he was æðele strynde. Þa gecegde se gesið hine deagollice to him; of-noble stock Then called the gesiþ him secretly to him frægn hine þa geornlice, hwonon he wære; ond him wæs asked him then earnestly whence he were and him was gehatende, þæt he him noht laðes ne yfeles gedon wolde, promising that he to-him nothing of-harm nor of-evil do would gif he him þæt hlutturlice gecypan wolde, hwæt he wære. if he to-him that clearly make-known would what he were Þa dyde he swa: ondette him 7 sægde, þæt he wære cyninges 328.21

Then did he so confessed to-him and said that he were of-king þegn. Þa ondswarede he him 7 cwæð: Þurh syndrige þine thane Then answered he him and said Through several thy ondsware ic onget 7 oncneow, þæt þu ne wære swa folclic answers I perceived and knew that thou not wert so common mon swa ðu sægdest. Ond ic þe nu secge, þæt þu eart wið man as thou saidest And I thee now say that thou art against mec deape scyldig, forþon ealle mine broðor 7 mine magas me of-death guilty because all my brothers and my kinsmen in þæm gefeohte wæron ofslegene. Ond hwæðre ic þec ne in the battle were slain And however I thee not wille ofslean, þy læs ic min gehat 7 mine treowe forleose. will slay the less I my promise and my troth lose

Þa he fullice getrumad wæs, þa bebohte he hine in 328.28

When he fully strengthened was then sold he him in Lundenne to sumum Frysan. Þa wolde se hine bindan, ac he London to a Frisian Then would he him bind but he ne from him, ne ða he þyder læded wæs, meahte ænige þinga not by him nor when he thither led was could in-any way gebunden beon, þeah þe his feond hine onsette oðer benda bound be though that his enemy him put-on other of-bonds cyn ond eft oðer: 7 oftost his bendas toslupon 7 onlesde kind and again other and most-often his bonds slipped-apart and loosed wæron from underntide, þonne mon mæssan oftost singeð. Þa were from morning-time when one masses most-often sings Then þa ðæt þa geseah se ðe hine gebohte, þæt he mid bendum when that then saw he who him bought that he with bonds ne meahte geheaðrod beon, forgef him þa lyfnesse, þæt he not could restrained be granted him the leave that he moste mid feo hine alysan, gif he meahte. 7 he him aðas might with money himself ransom if he could and he to-him oaths sealde, þæt he hine eft gesohte oðþe his feoh him onsende.

gave that he him again sought or his money to-him sent Ða cwom he to Cent to Hlothere þam cyninge, se wæs Then came he to Kent to Hlothhere the king who was sweostor sunu Æðeldryðe þære cwene, bi þære bufan sægd of-sister son of-Æthelbryth the queen about whom above said wæs, forðon he geo þære ilcan cwene þegn wæs. Bæd hine was because he formerly of-the same queen thane was Asked him ða, þæt he him þæt weorð his alesnesse gesealde; 7 he him then that he to-him the price of-his ransom gave and he to-him getiðade, 7 his hlaforde for hine onsende, swa swa he geheht. granted and to-his lord for him sent so as he promised 330.8 7 he þa æfter þissum wæs hweorfende to his eðle; 7 and he then after this was returning to his homeland and to his breðer becwom, ond him eal æfter endebyrdnesse to his brother came and to-him all after order sægde, ge hwylce wiðerwordnesse ge eft hwylce frofre in said both what adversity and again what comfort in þam wiðerwordnissum hine becwom. Ond he gecneow þurh the adversities him came And he knew through his geseagone, þætte þam tidum swiðust þa bende onlesde his account that at-the times chiefly the bonds loosed wæron, þam þe for hine þa symbelnesse mæssena mærsode were at-which that for him the celebrations of-masses celebrated wæron. Ge eac feola oðerra gescrepa 7 gesynta, ða þe were And also many of-other benefits and prosperities those which him taltriendum gelumpon, þurh þa broðorlican þingunge to-him wavering happened through the brotherly intercession 7 þurh lác þære halwendan onsægdnesse he oncneow 7 and through gift of-the salutary sacrifice he knew and ongeat heofonlice him forgifen weosan. Ond monige men perceived heavenly to-him given be And many men þa ðe þas þing gehyrdon secgan from þæm forsprecenan those who these things heard say by the aforesaid were, wæron bærnde in geleafan 7 in arfæstnisse willan to man were kindled in faith and in of-piety desire to gebiddenne ge ælmessan to sellenne ge Gode asægdnesse to pray both alms to give and to-God sacrifice to beranne þæs halgan laces, fore generednisse heora freonda bear of-the holy offering for deliverance of-their friends þara ðe of weorulde geleordon. Forþon heo ongeton, þæt seo those who from world passed Because they perceived that the halwende onsægdnis to ecre alysnisse swiðade 7 fromade ge salutary sacrifice for eternal redemption availed and profited both lichoman ge sawle. Ðis spel me sume þara sægdon, þa ðe body and soul This story me some of-those told those who hit from þæm seolfan were gehyrdon, in þæm hit geworden it from the same man heard in whom it done wæs. Ond ic hit forþon hlutturlice 7 untweondlice gelyfde was And I it therefore clearly and undoubtingly believed þæm cyrclecan stære to geþeodenne 7 in to gesettenne. to-the churchly history to join and in to set

Hild, grandniece of King Edwin, lived thirty-three years in the world and thirty-three as a nun. Recalled by Aidan from her plan to join her sister at Chelles, she ruled Hartlepool and then founded Whitby, where no one was rich or poor and kings sought her counsel; five bishops came from her house. After six years' illness she died in 680, and the nun Begu at Hackness saw her soul carried to heaven.

330.26 Wæs ymb syx hund wintra ⁊ hundehtatig from þære Was about six hundred winters and eighty from the Drihtenlecan menniscnesse, þætte seo æfeste Cristes þeowe Lordly incarnation that the pious of-Christ servant Hild abbudisse þæs mynstres, þe is cweden Streoneshealh, Hild abbess of-the monastery which is called Whitby swa swa we beforan sægdon, æfter monegum heofonlecum so as we above said after many heavenly dædum, þe heo on eorðan dyde, to onfonne þæs heofonlecan deeds which she on earth did to receive of-the heavenly lifes méde — ond heo of eorðan alæded leorde þy life reward and she from earth led-away passed on-the fifteogepan dæge Kalendarum Decembrium, mid þy heo fifteenth day of-the-Kalends December with that she hæfde syx ⁊ syxti wintra. Pæm wintrum todældum efenlice had six and sixty winters Those winters divided in-equal dæle, þreo ⁊ þritig þæm ærestum heo æðelice gefylde in part three and thirty the first she nobly fulfilled in weoruldhade drohtiende; ond efn fela þa æfterfylgendan secular-life living and equally many the following in munuclife heo æðelicor Drihtne gehalgode. Wæs heo eac in monk-life she more-nobly to-Lord consecrated Was she also swylce æðele in woruldgebyrdum, þæt heo wæs þæs cyninges likewise noble in worldly-birth that she was of-the king Eadwines neafan dohtor, se wæs Hereric haten. Mid þy Edwin nephew daughter who was Hereric called With the cyninge he to bodunge 7 to lare þæs eadgan gemynde king he at preaching and at teaching of-the blessed memory Paulinus þæs ærestan biscopes Norþanhymbra Cristes geleafan Paulinus of-the first bishop of-Northumbrians of-Christ faith 7 geryno onfeng, 7 þone unwemne geheold, oð þæs he and mysteries received and it unblemished held until that he geearnode, þæt he to his gesihðe becwom. earned that he to his sight came

Pa heo þa Hild woruldhad forlet 7 Gode anum geteode 332.9 When she then Hild secular-life left and to-God alone determined þeowigan, þa gewat heo in Eastengla mægðe, forþon heo serve then departed she into of-East-Angles province because she wæs þæs cyninges mæge: willade þonon, gif heo meahte, was of-the king kinswoman wished thence if she could þæt heo wolde hire eðel forlætan 7 eal, þæt heo for that she would her homeland leave and all that she for worulde hæfde, 7 wolde cuman in Gallia rice 7 in Caale world had and would come into of-Gaul kingdom and in Chelles þæm mynstre in elþeodignesse fore Drihtne lifgean, þæt heo the monastery in exile for Lord live that she þy eað meahte þæt ece eðel in heofonum geearnigean. the easier might the eternal homeland in heavens earn Forþon þe in þæm ilcan mynstre hire sweostor Hereswið, Because that in the same monastery her sister Herewith seo wæs Aldwulfes modor Eastengla cyninges, regollicum who was of-Ealdwulf mother of-East-Angles king to-regular þeodscipum underþeoded in þa tid baad þone ecan sige. disciplines subjected in that time awaited the eternal victory Þær bysene heo wæs inhyrgende in foresetenesse elþeodgunge, Whose example she was imitating in purpose of-exile ȝ eal ger in þære foresprecenan mægðe Eastengla hæfd and all year in the aforesaid province of-East-Angles held wæs, oð þæt heo eft from Aidane þam biscope wæs was until that she again by Aidan the bishop was ham gelaðad ȝ gesponen. Ða onfeng heo anes heowscipes home invited and persuaded Then received she of-one household stowe to norðdæle Wiire þære ea, ȝ þær efenlice an ger place to north-part of-Wear the river and there likewise one year munuclif dyde mid feawum hire geferum. Æfter þissum heo monk-life did with few her companions After this she wæs geworden abbudisse in þam mynstre þe is geceged was become abbess in the monastery which is called Heoroteae. Ðæt mynster wæs geworden ȝ getimbred noht Hartlepool That monastery was made and built not micle ær from Hegiu þære *æfestan Cristes þeowe, seo ærest much before by Heiu the pious of-Christ servant who first wiifa is sægd in Norðanhymbra mægðe, þæt heo munuchade of-women is said in of-Northumbrians province that she monkhood ȝ haligryfte onfenge þurh halgunge Aidanes þæs biscopes. and holy-veil received through consecration of-Aidan the bishop 332.27 Ac heo nales æfter micelre tide, þæs þæ þæt mynster But she not-at-all after great time after-that that the monastery getimbred wæs, gewat to þære ceastre, þe in Englisc is gehaten built was departed to the city which in English is called Kwelcaceaster, ȝ hire wiic asette, þæt heo Gode inlifde. Ða Tadcaster and her dwelling set that she to-God lived Then feng to þæs mynstres gerece Hild seo Cristes þeowe, ȝ heo succeeded to of-the monastery government Hild the of-Christ servant and she þæt sona mid regollice life gesette ȝ geendebyrdade, swa swa it at-once with regular life set and ordered so as heo æt gelærdum wæpnedmonnum geleornian meahte. Forðon she from learned males learn could Because Aidan se biscop 7 monige oðere æfeste weras 7 gode, þa Aidan the bishop and many other pious men and good those ðe heo cuðan, for hire snytro 7 wiisdome 7 for lufan þæs who her knew for her prudence and wisdom and for love of-the godcundan þeowdomes heo gelomlice neosodon 7 sohton; divine service her frequently visited and sought 7 heo georne lufodon 7 heo eornlice tydon 7 lærdon. and her earnestly loved and her earnestly instructed and taught Mid þy heo þa feola geara þissum mynstre in regollices lifes 334.3 With that she then many years this monastery in of-regular life lare swiðe geornful fore wæs, ða gelomp, þæt heo onfeng teaching very zealous over was then happened that she undertook mynster to timbrenne 7 to endebyrdienne in stowe, seo monastery to build and to order in place which is geceged Strineshalg; 7 heo þæt weorc, þe hire þa to is called Whitby and she the work which her then to geðeoded wæs, únaswundenlice gefylde. Forþon þa seolfan, þe joined was unslothfully fulfilled Because the same who ær þæt mynster heoldon 7 rehton, heo mid þeodscipum before the monastery held and ruled she with disciplines regollices lifes insette 7 trymede; 7 heo eac swylce þær of-regular life established and strengthened and she also likewise there soðfæstnesse 7 arfæstnesse 7 clænnesse 7 oðerra gastlicra of-truth and of-piety and of-chastity and of-other spiritual mægena gehæld ond swiþost sibbe 7 Godes lufan geornlice virtues keeping and chiefly peace and of-God love earnestly lærde, þætte in bisene þære frympelecan ciricean nænig þær taught that in example of-the primitive church none there welig wæs ne nænig wædla; ac eallum wæron eal gemæno, 7 wealthy was nor any poor but to-all were all common and noht agnes ængum gesegen wæs. Wæs heo swa micelre snytro nothing of-own to-any seen was Was she of-so great prudence 7 wisdomes, þætte nales þæt án þætte þa mættran men ymb and wisdom that not-at-all that alone that the meaner men about heora nyðþearfnisse wæron, ac eac swylce cyningas 7 ealdormen their need were but also likewise kings and ealdormen oft from hire geþeaht 7 wisdom sohton, 7 hine þær georne often from her counsel and wisdom sought and it there readily gemetton. Ond heo swa swiðe leornunge godcundra gewreota found And she so greatly learning of-divine writings 7 soðfæstnisse weorcum hire underþeodde dyde to bigongenne, and of-truth works her subjects made to practice þætte þær eaðelice monige meahton beon gemette þa þe to that there easily many could be found those who for ciriclicum hade, þæt is to wigbedes þegnunge, geþungne wæron. churchly order that is for of-altar service fit were 334.21 Þæt is to tacne, þæt we gesawon æfter þon fiif biscopas, þa That is as token that we saw after that five bishops those ðe of þam ilcan mynstre cwomon 7 þær gelærde wæron: who from the same monastery came and there taught were 7 þa wæron ealle micelre leornunge 7 halignesse weras. and they were all of-great learning and holiness men Ða wæron þus hatne 7 nemde, Bosa, Ætla, Oftfor, Iohannes They were thus called and named Bosa Ætla Oftfor John 7 Wilfrið. Bi þæm ærestan we bufan cwædon, þæt he and Wilfrid About the first we above said that he wære in Eoforwicceastre to biscope gehalgad. Be þæm were in York as bishop consecrated About the æfteran is hrædllice to witanne, þæt he wæs in Dorcetceastre second is quickly to know that he was in Dorchester to biscope gehalgod. Bi þæm neahstan twæm her is æfter as bishop consecrated About the last two here is afterward to cweðanne, þæt heora se æresta wæs at Heagostealdes ea, to say that of-them the first was at Hexham — ond se æftera wæs in Eoforwicceastre to biscope gehalgad. and the second was in York as bishop consecrated Bi þæm midlestan is nu to secgenne; þa he in æghwæðerum 334.30 About the middle-most is now to say when he in each mynstre Hilde þære abbudissan geornlice his leornunge monastery of-Hild the abbess earnestly his learning ætfealh 7 gehælde haligra gewreota, þa æt nyhstan wilnade applied and keeping of-holy writings then at last desired he on his mode þa fulfremedan þing. Cwom þa to Cent he in his mind the perfect things Came then to Kent to þære eadgan gemynde Theodore ærcebiscope. Æfter þon to the blessed memory Theodore archbishop After that þe he þær sum fæc halgum leornungum gefealh, þa wolde that he there some space to-holy learnings applied then would he eac swylce Róme gesecan, þæt in þa tid wæs micles he also likewise Rome seek which in that time was of-great mægenes tald 7 gelefed. Pa he þonon eft hwearf, þa virtue counted and believed When he thence again returned then gesohte he eft Breotone: ferde þa in Hwicca mægðe. Þær sought he again Britain went then into of-Hwicce province There wæs þa Osric cyning; 7 he þær Godes word 7 þæs halgan was then Osric king and he there of-God word and of-the holy geleafan bodade 7 lærde, 7 somod ætgædre lifes bysene on faith preached and taught and at-once together of-life example in him seolfum gegearwode eallum þæm þe hine gesegon 7 him self prepared to-all those who him saw and gehyrdon: 7 he micle tide þær wunade. In þa ilcan tid se heard and he for-great time there dwelt In the same time the biscop þære mægðe, se wæs Bosel haten, wæs mid swa micle bishop of-the province who was Bosel called was with so great untrymnesse his lichoman hefigad, þæt he þa biscopþegnunge infirmity of-his body burdened that he the bishop-ministry þurh hine þegnian ne meahte. Forðon þa ealra heora through himself minister not could Therefore then of-all their dôme se foresprecena wer for hine in biscopshade wæs by-judgment the aforesaid man for him in bishopric was gecoren; ond þa þurh Æðelredes hæse Mercna cyninges þær chosen and then through of-Æthelred bidding of-Mercians king of-the eadgan gemynde Wilferð biscop hine to biscope gehalgode, blessed memory Wilfrid bishop him as bishop consecrated se in þa tid þone biscophad þegnade Midelengla.

who in that time the bishopric served of-Middle-Angles 336.14 Forþon se ærcebiscop Theodor wæs þa forðfered, 7 nænig Because the archbishop Theodore was then departed and no oðer biscop þa gena for hine gehalgad wæs. In þære ilcan other bishop then yet for him consecrated was In the same mægðe hwene ær, þæt is ær þæm foresprecenan Godes men province a-little before that is before the aforesaid of-God man Bosle, wæs of þære ilcan abbudissan mynstre sum from wer Bosel was from of-the same abbess monastery a vigorous man 7 wel gelæred 7 scearpre gleawnesse, [se] wæs to biscope and well taught and of-sharp prudence who was as bishop gecoren, þæs noma wæs Tatfrið. Ac ær þon þe he gehadad chosen whose name was Tatfrith But before that that he ordained beon meahte, þæt he wæs mid hrædlice deaðe forgripen. Ono he could that he was with sudden death seized Lo seo foresprecene Cristes þeowe Hild abbudisse — ealle, þa the aforesaid of-Christ servant Hild abbess all those þe hy cuþon, fore arfæstnisse tacne 7 Godes gife gewunedan who her knew for of-piety token and of-God grace were-wont heo módor cégean 7 nemnan. 7 nales þæt an þæt her mother call and name and not-at-all that alone that heo in hire mynstre þæm ondweardum lifes bysen gestode, she in her monastery to-the present of-life example stood ac eac swylce monegum feor wuniendum, to þæm þe se but also likewise to-many far dwelling to whom that the gesælga hlisa hire geornfulnesse ⁊ hire mægenes becwom, happy fame of-her zeal and of-her virtue came þæt him se godre ræce ⁊ hælo intingan ðegnade.

that to-them it of-good amendment and of-salvation cause served

Wæs þæt eac gedefen, þætte þæt swefn gefylled wære, þætte 336.28

Was that also fitting that the dream fulfilled were which Breogoswið hire modor geseah on hire cildhade. Ða Hereric Breguswith her mother saw in her childhood When Hereric hire wer wracade under Cerdice Bretta cyninge, ⁊ þær her husband was-in-exile under Cerdic of-Britons king and there wæs mid attre acweald, þa geseah heo þurh swefn, swa was with poison killed then saw she through dream so swa he semninga from hire ahefen ⁊ alæded wære. Ða as he suddenly from her raised and led-away were Then sohte heo hine mid ealre geornfulnesse ⁊ nænige swaðe sought she him with all zeal and no traces his owern æteowdon. Ða heo hine ða bihygdlice ⁊ of-him anywhere appeared When she him then carefully and geornlice sohte, þa gemette heo semninga under hire hrægle earnestly sought then found she suddenly under her garment gyldne sigele swiðe deorwyrðe. Ða heo þa geornlice heo golden necklace very precious When she then earnestly it sceawode ⁊ beheold, þa wæs heo gesegen mid swiðe micelre examined and beheld then was it seen with very great beorhtnesse leohtes scinan, þæt heo eal Breotene gemæro mid brightness of-light shine that it all of-Britain borders with hire leohtes sciman gefylde. Ðæt swefn wæs soðlice gefylled its of-light brightness filled That dream was truly fulfilled in hire deahter, bi þære we nu sprecað. Forþon hire lif in her daughter about whom we now speak Because her life nales hire anre 7 hire underðeoddum wæs leohtes bisen, not-at-all to-her alone and to-her subjects was of-light example ac swiðe monegum wíde þæm þe woldon Gode wel lifgean. but very to-many widely to-those who would to-God well live 338.8 Ono mid þy heo þa monig ger þyssum mynstre, þæt is æt Lo with that she then many years this monastery that is at Streonesheale, in abbudissan þegnunge fore wæs, þa licede þæm Whitby in of-abbess office over was then pleased to-the arfæstan foreseonde usse hæle hire þa halgan sawle eac swylce pious provider of-our salvation her the holy soul also likewise mid longre untrymnesse lichoman ádemde 7 asodene beon, with long infirmity of-body tried and refined be þæt æfter þæs apostoles bisene hire mægen in untrumnesse that after of-the apostle example her virtue in infirmity lichoman gefremed 7 getrymed wære. Þa wæs heo gestonden of-body perfected and strenghtened were Then was she assailed mid hefigre untrymnesse lichoman, 7 þurh syx singal ger with heavy infirmity of-body and through six continual years þære ilcan hefignesse þære adle unblinnendlice won. Ond in of-the same heaviness of-the disease unceasingly strove And in ealre þære tide heo næfre blon hire sceppende ælmehtegum all the time she never ceased to-her creator almighty Gode þoncunge don, ge eac þa bebodenan heorde hire God thanks do both also the committed flock her monian 7 læran, þæt heo ealle gemyndige wæron hire bisene, admonish and teach that they all mindful were of-her example þæt hy in þæm gesyndealecum þingum 7 in þære onfangnon that they in the prosperous things and in the received hælo lichoman geornlice Drihtne þeowde 7 hyrde, 7 on health of-body earnestly to-Lord served and obeyed and in þam wiðerweardum þingum oððe on lichoman untrymnessum the adverse things or in of-body infirmities þæt heo symle getreowlice Drihtne þoncunge dyde.

that they ever faithfully to-Lord thanks did Ða wæs þy seofodan geare hire untrymnesse, þætte seo 338.22

Then was in-the seventh year of-her infirmity that the adl 7 þæt sár hwyrðe in hyre innoðas. 7 heo becwom disease and the pain turned into her insides and she came to þam ytemæstan dæge: 7 ymb honcred utan heo onfeng to the last day and about cock-crow around she received wegneste þære swiðe halgan gemænsumnesse Cristes lichoman viaticum of-the very holy communion of-Christ body

7 his blode. Ða geheht heo þa Godes þeowas to hire, and his blood Then summoned she the of-God servants to her þa ðe in þam ilcan mynstre wæron; 7 heo þa gyt hy those who in the same monastery were and she then yet them monade 7 lærde, þæt hy betweoh hym heoldon 7 eallum admonished and taught that they between them held and to-all Godes monnum sibbe 7 lufan. Ond betweohn þa word hyre of-God men peace and love And among the words of-her trymenesse 7 laare heo bliðe deað geeseah; 7 gean soðre þæt exhortation and teaching she blithe death saw and yet truer that ic Drihtnes wordum spreco, þæt heo of deaðe leorde to life.

I of-Lord with-words speak that she from death passed to life

Ða wæs in þære seolfan nihte, þætte se ælmihtega Drihten 338.31

Then was in the same night that the almighty Lord hire forðfore in oðrum mynstre fyrr gesettum, þæt heo her departure in another monastery farther set which she þy ylcan geare ær getimbrede 7 is nemned Heacanos, in-the same year before built and is named Hackness mid sweotolre gesyhðe wæs geeaðmeded to onwreonne. Wæs with clear vision was deigned to reveal Was in þæm seolfan mynstre sumu haligu nunne, þære noma in the same monastery a holy nun whose name wæs Begu, seo wæs Drihtne gehalgad in clænum mægðhade was Begu who was to-Lord consecrated in pure maidenhood ma þonne þritig wintra; 7 heo þær in munuchade Drihtne more than thirty winters and she there in monkhood to-Lord þeowade. Ða wæs heo restende in sweostra slæperne, ða served Then was she resting in of-sisters dormitory then gehyrde heo semninga in þære lyfte uppe cuðne swég 7 heard she suddenly in the air above known sound and hleoðor heora clucgan, þær heo wunedon to gebedum noise of-their bell with-which they were-wont to prayers gecegde 7 awehte beon, þon heora hwylc of worulde geleored called and awakened be when of-them any from world passed wæs. Ða geseah heo openum eagum, þæs þe hire þuhte, was Then saw she with-open eyes as that to-her seemed of þæs huses hrófe úfan micel leoht cuman; 7 eal þæt from of-the house roof above great light come and all the hus gefylde. Ða heo þa in þæt leoht bihygdlice locade 7 house filled When she then into the light carefully looked and hit georne beheold, þa geseah heo þære foresprecenan Godes it earnestly beheld then saw she of-the aforesaid of-God þeowe sawle Hilde þære abbudissan in þæm seolfan leohte, servant soul of-Hild the abbess in the same light engla weorodum gelædendum, to heofonum úp borenne beon. of-angels by-hosts leading to heavens up borne be 340.13 Mid þy heo þa þy slæpe tobrægd, þa geseah heo oðere With that she then from-the sleep started then saw she other sweostor ymb heo restende. Ða onget heo ge in þæm swefne sisters about her resting Then perceived she both in the dream ge on hire módes gesyhðe hire æteawed weosan, þætte heo and in of-her mind vision to-her shown be what she geseah. ⁊ heo sona arás mid micle ege afyrhted ⁊ orn to saw and she at-once arose with great fear frightened and ran to þære fæmnan, þe ða wæs mynstres abbudisse — wæs Hilde the maiden who then was of-monastery abbess was of-Hild gingre — þære noma wæs Freogið. ⁊ mid wópe ⁊ mid deputy whose name was Frigyth and with weeping and with tearum wæs swiðe geondgoten, ond longe sworetunge wæs tears was greatly suffused and long sigbing was teonde; ⁊ hire sægde ealra heora modur Hilde abbudissan drawing and to-her said of-all their mother Hild abbess þa of worulde geleoran, ⁊ hyre geseondre mid micle leohte then from world pass and her seeing with great light ⁊ mid engla þreatum to þæm ecean leohte heofona rices and with of-angels troops to the eternal light of-heavens kingdom wuldres ⁊ to gemanan þara uplicra ceastorwarena astigan. glory and to fellowship of-the upper citizens ascend Ða heo þa þæt gehyrde, þa weahte heo ealle þa sweostor, ⁊ When she then that heard then woke she all the sisters and heht to cirican gangan; ⁊ in gebedum ⁊ on sealmsonge commanded to church go and in prayers and in psalm-song for heora módor sawle georne þingodon. Ða heo þæt þa for of-their mother soul earnestly interceded When they that then geornlice dydon þa láfe þære neahte tide, þa cwomon swiðe earnestly did the remnant of-the night time then came very ær in dagunge sume broðor, þa ðe hyre forðfore sægdon, early in dawning some brothers those who her departure said from þære stowe þe heo forðfered wæs. Ða ondswardedon heo from the place that she departed was Then answered they ⁊ cwædon, þæt heo þæt ilce ær wisten ⁊ ongeaton. ⁊ and said that they the same before knew and perceived and mid þy heo þa þurh endebyrdnesse þæm broðrum arehton, with that they then through order to-the brothers related hu heo þás þing ⁊ hwonne heo geleornodon, ond heo him how they these things and when they learned and they to-them sægdon, in hwylce tiid heo of middangearde leorde, þa wæs said in which time she from middle-earth passed then was gemeted, þæt hyre geleornes wæs in þa ilcan tíð, þe hire found that her passing was in the same time that to-her þurh þa gesyhð æteawed wæs. ⁊ mid fægre geþwærnisse through the vision shown was and with fair agreement þara wisena wæs godcundlice foresegen, þæt mid þy heo of-the things was divinely provided that with that they hyre uutgong gesegon of þeossum lífe, þa ða uppe ongeton her going-out saw from this life then those above perceived hire ingong in þæt ece liif haligra sawla. Þær seondon her entrance into the eternal life of-holy souls There are between þæm mynstrum twæm þreottýne mila ametene. between the monasteries two thirteen miles measured

XXV • CÆDMON

A brother at Whitby had never learned a song and left feasts when the harp came his way, until a man in a dream told him to sing of creation and he sang a hymn he had never heard. Hild's scholars tested him; he became a monk and turned scripture into sweet English verse, from Genesis and Exodus to Christ's passion and the Judgment. Foretelling his death, he took the eucharist and died peacefully.

- 342.3 In ðeosse abbudissan mynstre wæs sum broðor syndriglice mid In of-this abbess monastery was a brother specially with godcundre gife gemæred ⁊ geweorðad. Forþon he gewunade divine grace made-famous and honored Because he was-wont gerisenlice leoð wyrcan, þa ðe to æfestnisse ⁊ to arfæstnisse fitting songs make those which to piety and to devotion belumpen, swa ðætte, swa hwæt swa he of godcundum pertained so that so what so he from divine stafum þurh boceras geleornode, þæt he æfter medmiclum letters through scholars learned that he after brief fæce in scopgereorde mid þa mæstan swetnisse 7 inbryrdnisse space in poet-language with the greatest sweetness and inspiration geglængde 7 in Engliscgereorde wel geworht forþbrohte. Ond adorned and in English-language well wrought brought-forth And for his leopsongum monigra monna mod oft to worulde for his songs of-many men minds often to of-world forhogdnisse 7 to geþeodnisse þæs heofonlican lifes onbærnde contempt and to joining of-the heavenly life kindled wæron. Ond eac swelce monige oðre æfter him in Óngelþeode were And also likewise many others after him in English-nation ongunnon áfeste leoð wyrcan: ac nænig hwæðre him þæt began pious songs make but none however him that gelice don meahte. Forþon he nales from monnum ne þurh like do could Because he not-at-all from men nor through mon gelæred wæs, þæt he þone leoðcræft leornade, ac he wæs man taught was that he the song-craft learned but he was godcundlice gefultumed 7 þurh Godes gife þone songcræft divinely helped and through of-God grace the song-craft onfeng. Ond he forðon næfre noht leasunge, ne idles leopes received And he therefore never anything of-falsehood nor of-idle song wyrcan meahte, ac efne þa án þa ðe to æfestnesse make could but even those alone those which to piety belumpon, 7 his þa æfestan tungan gedeofanade singan. pertained and to-his the pious tongue befitted sing Wæs he se mon in weoruldhade geseted oð þa tide þe Was he the man in secular-life set until the time that he wæs gelyfdre ýlde, 7 næfre nænig leoð geleornade. Ond he was of-advanced age and never any song learned And 342.19

he forþon oft in gebeorscipe, þonne þær wæs blisse intinga he therefore often at beer-feast when there was of-bliss cause gedemed, þæt heo ealle *scalde þurh endebyrdnesse be judged that they all should through order by hearpan singan, þonne he geseah þa hearpan him nealecan, harp sing when he saw the harp to-him approach þonne aras he for forscome from þæm symble 7 ham then arose he for shame from the feast and home eode to his huse. Ða he þæt þa sumre tide dyde, þæt went to his house When he that then at-a-certain time did that he forlet þæt hus þæs gebeorscipes, 7 ut wæs gongende to he left the house of-the beer-feast and out was going to neata scipene, þara heord him wæs þære neahte beboden. of-cattle stall of-which keeping to-him was on-that night committed Ða he ða þær in gelimplice tīde his leomu on reste gesette When he then there in suitable time his limbs on rest set 7 onslepte, þa stod him sum mon æt þurh swefn 7 hine and fell-asleep then stood him a man at through dream and him halette 7 grette 7 hine be his noman nemnde: Cædmon, bailed and greeted and him by his name named Cædmon sing me hwæthwugu. Ða ondswarede he 7 cwæð: Ne sing me something Then answered he and said Not con ic noht singan; 7 ic forþon of þeossam gebeorscipe can I anything sing and I therefore from this beer-feast úteode, 7 hider gewat, forþon ic naht singan ne cuðe. out-went and hither departed because I nothing sing — could Eft he cwæð se ðe wið hine sprecende wæs: Hwæðre þu Again he said he who with him speaking was However thou meaht singan. Ða cwæð he: Hwæt sceal ic singan? canst sing Then said he What shall I sing

Cwæð he: Sing me frumsceaft. Ða he ða þas andsware 344.2

Said he Sing me creation When he then this answer onfeng, þa ongon he sona singan in herenesse Godes received then began he at-once sing in praise of-God Scyppendes þa fers 7 þa word þe he næfre gehyrde,

Creator the verses and the words which he never heard þære endebyrdnesse þis is:

of-which order

this is

Nu sculon herigean heofonrices weard,

Now (we)-must praise of-heaven-kingdom guardian meotodes meahte 7 his modgeþanc, of-ordainer might and his mind-thought weorc wuldorfæder, swa he wundra gehwæs, work of-glory-father as he of-wonders each éce Drihten, ór onstealde.

eternal Lord beginning established he ærest sceop eorðan bearnum he first shaped of-earth for-children heofon to hrofe halig scyppend; heaven as roof holy creator þa middangeard monncynnes weard, then middle-earth of-mankind guardian éce Drihten, æfter teode eternal Lord afterward made fírum foldan, frea ælmihtig.

for-men earth Lord almighty

Ða aras he from þæm slæpe, 7 eal, þa þe he slæpende 344.15

Then arose he from the sleep and all those which he sleeping song, fæste in gemynde hæfde. 7 þæm wordum sona monig sang fast in memory had and to-the words at-once many word in þæt ilce gemet Gode wyrðes songes togeþeodde. Ða words in the same measure to-God of-worthy song joined Then com he on morgenne to þæm túngerefan, þe his ealdormon came he in morning to the town-reeve who his chief wæs: sægde him hwylce gife he onfeng; 7 he hine sona was said to-him what gift he received and he him at-once to þære abbudissan gelædde 7 hire þa cyððe 7 sægde. to the abbeß led and to-her then made-known and said Ða heht heo gesomnian ealle þa gelæredetan men 7 þa Then commanded she gather all the most-learned men and the leorneras: 7 him ondweardum het secgan þæt swefn, 7 learners and them present commanded say the dream and þæt leoð singan, þæt ealra heora dome gecoren wære, hwæt the song sing that of-all their by-judgment chosen were what oððe hwonon þæt cumen wære. Ða wæs him eallum gesegen, or whence that come were Then was to-them all seen swa swa hit wæs, þæt him wære from Drihtne sylfum so as it was that to-him were from Lord self heofonlic gifu forgifen. Ða rehton heo him 7 sægdon sum heavenly grace given Then expounded they to-him and said a halig spell 7 godcundre lare word: bebudon him þa, gif boly story and of-divine teaching word bade him then if he meahte, þæt he in swinsunge leopsonges þæt gehwyrðe. he could that he into melody of-song that turned Ða he ða hæfde þa wisan onfongne, þa eode he ham to When he then had the matter received then went he home to his huse; 7 cwom eft on morgenne, 7 þy betstan leoðe his house and came again in morning and with-the best song geglenged him asóng 7 ageaf, þæt him beboden wæs. adorned to-them sang and gave-back what to-him bidden was Ða ongan seo abbudisse clyppan 7 lufigan þa Godes Then began the abbess embrace and love the of-God gife in þæm men; 7 heo hine þa monade 7 lærde þæt grace in the man and she him then admonished and taught that he woruldhad áforlete 7 munuchad onfenge: 7 he þæt he secular-life forsook and monkhood received and he that wel þafode. Ond heo hine in þæt mynster onfeng mid his well consented And she him into the monastery received with his godum, 7 hine geþeodde to gesomnunge þara Godes þeowa; goods and him joined to congregation of-the of-God servants 7 heht hine læran þæt getæl þæs halgan stæres 7 and commanded him (to-be)-taught the series of-the holy history and spellas. Ond he eal, þa he in gehyrnesse geleornian meahte, story And he all that he by hearing learn could mid hine gemyndgade; 7 swa swa clæne neten eodorcende with him remembered and so as clean beast ruminating in þæt sweteste leoð gehwerfde. 7 his song 7 his leoð into the sweetest song turned and his song and his poem wæron swa wynsumu to gehyranne, þætte seolfan þa his were so delightful to hear that themselves the his lareowas æt his muðe wreoton 7 leornodon. Song he ærest teachers at his mouth wrote and learned Sang he first be middangeardes gesceape 7 bi fruman moncynnes about of-middle-earth creation and about beginning of-mankind 7 eal þæt stæx Genesis, þæt is seo æreste Moyses booc; and all the history Genesis that is the first of-Moses book 7 eft bi útgonge Israhela folces of Ægypta londe 7 and again about exodus of-Israel folk from of-Egypt land and bi ingonge þæs gehatlandes; 7 bi oðrum monegum about entry of-the promised-land and about other many spellum þæs halgan gewrites canones bóca; ond bi Cristes stories of-the holy writing of-canon books and about of-Christ menniscnesse; 7 bi his þrowunge; 7 bi his upastignesse incarnation and about his passion and about his ascension in heofonas; 7 bi þæs Halgan Gastes cyme, 7 þara into heavens and about of-the Holy Spirit coming and of-the apostola lare: 7 eft bi þæm dæge þæs toweardan apostles teaching and again about the day of-the coming domes, 7 bi fyrhtu þæs tintreglican wiites, 7 bi judgment and about fear of-the tormenting punishment and about swetnesse þæs heofonlecan rices, he monig leoð geworhte. sweetness of-the heavenly kingdom he many songs wrought 346.14 Ond swelce eac oðer monig be þæm godcundan And likewise also other many about the divine fremsumnessum 7 domum he geworhte. In eallum þæm he benefits and judgments he wrought In all those he geornlice gemde, þæt he men atuge from synna lufan 7 earnestly cared that he men drew from of-sins love and mándæda, 7 to lufan 7 to geornfulnesse awehte godra dæda. of-evil-deeds and to love and to zeal awakened of-good deeds Forþon he wæs se mon swiþe æfest 7 regollecum þeodscipum Because he was the man very pious and to-regular disciplines eaðmodlice underþeoded. Ond wið þæm þa ðe in oðre wisan humbly subjected And against those who — in other manner don woldon, he wæs mid welme micelre ellenwodnisse onbærned. do would he was with fervor of-great zeal kindled Ond he forðon fægre ænde his lif betynde 7 geendade.

 And he therefore with-fair end his life closed and ended 346.22 Forþon þa ðære tide nealæcte his gewitenesse 7 forðfore, Because when to-the time approached of-his departure and death þa wæs he feowertynum dagum ær, þæt he wæs lichomlicre then was he by-fourteen days before that he was by-bodily untrymnesse þrycced 7 hefgad, hwæðre to þon gemetlice, infirmity pressed and burdened however to that moderately þæt he ealle þa tid meahte ge sprecan ge gongan. Wæs þær that he all the time could both speak and walk Was there in neaweste untrumra monna hus, in þæm heora þeaw wæs, in neighborhood of-sick men house in which their custom was þæt heo þa untrumran, 7 þa ðe æt forðfore wæron, inlædon that they the sicker and those who at death were lead-in sceoldon 7 him þær ætsomne þegnian. Ða bæd he his þegn should and to-them there together minister Then asked he his servant on æfenne þære neahte, þe he of worulde gongende wæs, in evening of-the night that he from world going was þæt he in þæm huse him stowe gegearwode, þæt he gerestan that he in the house for-him place prepared that he rest meahte. Ða wundrode se þegn, for hwon he ðæs bæde, forþon might Then wondered the servant for why he that asked because him þuhte þæt his forðfor swa neah ne wære: dyde hwæðre swa to-him seemed that his departure so near not were did however so swa he cwæð 7 bibead. Ond mid þy he ða þær on reste eode, as he said and commanded And with that he then there on rest went 7 he gefeonde mode sumu þing mid him sprecende ætgædere and he with-rejoicing mind some things with them speaking together 7 gleowiende wæs, þe þær ær inne wæron, þa wæs ofer and jesting was who there before inside were then was over midde neaht þæt he frægn, hwæðer heo ænig husl inne hæfdon. mid night that he asked whether they any housel inside had Ða ondswarodon heo 7 cwædon: Hwylc þearf is ðe husles?

Then answered they and said What need is to-thee of-housel Ne þinre forþfore swa neah is, nu þu þus rotlice 7 þus 348.2 Not to-thy departure so near is now thou thus cheerfully and thus glædlice to us sprecende eart. Cwæð he eft: Berað me husl gladly to us speaking art Said he again Bear me housel to. Ða he hit þa on honda hæfde, þa frægn he hwæper to When he it then in hand had then asked he whether heo ealle smolt mod 7 buton eallum incan bliðe to they all calm mind and without all grievance blithe toward him hæfdon. Ða ondswaredon hy ealle 7 cwædon, þæt him bad Then answered they all and said that heo nænigne incan to him wiston, ac heo ealle him they no grievance toward him knew but they all to-him swiðe bliðemode wæron: 7 heo wrixendlice hine bædon, þæt very blithe-minded were and they in-turn him asked that he him eallum bliðe wære. Ða ondswarade he 7 cwæð:

he to-them all blithe were Then answered he and said Mine broðor mine þa leofan, ic eom swiðe bliðemod to My brothers my the dear I am very blithe-minded toward eow 7 to eallum Godes monnum, Ond swa wæs hine you and toward all of-God men And so was himself getrymmende mid þy heofonlecan wegneste, 7 him oðres fortifying with the heavenly viaticum and for-himself of-other lifes ingong gegearwode. Ða gyt he frægn, hu neah þære life entrance prepared Then yet he asked how near to-the tide wære, þætte þa broðor arisan scolden 7 Godes lof time were that the brothers arise should and of-God praise ræran 7 heora uhtsong singan. Ða ondswaredon heo: Nis raise and their matins sing Then answered they Not-is hit feor to þon. Cwæð he: Teala: wuton we wel þære tide it far to that Said he Well let-us we well the time bidan. 7 þa him gebæd 7 hine gesegnode mid Cristes await and then himself prayed and himself signed with of-Christ rode tacne, ond his heafod onhyalde to þam bolstre, 7 rood token and his head inclined to the pillow and medmicel fæc onslepte; 7 swa mid stilnesse his lif geendade. brief space fell-asleep and so with stillness his life ended

Ond swa wæs geworden, þætte swa swa hluttre mode 7 348.19 And so was done that so as with-pure mind and bilwitre 7 smyltre wilsumnesse Drihtne þeode, þæt he eac simple and calm devotion to-Lord served that he also swylce swa smylte deaðe middangeard wæs forlætende, 7 likewise with-so calm death middle-earth was leaving and to his gesihðe becwom. Ond seo tunge, þe swa monig to his sight came And the tongue which so many halwende word in þæs scyppendes lof gesette, — he ða salutary words in of-the creator praise set he then swelce eac þa ytmæstan word in his herenisse, hine seolfne likewise also the last words in his praise him self segniende 7 his gast in his honda beheodende, betynde. signing and his spirit into his hands commending closed Eac swelce þæt is gesegen, þæt he wære gewis his seolfes Also likewise it is seen that he were aware of-his own forðfore, of þæm we nu secgan hyrdon. departure from those-things we now say heard

XXVI • THE BURNING OF COLDINGHAM

Coldingham burned through the sins of its people. The Irish monk Adamnan, long doing penance for a sin of his youth, foretold the fire: a stranger at his night vigil said that in the whole house he alone was awake to his soul, while the rest slept, drank, and wove fine clothes. Abbess Æbbe heard the warning, and the house amended a while, but after her death it relapsed and the fire came.

Byssum tidum ðæt mynster, þæt mon nemneð Æt Coludes 348.27 In-these times the monastery which one names At Coldingham burg, þæs we beforan gemyndgodon, þurh ungemænne synne — which we above mentioned through of-carelessness sin fyre 7 lege wæs fornumen. Ðæt hwæðre æðelice ongetan by-fire and flame was consumed That however easily perceive meahton ealle þa þæt cuðon, þætte þæt gelomp for wean could all who that knew that that happened for woe 7 for yfelnesse þara eardiendra þær in þære byrig, ond and for evil of-the dwellers there in the city and þara swipust þe ðær aldormen wæran. Ac him hwæðre of-those most who there chiefs were But to-them however won ne wæs seo monung þær godcundan ærfæstnesse, lacking not was the admonition of-the divine piety þæt heo heora synne witnade 7 bette þurh fæsten, that they their sins punished and amended through fasting þurh wópas, þurh gebedo, 7 eorre from him acyrde þæs through weepings through prayers and anger from them turned of-the soðfæstan deman, in þa onlicnesse Niniuitwearena. righteous judge in the likeness of-Ninevites 350.5 Wæs in þæm ylcan mynstre sum wer of Scotta þeode, se Was in the same monastery a man of of-Scots nation who wæs Adamnanus haten. Lifde se mon his liif in micelre was Adamnan called Lived the man his life in great forhæfdnisse 7 in halgum gebedum Gode swiðe wilsumlice, abstinence and in holy prayers to-God very devotedly swa ðæt he næfre mete onfeng ne swæsendo þeah, buton þy so that he never food received nor meals took except on-the Drihtenlecan dæge 7 þy fiftan wiicdæge, ond oft onwalge Lordly day and on-the fifth weekday and often whole neahte þurh wæccan in halgum gebedum astod 7 áwunade. nights through vigil in holy prayers stood and remained Seo þearlwisnis þæs heardan lifes him ærest of nede The severity of-the hard life to-him first from need becwom for bote his synna; ac forðgongendre tide þæt came for amendment of-his sins but in-advancing time that he þæt ned in wunan gecyrde. Gelomp him in geoguðhade he the need into custom turned Happened to-him in youth his, þæt he sume maandæde gefremede. Ða seo scyld þa to his that he some evil-deed committed When the guilt then to his heortan hwearf, þa onscunede he heo hefiglice 7 him his heart turned then shunned he it heavily and himself ondred, þæt he for þære stronglice witnad beon sceolde from dreaded that he for it strongly punished be should by þæm þearlwisan deman. Eode þa to sumum mæssepreoste, the severe judge Went then to a masspriest from þæm he gewende, þæt him hælu weg æteawed beon from whom he hoped that to-him of-salvation way shown be meahte: ondette him þa his scylde, 7 bæd þæt he him might confessed to-him then his guilt and asked that he to-him geþeaht sealde, hu he meahte befeon from þæm toweardan counsel gave how he could flee from the coming eorre. Ða he ða his scylde gehyrde, þa cwæð he: Micel anger When he then his guilt heard then said he Great wund behofað micles læcedomes: 7 forþon, swa swiþe swa wound needs great medicine and therefore so greatly as ðu mægge, ætfealh þu þinum fæstenum 7 sealmsongum thou canst apply thou to-thy fastings and psalm-songs 7 gebeodum, þætte þu seo forecumende Drihtnes onsyne and prayers that thou be forestalling of-Lord countenance in ondetnisse, 7 þu geearnie hine þe mildne gemetan. in confession and thou earn him to-thee mild find Ond he þa, þæne þe þæt unmaete sár nom 7 hefigode 350.23 And he then him whom the immense pain took and burdened his scylde gewitnes, — 7 he wilnode, þæt he hraðe of-his guilt conscience and he desired that he quickly alysed wære from þam inlicum bendum þara synna, þe released were from the inward bonds of-the sins with-which he hefigod wæs — cwæð he to þam mæssepreoste: Ic eom he burdened was said he to the masspriest I am geongre ylðo 7 hal in minum lichoman. Swa hwæt swa of-young age and whole in my body So what so ðu me onstettest 7 bebeodest to donne, þæt ic halsige in thou me imposest and biddest to do that I be-saved in þæm Drihtnes dæge, al ic þæt eapelite abere, þeah þe þu the of-Lord day all I that easily bear though that thou mec hate ealle niht wæccende in gebedum stonda, 7 þeah me bid all night watching in prayers stand and though þe ic sceole ealle wican fæstan, ic þæt leoflice do. Cwæð he:

that I should all week fast I that lovingly do Said he Micel þæt is, þæt þu ealle wican buton onðleofone lichoman Great that is that thou all week without sustenance of-body awunige: ac twyðæglic fæsten oðþe þreodæglic fæsten is remain but two-day fast or three-day fast is genoh to healdenne. Do þis, cwæð he, oðþæt ic eft æfter enough to hold Do this said he until I again after tide to ðe cyme 7 þe þonne fullcor æteawe, hwæt þu don time to thee come and thee then more-fully show what thou do scyle, 7 hu lange þu on hreowe awunian scyle. Ða ferde se shalt and how long thou in penance remain shalt Then went the mæssepreost from him. Ða gelomp for sumum intingan, þæt masspriest from him Then happened for some cause that he semninga gewat in Hibernia Scotta ealond, þonon he ær he suddenly departed into Ireland of-Scots island whence he before cwom: ne he eft ma to him hwearf æfter heora gecwīde. came nor he again more to him returned after their agreement 352.4 Wæs he hwæðre gemyndi his bebodes ond eac his gehates; ond Was he however mindful of-his command and also of-his promise and he in hreowe tearum 7 in halgum wæccenum 7 in micelre he in of-penance tears and in holy vigils and in great forhæfdnesse Drihtne þeowade, swa ðæt he næfre oftore gereorde abstinence to-Lord served so that he never oftener food ne swæsendo þah, þonne þy Drihtenlecan dæge 7 þy fifan nor meals took than on-the Lordly day and on-the fifth wicdæge, swa swa ic fore cwæð; oðrum dagum he swa fæstende weekday so as I before said on-other days he so fasting awunade. Mid þy he ða gehyrde þone mæssepreost gewitan remained With that he then heard the masspriest depart in Hiibernia 7 þær forðferende beon, he symle of þære tide into Ireland and there dying be he ever from that time þæt gemyndgade gemet þære forhæfdnesse heold 7 læste; 7 the mentioned measure of-the abstinence held and performed and þætte for intingan þæs godcundan eges æne siðe for his scylde that for cause of-the divine fear once time for his guilt onbryrdd ongan, swa he eft for intingan þære godcundan stirred began so he afterward for cause of-the divine lufan lustfulliende þam ecum medum fæstlice forðlæste. love delighting in-the eternal rewards firmly carried-on Mid þy he þæt þa longre tide forðheold 7 dyde, þa gelomp 352.15 With that he that then for-long time maintained and did then happened sume dæge, þæt he wæs from þæm mynstre for sumum on-a day that he was from the monastery for some þinge fyr gongende; 7 wæs an þara broðra his gefera 7 thing further going and was one of-the brothers his companion and him mid eode. Ða heo þa hæfdon heora siðfæt geferedne, him with went When they then had their journey accomplished þa hwurfon heo eft to ham. 7 mid þy heo þa þæm then returned they again to home and with that they then to-the mynstre nealecton, 7 heo gesegon þa getimbru healice areht monastery approached and they saw the buildings loftily erected 7 ahæfen, þa geswearc se Godes mon semninga 7 ongan and raised then darkened the of-God man suddenly and began hatlice 7 bitterlice wepan, 7 þa unrotnesse his heortan mid hotly and bitterly weep and the sadness of-his heart with his andwlitan tacnunge ypte 7 cyððe. Ða þæt þa se his of-his countenance taken revealed and made-known When that then the his gefera geseah 7 ongeat, þa frægn he hine 7 ascode, hwæt companion saw and perceived then asked he him and inquired what him wære 7 forhwon he swa gebærde. Ða cwæð he: Eal to-him were and why he so behaved Then said he All þas getimbru, þe ðu her gesyhst 7 sceawast, ge þa maran these buildings which thou here seest and beholdest both the greater ge ða mætran, neah is þæt hy eal fyr nimeð 7 in ascan and the lesser near is that them all fire takes and into ashes gehwyrfað. Ða se broðor þæt þa gehyrde, sona þæs þe heo in turns When the brother that then heard soon that that they into þæt mynster eodon, þa cyððe he hit 7 sægde þære meder the monastery went then made-known he it and said to-the mother þære gesomnunga þære abbudissan, seo wæs Æbbe haten. of-the congregation the abbess who was Æbbe called 352.29 Ða wæs heo be gewyrhte swiðe gedrefed bi swelcum Then was she by desert greatly troubled about such witedome 7 forht geworden, geheht þa to hire ðone Godes prophecy and afraid become summoned then to her the of-God monn 7 geornlice hine frægn 7 ascode hwonan he ða wisan man and earnestly him asked and inquired whence he the matter cūðe 7 ongete. Cwæð he: Ic wæs ungeara on neaht abisgad knew and perceived Said he I was lately in night busied on weacenum 7 on sealmsonge 7 on gebedum; þa geseah ic in vigils and in psalm-song and in prayers then saw I somninga me ætstandan sumne monnan uncūpes ondweleotan. suddenly me stand-by a man of-unknown countenance Ða wæs ic for his ondweardnisse swiðe afyrhted, þa frefrede Then was I for his presence greatly frightened then comforted he mec 7 cwæð, þæt ic me ne ondrede. Ond swa swa he he me and said that I myself not dreaded And so as he cupre stefne wæs to me sprecende: Wel ðu dest, cwæð with-known voice was to me speaking Well thou doest said he, þæt ðu in ðisse tide neahtricre stilnisse nalæs ðec slæpe he that thou in this time of-nightly stillness not-at-all thee to-sleep forgeofan, ah ma woldes weacenum 7 gebedum ætfeolan. give but rather wouldst to-vigils and prayers apply Cwæð ic: ic wat þæt me ðæs is micel ðearf þæt ic halwendum Said I I know that to-me of-that is great need that I to-salutary weacenum ætfeole, 7 for minum gedwolum 7 synnum vigils apply and for my errors and sins geornlice Dryhten bensie. Cwæð he se ðe mid mec spræc: earnestly Lord beseech Said he he who with me spoke Soð ðu sagast, cwæð he, æghwæðer ge þe ðæs is þearf Truth thou sayest said he both and to-thee of-that is need ge mongum, þæt hio hiora synna mid gódum weorcum alése, and to-many that they their sins with good works redeem 7 þonne hio blinne from gewinne hwilwendlicra þinga, ðæt and when they cease from labor of-transitory things that hio ðonne fore willunga ðeara ékra góda þy freolslicor winne. they then for desire of-the eternal goods the more-freely labor Ah ðis hwæðre fea ane dóð. Soð ic secge, þæt ic nu But this however few only do Truth I say that I now eal þis mynster ðurh endebyrdnisse geondferde 7 syndrigra all this monastery through order went-through and of-individuals hús 7 bedd geseah: 7 nænigne of eallum butan þe ic houses and beds saw and none of all except thee I gemette ymb his saule hælo abisgodne beon; ah alle ge found about of-his soul health busied be but all both wæpnedmenn ge wifmenn oððo hefige slæpe syndon, oððe males and females either with-heavy sleep are or to synnum wacedon. Ond ða hus ða ðe in to gebiddenne for sins watched And the houses those which in to pray ȝ to leornienne geworhte wæron, ða syndon nu in hús and to learn made were those are now into houses gehwerfed oferæta ȝ druncennesse ȝ leasspellunge ȝ oðerra turned of-gluttony and of-drunkenness and of-idle-talk and of-other unalefedlecra scylda. ȝ eac swelce ða fæmnan, ða ðe Gode unlawful sins and also likewise the maidens those who to-God gehalgode wæron, forhogdre are heara ondetnisse, ond swa consecrated were with-despised honor of-their profession and so oft swa hio æmtan habbað, þæt hio smaelo hrægel weofað often as they leisure have that they fine garment weave ȝ wyrcað, mid ðæm hio oððo hio siolfæ frætwað in bryda and make with which they either them selves adorn in of-brides onlicnesse, in frecenesse hiora stalles oððo utwæpnedmonna likeness in danger of-their state or of-outside-males friondsipes him ceapiað. Forðon bi gewyrhte þysse friendship for-themselves buy Therefore by desert for-this stowe ȝ hire eardiendum hefig wræc of hiofenum place and its inhabitants heavy vengeance from heavens grimsiendum legum is gegearwad. Cwæð hio sio abbudisse to with-raging flames is prepared Said she the abbess to him: Forhwon ne woldes ðu sona hraðe ða deagolnisse me him Why not wouldst thou at-once quickly the secret me cyðan ȝ secgan. Ða ondswarode he ȝ cwæð: Ic ondred make-known and say Then answered he and said I dreaded for þinre arwyrðnisse ðæt þu sceolde to swiðe gedrefed ȝ for thy reverence that thou shouldst too greatly troubled and afyrhted beon; ȝ hwæðre ðas frofre ðu hafast, þæt hit frightened be and however this comfort thou hast that it on ðinum dagum ðis wíte ofer ðas burg ne cymeð. in thy days this punishment over this city not comes Ða ðios gesiehð ða wæs gemæred, ða wæs hwelchugu fæc 354.32 When this vision then was spread-abroad then was some space ðæt þa bigengan þære stowe, ðæt is feaum dagum, ongunnon that the inhabitants of-the place that is for-few days began him ondrædan 7 hio seolfæ clænsian, 7 mandæde forleton. themselves fear and them selves cleanse and evil-deeds left Ond eft sona æfter ðære abbudissan forðfore hio hwurfon to And again soon after of-the abess death they returned to þam ærran unsefernessum, 7 ec micle mánfulran fremedon. the former impurities and even much more-wicked committed 7 mid ðy cwædon: Nu is sib 7 orsornes: hi ða instepe, and with that said Now is peace and security they then instantly ða hie laesest wendon, mid þy wiite ðæs foresprecenan when they least thought with the punishment of-the aforesaid wræces slægene wæron. All þas ðing me ðus gewurden se vengeance struck were All these things to-me thus happened the arwyrða min efenmæssepreost Eedgyls sægde, se ða in ðam venerable my fellow-masspriest Edgils said who then in the mynstre eardade 7 drohtode, 7 eft in ussum mynstre monastery dwelt and lived and afterward in our monastery longe tide lifde 7 þær forðferde, æfter ðon monge ðara for-long time lived and there departed after that many of-the bigengena ðonon gewitan for þære burge tolesnesse. Ðis spel inhabitants thence departed for of-the city destruction This story we forðon setton in ure béc, þæt we men monede, ðæt hio we therefore set in our book that we men admonished that they gesege Dryhtnes weorc, hu egesfullic he is on geðeahtingum saw of-Lord works how terrible he is in counsels ofer monna bearn, ðy læs we ænige tide ussum licumlicum over of-men children the less we at-any time to-our bodily unalefdnessum sion þeowiende, 7 læs Godes dom forhtige unlawfulnesses be serving and less of-God judgment fear 7 we us ondræde, ðonne we scylen, 7 his yrre semninga and we ourselves dread than we should and his anger suddenly us eac ðreage 7 usic oððe hwilwendlicum yrmðum rihtlice us also chastise and us either with-transitory miseries justly swence 7 wecce, oððe to ecre forwyrde heardwendlice gedeme. afflict and rouse or to eternal destruction severely judge

354.14

XXVII · ECGFRITH'S FALL AND ALDFRITH

In 684 Ecgfrith's army ravaged the harmless Irish, and a year later, against the advice of his friends and of Cuthbert, he fell fighting the Picts. Trumwine withdrew to Whitby, the learned Aldfrith took the kingdom, and in Kent Wihtried followed Hlothhere and Eadric.

356.17 Þa wæs ymb syx hund wintra 7 feower 7 hundeatig Then was about six hundred winters and four and eighty æfter þære Drihtenlecan menniscnesse, þy geare, þætte after the Lordly incarnation in-the year that Ecgfrið Norðanhymbra cyning sende weorod 7 fyrd in Ecgfrith of-Northumbrians king sent host and army into Hiibernia Scotta ealond. Þær wæs Beorht latteow 7 heretoga, Ireland of-Scots island There was Berht leader and commander 7 heo þa unsceððendan þeode 7 symle Ongolcynne þa and they the harmless nation and ever to-English-race the holdoston earmlice forhergodon, swa ðæt cyricum ne mynstrum most-friendly miserably ravaged so that to-churches nor monasteries seo herehand sparode nene arode. Ond þa seolfle landleodan, the hostile-hand spared nor honored And the same natives swa swiðe swa hi meahton, heo hy weredon 7 him so greatly as they could they themselves defended and them wiðcompodon, 7 him on fultum cegdon þa godcundan fought-against and for-themselves in help called the divine aarfæstnesse, ond singalum onbenum longe bædon, þæt heo mercy and with-continual supplications long prayed that they heofonlice gewrecene wæron. Ond þeah þe wærgcweodole heavenly avenged were And though that cursers Godes rice gesittan ne mægen, hwæðre is gelyfed, þætte of-God kingdom possess not can however is believed that þa be gewyrhte wyrge wæron for heora arleasnesse, þæt heo those by desert cursed were for their impiety that they hræðe þurh Drihtnes wrace heora scylda wite þrowedon. quickly through of-Lord vengeance of-their sins punishment suffered Forþon þe soðlice þy nyhstan gear efter ðeossum, mid þy 356.30 Because that truly in-the next year after this with that se ylca cyning gedyrstiglice here lādde to forhergianne Peohta the same king rashly army led to ravage of-Picts mægðe — 7 him swiðe þæt his freond beweredon 7 ealra province and him greatly that his friends forbade and of-all swiðust þære eadigan gemynde Cuðberht, se þa neowan most of-the blessed memory Cuthbert who then newly to biscope gehalgad wæs, þa gelādde he hwæðre here in as bishop consecrated was then led he however army among Peohtas — þa licetton heo fleam, 7 hine betyldon in Picts then feigned they flight and him drew into nearo fæsten micel ungeferedra mora. Ond he mid þy mæstan narrow fastness great of-untraveled moors And he with the greatest dæle his weorodes ofslegen wæs þy feowertegðan gear his part of-his host slain was in-the fortieth year of-his yldo, þy fitegðan gear his rices, þy þreotteoþan dæge age in-the fifteenth year of-his reign on-the thirteenth day Kalendarum Iuniarum. 7 swa swa ic ær cwæð, beweredon of-the-Kalends June and so as I before said forbade his freond him, þæt he þæt gefeoht ne ongunne. Ac forþon his friends him that he the battle not began But because þe he ne wolde þy ærran gear e gehyran þone arwyrðan fæder that he not would in-the former year hear the venerable father Ecgberht, þæt he Sceottas hine noht sceðþende ne afuhte, þa Ecgerbt that he Scots him nothing harming — attacked then wæs him seald þurh wite þære synne, þæt he eft þa was to-him given through punishment of-the sin that he afterward those ne gehyrde, þa ðe hine wilnadon from his forwyrde gecegean. not heard those who him wished from his destruction call-back

358.13

Of þære tide ongan se hyht ⁊ mægen Ongolcynnes rices From that time began the hope and strength of-English-race kingdom toflowan ⁊ gewanad beon. Forðon þe Peohtas heora æhte flow-away and diminished be Because that Picts of-their possession lond eft onfengon, þæt Engle ær hæfdon ond Sceottas, þa land again received which English before had and Scots those ðe in Breotone wæron, swa; ond Bretta eac swelce micel dæl who in Britain were so and of-Britons also likewise great part freodom onfengon. Þær between monige Ongelpeode, þa ðe freedom received There among many English-nation those who oðþe mid sweorde ofslægene wæron oððe þeodome betæhte, either with sword slain were or to-servitude delivered oðþe of Peohta londe onweg flugon, ond eac swylce se or from of-Picts land away fled and also likewise the arwyrða Godes mon Trumwine, se ðe heora biscop wæs, venerable of-God man Trumwine he who their bishop was gewat mid his geferum, þa ðe wæron in þæm mynstre departed with his companions those who were in the monastery Æbbercurni, þæt is geseted in Engla londe ac hwæðre Abercorn that is set in of-English land but however neah þæm sá, þe Engla lond ⁊ Peohta toscadap. ⁊ he near the sea which of-English land and of-Picts divides and he þa se biscop his geferan, swa hwær swa he meahte, þurh then the bishop his companions so where so he could through mynster his freondum wæs befæstende; ond he him seolfum monasteries to-his friends was committing and he for-him self wunenesse ⁊ wic geceas in þæm oft cwedenan mynstre, þæt dwelling and abode chose in the often mentioned monastery that is geceged Streoneshealh. Ond he þær mid feawa his geferena is called Whitby And he there with few of-his companions in heardnesse munuclifes nales him seolfum anum ac swiðe in hardness of-monk-life not-at-all to-him self alone but to-very monegum brýce monegra geara tide lifde. ⁊ he þær eac many useful of-many years for-time lived and he there also swelce forðferde, ⁊ in cirican Scē Petres þæs apostoles likewise departed and in church of-Saint Peter the apostle æfter gerisenre are his lifes ⁊ his hada bebyrged wæs. according-to fitting honor of-his life and of-his order buried was Wæs þæs ilcan mynstres abbodesse in ða tid seo cynelice 358.29 Was of-the same monastery abbess in that time the royal fæmne Ælflæd ætgædere mid Eanflæde hire meder, þære we maiden Ælflæd together with Eanflæd her mother whom we beforan gemyngodan. Ah ða se biscop þider com, mycelne above mentioned But when the bishop thither came great fultum gereces ⁊ somed hire lifes frofre Gode seo help of-government and at-once of-her life comfort to-God the wilsume fæmne in him gemette. Ða feng Ealdfrið æfter devoted maiden in him found Then succeeded Aldfrith after Ecgfriðe to ríce. Se man wæs se gelærdesta in gewreotum; Ecgrith to kingdom The man was the most-learned in writings se wæs sægd, þæt he his broðor wære Osweos sunu þæs who was said that he his brother were of-Oswy son of-the cyninges. ⁊ he ðone toworpnan steal þæs rices, þeah ðe king and he the ruined state of-the kingdom though that hit wære binnan nearwum gemærum, eaðelice geedneowade. it were within narrow borders easily renewed 360.5 Py geare þaá, þæt is ymb syx hund wintra 7 fif In-the year then that is about six hundred winters and five 7 hundehtatig from ðære Dryhtenlican menniscnesse, þæt and eighty from the Lordly incarnation that Hloþhere Cantwara cyning ðis deadlice líf geendode 7 Hloþhere of-Kent king this mortal life ended and forðferde, sé æftera Ecgyrhte his breðer, se ehta winter departed who after Ecgyrht his brother who eight winters ricsade; þa feng he to ríce 7 þæt hæfde XII winter. reigned then succeeded he to kingdom and it had twelve winters Wæs he gewundad in Supseaxna gefeohte, þa wið hine Was he wounded in of-South-Saxons battle whom against him Eadric Ecgyrhtes sunu gesomnade; ond þa betweoh ðon Eadric of-Ecgyrht son gathered and then between that þe hine man lacnade, he forðferde. 7 þa æfter him se ilca that him one treated he departed and then after him the same Eadric oðer healf gear þæt ríce hæfde. Ða he ða forðferde, Eadric second half year the kingdom had When he then departed þa ðæt ríce þa sum fæc tíde tweonde cyningas 7 fremde then the kingdom then some space of-time doubtful kings and foreign forluron 7 towurpun, oþðæt heora riht cyning Wihtred, destroyed and overthrew until their right king Wihtred þæt wæs Ecgyrhtes sunu, wæs in ríce gestrongad. Ond that was of-Ecgyrht son was in kingdom strengthened And he þa somod ætgædre mid æfestnesse ge mid geornfulnessse he then at-once together with piety and with zeal his ðeode fram útlicre hergunge generede 7 alysde. his nation from foreign ravaging saved and delivered

Cuthbert was made bishop of Lindisfarne in the year of Ecgfrith's death. As a youth he entered Melrose under the abbot Eata and the prior Boisil, succeeded Boisil as prior, and walked and rode through the remote villages, preaching to people who had fallen back on charms and amulets. Later Eata moved him to Lindisfarne, where monks had always lived with the bishop.

Ono ðy sylfan geare ðe Ecgferð cyning lifes ende onfeng, 360.17

Lo in-the same year that Ecgfrith king of-life end received gedyde he þæt man ðone halgan wer 7 ðone árwyrðan caused he that one the holy man and the venerable Cupbryht to biscope gehalgode ðære cirican æt Lindesfarona

Cuthbert as bishop consecrated of-the church at Lindisfarne æ. Se ær in medmyclum ealonde, þæt is Farne nemned, — Who before in small island that is Farne named ancorlif lædde þurh monig gear in mycelre forhæfdnesse anchorite-life led through many years in great abstinence lichaman ond modes. Is ðæt ealond from ðære ilcan cyrican of-body and of-mind Is the island from the same church feor ut on gársecgge geseted, huhugu on nigen milum. 7 far out on ocean set roughly at nine miles and he se halga Godes mon from þære ærestan yldo cnihtades he the holy of-God man from the first age of-boyhood simle beorn in gelise 7 in geornfulnesse æwfæstes lifes: ac ever burned in study and in zeal of-pious life but þa he gewexen wæs, ða wilnode he 7 onfeng munuchade.

when he grown was then desired he and received monkhood

7 ærest eode in Mailros ðæt mynster, þæt is geseted on 360.26 and first went into Melrose the monastery which is set on ofre Tuidon streames. Ðæt mynster þa heold 7 rihte Eata bank of-Tweed stream That monastery then held and ruled Eata biscop, se wæs milde wer 7 monðwære, 7 se æfter wæs bishop who was mild man and gentle and who afterward was gewarden biscop in Hægstealdes æ 7 in Lindesfaraona æ, become bishop in Hexham — and in Lindisfarne — swa swa we beforan gemyngodon. Þæs mynstres profost 7 so as we above mentioned Of-the monastery provost and regolweard wæs in ða tid Boisil, se wæs mycelra mægena rule-keeper was in that time Boisil who was of-great virtues mæssepreost 7 witedomes gastes. Ðisses discipulhada masspriest and of-prophecy spirit Of-this-one discipleship Cuðbyrht wæs eadmodlice underþeoded; 7 wisdom haligra Cuthbert was humbly subjected and wisdom of-holy gewrita 7 godra weorca bysene fram him nam. writings and of-good works example from him took

- 362.3 Æfter þon ðe he ða to Dryhtne geleorde, þa wæs Cuðbyrht After that that he then to Lord passed then was Cuthbert ðæs ilcan mynstres regolweard geworden; 7 he monige of-the same monastery rule-keeper become and he many æghweðer ge mid alдорlicnesse his lareowdomes ge mid both and with authority of-his teachership and with bisene his gesawenlicra dæda to regollicum life gesette ond example of-his visible deeds to regular life set and intimbrede. 7 nalas ðæt he ðæm mynstre anum regollices instructed and not-at-all that he to-the monastery alone of-regular lifes manunge 7 samod his bysene gearwode, ac swelce life admonition and at-once his example prepared but likewise eac ðæt ymbsette folc feor 7 wide from ðæm life ðæs also the neighboring folk far and wide from the life of-the dyslecan gewunan to lufan þara heofenlicra * gifeana foolish custom to love of-the heavenly (conjecture) joys georne gemde to gehwyrfenne. Forðon ðe monige ðone earnestly cared to turn Because that many the geleafan, þe hie hæfdon, mid unrihtum weorcum idledon, faith which they had with unrighteous works profaned ond swylce eac manige in ða tid þæs myclan woles ȝ and likewise also many in the time of-the great pestilence and moncwildes gymeleasedan ðæm gerynum þæs halgan geleafan, mortality neglected the mysteries of-the holy faith mid þæm hie gelærede wæron, ȝ to ðæm dwoligendum with which they taught were and to the erring læcedomum deofulgylða ofestton ȝ scyndon; swa swa remedies of-idolatries hastened and hurried so as hie þæt sende wite from Gode Sceppende þurh heora they the sent punishment from God Creator through their galdor oþþe lyfesne oððe þurh hwylce hwugu deogolnesse charm or amulet or through some — secret deofolcræftes bewerian mehton. Ono æghwæðerne gedwolan to of-devil-craft ward-off could Lo each error to gereccenne se Godes man wæs út gongende of ðæm mynstre correct the of-God man was out going from the monastery gelomlice: hwilum wæs on horse sittende, ac oftor on his frequently at-times was on horse sitting but oftener on his fotum gangende; fór to þæm ymbsettum tunum ȝ ðæm feet walking went to the neighboring villages and to-the dwoligendum soðfæstnesse weg bodode ȝ lærde. Ðæt sylfe erring of-truth way preached and taught The same eac swylce Boisil his magister on his tide gewunelice dyde. also likewise Boisil his master in his time customarily did Wæs in ða tid ðeaw Ongolcynnes folcum þæt, þonne Was in that time custom of-English-race to-folks that when mæssepreost oðþe oðer in tún com, ðæt hie ealle to his bebode masspriest or other into village came that they all at his command gesomnedon Godes word to gehyrenne; ȝ fuslice gehyrdon, gathered of-God word to hear and eagerly heard ða ðe him gelærde wæron, ond eac swylce neodlice mid those which to-them taught were and also likewise diligently with dædum læstton, ða ðe hie ongeotan mehton. Donne wæs deeds performed those which they understand could Then was ðam Godes menn Cuðbyrhte swa mycel getydnas 7 gelærednes to-the of-God man Cutbbert so great skill and learning to sprecenne 7 swa mycel lufu godcundre lare, ðe he to speak and so great love of-divine teaching which he læran ongon, ond swylc leoht engelices ondwitan him ofscan, teach began and such light of-angelic countenance him shone-from ðætte nænig ðara onweardra his heortan degolnessa him that none of-the present of-his heart secrets from-him helan dorste, ac ealle openlice heora dæda þurh ondettnesse bide dared but all openly their deeds through confession forðbæron. Forðon þe hi tealdon 7 him ðuhte, ðæt hine brought-forth Because that they reckoned and to-them seemed that him ða áne * miþe, þe he ðaa ne heora degolnesse witan ne those alone (conjecture) bid that he then not their secrets know — gymde; ond hi ða geondettan synne mid medemum wæstmum cared and they the confessed sins with worthy fruits soðre hreowe gebetton, swa he bebead. 7 gewunode he of-true penance amended as he commanded and was-wont he swiðost ða stowe geondferan 7 in ðam tunum godcunde lare chiefly the places go-through and in the villages divine teaching bodian, þa ðe in heaum morum 7 in reðum feorr gesette preach those which in high moors and in rough far set wæron 7 oðrum on gryre wæron to neosienne, 7 æghweðer were and to-others in terror were to visit and both ge mid þearfendnesse ge mid heora ungelærednesse ðara and with poverty and with their ignorance of-the lareowa fore hiaðoradon: ða he hweðere mid árfæste gewinne teachers away restrained which he however with pious labor mid mycelre geornfulnesse heofenlicre lare lustfullice beeode. with great zeal of-heavenly teaching gladly practiced Ond of ðæm mynstre úteode oft onwalge wucan, hwilum 364.9

And from the monastery went-out often whole weeks at-times twa oððe ðreo; swylce eac oft ealle monðe þæt he ham ne two or three likewise also often whole month that he home not hwearf, ac wunode in ðæm mórlandum ⁊ ðæt ungelærede returned but dwelt in the moorlands and the untaught folc somod ge mid worde his lara ge mid weorce his folk together both with word of-his teachings and with work of-his mægena to þæm heofenlican cleopode ⁊ laðode. virtues to the heavenly called and invited Ono mid þy he ða se árwyrða Godes ðeow monig gear in 364.14 Lo with that he then the venerable of-God servant many years in Mægilros ðæm mynstre drohtiende wæs, ⁊ þær mid miclum Melrose the monastery living was and there with great tacnum gastlicra mægena scán ⁊ byryhte, ða genam hine æt tokens of-spiritual virtues shone and brightened then took him at nehstan his se arwyrða abbod Eata to Lindesfarena ea, ðæt last his the venerable abbot Eata to Lindisfarne — that he ðær eac swilce ðæm broðrum sealde regollices ðeodscipes he there also likewise to-the brothers gave of-regular discipline gehæled, ge mid ealdorlicnesse his lare ge mid his sylfes keeping both with authority of-his teaching and with his own dæde, ypte ⁊ cyðde. Forðon ða sylfan stowe þe se ilca deed revealed and made-known Because the same place which the same árwyrða fæder Eata mid abbudes ánwalde heold ⁊ rehte — wæs venerable father Eata with of-abbot authority held and ruled was ðær io on ealdum tíðum ge biscop mid his geferum, ge eac there formerly in old times both bishop with his companions and also abbod wunode mid munecum. Hweðere hie to þæs biscopes scire abbot dwelt with monks However they to of-the bishop diocese heowesclice belumpon. Forðon se halga Godes man Iodon, se ðe household-wise belonged Because the holy of-God man Aidan he who ærest ðære stowe biscop wæs, big munuchade, he ðider com mid first of-the place bishop was by monkhood he thither came with munecum ⁊ munuclifes drohtunge he in ðæm mynstre gesette. monks and of-monk-life conduct he in the monastery established

XXIX · CUTHBERT ON FARNE AND IN HIS SEE

Cuthbert withdrew to Farne, drove out its demons, built a cell, found water in stony ground, and grew barley after wheat failed. At the synod by the Aln the whole council chose him, and only the king and many brothers sailing out could bring him in tears to accept. Consecrated at York, he taught by example, was patient and prayerful, and wept rather than raised his voice at mass.

364.27 Ðonon ða se halga Godes man Cuðbryht, wexendum Thence then the holy of-God man Cuthbert with-increasing geearningum áfestre ingehygde, ond eac swylce to degolnesse merits of-pious intention and also likewise to secrecy ⁊ to stillnesse becom ðære godcundan sceawunge áncerlifes, and to stillness came of-the divine contemplation of-anchorite-life swa we ár beforan sægdon. Ac forðon þe ár monegum as we before above said But because that before many gearum be his life ⁊ mægenum we genyhtsumlice awriton, ge years about his life and virtues we abundantly wrote both meterfersum ge geradre spræce, ðis án nu in ondweardnesse in-meter-verses and in-plain speech this alone now in present is genog to gemyngienne, þæt ða he ðæt ealond secan wolde, is enough to mention that when he the island seek would ðæt he wæs ðæm broðrum cidende ⁊ ðus cwæð: Gif me that he was to-the brothers chiding and thus said If to-me seo godcunde geofu in ðære stowe forgifen beon wile, þæt ic the divine grace in the place given be will that I lifgan mote be minum hondgewinne, ic ðær lustlice wunige. live may by my hand-labor I there gladly dwell Gif hit hwæt elles bið, ic hrædlice mid Godes willan eft to If it what else is I quickly with of-God will again to eow hweorfe. Wæs seo stow ge wæteres wædla ge eorðwæstma you return Was the place both of-water poor and of-earth-fruits ge treowa; ah þær wæs werigra gasta weorod ⁊ eardungstow and of-trees but there was of-accursed spirits host and dwelling-place ⁊ æghwylcere menniscra eardunge ungescræpe. Ac þa to and for-each human dwelling unfit But then to willan ðæs Godes weres heo eardiendlic wæs geworden; ond will of-the of-God man it habitable was become and sona for his cyme ða wergan gastas ðonon onweg gewiton. at-once for his coming the accursed spirits thence away departed ⁊ þa mid þy ðe ða feond onweg gewitone wæron, þa and then with that that the enemies away departed were then gesohte he him nearo wíc ⁊ wununesse, ond þa mid dice sought he for-himself narrow abode and dwelling and it with ditch ⁊ mid eorðwealle utan ymbsealde ⁊ gefæstnode; ⁊ in ðæm and with earth-wall outside surrounded and fastened and in it ða nedþearfican hús mid þara broðera honda ⁊ fultome, the necessary houses with of-the brothers hands and help ðæt is cyrican ⁊ gemæne eardunghús getimbrede. ⁊ ða that is church and common dwelling-house built and then het ða broðor in ðæs ilcan huses flore him seað adelfan. commanded the brothers in of-the same house floor for-him pit dig 366.17 Wæs seo eorðe to ðæs heard 7 to ðæs stanihte, þæt ðær Was the earth to that hard and to that stony that there nænig wiht wyllsprynges beon mihte on gesewen. Ða hi no whit of-well-spring be could on seen When they ða broðor ðæt dydon to geleafan 7 to benum ðæs Godes the brothers that did in faith and at prayers of-the of-God ðeowes, ða oðre dæge wæs he wætres ful gemeted. Þæt servant then on-other day was it of-water full found The ilce wæter æt ðysne ondweardan dæg eallum ðæm ðider same water at this present day to-all those thither cumendum his heofenlicu gifu genihtsumnesse ðegnað. Ða coming his heavenly grace of-abundance serves Then bæd se Godes man þæt him man isern geloman mid hwæte asked the of-God man that to-him one iron tools with wheat ðyder brohte þæt land mid to tawienne. Ða ðæt land ða thither brought that land with to till When the land then getawod wæs, 7 he on gerisne tid mid hwæte hit seow, þa tilled was and he in fitting time with wheat it sowed then ne com ðær nænig grownes up ne wæstm, ne furðum brordes not came there any growth up nor fruit nor even of-blade oð sumeres tid. Ða neosedon hie eft þa broðor 7 sohtan, until of-summer time Then visited they again the brothers and sought swa heora ðeaw wæs, ða heht he him beresæd bringan, as their custom was then commanded he them barley-seed bring gif wen wære, þæt þæt wexan wolde oðþe ðære eorðan gecynd if hope were that that grow would or of-the earth nature wære, oþþe willa wæs ðæs uplican gifendes, ðæt ðæs wæstmes were or will was of-the upper giver that of-the fruit eard þær wære upp eornende. Ða him ða ðæt sæd broht crop there were up running When to-him then the seed brought wæs ofer ealle tide to sawenne, 7 ofer ealne hiht wæsm was beyond all time to sow and beyond all hope fruit to berenne he in ðæm ilcan lande seow, þa georn ðær sona to bear he in the same land sowed then ran there at-once upp genihtsumlic yrð ⁊ wæstm, ⁊ þa wilnedon gereordnesse up abundant crop and fruit and the desired food ðam Godes were gegearwode his agnes hondgewinnes.

to-the of-God man prepared of-his own hand-labor

Mid þy he ða monig gear þær in ancerlīfe Dryhtne ðeowode, 368.1

With that he then many years there in anchorite-life to-Lord served þa gelamp, þæt man mycelne seonoð gesomnode be Alnes then happened that one great synod gathered by of-Aln streame in þære stowe, þe is cweden Æt Twyfyrd, under stream in the place which is called At Twyford under andweardnesse Ecgfreoðes ðæs cyninges. Ðam seonoðe in presence of-Ecgfrith the king To-the synod in ealdordome foresæt ðære eadigan gemynde Ðeodor ercebiscop; authority presided of-the blessed memory Theodore archbishop ⁊ he ðær wæs mid anmodre geþafunge ealra ðara weotena and he there was with unanimous consent of-all the councilors to biscope gecoren ðære cyrican æt Lindesfarena éa. ⁊ hi as bishop chosen of-the church at Lindisfarne — and they ða manige ærendwrecan ⁊ gewreoto him sendon, ⁊ hie then many messengers and letters to-him sent and they hine hweðre nænige ðinga of his wicum ⁊ of his stowe him however in-no way from his dwellings and from his place to him gelaðian ne mehton. Ða æt nehstan se foresprecena to them invite — could Then at last the aforesaid cyning self, ⁊ se halga biscop Trumwine mid him ⁊ king self and the holy bishop Trumwine with him and monige oþre æfeste wasas ⁊ rice liðon on ðæt ealond. many other pious men and powerful sailed onto the island ⁊ eac swylce mænige þara broðra of Lindesfarena éa and also likewise many of-the brothers from Lindisfarne — efncomon to him ⁊ ealle heora cneowa begdon, ⁊ tearas came-together to him and all their knees bent and tears guton ⁊ hine ðurh ðone lifigendon Dryhten halsedon shed and him through the living Lord besought ⁊ bædon, oþ þæt hie hine eac swylce teara fulne of and prayed until that they him also likewise of-tears full from his ðæm swetan degolnessum atugon ⁊ to ðam seonode his the sweet secrecies drew and to the synod gelæddon. Mid þy he ða þyder com, þeah þe he swiðe led With that he then thither came though that he greatly wiðwinnende wære, mid ánmode willan heora ealra he wæs resisting were with unanimous will of-them all he was oferswiðed ⁊ geneded to onfonne þa ðegnung e biscop hades. overcome and compelled to receive the office of-bishopric

368.18 Wæs he swyðust mid þy worde oferswiðed, ðætte Bosel se Was he most with the word overcome that Boisil the Dryhtnes þeow, þa he him þurh witedomes gast eal þa þing of-Lord servant when he to-him through of-prophecy spirit all the things openade ⁊ sægde, þa ðe ofer hine cumende wæron, þa he disclosed and said those which over him coming were then he eac swylce forecwæþ, ðæt he towardlice biscop beon sceolde. also likewise foretold that he in-future bishop be should 368.22 Ne wæs ða hweðre sona his halgunge gedemed; ac forðagane Not was then however at-once his consecration judged but passed ðy wintra, ðe ða toward wæs, in ðære seolfan Easterlican the winter which then coming was in the same Easter symbelnesse in Eoferwicceastre wæs gefylled in ondweardnesse festival in York was fulfilled in presence Ecgferðes þæs cyninges: ⁊ seofen biscopas to his halgunge of-Ecgfrith the king and seven bishops to his consecration efencomon, in ðæm ðære eadigan gemynde Theodor biscop came-together among whom of-the blessed memory Theodore bishop ealdordom hæfde. He ða ðone onfongnan biscophád to authority had He then the received bishopric to onhyrenisse þara eadigra apostola mid weorcum gastlicra imitation of-the blessed apostles with works of-spiritual mægena frætweode, 7 þæt bebodene folc, þe he Gode virtues adorned and the committed folk which he for-God healdan sceolde, ægheþer ge mid his singalum gebedum keep should both and with his continual prayers scylde, ge mid his halwendum moningum 7 larum to ðæm shielded and with his salutary admonitions and teachings to the heofenlican cegde 7 laðode; 7 þætte swiðost gewunað heavenly called and invited and that most is-wont halige lareowas gefultuman, swa hwæt swa he mid his worde holy teachers help so what so he with his word lærde, he ær mid dædum gefylde. Wæs he ær eallum taught he before with deeds fulfilled Was he before all ðingum mid þy fyre godcundre lufan hát 7 weallende, 7 in things with the fire of-divine love hot and boiling and in geðylde mægene gemetfæst, ond in wilsumnesse haligra gebeda of-patience virtue moderate and in devotion of-holy prayers begneorð 7 geornful; 7 he wæs eallum gespræce ðam þe intent and zealous and he was to-all affable to-those who to him for intingan frofre comon; 7 þæt sylfe he wæs to him for cause of-comfort came and that same he was lædende in stowe halges gebedes, gif he ðam untruman leading [counting] in place of-holy prayer if he to-the weak broðrum mid his trymenesse 7 lare fultum sealde. brothers with his exhortation and teaching help gave Forðon he wiste 7 gemunde: se þe cwæð, lufa ðu þinne 370.6 Because he knew and remembered he who said love thou thy Dryhten God, se ilca cwæð, lufa ðu þinne ðone nehstan. Wæs Lord God the same said love thou thy the neighbor Was he mid clæsnunge forhæfdnesse weorð 7 mære; 7 symle mid he with cleansing of-abstinence worthy and famous and ever with þære gife onbryrdnesse wæs to ðam heofenlican aðened. Ðæs the grace of-compunction was to the heavenly stretched Of-that wæs to tacute, þonne he Gode onsægdnesse bær 7 mæssan was as token when he to-God sacrifice bore and mass sang, ðæt he his stefne on heánesse ne ahófe, ah forðgotenum sang that he his voice on height not raised but with-poured-forth tearum of innewardre heortan Dryhtne his willan bebed. tears from inward heart to-Lord his will commended

XXX · CUTHBERT AND HERBERT

After two years Cuthbert returned to Farne, knowing his death was near. His friend Herbert, a hermit on an island in a great lake, met him at Carlisle and begged that they might die together; Cuthbert prayed and told him it was granted. Both died on the same day, and Herbert's long illness is taken as a purging that made him equal to his friend. Cuthbert was buried at Lindisfarne, where Wilfrid held the see a year before Eadberht succeeded.

- 370.13 Ða wæs twa gear ðæt he ðæt biscopsetl swa sæt 7 heold.
 Then was two years that he the bishop-seat so sat and held Ða wæs he godcundlice manod, þæt he eft his ealond 7 Then was he divinely admonished that he again his island and his wíc gecure 7 gewilnode; forðon se ingang nealæcte his dwelling chose and desired because the entrance approached his dæaðdages, oðþe má his lifes, forðon ðæt án is of-his death-day or rather of-his life because that alone is soðlic líf to cweðenne; swa swa he sylf in ða ilcan tíð true life to call so as he self in that same time monegum monnum mid his ðære gewunelican bilwitnesse to-many men with his the customary simplicity diglum wordum openade 7 cyððe, þa mon hwedere with-hidden words disclosed and made-known which one however æfter fæce sweotollice ongeotan mihte. Sumum monnum he after space clearly understand could To-some men he ðonne þæt ilce openlice onwreah 7 cydde.

then the same openly revealed and made-known

Wæs sum mæssepreost árwyrdes lifes, þæs noma wæs 370.21

Was a masspriest of-venerable life whose name was Herebyrht, se wæs geara 7 longe þæm Godes were in Herbert who was long-since and long to-the of-God man in were geðeoded gastlices freondscipes. Wæs se in ealonde þæs covenant joined of-spiritual friendship Was he on island of-the mycclan meres, of ðæm ðe ða fruman aweallað Deorwentan great lake from which that the sources well-up of-Derwent streames; ond ancerlife lifde. Wæs his gewuna, þæt he stream and in-anchorite-life lived Was his custom that he syndrigum gearum hine neosade 7 sohte, 7 from him in-individual years him visited and sought and from him monunge gehyrde ecre hæle. Ða he gehyrde þæt se biscop admonition heard of-eternal salvation When he heard that the bishop com to Lugubalia ðære ceastre, ða com he, swa his ðeaw came to Carlisle the city then came he as his custom wæs, þider to him 7 wilnode, ðæt he mid his halwendum was thither to him and desired that he with his salutary trymenessum to ðæm upplican lustum má 7 má onbærned exhortations to the upper desires more and more kindled wære. Ða hie ða betwih him spræcon be haligra fædera were When they then between them spoke about of-holy fathers life 7 him betwih bædeweg scencton þæs heofenlican lifes, life and them between cup poured of-the heavenly life ða cwæð se biscop betwih: Gemyne ðu broðor Herebryht, then said the bishop between Remember thou brother Herbert þætte þu nu mec frigne 7 to me spræce, swah wæt swa that thou now me ask and to me speak so what so ðu wille 7 ðearfe hæbbe. Forðon ðe æfter þon ðe wit nu thou wilt and need have Because that after that that we-two now betwih unc nu togangne beoð, ne geseo wit unc ofer ðæt between us now separated are not see we-two us beyond that in ðisse weorulde lichomlicum eagum. Forðon ic cuðlice wát, in this world with-bodily eyes Because I certainly know þæt seo tíð minre tolysnese 7 minre forðfore is swiðe neah. that the time of-my release and of-my departure is very near 372.5

Ða he ða ðas word gehyrde, ða feol he to his fotum When he then these words heard then fell he to his feet 7 mid mycelre eomrunge his tearas geát: 7 sárlice weop and with great lamentation his tears shed and sorely wept 7 þus cwæð: Ic ðe halsige þurh ðone lifigendan Drihten, and thus said I thee beseech through the living Lord ðæt ðu mec ne forlæte, ac þæt þu sie gemyndig getreowan that thou me not forsake but that thou be mindful of-faithful geðoftan, ond bidde þa uplican arfæstnesse, ðæt þæm Gode, comrade and pray the upper mercy that to-the God þe wit somod on eorðan ðeowodon — ðæt wit eac whom we-two together on earth served that we-two also somod moton to heofenum *feran his gife þær to geseonne together may to heavens go his grace there to see 7 to sceawigenne. Forðon þu wast ðæt ic symle teolode to and to behold Because thou knowest that I ever strove to lifigenne to ðines muðes bebode, 7 swa hwæt swa ic for live at of-thy mouth command and so what so I for unwisnesse 7 for tydernesse agylte, ic þæt to dome ðines unwisdom and for frailty sinned I that to judgment of-thy willan teolode hraðe to gebettenne. Ða aðenede se biscop hine will strove quickly to amend Then stretched the bishop himself in cruce ⁊ hine gebæd, ⁊ sona wæs in gaste gelæred, þæt in cross and himself prayed and at-once was in spirit taught that he wæs from Dryhtne tigða þære bene, ðe he bād; ond he was from Lord granted the prayer which he asked and cwæð. Aris mín broðor ⁊ ne wep þu, ah gefeoh ⁊ geblissa: said Arise my brother and not weep thou but rejoice and be-glad forðon seo uplice arfæstnes unc forgeaf, ðæt wit bædon. because the upper mercy to-us-two granted what we-two asked Ðæs gehátes ⁊ ðæs witedomes soð se afterfylgenda becyme 372.19 Of-the promise and of-the prophecy truth the following outcome ðara wisena geseðde ⁊ getrymede. Forðon ða hie betweoh of-the things proved and confirmed Because when they between him togangende wæron, ða hie ofer ðæt lichomlicum eagum ne them parting were then they beyond that with-bodily eyes not gesawon; ⁊ ane dæge ⁊ ðy ilcan, ðæt is ðy ðreotteoðan saw and on-one day and on-the same that is on-the thirteenth dæge Kalendarum Aprelium, þæt hie wæron of lichoman day of-the-Kalends April that they were from body útgoingende; ⁊ heora gastas sona betwih mid eadigre gesihðe going-out and their spirits at-once between with blessed vision geðeodde wæron ⁊ midd þa engellican ðegnunga ætgædere to joined were and with the angelic ministry together to ðæm heofenlican rice gelædde. Ac Herebyrht wæs ær mid the heavenly kingdom led But Herbert was before with singalre untrumnesse soden ⁊ geswenced. Is ðæt to gelyfenne, continual infirmity seethed and afflicted Is that to believe þætte þæt wære mid forestihtunge dón þære godcundan that that were with predestination done of-the divine árfæstnesse, þætte swa hwæt swa he læs ⁊ wonan hæfde mercy that so what so he less and lacking had geearnunge from ðæm eadegan Cuðbrehte, þætte ðæt gefylde of-merit from the blessed Cutbbert that that fulfilled

7 geclænsode þæt sár ðære longan untrumnesse, þæt he swa and cleansed the pain of-the long infirmity that he so geefenlicad wære mid þa gife his ðingeres: þæt swa swa he in made-equal were with the grace of-his intercessor that so as he in ane tid 7 in ða ilcan mid hine of lichoman gongende wæs, one time and in the same with him from body going was þæt he ðonne ec swylce swa mid hine nalas in ungelicum that he then also likewise so with him not-at-all in unlike selde þære ecan eadignesse gearnode onfongen beon.

seat of-the eternal blessedness earned received be 374.1 Forðferde se árwyrða fæder Cuðbyrht in Farne ðæm ealonde;

Departed the venerable father Cutbbert in Farne the island 7 he swiðe georne wæs ða broðor biddende, þæt he ðær eac and he very earnestly was the brothers asking that he there also swylce bebyrged beon moste, þær he mycle tid for Dryhtne likewise buried be might where he for-great time for Lord campode. Ond hweðre æt nehstan þæt he wæs mid heora fought And however at last that he was with their benum oferswiðed, þæt he geðafode, þæt mon his lic lædde prayers overcome that he consented that one his body led to Lindesfarena ea, ond þær in cirican geseted wære. Ða to Lindisfarne — and there in church set were When ðæt geworden wæs, þa heold þære cyrican biscopphád an gear that done was then held of-the church bishopric one year Wilferð se arwyrða biscop, oðþæt se biscop gecoren wære, se þe Wilfrid the venerable bishop until the bishop chosen were he who fore Cuðbyrhte gehalgod beon sceolde. Þa wæs æfter þon, ðæt for Cutbbert consecrated be should Then was after that that wæs Eadbyrht to biscope gehalgod. Wæs se wer in wísdom was Eadberht as bishop consecrated Was the man in wisdom godcundra gewreota 7 eac swylce somod in hælde heofenlicra of-divine writings and also likewise together in keeping of-heavenly beboda ond swiðust in weorcum ælmesdæda weorð 7 mære, commands and most in works of-alm-deeds worthy and famous swa ðæt he æghwelce geare æfter Moyses é, nales ðæt aan so that he in-each year after of-Moses law not-at-all that alone feðerfotra neata ac swylce eac ealra wæstma 7 æppla 7 of-four-footed cattle but likewise also of-all fruits and apples and hrægla ðone teoðan dæl for Gode to ælmessum ðearfum sealde. garments the tenth part for God as alms to-poor gave

XXXI · CUTHBERT'S BODY FOUND WHOLE

Eleven years after his burial the brothers opened Cuthbert's grave to raise his bones and found the body whole and flexible, more like one sleeping than dead, and his clothes fresh. Eadberht, told of it in his retreat by the sea, kissed the garments, had the body dressed anew, and said the empty grave would not stay empty long. He died soon after and was buried in it beneath the new coffin.

Ðæt wolde ða openlicor æteawan seo godcunde arfæstnes, 374.15 That would then more-openly show the divine mercy in hu myclum wuldre se Dryhtnes wer Cuðbyrht æfter in how great glory the of-Lord man Cuthbert after his deaðe lifde; † þæs his líf ær ðam deaðe mid his death lived (corrupt) whose his life before the death with healicum tacnum heofenlicra wundra openade 7 æteawde. lofty tokens of-heavenly wonders disclosed and showed Ða wæs ymb endlefen gear þæs ðe he bebyrged wæs, Then was about eleven years after-that that he buried was ðætte God onsende in ðara broðra mod, þæt heo woldan that God sent into of-the brothers mind that they would his bân geneoman 7 úp ofer eorðan adón. Tealdon hie his bones take and up over earth put Reckoned they 7 wendon þæt his oðer lichoma ðy ðeawe deadra manna and thought that his other body by-the custom of-dead men fornumen wære 7 to duste geworden, 7 ðæt hie woldon consumed were and to dust become and that they would his bân on niwe cyste gedón 7 in ðære ilcan stowe bufan his bones in new chest put and in the same place above eorðan gedefelicre arwyrðnesse wel gesettan 7 gestaðelian. earth with-fitting reverence well set and establish 374.25 Ða sægdon hie ðæt 7 cyðdon Eadbyrhte heora biscope Then said they that and made-known to-Eadberht their bishop þæt him ðæt licede 7 leof wære, gif hit his willa wære, that to-them that pleased and dear were if it his will were ða geðafode he þæt heora geðeahte, 7 het ðæt hie þæt then consented he that their counsel and commanded that they that dydon ðy dæge, þe his gemynddæg wære 7 his forðfór. did on-the day that his memorial-day were and his departure 7 hie swa dydon: ontyndon his byrgenne 7 ealne his and they so did opened his tomb and all his lichoman gemetton onwalhne 7 gesundne, swa swa he þa body found whole and sound so as he then gena lifde, 7 he wæs begendlic in ðam geðeodnessum leoða, yet lived and he was flexible in the joinings of-limbs þæt he wæs myccle gelicra slæpendum menn þonne deadum. that he was much liker to-sleeping man than to-dead Swylce eac ealle ða hrægl, þa ðe he mid gegearwad wæs, Likewise also all the garments those which he with clothed was nales ðæt an þæt hie ungewemmed wæron, ah swylce not-at-all that alone that they unblemished were but likewise eac swa hwít 7 swa neowe wunderlice æteawdon, swa he also so white and so new wondrously appeared as he ðy ilcan dæge mid gewered wære. Ða þæt þa ða broðor on-the same day with clothed were When that then the brothers gesawon, þa wæron hie swiðe forhte gewordne, 7 ða saw then were they very afraid become and then efestton ðæm biscope to cyðenne 7 secgenne ða ðing ðe hastened to-the bishop to make-known and say the things which hie ðær gemetton. Se þa ænlepe wunode in syndrigre stowe they there found He then alone dwelt in separate place from ðære cyrican, seo wæs æghwonon mid sæs yðum from the church which was on-every-side with of-sea waves utan ymbgyrded. In ðisse stowe he simle on ða tid ðæs outside girt In this place he ever in the time of-the feowertiglican fæstennes ær Eastrum 7 eft ðæt feowertig forty-day fast before Easter and again the forty ær Cristes gebyrtdide in mycelre forhæfdnesse 7 in mycelre before of-Christ birth-time in great abstinence and in great wilsumnesse gebeda 7 in teara gegote gewunelice wæs. devotion of-prayers and in of-tears shedding customarily was In ðære stowe eac swylce se arwyrða his foregenga Cuðbryht, 376.12 In the place also likewise the venerable his predecessor Cuthbert ær ðon þe he Farne þæt ealand gesohte, sum fæc in before that that he Farne the island sought some space in deagolnesse Dryhtne campode. Brohton hie ðyder eac swylce secrecy for-Lord fought Brought they thither also likewise ðam biscope ðara hrægla dæl, þe se halga lichoma mid to-the bishop of-the garments part which the holy body with gegyrwed wæs. 7 he þære gife ðoncwyrdlice onfeng, 7 þa clothed was and he the gift thankfully received and the wundor lustlice gehyrde ond þa sylfan hrægl mid wunderlicre wonders gladly heard and the same garments with wondrous lufe cyssende wæs, swa heo ða gena þam lichoman þæs love kissing was as they then yet to-the body of-the halgan fæder ymbseald wæron; 7 ðus cwæð: Gegyrewað ðone holy father put-around were and thus said Clothe the lichoman mid neowum hræglum fore ðam ðe ge ðær on body with new garments for those that ye there from noman, 7 swa in ða cyste gesettað, þe ge him gegearwodon. took and so in the chest set which ye for-him prepared Forðæm ic þæt cuðlice wát, þæt seo stow noht lange æmettig Because I that certainly know that the place not long empty ne wunað, seo mid swa mycelre gife heofenlicre gife gehalgod — remains which with so great gift of-heavenly grace hallowed is. Ond se bið swiðe eadig se ðe him Drihten, se is órd is And he is very blessed he who to-him Lord who is origin 7 syllend ealra eadignessa, forgifeð, þátte he in ðære stowe and giver of-all blessednesses grants that he in the place restan mote. Ða he ða se biscop ðas word 7 monig þysses rest may When he then the bishop these words and many of-this gemetes mid manegum tearum 7 mid mycelre inbryrdnesse sort with many tears and with great compunction heortan 7 swylce eac forhtigendre tungan gefylde, ða dydon of-heart and likewise also with-trembling tongue fulfilled then did ða broðor swa he het, ond þone lichoman gegyredon the brothers as he commanded and the body clothed mid neowum hrægle, 7 in ða neowan cyste gedydon, ðe with new garment and in the new chest put which hi to ðon geworhton, 7 bufan flore ðære cirican asetton. they for that made and above floor of-the church set 376.31 Ne wæs þa elding, þátte Gode se leofa biscop Eadbryht wæs Not was then delay that to-God the dear bishop Eadberht was mid grimre adle ðread 7 gestanden; 7 seo dæghwamlice with grim disease afflicted and assailed and it daily weox 7 hefigode, þæt he nalas after miclum fæce he eac grew and grew-heavy that he not-at-all after great space he also swylce to Dryhtne ferde, þæt is ærran dæge Nonas Maias. likewise to Lord went that is on-former day Nones May Ðæs lichoman þa broðor wæron gesettende in ða byrgenne Whose body the brothers were setting in the tomb ðæs gebletsadon fæder Cuðbryhtes 7 ða cyste bufan gesetton, of-the blessed father Cuthbert and the chest above set in ða hie gestaðeledon þa ungebrosendlican leomo þæs ilcan in which they placed the incorruptible limbs of-the same fæder. In ðære stowe eac swylce oft beoð geworden heofenlicu father In the place also likewise often are done heavenly mægen 7 hælo tacen untrumra in cyðnesse heora begra miracles and of-healing tokens of-sick in witness of-their both geearnunga. Ða sume we geara for gemynde awriton in ðære merits Those some we formerly for memory wrote in the bec Cuðberhtes lifes; ac in ðissum ussum stære we sceolon book of-Cuthbert life but in this our history we shall án toætcan, þe us gelamp þæt we neowan gehyrdon.

one add which to-us happened that we newly heard

XXXII · BADUTHEGN HEALED

Baduthegn, the guestmaster at Lindisfarne, was struck by palsy on one side coming home from washing bedding in the sea. He dragged himself on a crutch to Cuthbert's tomb, prayed, and slept; a hand seemed to touch his head, and the pain left him. He rose healed and returned to his work. Cuthbert's clothes, too, still heal.

Wæs in ðæm ilcan mynstre sum broðor, ðæs noma wæs 378.10 Was in the same monastery a brother whose name was Beadoþegn, se wæs lange tid cumena árðegen þara ðe Baduthegn who was long time of-guests attendant of-those who þæt mynster sohton. 7 cwæð, þæt he ða gena lifgende the monastery sought and said that he then yet living wære, þa he þis gewrit sette. Hæfde he gewitnesse 7 were when he this writing set Had he witness and cyðnesse from eallum ðæm broðrum ⁊ from eallum þam testimony from all the brothers and from all the cumendum, þe ðæt mynster sohton, þæt he wæs mycelre comers who the monastery sought that he was of-great arfæstnesse wer, ⁊ þære bebodenan ðegnunge eadmodlice piety man and to-the committed office humbly underðeoded for intingan heofenlicre meorðe.

subjected for cause of-heavenly reward

378.17 Ða eode þes broðor sume dæge, þæt he wolde his reon ⁊ Then went this brother on-a day that he would his blanket and his hwitlas, ðam ðe he in cumena bure brucende wæs, in his cloaks which that he in of-guests chamber using was in sá wæscan ⁊ feormian. Ða he ða eft ham hwearf, þa sea wash and cleanse When he then again home turned then wearð he semninga on middum þæm siðfæte mid hefigre was he suddenly in midst the journey with heavy aðle gehrinen ⁊ gestonden, swa þæt he hreas ⁊ feoll disease touched and assailed so that he collapsed and fell on eorðan ⁊ long fæc forðheald licgende wæs; ⁊ þa æt on earth and long space prostrate lying was and then at nehstan hwón aras. Ða he arisende wæs, þa gefelde he his last a-little arose When he arising was then felt he of-his lichoman healfne dæl from þæm heafde oð þa fét mid þa body half part from the head to the feet with the aðle geslægene beon, þe Grecas nemnað paralysis, ⁊ we disease struck be which Greeks name paralysis and we cweðað lyftadl; ⁊ he mid þy mæstan gewinne mid his crycce call palsy and he with the greatest labor with his crutch hine wreðigende ham becom. Weox seo adl sticcemælum, himself supporting home came Grew the disease little-by-little ⁊ sona on ðære ilcan niht hefigre gefremed wæs, swa and at-once in the same night heavier made was so ðæt, ða dæg com, þæt he uneaðe þurh hine sylfne ariisan that when day came that he hardly through him self arise oþþe gan mihte. Ða wæs he mid þære adle gewæced ⁊ or go could When was he with the disease weakened and geswenced, þa geþohte he on his mode nytte geþeahthe, þæt afflicted then thought he in his mind useful counsel that he wolde swylce gemete, swa he mihte, to cyrican cuman he would in-such manner as he could to church come ⁊ to byrgenne þæs árwyrdan fæder Cuðbryhtes, ⁊ þær his and to tomb of-the venerable father Cutbbert and there his cneow began ⁊ eadmodlice þa úþlican arfæstnesse biddan, knee bend and humbly the upper mercy pray oð þæt he from ðære adle genered wære, gif him festre until that he from the disease saved were if to-him better wære ðæt, oþþe gif he mid þa godcundan foreseonnesse were that or if he with the divine providence leng mid ða adle clænsad beon sceolde, ðæt he þæt saar longer with the disease cleansed be should that he the pain mihte geþyldiglice mid smolte mode aberan ⁊ aræfnan. might patiently with calm mind bear and endure Ða dyde he, swa he on his mode gehogde, ⁊ his ða untruman 380.6 Then did he as he in his mind purposed and his the sick leomo mid his crycce wreðgende eode in cyrican; ⁊ hine limbs with his crutch supporting went into church and himself wæs in gebed streccende æt lichoman þæs Godes weres ⁊ mid was in prayer stretching at body of-the of-God man and with árfæstre ingehygde þurh his fultum wæs Dryhten biddende, pious intention through his help was Lord praying þæt he him árfæst ⁊ milde wære. Ond þa betwih his gebede that he to-him merciful and mild were And then amid his prayer ⁊ bene ðæt he hwón onsleep. Ða gefelde he, swa swa he and supplication that he a-little fell-asleep Then felt he so as he seolfa æfter sægde, swa swa mycel hond 7 brad his heafod self afterward said so as great hand and broad his head gehrine in ðam dæle, þe þæt sár 7 seo adl on wæs, 7 touched in the part which the pain and the disease on was and mid þære ilcan gehrinenesse ealne þone dæl his lichoman, with the same touching all the part of-his body ðær he mid þære adle gehefigod wæs, on styccemælum where he with the disease burdened was in little-by-little fleondum þæm sare 7 æfterfylgendre hælo geondgoten wæs. fleeing the pain and following health suffused was Ða ðis ðus geworden wæs, sona ðæs ðe he onwóc, ða arás When this thus done was soon that that he awoke then arose he hal 7 gesund. Ond he for his hælo eft Dryhtne þonc he whole and sound And he for his health again to-Lord thanks secgende wæs 7 þæm halgan were his fultomes gyfe; 7 he saying was and to-the holy man of-his help gift and he ðæt eac swylce þæm broðrum cyððe 7 sægde, hwæt ymb that also likewise to-the brothers made-known and said what about hine gedon wæs; 7 hie in þæm ealle blissedon 7 gefegon. him done was and they in that all rejoiced and were-glad 7 he æfter ðære ðreaunge ðe geclænsodra to his ðegnunge and he after the chastening the more-cleansed to his office eft hwerf, þe he ær wel 7 bighydglice heold 7 bigeode. again turned which he before well and carefully held and practiced 380.23 Swylce eac ða gegyrelan 7 ða hrægl, ðam ðe Gode Likewise also the garments and the clothes with-which that to-God ðone gehalgodan lichoman Cuðberhtes oðþe ær lifes ende the consecrated body of-Cuthbert either before of-life end oþþe æfter forðferedne gyredon, ða eac swylce from hælo or after departed clothed those also likewise from of-healing gyfe ne adweledon, swa swa in ðære bec his lifes ȝ his grace not strayed so as in the book of-his life and of-his mægena gemét swa hwylc swa hy rædeð ȝ leornað. virtues finds so which so it reads and learns

XXXIII · THE EYE HEALED BY CUTHBERT'S HAIR

At the monastery by the Dacre, a young man had a growth on his eyelid that no physician could cure. The priest Thrythred, handing out relics of Cuthbert's hair, let him hold some, and the youth pressed it to the swelling. By noon the lid was whole, as if nothing had ever been there.

Nis ðæt eac swylce to forswugienne, ðætte nu ær 380.28 Not-is that also likewise to pass-over-in-silence that now before þrím gearum þurh his reliquias geworden wæs, ȝ three years through his relics done was and me nu neowan þurh ðone sylfan broðor gecuðode, in to-me now newly through the same brother made-known on ðæm þe hit geworden wæs. Wæs ðis gedon in ðæm whom that it done was Was this done in the mynstre, þe big Docore ðære éa getimbred is, ȝ monastery which by Dacre the river built is and from ðære éa noman onfeng, ðam mynstre ða in from the river name received to-the monastery then in abbodes onwalde fore wæs Swiðbyrht, se wæs æfest of-abbot power over was Swithberht who was pious wer.

man

Wæs in ðæm mynstre sum geong monn, ðam unwlitig 382.3 Was in the monastery a young man to-whom unsightly swylce ȝ atolic his eagan breg wyrde ȝ wemde. ȝ swelling and hideous of-his eye lid disfigured and marred and se dæghwamlīce wæs weaxende, ⁊ ðæs eagan forwyrde it daily was growing and of-the eye destruction tobeotode. Teoleden his læcas ⁊ ðone swylce mid threatened strove his physicians and the swelling with sealfum ⁊ mid beþinge geðwænan woldon; ac hie ne salves and with fomentation soften would but they not mehton. Sume lærdon ðæt hine mon aweg acurfe; sume could Some advised that it one away cut some þæt beweredon for maran frecennesse. Mid þy ða se that forbade for greater danger With that then the foresprecena broðor langere tide ðyllic ungescræpo woon, aforsaid brother for-long time such discomfort endured ne ða tobeotiendan frecernesse ðam eagam mannes hond nor the threatening danger to-the eyes of-man hand gehælan mihte ac á dæghwæmlīce wæs wyrse ⁊ wyrse, ða heal could but ever daily was worse and worse then gelamp him semninga mid gife þære godcundan arfæstnesse happened to-him suddenly with grace of-the divine mercy þurh reliquias ðæs halgan fæder Cuðbryhtes gehæledne through relics of-the holy father Cuthbert healed beon.

be

382.14 Forðon ða þa broðor his lichoman æfter manegum Because when the brothers his body after many gearum his bebyrgednesse ungewemmedne ⁊ ungebrodnodne years of-his burial undefiled and uncorrupted gemetton, þa genamon hi sumne dæl his feaxes him found then took they some part of-his hair for-themselves to reliquium, þæt hie mihton heora biddendum freondum as relics that they might to-their asking friends syllan, oþþe æteawan in tacan ðæs wundres. Ðysa reliquia give or show in token of-the wonder Of-these relics dæl in ða tid mid him hæfde sum mæssepreost þæs part in that time with him had a masspriest of-the ilcan mynstres, ðæs noma wæs Drydred, se æfter wæs same monastery whose name was Thrythred who afterward was ðæs ilcan mynstres abbod. Ða wæs he sume dæg in ða of-the same monastery abbot Then was he on-a day into the cyrican gongende ⁊ ða cyste ontynde þara reliquia, þæt church going and the chest opened of-the relics that he heora sumne dæl his biddendum freonde sealde, þa he of-them some part to-his asking friend gave then gelomp þæt se ilca geonga, se ðe on his eagan untrum happened that the same young-man he who in his eye sick wæs, þa in ðære ilcan cyrican wæs ondweard. Mid þy he was then in the same church was present With that he ða se mæssepreost ðone dæl, þe he wolde, his freonde then the masspriest the part which he would to-his friend sealde, ða sealde he þæt oðer þam geongan men; heht gave then gave he the other to-the young man commanded þæt he in heora stowe hie gesette ⁊ gedyde. Ða he that he in their place them set and put When he ða þæm feaxe onfeng þæs halgan heafdes, ða wæs he then the hair received of-the holy head then was he mid halwendre onbryrnesse manod, ðæt he togesette þam with salutary compunction admonished that he applied to-the untruman brege; ⁊ sum fæc ðone ungeþwæran swyle mid sick lid and some space the troublesome swelling with þyde ⁊ þwænde.

pressed and softened

Ða he ðæt gedon hæfde, þa sette he þa reliquias in When he that done had then set he the relics in heora cyste, swa he haten wæs, ond gelefde þæt his their chest as he commanded was and believed that his 382.29

eage for ðy fexe þæs Godes weres, þæm he hrinen eye for the hair of-the of-God man with-which he touched wæs, hraðe gehæled wære. Ne hine owiht his geleafa was quickly healed were Not him at-all his faith wægde. Wæs ða seo æftere tid dæg, swa he sylf deceived Was then the second hour of-day as he self sægde, ða he þæt dyde; ond þa dyde forð þone dæg, said when he that did and then did forth the day ðæt he don ær ðohte. Ða hit wæs foreweard middæg what he do before thought When it was early midday ðæs seolfan dæg, þa semnunga gehran he his eagan; of-the same day then suddenly touched he his eye þa gemette he hit swa hál 7 swa gesund mid þy then found he it so whole and so sound with the brege swa him næfre ænig swyle oppe unwlitegnes ne lid as to-him never any swelling or unsightliness — æteauðe.
appeared

BOOK V

I · ÆTHELWALD STILLS THE STORM

Æthelwald, a priest of Ripon, followed Cuthbert as hermit on Farne. The priest Guthfrith told how he and two brothers, sailing home from a visit to him, were caught by a storm they could neither row nor sail against. Æthelwald came out of his cell, saw their danger, and knelt in prayer; the sea calmed until they reached land, then the storm rose again all day. He lived twelve years on Farne and was buried at Lindisfarne.

Ða aefterfylgde ðæm Drihtnes were Cuðberhte in bigonge 384.5 Then succeeded to-the of-Lord man Cuthbert in practice ðæs ancorlifes, ða he dyde in Farne ðæm ealonde aer of-the anchorite-life which he did in Farne the island before tiidum his bisscoppaades, se aarwyrða wer Aedelwald, se times of-his bishopric the venerable man Æthelwald who monigum gearum aer in ðæm mynstre, ðe cweden is for-many years before in the monastery which called is Inhrypum, ða onfongnan ðegnunge mæssepreosthades æfter Ripon the received office of-masspriesthood after wyrðum dædum ðæm hade gehalgade. Ðæs godes monnes worthy deeds to-the order hallowed Of-the good man geearnung oððo his liif, hwelc were, cuðlicor ascined, gif ic merit or his life what were more-clearly shines if I áan his wundor ásecgo, ðæt me án ðara broðra sægde, fore one of-his wonders tell which to-me one of-the brothers said for ðæm 7 in ðæm ðe hit gefremed wæs, ðæt wæs Cuðfrið whom and on whom that it performed was that was Guthfrith se aarwyrða Cristes ðeow 7 mæssepreost, se ec swelce the venerable of-Christ servant and masspriest who also likewise

384.16

æfter ðon ðæm broðrum ðære ilcan cirican Liidisfearona eae, after that to-the brothers of-the same church Lindisfarne — in ðære he afeded wæs, in onwalde abbuddoomes fore wæs. in which he brought-up was in power of-abbacy over was Cwæð he: Ic cwoom mid tuæm oðrum broðrum to Farne Said he I came with two other brothers to Farne ðæm ealonde. Wolde ic specan mid þone arwyrdan fæder the island Would I speak with the venerable father Aedelwald. Mid þy ic ða wæs mid his gesprece wel geroeted Æthelwald With that I then was with his speech well cheered ȝ me bletsonge bæd ȝ we haam hwurfon, ða we ða and me blessing asked and we home turned when we then wæron on midre ðære sæ, ða wæs somninga hiofones were on mid the sea then was suddenly of-heaven smyltnes tosliten, ðære ðe we ær liodon uut; ond swæ calm torn in-which that we before sailed out and so micel winter ús onhreas ȝ swæ roeðe storm cuóm, ðæt we great tempest us fell-upon and so fierce storm came that we ne mid segle ne mid rownesse owiht fromgan meahton, neither with sail nor with rowing at-all advance could ne we us nohtes elles wendon naemne deaðes seolfes. nor we for-ourselves of-anything else expected except of-death itself Mid ðy we ða swiðe longe wið ðæm winde ȝ wið ðæm With that we then very long against the wind and against the sáe holonga compadon ȝ wunnun, ða æt nestan locadon we sea in-vain fought and strove then at last looked we on bæcling, hwæðer woen ware, ðæt we ænige ðinga furðum on back whether hope were that we in-any way even ðæt ealond gesecan meahton, ðæt we ær ut of gongende the island seek could which we before out of going wæron. Caerde we usic ðider we cærde, gemaetton we usic were Turned we ourselves whither we turned found we us æghwonon geliice storme foresette 7 foretynde 7 nænig on-every-side alike by-storm beset and shut-in and no hyht haelo in us to lafe stondan. Ða wæs æfter longum hope of-safety in us to remnant stand Then was after long fæce ðæt we usse gesihð feorr upp ahófon, ða gesegon we space that we our sight far up raised then saw we in Farne ðæm ealonde Gode ðone leofan fæder Aedelwald on Farne the island to-God the dear father Æthelwald of his deagolnissum utgongende, þæt he wolde userne from his secret-places going-out that he would our siðfæt sceawian 7 geseon hwæt us gelumpe; forþon he journey behold and see what to-us happened because he gehyrde þæt gebrec þara storma 7 þæs weallendes sás.

heard the crash of-the storms and of-the boiling sea Mid þy he þa us eac sceawode 7 geseah in gewinne 7 in 386.8 With that he then us also beheld and saw in strife and in ormodnesse gesette beon, ða begde he his cneo to Fæder usses despair set be then bent he his knees to Father of-our Dryhtnes Hælendes Cristes, ond was gebiddende fore usse hælo, Lord Savior Christ and was praying for our safety 7 for ussum life. Ond mid ðy he ða ðæt gebed gefylde, he and for our life And with that he then the prayer completed he þa somod ætgædre ge þone aðundnan sæ gesmylte ge ðone then at-once together both the swollen sea calmed and the storm gestilde, to þon ðætte þurh all sio roeðnis ðæs stormes storm stilled to that that through all the fierceness of-the storm wæs blinnende 7 gesyndge windas ðurh ðone smyltestan sæ was ceasing and prosperous winds through the calmest sea usic æt londe gebrohte. Mid ðy we ða upp cuomon to londe us at land brought With that we then up came to land 7 user scip ec swelce from ðæm yðum up abæron, ða sona and our ship also likewise from the waves up bore then at-once se ilca storm eft hwearf 7 cwóm, se ðe for ussum intingan the same storm again turned and came that which for our cause medmicel fæc gestilde, ond ealne þone dæg swiðe micel 7 brief space stilled and all the day very great and strong wæs, þætte men sweotolice ongeaton meahton, þætte se strong was that men clearly perceive could that the medmicla fyrst þære stilnesse, þe ðær becwom, to benum þæs brief space of-the stillness which there came at prayers of-the Godes weres for intingan usse hælo heofonlice forgifen wæs. of-God man for cause of-our safety heavenly given was 386.21 Wunade þes ylca Godes wer in Farne þam ealonde twelf winter Dwelt this same of-God man in Farne the island twelve winters 7 þær forðferde; ac in Lindesfarena ea bi þæra foresprecena and there departed but in Lindisfarne — by of-the aforesaid biscopa liicum in Scē Petres cyrican þæs apostoles bibyrged bishops bodies in of-Saint Peter church of-the apostle buried is. Wæron þas þing gedón in Aldfriðes tidum þæs cyninges, is Were these things done in of-Aldfrith times of-the king se ðe æfter his breðer Ecgfriðe Norþanhymbra þeode ánes he who after his brother Ecgfrith of-Northumbrians nation of-one wonþe twentig wintra in cynedome fore wæs. lacking twenty winters in kingship over was

When Eata died, John became bishop of Hexham, and his deacon Berhthun told of his wonders. Keeping Lent at a retreat across the Tyne, John took in a dumb youth whose scalp was covered in scabs. On the second Sunday he signed the youth's tongue with the cross and taught him letters, syllables, and words, and the youth talked all that day and night. John's physician healed his scalp, and he grew fine curly hair.

In ðæs cyninges rice forewordum forðferde Eata biscop, ond 386.27

In of-the king reign beginning departed Eata bishop and ða Iohannes se halga wer onfoeng biscophad ðære ciricean then John the holy man received bishopric of-the church æt Heagostaldes eae. Bi ðæm biscope gewuniað secgean at Hexham — About the bishop are-wont tell monig wundor gæstlicra mæгна, ða ðe hine hiowesclice many wonders of-spiritual powers those who him intimately cuðon, 7 eallra swiþust se arwyrdā wer 7 se soðfæsta knew and of-all most the venerable man and the truthful

Berhthun, se wæs his diacon, 7 eft wæs abbud ðæs Berhthun who was his deacon and afterward was abbot of-the mynstres, ðæt is geceged In Dera Wuda. Ðuhte us monastery which is called In of-Deirans Wood Seemed to-us gerisne, ðæt we ða wundur sumu in ðysse baec gemyndgode.

fitting that we the wonders some in this book mentioned Sindon sumu deagol wiic mid walle 7 mid barwe ymbsealde, 388.3

Are some secret dwellings with wall and with grove surrounded noht feorr from ðære ciricean Heagostaldes eae, ðæt is, huhuego not far from the church of-Hexham — that is roughly in oðerre halfre mile faece; floweð Tiine seo éa betwihn.

in second half mile space flows Tyne the river between Habbað ða wiic gebaedhus 7 ciricean Scē Michaeles ðæs

Have the dwellings prayer-house and church of-Saint Michael the heahengles, in ðæm se Godes wer oft mid fēaum broðrum archangel in which the of-God man often with few brothers his geferum stille wunode to biganne his leornunge 7 halig his companions still dwelt to practice his learning and holy gebedu, ond swiðust in ða tiid ðæs feowertiglican fæstenes prayers and most in the time of-the forty-day fast ær Eastrum. Mid ðy he ða sumre tiide in foreword before Easter With that he then at-a-certain time in beginning Eastorfæsten ðider cuom to wunienne, ða heht he his Easter-fast thither came to dwell then commanded he his geferan, ðæt hio sohton sumne earmne ðearfan, se ðe wære companions that they sought a wretched poor-man he who were micelre untrumnisse 7 woedelnisse hefigad, ðæt hie meahton with-great infirmity and poverty burdened that they might in ðæm dagum mid him habban 7 mid him ælmesse doan. in the days with them have and with him alms do Forðon his gewuna wæs, ðæt he symle swæ dyde. Ða wæs in Because his custom was that he ever so did Then was in sumum tune noht feorr sum ging ðearfa, se wæs ge dumb ge a village not far a young poor-man who was both dumb and hreof, se wæs ðæm biscope cuð, forðon he oft ær for hine scabby who was to-the bishop known because he often earlier before him cuóm 7 his ælmessan feng. Se næfre ænig word gecwæðan came and his alms received He never any word speak meahte: ah swæ micle hreofle 7 scyrf in his heafde hæfde, could but so great scab and scurf on his head had ðæt him næfre nænig feax in ðæm uferan dæle ðæs heafdes that to-him never any hair in the upper part of-the head acenned beon meahte, ah in ymbhwyrfte stodon ongrislico her. born be could but in circuit stood horrible hairs

Ða bebead se biſcop ðeosne to him lædan, ⁊ in his cafortune 388.20

Then commanded the biſhop this-one to him lead and in his courtyard heht him medmicel hús gewyrcan, ðæt he inwunian meahte commanded for-him small house make that he dwell-in might ⁊ his dæghwæmlíce onleofne onfóan. Mid ðy hit ða án wiice and his daily sustenance receive With that it then one week ðæs fæstnes gefylled wæs, ða wæs ðy æfterran Dryhtenlican of-the fast fulfilled was then was on-the second Lordly dæge, ðæt he heht ðone ðearfan ingongan. Ða he ða inne day that he commanded the poor-man go-in When he then inside wæs, ða heht he his tungan forðdóon of his muðe ⁊ was then commanded he his tongue put-forth from his mouth and him heawan: genom hine ða bi his cinne ⁊ mid tacne ðære him show took him then by his chin and with sign of-the halgan rode hio geſegnade. Ða he ða hio geſegnad hæfde, ða holy rood it signed When he then it signed had then heht he tion eft in muð, ⁊ heht hine ſpreocan; ⁊ commanded he draw again into mouth and commanded him speak and ðus cwæð: Cweð hwelc hwugu word; cweð nu gee. Ða sona thus said Say some — word say now yea Then at-once inſtæpe was se bend onleſed his tungan, ⁊ he cuæð ðæt he instantly was the bond loosed of-his tongue and he said what he haten wæs. Toætecte se biſcop ⁊ hine heht ſteafa naman bidden was Added the biſhop and him commanded of-letters names cweoðan. Cweð nu á. Cweð he á. Cwæð nu b. Cwæð he say Say now a Said he a Say now b Said he ðæt. Mid ðy he ðurh ſyndrige noman ðeara ſtafa æfter ðæm that With that he through ſeparate names of-the letters after the biſcope cuæð, þa heht he se biſcop him ſyllabas ⁊ word biſhop said then commanded he the biſhop him ſyllables and words forecweðan, ⁊ in eallum he him gerisenlice ondsweorude. foresay and in all he him fittingly answered 388.34 Ða bebead he þæt him mon lengran cwidas biforan cwæde.

Then commanded he that to-him one longer sentences before said ȝ he symle gedæftlice æfter cwæð: ȝ ofer þæt ealle ðy dæge and he ever aptly after said and beyond that for-all the day ne ablan ȝ þære æfterfylgendan nihte, ða hwile ðe he wacian not ceased and for-the following night the while that he wake meahte — swa swa ða sægdon ða ðer onwearde wæron — could so as those said who there present were þæt he á hwæthwugu spræce ȝ oðrum mannum æteaude ða that he ever something spoke and to-other men showed the deagolnisse his willan ȝ his gedohta, þæt he næfre ærþon secrets of-his will and of-his thoughts which he never before gedon meahte; on gelicnisse þæs monnes, þe longe halt wæs do could in likeness of-the man who long lame was ȝ swa geboren of his modor hrife, þæt hiene his eldran and so born from of-his mother womb that him his parents beran scoldan ȝ he gan ne meahte. Ða gehældan hiene ða carry had-to and he walk not could Then healed him the apostole Petrus ȝ Iohannes, cwið seo boc, þæt he up astode apostles Peter and John says the book that he up stood ȝ ongunne hliapettan, ȝ mid þæm apostolum in ðæt and began leap and with the apostles into the temple eode ȝ áa wæs gongende ȝ hleapende ȝ Dryhten temple went and ever was walking and leaping and Lord herigende. Wæs he gefeonde, swa hit nænig wundor is, þære praising Was he rejoicing as it no wonder is the ðenunge his fota, ðara ðe he swa micelre tide benumen wæs. service of-his feet of-which that he for-so great time deprived was 390.13 Ða wæs he se bisscop eefengefeonde his hælo: ȝ bebead his Then was he the bishop rejoicing-with his health and commanded his læce, þæt he scolde ec swelce hælān ȝ lecnian þa hreofle physician that he should also likewise heal and cure the scab his heafdes. ⁊ he swa dyde; ⁊ wæs gefultumad mid ðæs of-his head and he so did and was helped with of-the bisscopes blætsunge ⁊ gebedum, þæt se gunga wæs geworden bishop blessing and prayers that the young-man was become hale lichoman ⁊ fægre onseone ⁊ georowyrde in gespræce, of-whole body and of-fair countenance and ready-worded in speech ⁊ hæfde criske loccas fægre, se ðe ær wæs unwlitig, and had curly locks fair he who before was unsightly þearfa, ⁊ hreof ⁊ dumb. Ond he wæs blissiende be ðære poor-man and scabby and dumb And he was rejoicing about the onfongnan gesynto his; ond eac swylce se bisscop him forgeaf received health his and also likewise the bishop to-him granted þæt he moste in his geferscipe wunian, gif him ðæt leofre that he might in his company dwell if to-him that dearer wære, ah he ða ma geceas ðæt he wæs eft hám hweorfende. were but he then rather chose that he was again home returning

III · THE NUN OF WATTON

After John moved to York on Bosa's death, he visited the nunnery of Watton, where the abbess's daughter lay dying of an arm swollen after bleeding. John said that, as Theodore had taught, it was folly to bleed her on the fourth night of the moon, but at last prayed over her and blessed her. During dinner she sent for Berhthun, and he found her well; she shared a drink with him and said the pain had gone out with the bishop.

Sægde se ilca Berhthun oðer wundor be ðæm forespræcanan 390.22 Said the same Berhthun other wonder about the aforesaid bisscope. Ða se arwyrða wer Wilferð biscop æfter longum bishop When the venerable man Wilfrid bishop after long wræce wæs eft onfongen on his biscuphad ðære cirican exile was again received in his bishopric of-the church Heagostaldes æ, ond þæs ilca Iohannes, ða Bosa bisscop of-Hexham — and the same John when Bosa bishop forðfoered wæs, se wæs micelre halignisse 7 eadmodnisse departed was who was of-great holiness and humility mon, for hiene geseted Eoforwicceastre, þa cwom he sumre man for him set at-York then came he at-a-certain tide to sumum nunmynstre, þæt is genemned Weatadun, time to a nunnery which is named Watton þæm ða Hereburh abbuddisse in aldordome fore wæs. which then Hereburh abbess in authority over was 390.30 Mid ði we ða þider cuoman, cwæð se Beorhthun, 7 With that we then thither came said the Berhtun and mid micle gefean ealra we onfongne wæron, sægde us with great joy of-all we received were said to-us seo abbuddisse, þæt sumu fæmne of ðara nunnena rime, the abbess that a maiden of of-the nuns number seo wæs hiere licumlic dohtor, mid hefigre adle gestonden who was her bodily daughter with heavy disease assailed wære. Sægde þæt hiere niowan blod læten wære in earme, were Said that to-her newly blood let were in arm 7 in ðære blodlæswe þæt hio wære mid untrymnisse and in the bloodletting that she were with infirmity gestonden; ond seo sona wære to ðon swiðe weaxende 7 assailed and it at-once were to that greatly growing and hefigende þæt se earm wæs in micelne swile gecerred 7 worsening that the arm was into great swelling turned and to ðon swiðe aswollen, þæt hiene monna nan mid twam to that greatly swollen that it of-men none with two handum ymbspannan ne meahte; 7 þæt hio wære on bedde hands span — could and that she were on bed licgende, 7 hiere mon feores ne wende. Bæd heo forðon sio lying and to-her one life not expected Asked she therefore the abbuddisse ðone biscop, þæt he hine to ðon geeaðmodde, abbess the bishop that he himself to that humbled þæt he in to hiere geeode 7 heo geblætsode; cwæð, þæt that he in to her went and her blessed said that heo gelefde þæt hiere sona wel wære æfter his blætsunge. she believed that to-her at-once well were after his blessing

Ða frægn he se bisscop hwonne hiere blodlæs † os Then asked he the bishop when of-her bloodletting (corrupt) made [?] ærest wære. Ða he ða ongeat, þæt hit wæs on feowernihtne first were When he then perceived that it was on four-night monan gedon, cwæð he: Swiðe unwislice 7 ungelæredlice ge moon done said he Very unwisely and unlearnedly ye dedon, þæt ge scoldon on feowernihtne monan blod lætan. did that ye should on four-night moon blood let Forðon ic gemon, þæt ðære eadigan gemynde Theodor 392.14 Because I remember that of-the blessed memory Theodore ercebiscop cwæð, þæt ðære tide blodlæs † eow wære archbishop said that at-that time bloodletting (corrupt) to-you were swiðe frecenlic, þonne ðæs monan leoht 7 sæs * flod very dangerous when of-the moon light and of-sea (conjecture) flood in weaxnesse bið. Ah hwæt mæg ic nu ðære fæmnan don, in waxing is But what can I now for-the maiden do gif hio æt forðfore is? 7 hio hwædre geornlice hiene bæd if she at death is and she however earnestly him asked 7 halsode for hiere dohter, forðon hio hie swiðe lufode, 7 and besought for her daughter because she her greatly loved and mynte heo for hiere to abbuddissan gesettan. Ða æt nihstan intended her for her as abbess set Then at last geðafode se biscop, þæt he to þæm untruman men geeode. consented the bishop that he to the sick person went 392.22 Ða he ineode to ðære fæmnan, þe ðær læg, þa genom When he went-in to the maiden who there lay then took he me mid hiene. Wæs mid micle sare getogen, swa ic ær he me with him Was with great pain drawn as I before sæde, 7 se earm wæs swa swiðe great 7 aswollen, to ðon said and the arm was so very great and swollen to that þæt he nænge begnisse in þæm elmbogan hæfde. Ða gestod that it no bending in the elbow had Then stood he se biscop æt hiere 7 orationem gecwæð ofer hiere 7 he the bishop by her and prayer said over her and geblætsode 7 gesægnode 7 wæs utgongende. Mid ðy we blessed and signed and was going-out With that we ða gelimplicre tide æt beorde sæton 7 æt swæsendum, þa then at-suitable time at table sat and at meals then com sum þara hina, cleopode me 7 het utgan 7 came one of-the household called me and commanded go-out and cwæð: Cwænburh bideð — wæs þæt þære fæmnan noma — said Cwenburb asks was that of-the maiden name þæt ðu hraðe eft to hie eode. Mid ðy ic ðæt dyde 7 that thou quickly again to her went With that I that did and wæs ingongende, þa gemette ic heo glade ondwlēotan 7 was going-in then found I her with-glad countenance and hale 7 gesunde. 7 mid ðy ic ða æt hiere gesæt, cwæð whole and sound and with that I then by her sat said heo: Wilt ðu, wit unc abidde ondrincan. Cwæð ic: Ic she Wilt thou we-two for-us-two ask drink Said I I wille, 7 me leof is, gif ðu mæge. Ða bær unc mon will and to-me dear is if thou canst Then bore to-us-two one lið forð, 7 wið butu druncon. Ða ongon heo me sæcgan, cider forth and we-two both drank Then began she me say 7 cwæð: Sona þæs ðe se biscop orationem ofer me arædde and said Soon that that the bishop prayer over me read 7 me geblætsode 7 gesægnode 7 utgongende wæs, sona and me blessed and signed and going-out was at-once ic wæs wyrpene 7 me wel wæs. 7 ðeah ðe ic nu gena I was recovering and to-me well was and though that I now yet þa ærran mægen ne hæbbe, hwæðre eall ðæt sar 7 se ece the former strength not have however all the pain and the ache ge of minum earne, þær he hattra 7 beornendra wæs, both from my arm where it hotter and more-burning was ge of eallum minum lichoman eall onwæg alæded wæs, and from all my body all away led was efne swa se biscop ðone ece 7 þæt sar mid hiene ut bære. even as the bishop the ache and the pain with him out bore Ond þeah ðe se swile ðæs earmes nu gena gesene sie, hwæðre 394.7 And though that the swelling of-the arm now yet seen be however þæt sar is eall of gewiten. Ða we ðonon ferdon, þa wæs sona the pain is all off departed When we thence went then was at-once se swile gesweðrad, 7 seo fæmne hal 7 gesund 7 from deaðe the swelling abated and the maiden whole and sound and from death generated. 7 hio ðæs Dryhtne Hælende lof 7 wuldor sægde saved and she of-that to-Lord Savior praise and glory said ætgædere mid þam oðrum Godes þeowum þe ðær wæron. together with the other of-God servants who there were Berhtun also told how a gesith named Puch, near their monastery, asked John to dine after he had dedicated his church, and John agreed only when the man promised alms to the poor. The gesith's wife had lain sick for forty days, three weeks unable to leave the house. John sent her holy water to drink and wash with; she rose healed, served them at table, and was like Peter's mother-in-law, who rose from her fever to serve.

394.13 Oðer wundor noht ungelic þissum be ðæm foresprecenan Other wonder not unlike to-this about the aforesaid biscope sægde se ilca abbud 7 ðus cwæð: Wæs sumes gesiðes bishop said the same abbot and thus said Was of-a gesith tun, se wæs Puh haten, noht feor ussum mynstre, þæt is, village who was Puch called not far from-our monastery that is hugu on twegra mila fæce. Pæs wif wæs huru feowertig daga about at of-two miles space Whose wife was about forty days mid grimre adle gestonden, swa ðæt heo þreom wicum fullum with grim disease assailed so that she for-three weeks full ne meahte uute cuman of ðæm huse ðe heo on læg. Ða not could out come from the house which she in lay Then gelomp in ða ilcan tid, þæt se Godes wer wæs ðyder gelaðod happened in the same time that the of-God man was thither invited circan to halgianne from ðæm ilcan gesiðe. Pa seo circe church to hallow by the same gesith When the church gehalgad wæs, 7 he mæssan gesungen hæfde, ða bæd se gesið hallowed was and he mass sung had then asked the gesith hiene, ðæt he eode in his hus 7 ðær mete þege. Wiðsoc se him that he went into his house and there food took Refused the biscop 7 cwæð þæt his mynster neah wære, þæt he scolde bishop and said that his monastery near were that he should þyder feran. Pa ætfealh se gesið geornlice his benum, gehet thither go Then persisted the gesith earnestly in-his prayers promised þæt he wolde þearfum ælmessan sellan † ȝ his fæsten that he would to-poor alms give (corrupt) and his fast aliesan, þæt hiene geeadmedde þæt he in his hus eode ȝ redeem that him deigned that he into his house went and mete þigde. Bæd ic eac ætgædre mid hiene, ȝ eac swylce mec food took Asked I also together with him and also likewise me gehet wedlum ælmessan sellan, þa unc getigðade ȝ in promised to-poor alms give when to-us-two granted and into þes gesiðes hus íneode, ȝ ðæt geblætsade ȝ swæsendo þege. of-the gesiðh house went and it blessed and meals took Mid þy wit ðæt þa * lete ȝ uneðelice þurhtugon, þæt With that we-two that then (conjecture) late and with-difficulty accomplisbed that he ðæs geðafa bion wolde, þa eodon we into swæsendum. he of-that consenting be would then went we into meals Ða sende se biscop ðæm wife, ðe þær untrum læg sumne 396.1 Then sent the bishop to-the woman who there sick lay some dæl þæs haligwætres, ðe he to ðære circan gehalgode þurh part of-the holy-water which he for the church hallowed through ænne þara broðra, ðe mid mec ðyder coman, ȝ bebead þæt one of-the brothers who with me thither came and commanded that he hiere sealde ðæt wæter to bergenne, ȝ swa hwær swa he to-her gave the water to taste and so where so hiere mæst þearf ȝ sar ȝ ece wære, þæt hio mid þy wætre to-her most need and pain and ache were that she with the water þwoge. Ða ðæt swa gedon wæs, ða sona instæpe aras ðæt washed When that so done was then at-once instantly arose the wif hal ȝ gesund: ȝ nales ðæt an þæt hio þære longan woman whole and sound and not-at-all that alone that she the long untrymnisse beswicade, ah swylce eac ða forlorenan mægen infirmity escaped but likewise also the lost strenght somod fullice onfeng; ȝ íneode ȝ ðæm biscope bær drincan together fully received and went-in and to-the bishop bore drink

7 us eallum þegnode, 7 scēncte, oðþæt ða gereorde gefylled and to-us all served and poured until the meal fulfilled wæs. Wæs heo onhyrgende þa swægre Scs Petrus þæs was Was she imitating the mother-in-law of-Saint Peter the apostoles, mid ðy heo wæs swenced mid hæto 7 mid bryne apostle with that she was afflicted with heat and with burning fæferadle, þæt hio to hrinenisse þære Dryhtenlican honda somod of-fever that she at touch of-the Lordly hand together onfæng hælo 7 mægen 7 áras 7 ðæm Hælende þegnade. received health and strength and arose and to-the Savior ministered

V · THE GESITH'S SERVANT

At the dedication of another gesith's church, Addi's, John was begged to visit a servant who was near death, with his coffin already made. John prayed over him, blessed him, and said the customary words of comfort. At dinner the sick man asked for wine; John blessed a glass, the man drank it, rose, dressed, and joined them at table, and he lived many years afterward. The abbot had the story from those present.

396.14 Æft oðre tide wæs se biscop gelaðod sumes gesiðes circan to Again at-another time was the bishop invited of-a gesith church to halgianne, se wæs haten Addi. Mid þy he ða abedenan þenunga hallow who was called Addi With that he the required ministries gefylled hæfde, þa bæd se gesið hiene, þæt he eode ín to anum fulfilled had then asked the gesith him that he went in to one his geferena, se wæs mid þa grimmestan untrymnisse hefigad of-his companions who was with the grimmest infirmity burdened 7 ðrycced, swa ðæt he wæs loma 7 ealra his lioma þegnunga and pressed so that he was lame and of-all his limbs service benumen 7 besciored, 7 monnum gesewen wæs þæt he æt deprived and bereft and to-men seen was that he at forðfore wære. Wæs him eac þurh gegearwad ⁊ geworht, in death were Was for-him also coffin prepared and made in ðære he forðfered bebyrged beon scolde. Toæteacte eac swelce se which he departed buried be should Added also likewise the gesið his benum, þæt he his tearas geat ⁊ weop ⁊ geornlice gesith to-his prayers that he his tears shed and wept and earnestly bæd ⁊ halsade, þæt he to ðæm untruman men ineode ⁊ asked and besought that he to the sick man went-in and him fore gebæde; ⁊ sægde þæt him leof wære ⁊ his lif him for prayed and said that to-him dear were and his life niedbehæfdlic: ⁊ cwæð þæt he gelefde, gif he his honda hiene needful and said that he believed if he his hands him on sette ⁊ hiene blætsian wolde, þæt him sona wel wære. on set and him bless would that to-him at-once well were Ða eode se bisscop ðyder in to him ⁊ hiene neah forðfore 396.26 Then went the bishop thither in to him and him near death geseah, ⁊ ða men ealle unrote ða þe him ætwæron, ⁊ saw and the men all sad those who with-him were-present and ða þurh him biggesette, in ðære he to bebyrgenne geseted the coffin him beside-set in which he for burial set beon scolde. Ða sang he orationes ofer hiene ⁊ hiene be should Then sang he prayers over him and him geblætsade ⁊ gesægnade. ⁊ ða ut he gan wolde, ða cwæð blessed and signed and when out he go would then said he þæt gewunelice word þæra frefrendra: Truma þec hræðe he the customary word of-the comforters Strengthen thee quickly ⁊ wel. Ða wæs æfter þissum þa hio æt beode sæton ⁊ æt and well Then was after this when they at table sat and at swæsendum, ða sende se untruma man to his hlaforde, bæd meals then sent the sick man to his lord asked þæt he him onsende wines ondrincan: cwæð þæt hiene þyrste. that he to-him sent of-wine drink said that him thirsted

Ða wæs he swiðe gefeonde þæt he drincan meahte: sende Then was he greatly rejoicing that he drink could sent him glæsfulne wines, 7 þæt se biscop geblætsade. Sona swa to-him glassful of-wine and that the bishop blessed Soon as he hit gedruncen hæfde, swa aras he instepe 7 þære ealdan he it drunk had so arose he instantly and of-the old untrumnesse getrumad wæs, 7 hiene gegyrede mid his hrægle infirmity strengthened was and himself clothed with his garment 7 ut þonan eode. 7 he eode in to þam biscope 7 hiene and out thence went and he went in to the bishop and him grette 7 þa ymsittend, 7 cwæð þæt hine lyste mid him greeted and the sitters-around and said that him pleased with them etan 7 drincan. Hehton hiene sittan mid him to swæsendum, eat and drink Commanded him sit with them at meals 7 swiðe gefeonde wæron be his gesynto 7 hælo. and greatly rejoicing were about his health and healing 398.9 Sæt he 7 swæsendo þeah 7 dronc 7 blissede mid him; Sat he and meals took and drank and rejoiced with them 7 monig gear æfter þissum lifde, 7 in ðære ilcan hælo and many years after this lived and in the same health awunode, þe he onfæng. Ðis wundor se gemyndgeda abud remained which he received This wonder the mentioned abbot sægde ðæt hit ne wære him ondweardum þus geworden, said that it not were with-him present thus done ah ðætte þa hit him sægden, ða þe ðær ondwearde wæron.

but that those it to-him said those who there present were Herebald, later abbot at the mouth of the Tyne, told how as a youth in John's household he raced his horse against the bishop's command. The horse leapt a hollow, and he fell on a stone, breaking his thumb and his skull, and lay as dead. John prayed all night, named him at dawn, learned that the priest who had baptized him was incompetent, and he was later baptized properly. John was bishop thirty-three years and retired to his monastery in Deira Wood.

Nis ðæt wundor to forswugianne, þæt Herebald se Cristes 398.14 Not-is the wonder to pass-over-in-silence which Herebald the of-Christ þeow sægde from him ge ðæt eac swylce geworden beon in servant said about him and that also likewise done be in him selfum. Wæs he ða in his gefærscipe drohtigende, 7 him self Was he then in his company living and eft wæs abbud in ðæm mynstre æt ðæm gemyndum Tune afterward was abbot in the monastery at the mouth of-Tyne streames. Cwæð he: Ðæs biscopes lif, swa swiðe swa monnum stream Said he Of-the bishop life so greatly as to-men riht is to eahtienne, þæt ic ondweard gearwe cuðe, ðurh eall ic right is to judge that I present readily knew through all I gemette biscopwyrðe beon: ge eac swylce hwelcre gearunge he found bishop-worthy he and also likewise of-what merit he hæfd wære mid ðone inlican gewitan, ge in mongum oðrum held were with the inward judge both in many others ge swiðust in me seolfum, ic wæs ongeotende. Forðon þe he and most in me self I was perceiving Because that he mæc, þæs ðe ic cwæðe, from deaðes þirscwalde wæs acegende, me as that I say from of-death threshold was calling-back 7 mec to lifes wege mid his gebede 7 blætsunge gelædde. and me to of-life way with his prayer and blessing led 398.25 Wæs ic in ða ærestan tid minre geoguðhadnisse in his Was I in the first time of-my youth in his geferscipe drohtigende 7 him befæsted wæs, to ðon þæt ic company living and to-him committed was to that that I scolde æghwæðer ge sang ge bec leornian; ac ða gena ic ne should both and song and books learn but then yet I not wæs min mod fulfremedlice bewergende þæm geoguðlicum was my mind perfectly guarding from-the youthful unalefednessum. Gelomp sume dæge, ða we ferende wæron unlawfulnesses Happened on-a day when we traveling were mid hiene, ðæt we becoman on smeðne feld 7 rumne; 7 with him that we came on smooth field and roomy and wæs gescrope ærneweg. Pa ongunnan ða geongan biddan was fit race-course Then began the young-men ask þone bisscop, þa ðe mid hiene wæron 7 swiðust læde, þæt the bishop those who with him were and most laymen that he him alefde þæt hio ærnan moste 7 gecunnian, hwelc he to-them permitted that they gallop might and try which heora swiftest hors hæfde. Ða wiðsoc he se bisscop ærest of-them swiftest horse had Then refused he the bishop first 7 cwæð, þæt ðæt idel 7 unnyt wære, þæt hio bædon 7 and said that that idle and useless were which they asked and wilnedon. Ac ða æt nihstan mid anmode willan monigra þæt desired But then at last with unanimous will of-many that he wæs oferswiðed. Cwæð he: Doð swa gif ge willen: ond he was overcome Said he Do so if ye will and hwæðre þæt Herebald allinga hiene from ðæm geflite áhebbe. however that Herebald altogether himself from the contest withhold Ða abæd ic geornlice 7 halsede, þætte me wære eac lefnes Then asked I earnestly and besought that to-me were also leave sald to ærnenne 7 to flitenne mid him; forðon ic getreowde given to gallop and to contend with them because I trusted minum horse wel, þæm betstan þæt me bisscop salde.

to-my horse well the best which to-me bishop gave

Ond þeah ðe ic georne bæde, ne meahte nænge þinga lefnesse 400.10

And though that I earnestly asked not could in-any way leave abiddan. Mid ðy ic ða gelomlice hider 7 ðyder mec hwerfde obtain With that I then frequently hither and thither me turned 7 se bisscop mec á beheold, þa gearndon hio sume ðrage, 7 and the bishop me ever beheld then galloped they some while and eft hwurfon. 7 ic wæs mid gæglice mode oferswiðed, þæt ic again returned and I was with wanton mind overcome that I me ne meahte bewergan, þeah ðe mec se biscop bewerede, ac ic me not could restrain though that me the bishop forbade but I me to ðam plegan gemængde, 7 ongon somod ærnan mid him.

me to the sport mixed and began together gallop with them

Mid ðy ic ðæt dyde, þa geherde ic þone bisscop me on 400.17

With that I that did then heard I the bishop me on bæclinge mid geomrunge cweoðan: Eala; hwæt ðu me micel back with lamentation say Alas what thou to-me great yfel 7 lað dest mid þinre ærninge. 7 ic ða word geherde, 7 evil and harm doest with thy running and I the words heard and nohte ðon ær þære ærninge blon. Ne wæs ða ælden; mid þy not-at-all the sooner the running ceased Not was then delay with that þæt hors swiðust orn 7 *onælp hiene, wæs þæt hit sume sloh the horse most ran and kindles itself was that it a slough on þæm wæge mid swiðþran ræse oferhleop 7 oferstælde. Þa on the way with stronger rush leaped-over and bounded-over Then wearð me slide 7 him of afeol, 7 ic sona wæs aswolten, 7 befell me slip and it off fell and I at-once was dead and min gewit 7 ealle mine styrenesse forleas. Wæs in ðære ilcan my wit and all my movement lost Was in the same stowe sum stan ðære eorðan gelic mid ðinre tyrf bewrigen, 7 place a stone to-the earth like with thin turf covered and nænig oðer stan in eallum þam felde gemeted beon meahte.

no other stone in all the field found be could Þa gelomp mid þa godcundan foreseonnesse þære synne to Then happened with the divine providence of-the sin for witnunge minre unhersumnesse; ða ic hreowsende wæs, ða punishment of-my disobedience when I falling was that ic mid ðy heafde, 7 mid honda com on ðone stan dryfan.

I with the head and with hand came on the stone drive 7 se ðuma gebrocen wæs, 7 eac swylce seo geðeodnes and the thumb broken was and also likewise the joining þæs heafdes tobrocen wæs 7 tolesed; 7 swa swa ic cwæð, of-the head broken was and loosed and so as I said þæt ic wæs deadum gelic 7 nan lim onstyrgean meahte.

that I was to-dead like and no limb stir could 400.31 Ða slogan heo geteld ofer me in ðæm ic læg. Wæs hit

Then pitched they tent over me in which I lay Was it huhugu seo seofode tid dæges, ðæt is an tid ofer midne dæg:

roughly the seventh hour of-day that is one hour past mid day from ðære tide oð æfen ic stille læg 7 swa dead wunode.

from the time until evening I still lay and as dead remained Þa hit æfen wæs, ða ácwicode ic hwon 7 mine geferan

When it evening was then revived I a-little and my companions mec ham bæran; 7 ic swigende ealle ða niht awunode, 7 me home bore and I silent all the night remained and blode spaw, forðon mine innoðas in ðæm fylle tolocene wæran.

blood spewed because my insides in the fall wrenched were 402.6 7 se biscop hefiglice sargade be ðæm fille 7 be minre and the bishop heavily grieved about the fall and about my forwyrde; forðon þe he mec mid syndrigre lufan lufode; destruction because that he me with special love loved ne he wolde ðære nihte æfter his ðeawe mid his geferum nor he would on-that night after his custom with his companions wunian: ac he ana in gebedum stod, 7 ða niht ealle wacade. dwell but he alone in prayers stood and the night all watched Ic wænu þæt he wære bensiende ða uplican árfæstnisse minra I think that he were beseeching the upper mercy (for)-my gesynta. 7 sona in ærmorgen eode inn to me; 7 song health and at-once in early-morning went in to me and sang orationem ofer me 7 næmde mec mine noman. Ða wæs ic prayer over me and named me my name Then was I sona swa ic of hefgum slæpe áweht wære. Ða fregn he at-once as-if I from heavy sleep awakened were Then asked he mec, hwæðer ic wiste hwa ðæt wære se ðe to mec spræcende me whether I knew who that were he who to me speaking

 wæs. Ða ontynde ic mine eagan, locode on hiene, 7 cwæð: was Then opened I my eyes looked on him and said Ic wat geara þæt ðu eart min se leofesta biscop. Cwæð he:
I know well that thou art my the dearest bishop Said he Ðynced þe? mæge ðu lyfgan? Cwæð ic: Ic mæg þurh eower Seems to-thee canst thou live Said I I can through your gebeodu, gif Dryhten wile. Ða sette he his hond on min prayers if Lord will Then set he his hand on my heafod 7 mæc sægnade 7 blædsade 7 hwearf eft to his head and me signed and blessed and turned again to his gebede; 7 æfter medmiclum fæce niosode he min eft 7 prayer and after brief space visited he me again and cunnade. Ða gemette he mec sittende, 7 ic spræcan meahhte. tried Then found he me sitting and I speak could Ða ongan he mec acsian 7 frinan, hwæðer ic wiste hwæðer 402.20 Then began he me ask and inquire whether I knew whether ic on riht butan incan gefulwad wære. Wæs he mid ða I in right without doubt baptized were Was he with the godcundan inbrydnesse monad, swa ðæt sona æfter gecyðed divine inspiration admonished as that at-once after made-known wæs. Ondswarode ic him 7 cwæð, þæt ic butan twion wiste was Answered I him and said that I without doubt knew mid fulwihte bæðe in synna forlætnesse aðwegen beon; 7 þæs with of-baptism bath in of-sins remission washed be and of-the mæssepreostes noman him næmde, from ðæm ic wiste þæt masspriest name to-him named by whom I knew that ic gefulwad wæs. Cwæð he se biscop: Gif ðu from þissum I baptized was Said he the bishop If thou by this mæssepreoste gefulwad wære, þonne ne eart ðu fullfremedlice masspriest baptized wert then not art thou perfectly no on riht gefullwad. Forðon ic hiene cuðe, þa he to — in right baptized Because I him knew when he as mæssepreoste gehalgad wæs, 7 he næfre fram ungleawnesse masspriest consecrated was and he never from dullness 7 for his unscearnisse ða ðenunge to cristienne oðþe to and for his slowness the office to catechize or to fullwienne on riht geleornian meahte. Ond ic him forðon ða baptize in right learn could And I him therefore the ðenunge forbead, forðon he rihtlice gefyllan ne meahte. Ða office forbade because he rightly fulfill not could When he ðis cwæð, sona in ða ilcan tid ða cristnade he mæc. he this said at-once in the same time then catechized he me Ða wæs geworden, þæs ðe he on minre ondwlitan bleow, Then was become after-that that he on my countenance blew ða sona instepe gefelde ic mec batiende 7 werpende. Ða then at-once instantly felt I me bettering and recovering Then heht he læce to him 7 him bebead, þæt he þa commanded he physician to him and him commanded that he the tolesdan geðiodnesse minre heafudwunde gesette 7 awriðe. loosened joining of-my head-wound set and bound

Ond sona þæs ðe ic his blætsunge hæfde, ða getrumede 404.3

And soon that that I his blessing had then strengthened ic mec 7 gestrongad wæs, swa þæt ic on morgen hleop

I myself and strengthened was so that I in morning leaped on min hors 7 ferde mid hiene in oðre stowe to oðrum on my horse and went with him into other place to other ham. 7 æfter medmiclum fæce, ðæs ðe ic fullice gehæled home and after brief space after-that that I fully healed wæs, ðæt ic eac swylce mid ða liffestan yðe, þæt is mid was that I also likewise with the life-giving wave that is with fulwihte bæðe, rihtlice þurhgoten 7 gefulwad wæs.

of-baptism bath rightly poured-through and baptized was Wunode þes Godes wer in biscophade ðreo 7 xxx wintra, 404.9

Dwelt this of-God man in bishopric three and thirty winters

7 swa wæs astigende to ðam heofonlican rice, 7 wæs and so was ascending to the heavenly kingdom and was bebyrged in Scæ Petrus portice in his mynstre, þæt is buried in of-Saint Peter porch in his monastery that is cweden In Deora wuda. Forðon þa he for maran ældo called In of-Deirans wood Because when he for greater age ðone biscophad ðægnian ne meahte, ða gehadede mon in the bishopric serve not could then ordained one in biscophade Wilfrið his mæssepreost in Eoforwicceastre; ond bishopric Wilfrid his masspriest in York and he gewat to ðam forespræcenan mynstre, 7 ðær his lif he departed to the aforesaid monastery and there his life in Gode mid wyrðre drohtunge gefylde.

in God with worthy conduct fulfilled

In Aldfrith's third year Cædwalla of the West Saxons left his throne after two years to be baptized at Rome, hoping to die soon after. Pope Sergius baptized him at Easter and named him Peter, and he died still in his white robes and was buried in Saint Peter's under an epitaph. His successor Ine ruled thirty-seven years and then also went to Rome, as many English, noble and common, did at that time.

404.16 Þa wæs ðy þriððan geare Aldfriðes rices ðæs cyninges, Then was in-the third year of-Aldfrith reign of-the king þæt Ceadwala Wesseaxna cyning, mid ðy ðe he his ðeode that Cædwalla of-West-Saxons king with that that he his nation twa gear fromlice in cynedome fore wæs, ða he forlet two years vigorously in kingship over was then he left ðæt eorðlice rice for Dryhtne ȝ for ðam ecan rice in the earthly kingdom for Lord and for the eternal kingdom in heofonum ȝ to Rome com, ȝ him syndriglice wilnade heavens and to Rome came and for-himself specially desired þæt wuldor begitan, þæt he æt stowe þara apostola mid the glory obtain that he at place of-the apostles with ða wællan fullwihte bæðes aðwegen wære, in ðam anum he the well of-baptism bath washed were in which alone he geleornode monna cynne ingong geopenian ðæs heofonlican learned of-men for-race entrance open of-the heavenly lifes. Ond swylc eac he wæs gehihtende, þæt he, sona þæs life And likewise also he was hoping that he soon that ðe hiene mon gefullwade, his lichoman tolesed wære ȝ that him one baptized from-his body released were and clæne to ðam ecan gefean ferde heofona rices wuldres. Ond clean to the eternal joys went of-heavens kingdom glory And æghwæðer ðara, swa swa he on his mode foresette, ðurh each of-those so as he in his mind purposed through Dryhtnes fultum gefylled wæs. Forðon he ðyder becom 7 of-Lord help fulfilled was Because he thither came and fram Sirige þæm papan gefulwad wæs ðy halgan dæge þæs by Sergius the pope baptized was on-the holy day of-the Easterlecan ræstedages; 7 under crisman wæs sona adle Easter rest-day and under chrism was at-once by-disease stonden, 7 ðy twelftan dæge Kalendarum Maiarum, þæt assailed and on-the twelfth day of-the-Kalends May that he wæs fram lichoman álesed 7 forðferde, 7 wæs geðeoded he was from body released and departed and was joined to ðara eadigra rice in heofonum. Swylc him eac in ða to of-the blessed kingdom in heavens Likewise to-him also in the tid fulwihtes se gemyndega papa Petrus to naman scop, þæt time of-baptism the mentioned pope Peter as name assigned that he þæm eadigestan aldre þara apostola, to ðæs þam halgestan he to-the most-blessed chief of-the apostles to whose the holiest lichoman he mid arfæstan lufan feorran fram eorðan gemærum body he with pious love from-afar from of-earth borders com, eac swylce his noman gemanan geðeoded wære. came also likewise of-his name fellowship joined were Ond he wæs on his circan bebyrged: 7 se papa heht 406.4 And he was in his church buried and the pope commanded gewrit on his byrgenne awritan, ðæt in ðam æghwæðer writing on his tomb write that in it both ge seo gemynd his wilsumnisse ðurh ealle woruld fæste and the memory of-his devotion through all world fast awunode, ge eac swylce ða men, ðe þæt gewrit ræddan oðþe remained and also likewise the men who the writing read or geherde, se bysen his dæde to æfestnesse geliese onbærnde. heard the example of-his deed to of-piety study kindled 406.9 Ða Ceadweala to Rome gewat, ða fæng æfter him Ine to When Cædwalla to Rome departed then succeeded after him Ine to Wesseaxna rice, se wæs eac of ðære cynelican strynde. 7 of-West-Saxons kingdom who was also of the royal stock and mid þy he seofon 7 xxx wintra rice hæfde ðære ðiode, with that he seven and thirty winters kingdom had of-the nation þæt he eac swylce þæt rice forleart 7 his gingrum that he also likewise the kingdom left and to-his younger behead, 7 to þære eadigra apostola stowe ferende wæs. Ða committed and to the of-blessed apostles place going was Then wæs Gregorius papa haten in ða tid. Wilnade he in neawiste was Gregory pope called in that time Desired he in neighborhood ðara haligra stowe to tide elðiodgian on eorðan, þæt he ðy of-the holy places for time sojourn on earth that he the cuðlicor fram ðam halgan geearnade in heofonum onfongen more-surely by the saints earned in heavens received beon. Þæt ðyssum ylcum tidum monige of Ongelcynne æðele be That in-these same times many of English-race noble ge unæðele, lædde bescorene, wæpned 7 wif geflitlice dedon. and ignoble lay shorn male and female emulously did

The next year Theodore died at eighty-eight, the age he had foretold, after twenty-two years as archbishop, and was buried in Saint Peter's at Canterbury with his predecessors; under him the English church prospered as never before. Berhtwald, abbot of Reculver, succeeded him, consecrated by Godwin of Gaul, and consecrated Tobias, learned in Latin, Greek, and English, as bishop of Rochester.

Ða wæs ðy nehstan geare, æfter ðam ðe Ceadwala æt Rome 406.18 Then was in-the next year after that that Cædwalla at Rome forðfered wæs, þætte ðære eadgan gemynde Peodor ercebiscop departed was that of-the blessed memory Theodore archbishop ald 7 daga full forðfered wæs, þæt is þa he hæfde old and of-days full departed was that is when he had eahta 7 hundeatig wintra. Ðone seolfan riim wintra eight and eighty winters The same number of-winters hiene hæbbende beon, he oft ær his monnum foresægde, him having be he often before to-his men foretold ðæt he mid onwrignisse his swæfnes ongete. Wunode he on which he with revelation of-his dream perceived Remained he in biscopphade tu 7 xx wintra, 7 wæs bebyrged on Scæ bishopric two and twenty winters and was buried in of-Saint Petrus cirican, in ðære alra ðara biscoppa lichoman Contwara Peter church in which of-all the bishops bodies of-Kent burge gesette seondon. Bi ðam ætgædre mid þæm ilcum city set are About whom together with the same efenhletum his hades rihtlice 7 soðlice mæg cweðan, þæt partners of-his order rightly and truly can say that heora lichoman in sibbe bebyrgde siondon, 7 hiora noma their bodies in peace buried are and their name leofað wide ferh in ecnesse. Ond ðæt ic hrædlice cweoðe, þæt lives wide life in eternity And that I briefly say that in ða tid his biscophada swa micel fromung ongon beon in the time of-his bishopric so great progress began be in Ongelcynnes cirican swa næfre ær ðon beon meahte.

in of-English-race church as never before that be could

- 408.1 Þa feng æfter Theodore Berhtwold to ðam bisscophade, se Then succeeded after Theodore Berhtwald to the bishopric who wæs abbud in ðæm mynstre ðe Reaculfe is nemned. Wæs was abbot in the monastery which Reculver is named Was se wer in wisdom gewrito wæl gelæred, ge eac somod in the man in wisdom of-writings well taught and also together in ciriclicum ðiodscipum 7 in mynsterlicum healice intimbred, churchly disciplines and in monastic highly instructed ðeah ðe he no sie his foregengan to wiðmeotene. Wæs he though that he not be to-his predecessor to compare Was he gecoren in biscophade ðy ærestan dæge Iulius monðes; wæran chosen in bishopric on-the first day of-July month were ða Wihtræd 7 Swæfheard cyningas on Cænt. Wæs he gehalgad then Wihtræd and Swæfheard kings in Kent Was he consecrated ðy æftran gear eac ðy ðriddan dæge Kalendarum Iuliarum in-the second year on-the third day of-the-Kalends July — wæs se Dryhtenlica dæg — from Godwine aldorbisscopes was the Lordly day by Godwin chief-bishop Gallia rices. Ond he set on his setle on Cænt ærran dæge of-Gaul kingdom And he sat on his seat in Kent on-former day Kalendarum Septembrium ðy Dryhtenlican dæge. Se betwih of-the-Kalends September on-the Lordly day He among munge bisscopas ða he gehalgade, eac swilce, ða Gefmund many bishops whom he consecrated also likewise when Gebmund ðære cirican bisscop æt Hrofeceastre forðferde, 7 Tobiam of-the church bishop at Rochester departed and Tobias for hiene gehalgade; se wer wæs on Lædenesc gereorde ȝ for him consecrated the man was in Latin language and in Grecis ȝ in Englisc micellice intimbred ȝ well gelæred. in Greek and in English greatly instructed and well taught

IX · ECGBERHT'S MISSION FORBIDDEN

Ecgeberht, an English priest in Ireland, planned to preach to the German peoples the English came from, or else to visit Rome. A pupil of Boisil twice dreamed that Boisil sent Ecgeberht to teach in Columba's monastery instead. Ecgeberht kept preparing until a storm left his ship on its side; seeing it was meant for him, he gave up. His companion Wibtberht preached two years in Frisia in vain and went back to Ireland.

Þære tide se arwyrþa Cristes ðeow ȝ saceard Ecbriht se 408.15 At-that time the venerable of-Christ servant and priest Ecgeberht the halga, ðone ðe we ær beforan sægdon, þæt he in Ibernian holy whom that we before above said that he in Ireland þæm londe in elðiodignisse lifde for ðæm ecan eðle in the land in exile lived for the eternal homeland in heofonum to betanne, foresette he ȝ ðohte on his mode, heavens to atone purposed he and thought in his mind þæt he wolde monigum brycsian, þæt is ðæt he wolde ðæt that he would to-many be-useful that is that he would the apostolice wiorc onhyrgan, sumum ðara ðeoda Godes word ȝ apostolic work imitate to-some of-the nations of-God word and godspell læran ȝ bodigan þæm ðe hit ða get ne geheardan. gospel teach and preach to-those who it then yet not heard Ðara cynna monig he wiste in Germanie wesian, þonon Of-the races many he knew in Germany be whence Ongle ȝ Seaxan cumene wæron, ðe nu Breotene eardiað.
 Angles and Saxons come were who now Britain inhabit Wæran Fresan, Rugine, Dæne, Huna, Aldseaxan, Boructuare.

Were Frisians Rugians Danes Huns Old-Saxons Boructuari

Wæron eac oðer folc monig in ðæm ilcum dælum, ða

Were also other folks many in the same parts then gena æðenum þeawum þeogende, to ðæm se forespræcana yet to-beatben rites serving to whom the aforesaid

Cristes cæmpa fymbliðendre Breotene utan cuman wolde, of-Christ soldier sailing-around Britain outside come would gif wen wære þæt he ðær hwelce meahte diofle oðgripan if hope were that he there some might from-devil snatch

7 to Criste gecerran; oðþe gif ðæt beon ne meahte, ðurh and to Christ turn or if that be not could through ðæt he wolde Rome gesecan, 7 ða halgan stowe þara that he would Rome seek and the holy places of-the eadigra apostola 7 Cristes martyra geseon 7 him ðær blessed apostles and of-Christ martyrs see and himself there gebedigan. Ac him ða upplican onwrigenesse 7 weorc somod pray But him the upper revelations and works together wiðstodon, þæt no hwæðer ðissa gefremedæ ne ðurhteah.

withstood that neither — of-these performed nor carried-through 410.3 Ða gecas him geferan, ða þe æghwæðer ge on hiora

Then chose for-himself companions those who both and in their dædum ge on gelærednesse frome 7 scearpe wæron Godes deeds and in learning vigorous and sharp were of-God word to bodienne 7 to lærenne, 7 ealle ða ðing gearwade word to preach and to teach and all the things prepared ða ðe scipliðendum nedþearflicu gesewen wæron, þa com those which to-seafarers necessary seen were then came sume dæge on ærmorgen to him an ðara broðra, se wæs on-a day in early-morning to him one of-the brothers who was iu on Breotene Bosles discipul 7 ðegn Gode þæs leofan formerly in Britain of-Boisil disciple and servant to-God of-the dear sacerdes, mid ðy he ða se ilca Bósel wæs regolweard in ðæm priest with that he then the same Boisil was rule-keeper in the mynstre in Mailros, under Eatan þem abbude, suæ sue we monastery in Melrose under Eata the abbot so as we beforan sægdon. Sægde him his gesihðe, sio him on ðere above said Said to-him his vision which to-him in the ilcan nihte æteaude; cuæð he: Mid þy we gefylled hæfdon same night appeared said he With that we fulfilled had userne uhtsong 7 ure gebedo, 7 ic mine limo on beddstowe our matins and our prayers and I my limbs on bed-place strehte 7 me liht slep oferorn, þa æteaude me mín giu stretched and me light sleep overran then appeared to-me my former magister 7 festerfæder min se leofesta Bósel 7 mec frægn, master and foster-father my the dearest Boisil and me asked hwæðer ic hine ongeotan meahte. Gea, cweð ic, þu eart whether I him recognize could Yea said I thou art min Bósel. Cuað he to þon: Ic com hider, þæt ic scealde my Boisil Said he to that I came hither that I should Drihtnes Hēlendes ærende Ecgbrihte bringan, ðæt þu hweðere of-Lord Savior errand to-Ecgeberht bring which thou however scealt him sæcgan 7 gecyþan. Sage him forsoð, ðæt he ne shalt him say and make-known Say to-him forsooth that he not mæg þone siðfæt gefyllan, þe he gemynted hæfð; forþon þe can the journey fulfill which he intended has because that Godes willa is ðæt he fere to Columban mynstre to læranne. of-God will is that he go to of-Columba monastery to teach Wæs se Columba se æresta laruw ðæs cristinan geleafan in 410.19 Was the Columba the first teacher of-the Christian faith in þæm mórlandum, ða ðe siondan to norðdæle Peohta rices. the moorlands those which are to north-part of-Picts kingdom 7 he ærest getimbrede 7 gestaðolede þæt mynster, þe and he first built and established the monastery which in Hi ðem ealonde monigum folcum Pehta 7 Scotta longe in Iona the island to-many folks of-Picts and of-Scots long aarwyrðe awunede. Wæs þæt se ilca Columba, þe Scottas venerable remained Was that the same Columba whom Scots siððan Columcille nemdon. Ða Æcgbriht geherde ða word afterward Columcille named When Ecgbriht heard the words þære gesihðe, ða bebead he þæm breðer ðæt he nængum of-the vision then commanded he the brother that he to-no mæn ne sægde þa gesihðe: cwæð þæt hit eaðe mehte beon, man — said the vision said that it easily might be ðæt hit þurh biosmrunge ęteawed wære. Hweðre he þa wisan that it through illusion shown were However he the matter swigende sceawede 7 ondred ðæt hit soð wære; ne he ohte silent considered and dreaded that it true were nor he at-all ðy mae blann from gearwunge þæs siðfættes, þe he feran the more ceased from preparation of-the journey which he go wolde þeode to læranne. 7 æfter feaum dagum eft com se would nations to teach and after few days again came the forsprecena broðor to him 7 him segde, þætte ðære ilcan aforesaid brother to him and to-him said that on-the same nihte him Bósel þurh gesihðe ætæawde æfter ðan þe uhtsang night to-him Boisil through vision appeared after that that matins wæs gefylled, 7 him cuede to: Forhwon segdes ðu Æcgbrihte was fulfilled and him said to Why saidest thou to-Ecgbriht swa gemeleaslice 7 swa wlæclice þa ðing, ðe ic bebead him so carelessly and so lukewarmly the things which I commanded him to ecganne. Ah gong nu 7 saga him; swa he welle swa he ne to say But go now and say to-him so he will so he not wille, he sceal to Columban mynstre cuman, forðan þe hiora will he shall to of-Columba monastery come because that their sylh unrihte gongað; ah he ða sceal to rihtre stige geteon.

plows wrongly go but he them shall to right path draw Ða he þas word geherde, þa bebead he eft þæm breðer, 412.4 When he these words heard then commanded he again the brother þæt he nænigum menn ma openade ne ne cydde. 7 that he to-no man more disclosed nor — made-known and þeh ðe he gewiss geworden wære þurh ða ætewnesse þære though that he certain become were through the showing of-the gesihðe, nohte þon læs he his fore gegearwede mid ðæm vision not-at-all the less he his journey prepared with the gemyndgadum broðrum. Mid þy heo ða þæt scip gehlested mentioned brothers With that they then the ship laden hefðan mid þæm þingum, þe swa miceles siðfetes need had with the things which of-so great journey need abædde, 7 monige dagas windes 7 gewidera beodan, ða required and many days wind and weathers awaited then wæs sumre neahte geworden swa grim storm 7 swa reðe, was on-a-certain night become so grim storm and so fierce þætte of micelum dæle þa ðing to lose wurdan, þe in ðæm that of great part the things to loss became which in the scipe wæran, 7 þæt scip forleort betihn þa yða in siðian ship were and the ship left between the waves on side licgende. Ða oncneow se Godes monn ðæt he faran ne moste, lying Then knew the of-God man that he go not might 7 cuað: Ic wat þætte þæs storm for me is cumen 7 sendeð and said I know that this storm for me is come and sent

 wæs. 7 he hine ofteah þære fore 7 unrot ham ferde. was and he himself withdrew from-the journey and sad home went 7 he hweðre, án his geferana, — wæs Wihtbriht haten, 412.16 and he however one of-his companions was Wihtberht called se wæs middangeard forhycgende, 7 he wæs on wiisdome who was middle-earth despising and he was in wisdom codcundre lare mære, 7 monig gear he in Hibernia ellpeodig of-divine teaching famous and many years he in Ireland exiled áncorliif dede in micelre fullfremednesse — ða ástag he in anchorite-life did in great perfection then climbed he into scip, 7 cóm in Fresena land; 7 twa gear singal þær þeode ship and came into of-Frisians land and two years continual there to-nation 7 Rædbedde hiora cyninge hælo word 7 codcundre lare and to-Radbod their king of-salvation word and of-divine teaching bodade 7 lærde. Ne he hwæðre ænigne * wæstem swa preached and taught Not he however any (conjecture) fruit of-so micles gewinnes mid þam ellreordigum gemetan mehte. Ða great labor among the foreign-tongued find could Then hwearf he eft to ðære leofan stówe his ellðeodinesse, 7 in turned he again to the dear place of-his exile and in ðære gewunelican stillnesse Drihtne lifde. 7 forðon þe he the customary stillness to-Lord lived and because that he ðæm utlican to geleafan brytian ne mehte, he ða his geferum to-the foreigners to faith profit not could he then to-his companions ma of his mæгна spedum 7 bisenum brytian gemde. more from of-his virtues riches and examples profit cared

X • WILLIBRORD AMONG THE FRISIANS

Since he could not go himself, Ecgberht sent twelve men led by the priest Willibrord. Pippin, king of the Franks, who had just conquered Frisia and driven out Radbod, received them and sent them to preach there, protecting them with his authority and rewarding converts, so that many quickly turned from idols to Christ.

412.28 Ða ðæt se Godes wer Ecgbrihte geseah, ðæt he ne wæs When that the of-God man Ecgberht saw that he not was forlæten, þeodum godcunde lare to bodienne, ah þæt he wæs permitted to-nations divine teaching to preach but that he was haefd fore oðre nyttenesse þære halgan cirican, bi ðære he held for other usefulness of-the holy church about which he foremanad wæs mid godcundre onwrignesse, ne ðætte Wihtbriht forewarned was with divine revelation nor that Wihtberht ówiht fremede, þeh ðe he in ða dælas become, ða ongann at-all profited though that he into the parts came then began he þa gena in ðæt *wærc godcundre láare saendan halige he then yet into the work of-divine teaching send holy weoras 7 geornfulle tuelfe, þara aldormon wæs Willbrórd men and zealous twelve of-whom leader was Willibrord micelre geearnunge mæssepreost. Mid ðy hio ða þider coman of-great merit masspriest With that they then thither came on land, ða cerdan hio ærest to Pipine Froncana cyninge 7 on land then turned they first to Pippin of-Franks king and ðoncweorðlice wæran from him onfongene. Ond forðan he thankfully were by him received And because he niwan geeode þa fyrran Fresan, 7 þonon Ræbed ðone cyning newly conquered the farther Frisians and thence Radbod the king ádraf, sende hio ða þider, þæt hio scoldan þær Godes word drove-out sent them then thither that they should there of-God word bodian 7 læran. 7 he ec swylce hio wæs gefultumiende preach and teach and he also likewise them was helping mid his cynelicre aldorlicnesse, ðæt him mon noht hefiges with his royal authority that to-them one nothing of-heavy ne laðes gedon dorste, 7 mid monigum fremsumnessum nor of-bateful do dared and with many benefits þa geweorðade, þa ðe Cristes geleafan onfon woldon. Ðonon them honored those who of-Christ faith receive would Thence wæs geworden þurh Drihtnes gife 7 fultum, þæt hio monige was become through of-Lord grace and help that they many hrædlice from deofolgeldum to Cristes geleafan gecerdan. quickly from idolatries to of-Christ faith turned

Two English priests, both named Hewald and called Black and White for their hair, went to the Old Saxons, who had no king. A reeve took them in, but the beathen, seeing them chant psalms and say mass, feared they would convert their ealdorman, and killed them and threw their bodies into the Rhine. The ealdorman burned the village. The bodies drifted forty miles upstream, a light shone over them, and Pippin buried them at Cologne.

414.15 Ðeossa bisene wæran fylgende sume tuegen messepreostas Of-these example were following some two masspriests of Ongolcynne, þa in Hibernia þem ealonde micelre tíide of English-race who in Ireland the island for-great time for hiofana riices lufan in ellðeodinesse liifdan. Cuomon for of-heavens kingdom love in exile lived Came hio to Ealdseaxna mægðe, gif wen wære þæt hi þær ænige they to of-Old-Saxons province if hope were that they there any þurh heora lare Criste begytan mihte. Wæran hie begn through their teaching for-Christ win could Were they both áne naman nemned, swa hio ec swylce anre willsumnesse with-one name named as they also likewise of-one devotion wæran. Wæs hiora æghweðer Heawald nemned. Wæs ðis were Was of-them each Hewald named Was this tosceaden hweðre, þætte for hiora missenlice feaxes hiwe distinguished however that for their different of-hair hue oðer wæs cueden se blaca Heawald, oðer se hwita Heawald. one was called the black Hewald other the white Hewald Wæs hiara oeghweðer æwfestlice gelæred; wæs se blaca Was of-them each piously taught was the black Heawald hweðere mae in wisdom haligra gewrita getyd.
Hewald however more in wisdom of-holy writings instructed Ða hio ða in Ealdseaxe cuomon, þa eodon hio in When they then among Old-Saxons came then went they into sumes tungerefan giæstern, ⁊ hine bædon þætte hio onsende of-a town-reeve guest-house and him asked that them sent to ðæm aldormen þe ofer hine wæs; segdon þæt hio hefdon to the ealdorman who over him was said that they had nyt ærende ⁊ nyttne intigan sumne, þe hio him lædan useful errand and useful cause some which they to-him bring scoldan. Forðon hio ða ilcan Ealdseaxan næfdan agene cyning; should Because they the same Old-Saxons had-not own king ah monige aldormenn wæran þeode forsette. Ond þonne sio but many ealdormen were to-nation set-over And when the tiid gewinnes ⁊ gefeohtes, cuomon ðonne hio mid tanum to time of-war and of-battle came then they with lots to ðam ealdormannum, ⁊ swa hwylcne hiora swa him se tan the ealdormen and so which of-them so to-them the lot æteawde, þonne gecuran hio ðone him to heretogan ⁊ showed then chose they him for-themselves as commander and to lattowe, ⁊ ðone fylgdan ⁊ him herdon. Ðonne ðæt fyht as leader and him followed and him obeyed When the fight ⁊ þæt gewinn geenddad wæs, þonne weran hie eft efnrice, and the war ended was then were they again equal-powerful wæran ealdormenn. Ða onfoeng hio se tungerefa ⁊ him wæs were ealdormen Then received them the town-reeve and to-them was gehaterde, ðæt he hio wolde to his aldormen onsendan, swa swa promising that he them would to his ealdorman send so as hio bædan; ⁊ he hio þa hwylce hugu dagas mid hine geæfde. they asked and he them then some — days with him kept Mid þy hio ða ða ellreordigan ongeotan ðæt hio wæran oðere With that they then the foreign-tongued perceived that they were of-other aefestnesse, forðon hio simle hiora salmas sungan ⁊ in halgum religion because they ever their psalms sang and in holy gebedum Gode þeoddon, dæghwemlice Gode asægdnesse beran, prayers to-God served daily to-God sacrifice bore 7 mæssan sungan — hæfdan hio mid him gehalgude fatu, 7 and masses sang had they with them hallowed vessels and gehalgadne tabul on wigbedes gewrixle — ða wæran þa hæðnan hallowed table in of-altar stead then were the heathens betwih him þehtiende 7 sprecende: gif hio to ðem ealdormen between them deliberating and speaking if they to the ealdorman bicuomen 7 mid hine sprecende wæran, ðæt hio hine from came and with him speaking were that they him from hiora godum acerden, 7 to ðære niowan ær þæs Cristes their gods turned and to the new law of-the of-Christ geleafan gehwerfde; swa sticcemælum all hiora mægðe neded faith turned so little-by-little all their province compelled wære, þæt hio hiora ald bigong forleorte 7 þæt niowe beode. were that they their old worship left and the new practiced 416.21 Genaman ða semniga þa Godes menn 7 ofslogan; þone Seized then suddenly the of-God men and slew the hwitan Heawold hio hreðe mid sweorde ofslogan; þone blacan white Hewald they quickly with sword slew the black Heawald hio longe cuelmðon 7 þurh limo witnadon. Ða hio Hewald they long tortured and through limbs tormented When they ða ofslægene weran, þa wurpan hio hiora lichaman út in then slain were then threw they their bodies out into Riine þa eae. Ða þæt ða geherde se ealdormon, hu hie gedon Rhine the river When that then heard the ealdorman how they done ymbe þa menn hæfdan, ða ðe gesion 7 sæcgan waldon, about the men had those who see and speak wished þa wæs he swiðe eorre; sende þa weord þider 7 heht then was he very angry sent then band thither and commanded ðone tunsceipe ealne ofslean, 7 þone tun forbernān. Weran the villagers all slay and the village burn Were þrowiende þa forsprecenan Cristes þeowas 7 messepreostas suffering the aforesaid of-Christ servants and masspriests þy fiftan dege Nonarum Octobrium. Ne hiora martirhāda on-the fifth day of-the-Nones October Not of-their martyrdom won weran heofonlico wundor. Forðon þa hio ofslægne lacking were heavenly wonders Because when they slain weran, 7 hiora lichaman from þem hæðnum, swa swa we were and their bodies by the heathens so as we ær cuædan, in ða ea worpene weran, ða gelomp hit þæt ða before said into the river thrown were then happened it that the licoman ongen þam ræse ðes forðgeotendan streames geborene bodies against the rush of-the forth-pouring stream borne weran þurh all feowertig mila oð ða stowe, þe hiora cuðe were through all forty miles to the place which their known menn 7 hiora geferan on weran. Swylce ec se mæsta scima men and their companions in were Likewise also the greatest brightness hiofonlices leohtes ufan egwylcre nihte ofer þa stowe of-heavenly light from-above on-each night over the place scan, þer þæt gelomp þet þa lichoman cuomon; 7 þæt ec shone where that happened that the bodies came and that also swylce ða hæðnan geségon 7 beheoldon, þa ðe hio slogon. likewise the heathens saw and beheld those who them slew Ah ða oðer þara martira in neahtlicere gesihðe æteaude But then other of-the martyrs in nightly vision appeared sumum hiora geferan, þæs nama wæs Tilmon. Wæs þæt méere to-one of-their companions whose name was Tilmon Was that famous wer 7 for weorulde ec swylce æðelre gebyrde; wæs he ærest man and for world also likewise of-noble birth was he first from cyninges þægn, 7 þa wæs eft munuc geworden. vigorous of-king thane and then was afterward monk become Wæs he him secgende, þæt he meahte hiora lichoman in ðere Was he to-him saying that he could their bodies in the 418.6

stowe gemaetan, þær he gesawe þæt leoht of hiofonum on place find where he saw the light from heavens on eorðan scínan. Ðæt ec swylce gefylled wes. Ða fundan hio earth shine That also likewise fulfilled was Then found they sona hiora lichoman 7 æfter gerisenre áare martira bebyrgede at-once their bodies and after fitting honor of-martyrs buried wæran; 7 se deg hiora þrowunge ge hiora lichoman were and the day of-their passion and of-their bodies gemetnesse mid arwyrðre weorðunge in ðem stowum mærsade finding with venerable honor in the places celebrated syndon. Mid ða Pippin se cyning Froncna þas ðing geherde are With that Pippin the king of-Franks these things heard 7 geacsade, þa sende he weorod 7 heht hiora lichoman and learned then sent he host and commanded their bodies to him gelædan, 7 hio mid micle wuldre 7 wyrðmyndum to him bring and them with great glory and honors bebyrgan in cirican Colóne þæræ ceastre bii Ríne. Is ðæt ec bury in church of-Cologne the city by Rhine Is that also sæd þætte in ðere stowe, þer hio ofslegne weran, weolle án said that in the place where they slain were welled a welle, sio in þere ilcan stowe oð ðisne deg genihtsumu weter spring which in the same place until this day abundant water † forðflowæð 7 geotet monnum to ðegnunge 7 to áre.
(corrupt) flows-forth and pours to-men for service and for benefit Willibrord went to Rome for Pope Sergius's leave and for relics. His brothers in Frisia chose Swithberht as bishop, whom Wilfrid consecrated in Britain; when the Old Saxons overran the Boructuari he had converted, Pippin gave him a Rhine island at Queen Plectrude's request, and he died there. Pippin then sent Willibrord to Rome, where Sergius made him archbishop of the Frisians and named him Clement; his see was at Utrecht.

Sona þæm erestan tidum, þes ða lareowas cuomon in 418.22 Soon in-the first times after-that the teachers came into Fresena lond, ⁊ Willbrod from ðem cyninge lefnesse onfeng of-Frisians land and Willibrord from the king leave received þæt he ðær læran moste, þa wolde he hredlice to Rome that he there teach might then would be quickly to Rome cuman, þa wes bisscop ðæs apostolican seðles Sergius papa, come then was bishop of-the apostolic see Sergius pope þæt he wólde mid his læfnesse ⁊ mid his blætsunge þæt that he would with his leave and with his blessing the willsume weorc onginnan ⁊ gefyllan þem ðiodum godspel to desired work begin and fulfill to-the nations gospel to læranne. Ond somod he willnade from him onfon þera eadigra teach And at-once he desired from him receive of-the blessed apastola reliquias ⁊ Cristes martira, þæt mid þy he diofolgeld apostles relics and of-Christ martyrs that with that he idols towurpe ⁊ cirican timbrede ⁊ rærde in þære ðiode þe he overthrew and churches built and raised in the nation which he lærde, ðæt he ðer gearwe hefde haligra reliquias in to settenne, taught that he there ready had of-saints relics in to set ⁊ he gerisenlice meahte in ðara haligra áare syndrige stowe and he fittingly could in of-the saints honor separate places gehwylce haligra halgian, þe hiora reliquias þær in weran. each of-saints ballow that their relics there in were Swylce ec monige oðre intingan he sohte 7 willnade oððe Likewise also many other causes he sought and desired either þer leornian oððe þanon onfón. In ðem eallum mid ðy he there learn or thence receive In them all with that he willfegen wes gefremed, he eft hwearf to codcundre láare. well-pleased was made he again turned to divine teaching 420.7 Pære tiide þa broðor, ða ðe in Fresum weran mid hine At-that time the brothers those who among Frisians were with him in ðere þegnunge ðes Godes wordes, gecuron hio of hiora in the ministry of-the of-God word chose they from their riime gemetfæstne monn in his þeaum 7 monþuerne heortan number modest man in his customs and gentle in-heart Swiðberht, þæt se him gehalgad were to bisscope. Sendon Swithberht that he for-them consecrated were as bishop Sent hine þa to Breotene 7 for hiora béne se aárwyrða bisscop him then to Britain and for their prayer the venerable bishop Willferð hine gehalgade, se wes in þa tiid of his æðele Wilfrid him consecrated who was in that time from his homeland adriften 7 in Mercna lande folgade, ond forðon þe in ða tiid driven and in of-Mercians land served and because that in that time Contweara nefdan bisscop. Wes Theodor bisscop forðfered, 7 Kent-folk had-not bishop Was Theodore bishop departed and Berhwald his efterfylgend þa get ne cuom to his bisscopseðle, Berhtwald his successor then yet not came to his bishop-see forðon he wes ofer sæ sended to hadienne. Ða Swiðberht because he was over sea sent to be-ordained When Swithberht hefde bisscophade onfongen, þa ferde he eft of Breotene 7 had bishopric received then went he again from Britain and efter medmicelum fece he gewat to ðere þeode Boruchtuarorum, after brief space he departed to the nation of-Boructuari 7 monige hiora þurh his lare to soðfestnesse wege gecerde. and many of-them through his teaching to of-truth way turned

Ah ða aefter noht longre tiide sio ilce þiod wes oferwunnen

But then after not long time the same nation was conquered from Ealdseaxum; 7 ða geleafsuman menn, þa ðe Godes by Old-Saxons and the faithful men those who of-God worde onfengon, weran wide todrifene. Ond se bisscop mid word received were widely scattered And the bishop with his geferum sumum sohte Pipiīn Froncna cyning; 7 him his companions some sought Pippin of-Franks king and for-him ða geerendade Bliðryð his cuén, þet he him wunesse stowe then interceded Plectrude his queen that he to-him of-dwelling place gesealde in sumum ealonde bi Riīne, þet is on hiora gereorde gave in an island by Rhine which is in their language geceged 7 nemned In Litore, in ðem he mynster getimbrede, called and named In Litore in which he monastery built þet nu gen oðð þis agon his erfeweardas. 7 he þer sum which now yet until this own his heirs and he there some fec in forhebbendum liife lifde 7 ðer his deagas geendade.

space in abstinent life lived and there his days ended

Efter ðon þe hie þa sum gear codcunde lāre lārdon in 420.28

After that that they then some years divine teaching taught in Fresena riice, þa ðe mid hine cuomon, þa sende Pipin mid of-Frisians kingdom those who with him came then sent Pippin with ealra hiora gefaþunge þone arwyrdan wer Willbrord to Róome of-all their consent the venerable man Willibrord to Rome to Sergie þem papan, ond bæd þæt he hine Fresna ðeode to Sergius the pope and asked that he him of-Frisians for-nation to ercebiscope gehalgade. 7 he swa dyde swa he bæd. Wæs as archbishop consecrated and he so did as he asked Was he gehadod in circan þære halgan fæmnan 7 martires Scē he ordained in church of-the holy maiden and martyr Saint Cecilian þy dæge, ðe hire gemynddæg wes; 7 se papa hine

Cecilia on-the day that her memorial-day was and the pope him nemde freonaman Clemens. 7 sona þæs þe he geháadad wæs, named surname Clement and soon that that he ordained was þet is æfter feowertene dagum, þes ðe he in Romeburh that is after fourteen days after-that that he into Rome-city cuom, þet he hine eft sende to his bisscopsedle. Salde him came that he him again sent to his bishop-see Gave to-him 7 forgeaf Piipin bisscopsedl in his þere meran byrig, sio and granted Pippin bishop-see in his the famous city which alde worde þere þiode is nemned Wiltaburg; Galleas nemnað in-old word of-the nation is named Wiltaburg Gauls name Traiectum; we cuedað Ættreocum. Bi ðære se arwyrða bisscop Traiectum we say Utrecht By which the venerable bishop ciirican getimbrede 7 feorr 7 wide Godes word ymbe church built and far and wide of-God word about Cristes geleafan bodade 7 lærde; 7 monige wes cegende of-Christ faith preached and taught and many was calling from hæðnesse gedwolan hiora liifes. 7 he monig mynster from of-beathendom error of-their life and he many monasteries 7 cirican in ðæm londe getimbrede; ond æfter fæce monige and churches in the land built and after space many oðre bisscopas þer gesette 7 gehalgade of þara broðra other bishops there set and consecrated from of-the brothers ríime, þa ðe mid hine oððe æfter him cuomon codcunde number those who with him or after him came divine láre to bodienne; þara monige forðgeleordon in Drihten. teaching to preach of-whom many passed-away in Lord 422.15 Ah he Willbrord, þe se papa Clemens nemde, longe aeldo But he Willibrord whom the pope Clement named long age 7 árwyrd he hefde; six 7 ðritig wintra in bisscophade and venerable he had six and thirty winters in bishopric liifde, ond efter monigfealdum gewinnum heofonlices lived and after manifold labors of-heavenly comphades to meordum þes uplican edleanes becuom to áare warfare to rewards of-the upper recompense came to honor

XIII · DRYTHELM'S VISION

A Northumbrian householder named Drythelm died one night and revived at dawn, divided his goods, and became a monk at Melrose. His shining guide had shown him a valley of fire and ice where souls are cleansed, the pit of hell where devils dragged five souls, a flowering field of the good, and a brighter place near heaven. He told it to Hæmgisl and King Aldfrith, and stood in the icy river saying he had seen colder.

Ðassum tidum gemyndelic wundar 7 ealdum wundrum 422.19 In-these times memorable wonder and to-old wonders geliic in Breotene wæs geworden. Forðon ðe to awehtnesse like in Britain was done Because that for awakening lifgendra monna of saule deaðe sum mon wes sum of-living men from of-soul death a man was some faec dead 7 eft to life lichoman aras 7 monig ðing space dead and again to life of-body arose and many things gemyndewyrðe segde, þa he geseah, þara sume we her memorable said which he saw of-which some we here hredlice areccan 7 áasecgan 7 aawritan willað. quickly relate and tell and write will Uues sum hioscipes fæder 7 higina aldor in ðeodlonde 422.24 Was a of-household father and of-family head in district Norðanhymbra, ðet is geceged In Cununingum; liifde he of-Northumbrians which is called In Cunningham lived he aefestlice his liif mid his heorde. Ða wearð he licumlicre piously his life with his household Then was he by-bodily untrumnesse gehrinen 7 gestonden; 7 seo deghwemlice infirmity touched and assailed and it daily weox, oððet he to ðem ytemestan dege gelæded wes, 7 in grew until he to the last day led was and in forewearde neaht forðferde. Ah in dagunge he eft acuicode early night departed But in dawning he again revived 7 semninga up heh asæt; ond ealle þa ðe æt his lichoman and suddenly up high sat and all those who by his body woepende sæton mid unmæte ege geslægene weron 7 weeping sat with immense fear struck were and utflugon butan his wíif an, ðe hine swiðust lufade, sio án out-fled except his wife alone who him most loved she alone hinne aawunade, þeh ðe hio swiðe forht were 7 beofiende. within remained though that she very afraid were and trembling Ða frefrede he hio 7 cued: Ne welle þu ðe ondredan, Then comforted he her and said Not will thou thee dread forðon þe ic soðlice from deaðe aáras 7 eam eft forlæten because that I truly from death arose and am again permitted mid monnum liifgan, nales hweðre þy liife þe ic ær with men live not-at-all however by-the life that I before liifde, ah swiðe ungelice of ðisse tíide me is to lifigenne. lived but very unlike from this time to-me is to live Ond ða sona áaras 7 eode to ðære cirican þes tunes 7 And then at-once arose and went to the church of-the village and oð lutterne dæg in gebede stod. Ond sona æfter þon ealle until clear day in prayer stood And at-once after that all his æahte in þreo todælde; enne dæl he his wíife sealde, his possessions into three divided one part he to-his wife gave oðerne his bearnum, þone þriddan, þe him gelomp, he other to-his children the third which to-him fell he instepe þearrfum gedelde: 7 æfter medmiclum fæce all instantly to-poor distributed and after brief space all weoruldþing forleorte 7 to Mailros ðem mynstre cuoom, þet world-things left and to Melrose the monastery came which is of ðem mestan dæle mid ymbebegnesse Tuede streames is of the greatest part with bending of-Tweed stream betyned. 7 he þer Godes þiohade 7 scare onfeng, 7 in enclosed and he there of-God service and tonsure received and into dygle aáncorstowe ȝode, þe se abbud him foreseeh; 7 þer secret anchorite-place went which the abbot for-him provided and there oð ðone dæg his deaðes in swa micelum gedrehtnessum 7 until the day of-his death in so great afflictions and forhefdnessum modes 7 lichoman áheardade 7 awunade, abstinences of-mind and body endured and remained þette menn mehtan ongeotan, þæt he monig ðing ge egslice that men could perceive that he many things both terrible ge willsumlice gesch, þe oðre meoðon, þeh ðe sio tunge and desirable saw which others missed though that the tongue swigade, þet his liif wes sprecende. was-silent that his life was speaking

Sægde he þys gemete ðætte he geseah, 7 cueð: Leohte 424.18 Said he in-this manner what he saw and said Of-shining gesihðe 7 onsione 7 berhte gegerelan wes, se ðe me lædde. appearance and countenance and of-bright garment was he who me led Eodon wiit suigiende, þes ðe me ðuhte 7 gesegn wes, ongen Went we-two silent as that to-me seemed and seen was toward norðeast rodor, swa sunnan upgong bið æt middum sumere. north-east sky as of-sun rising is at mid summer Mid ðy wit ða hwiile eodan, bicuomon wít to sumere With that we-two the while went came we-two to a dene, sio wæs micelre brædo 7 deopnese 7 ungeaendadre valley which was of-great breadth and depth and of-endless længe; wes unc on ða wynstran healfe geseted. Oðer dæl wæs length was to-us on the left side set One part was wallendum lægum full suiðe egesfullice, oðer wes nohte þon with-boiling flames full very terribly other was not-at-all the læs unaarefdlice cele hægles 7 snawes. Wes gehweðer manna less with-unbearable cold of-bail and snow Was each of-men saula full, þa wrixendlice on tua healfe gesegene weeran, swa souls full which alternately on two sides seen were so swa mid unmætnesse micles stormes, worpene beon. Þonne hio as with immensity of-great storm thrown be When they þæt mægn þere unmetan hætton áarefnan ne mehtan, þonne the might of-the immense beat endure not could then stældan heo eft earmlice in middel þæs unmætān ciles. 7 leaped they again miserably into middle of-the immense cold and mid þy heo ðær nænige reste gemetan mihtan, þonne stældon with that they there no rest find could then leaped heo eft in middan þæs byrnendan fyres 7 ðæs unadwæscedan they again into midst of-the burning fire and of-the unquenched leges. Mid þy heo ða þæs ungesælgan wrixles feor 7 wide, flame With that they then of-the unhappy exchange far and wide swa geseon meahton, butan fyrstmearce ænigre ræste mid as see could without interval of-any rest with þa unriman mængo sweartra gasta þreoste wæron, þa ongan the countless multitude of-black spirits afflicted were then began ic þencan, 7 wende þæt hit hel wære, be ðam tintregum I think and supposed that it hell were about whose torments unaræfnendlicum ic oft sæcgan herde. Þa ondswarede he unendurable I often say heard Then answered he minum geðohte se min latteow, se ðe me foreode, 7 þus to-my thought the my leader he who me preceded and thus cwæð: Nis ðis seo hel, swa ðu talest 7 wenest. said Not-is this the hell as thou reckonest and supposest

Mid þy ic ða wæs mid þisse ongryslican wæferseone swiðe 426.6 With that I then was with this horrible spectacle greatly gefyrhted ⁊ gebreged, þa lædde he me styccemælum forð on frightened and terrified then led he me little-by-little forth into fyran lond. Þa geseah ic sǣmninga beforan unc onginnan farther land Then saw I suddenly before us-two begin ðeostrian ða stowe ⁊ miclum þeostum all gefylled. Mid ðy darken the places and with-great darkness all filled With that wit ða in ða þeostro íneodon, ⁊ heo styccemælum swa we-two then into the darkness went-in and they little-by-little so micel ⁊ swa ðicco wæron, þæt ic noht geseon meahte, nemne great and so thick were that I nothing see could except þæt seo ansien scan ⁊ þa hrægl leoht wæron, se ðe mæc that the countenance shone and the garments light were he who me lædde. ⁊ mid ðy wit ða forðgongende wæron under ðæm led and with that we-two then going-forth were under the scuan þære ðeostrian nihte, ða æteowdan sǣmninga beforan shadow of-the dark night then appeared suddenly before unc monige heapas sweartra lega, ða wæron up astigende us-two many heaps of-black flames which were up ascending swa swa of miclum seaðe, ⁊ eft wæron fallende ⁊ so as from great pit and again were falling and gewitende in ðone ilcan seað. Mid ðy ic ða ðyder gelæded departing into the same pit With that I then thither led wæs, ða ne wiste ic sǣmninga hwær min latteow becom; ⁊ was then not knew I suddenly where my leader went and he mec forlet in middum þæm þeostum ond ðære ongryslican he me left in midst the darkness and the horrible gesihðe. ⁊ mid ðy þa ilcan heapas þara fyra butan blinne vision and with that the same heaps of-the fires without ceasing hwilum upp astigon in heanesse, hwilum niðer gewiton in at-times up ascended into height at-times down departed into ða niolnesse ðæs seaðes, geseah ic 7 sceawade; ealle ða the abyss of-the pit saw I and beheld all the heanesse þara úpastigendra lega fulle wæron monna gasta, height of-the ascending flames full were of-men spirits þa on onlicnesse upastigendra yslena mid rece, hwilum in which in likeness of-ascending sparks with smoke at-times into heanesse beoð up worpene, hwilum eft togenum ðara fyra height are up thrown at-times again with-withdrawn of-the fires ðearsmum wæron eft aslidene in neolnesse 7 in grund. vapors were again slid into abyss and into ground

426.25 Swelce eac unaræfnedlic fullness wæs mid þæs fyres þrosme Likewise also unbearable foulness was with of-the fire vapor uppawallende, 7 ealle ða stowe ðara þiostra gefylde. Mid ðy up-welling and all the place of-the darkness filled With that ic ða longe þær forht stod, 7 me wæs uncuð, hwæt ic dyde I then long there afraid stood and to-me was unknown what I did oðþe hwider ic eode oðþe hwelc ende me come, ða geherde or whither I went or what end to-me came then heard ic sæmninga micelne swæg me on bæcling unmaetes wopes I suddenly great sound me on back of-immense weeping 7 earmlices, swelce eac micel gehled 7 ceahetunge swa swa and wretched likewise also great shouting and laughter so as ungelæredes folces 7 biosmriendes gehæftum heora feondum. of-untaught folk and mocking at-captured their enemies Þa he ða se sweg me near wæs 7 to me becom, þa When it then the sound to-me nearer was and to me came then geseah ic mænigo þara wergra gasta .v. manna saula grornende saw I multitude of-the accursed spirits five men souls groaning 7 heofende teon 7 lædan on midde þa þeostra, 7 heo and lamenting drag and lead into midst the darkness and they on ðon swiðe blissedon 7 ceahheton. Þara manna sum wæs, at that greatly rejoiced and laughed Of-the men one was þæs ðe ic gewiton meahte, bescoren preost, sum wæs lāwde, as that I know could shorn priest one was layman sum wæs wifmon. Tugon heo ða wergan gastas 7 niðer mid one was woman Dragged them the accursed spirits and down with geweotan in midde ða niolnesse ðæs byrnendan leges. Mid departed into midst the abyss of-the burning flame With ðy heo ða fir gewiten wæron, 7 ic ðone wop þara manna that they then farther departed were and I the weeping of-the men 7 þone hleahtor þara diofla sweetolice geheran ne meahte, and the laughter of-the devils clearly bear not could hwæðre ic ðone sweg ða gena gemengedne in earum hæfde. however I the sound then yet mingled in ears had Betwioh ðas þing ða upp comon sume ðara þiostra gasta 428.7 Among these things then up came some of-the dark spirits of ðere niolnesse, 7 of ðære witestowe, 7 mec utan from the abyss and from the torment-place and me outside ymbaldon. Hæfdon heo fyrene eagan 7 full fyr of heora surrounded Had they fiery eyes and foul fire from their muðe 7 of heora nasum wæron ut blawende; ond fyrene mouth and from their nostrils were out blowing and fiery tangan him on handa hæfdon, 7 mæc nerwdon, 7 me tongs to-them in hands had and me constrained and me tobeotedon, þæt heo mid þam gegripan woldon, 7 in ða threatened that they with them seize would and into the forwyrd sendan. Ond þeah ðe heo mec swa bregdan 7 destruction send And though that they me so terrified and fyrhton, ne dorston heo mec hwæðre ongehrinan.

frightened not dared they me however touch Mid ðy ic ða wæs æghwonan mid ðam feondum ymbald 7 428.15 With that I then was on-every-side with the enemies surrounded and mid ða blindnesse þara ðeostra utan betyned, ða áhof ic mine with the blindness of-the darkness outside shut-in then raised I my eagan upp 7 locade hider 7 geond, hwæðer me ænig fultum eyes up and looked hither and yonder whether to-me any help toward wære, ðæt ic gehæled beon meahte. Ða æteowde me coming were that I saved be might Then appeared to-me æfter þam wege, þe ic ær com on, betwioh ða þeostra swa along the way that I before came on among the darkness as beorht scinende steorra. 7 ðæt leoht wæs weaxende mare bright shining star and the light was growing more 7 mare, 7 hraðe to me wæs efstende; 7 sona ðæs ðe hit and more and quickly to me was hastening and soon that that it me nealehte, ða wæron tostencte 7 onwæg flugon ealle ða me approached then were scattered and away fled all the awergdan gastas, ða ðe me ær mid heora tangan tobeotodan. accursed spirits those who me before with their tongs threatened Wæs ðæt se min latteow, se ðe mec lādde. Ða cerde he ða Was that the my leader he who me led Then turned he then sona on ða swiðran hond, 7 mec ongon lādan suðeast on at-once on the right hand and me began lead south-east toward ðon roðor, swa swa on wintre sunne upp gongeð. Ða wære the sky so as in winter sun up goes Then were wit sona of ðam þeostrum abrogdene, 7 he mec lādde in we-two at-once from the darkness snatched and he me led into fægernesse smoltes leohtes. Mid ðy he mec ða in openum leohte fairness of-calm light With that he me then in open light lādde, þa geseah ic beforan unc þone mæstan weall, þæs led then saw I before us-two the greatest wall of-which længo on twa healfes ne his heanesse ænig ende *gesen wæs. length on two sides nor its height any end seen was 428.29 Ða ongan ic wundrian, for hwon wit to þam walle eodan, Then began I wonder for why we-two to the wall went mid ðy ic on him nænige duru ne eahþyr! ne uppastignesne with that I on it no door nor window nor ascent onhwonan on ænge halfe geseon meahte. Mid ðy wit ða from-anywhere on any side see could With that we-two then becoman to ðam walle, þa sona instæpe, ne wat ic hwelcre came to the wall then at-once instantly not know I in-what endebyrdnesse, wæron wit on his heanesse on ðam walle order were we-two on its height on the wall ufonweardum. 7 þa geseah ic ðær þone rumestan feld 7 uppermost and then saw I there the roomiest field and þone fægerestan, 7 se wæs eall swetnesse anre full growendra the fairest and it was all of-sweetness one full of-growing blostmena. Ond seo wundrigende swetnesse þæs miclan swicces blossoms And the wondrous sweetness of-the great fragrance sona ealle ða fullnessa þæs fullan ofnes 7 þæs þeostran, at-once all the foulnesses of-the foul furnace and of-the dark þe mec ær ðurhseah, onwæg aflemdede. Ond swa micel leoht which me before pierced away put-to-flight And so great light 7 beorhtnes ealle þa stowe geondscan, þæt he ealles dæges and brightness all the place shone-through that it of-all day beorhtnisse oðþe ðære middæglican sunnan sciman wæs brightness or of-the midday sun brightness was beorhtre gesewen. Wæron on ðissum felda unrime gesomnunge brighter seen Were on this field countless gatherings hwitra manna 7 fægra 7 monig seðel gefeondra wæroda 7 of-white men and fair and many seats of-rejoicing hosts and blissigendra. Mid ðy he mec ða lædde betwih midde ða þreatas exulting With that he me then led between midst the troops þara gesæligra woruda, þa ongan ic þencan 7 me huru of-the happy hosts then began I think and to-me indeed þuhte, þæt þær wære heofona rice, be ðam ic oft sæcgan seemed that there were of-beavens kingdom about which I often say herde. Ða ondsvarode he minum geðohte 7 cwæð: Nis heard Then answered he to-my thought and said Not-is ðis, cwæð he, heofona rice, swa swa ðu talest 7 wenest. this said he of-heavens kingdom so as thou reckonest and supposest 430.15 Mid ðy wit ða wæron forðgongende 7 oferferdon þas With that we-two then were going-forth and passed-over these wunenesse þara eadigra gasta, þa geseah ic beforan unc dwellings of-the blessed spirits then saw I before us-two micle maran gefe leohtes 7 beorhtnesse þonne ic ær geseah, much greater grace of-light and brightness than I before saw in ðære ic eac swylce þa swetestan stæfne geherde Godes in which I also likewise the sweetest voice heard of-God lof singendra. Swylce eac of ðære stowe swa micel swetnes praise singing Likewise also from the place so great sweetness wundorlices stænces wæs onsended, þæt sio swætnis, þe ic ær of-wondrous odor was sent that the sweetness which I before bregde 7 me micel þuhte, in ða witgemetnisse þæs æfteran tasted and to-me great seemed in the comparison of-the second leohtes 7 beorhtnesse wæs lytel 7 medmicel gesæwen. Swylce light and brightness was little and small seen Likewise eac swelce þæt leoht 7 seo biorhtnes þæs blostmiendan feldes also as the light and the brightness of-the blossoming field wæs medmicel gesewen in ðære stowe wynsumnesse. Mid was small seen in of-the place delight With ðy ic unc wende inngongende bion, þa somninga se min that I us-two supposed entering be then suddenly the my latteow gestod 7 butan eldenne wæs eft his gong cerrende: leader stood and without delay was again his going turning 7 mec eft lædde ðy selfan wæge, ðe wit ær coman and me again led by-the same way that we-two before came

Mid ðy wit ða eft hwerfende becoman to ðan bliðan With that we-two then again returning came to the blithe wunenessum ðara hwittra gasta 7 fægra, cwæð he to me: Wast dwelling of-the white spirits and fair said he to me Knowest ðu hwæt ðas þing ealle seon, ðe þu sceawadest 7 gesawa? thou what these things all be which thou beheldest and sawest Andswarode ic him: Nese, cwæð ic, ne wat ic heo. Cwæð he: Answered I him No said I not know I them Said he Seo stow þær seo denu wæs ðe þu gesawe wallende lege 7 The place where the valley was which thou sawest with-boiling flame and strongum celum egeslice beon, þæt is seo stow, in ðære siondon with-strong colds terrible be that is the place in which are to áðemanne 7 to clænsienne þæra manna saula, þa ðe eldende to try and to cleanse of-the men souls those who delaying wæran to andettenne 7 to betenne heora synna 7 mandæda, were to confess and to amend their sins and evil-deeds þa hio gefremedan: 7 hwæðre æt nehstan in ða seolfan tid which they committed and however at last in the same time heora deaðes to reowe geflugin, 7 swa of lichoman eodon. of-their death to penance fled and so from body went Ða hwæðre, forðon þe heo andetnesse 7 hreowe in þam They however because that they confession and penance in the seolfan deaðe hæfdon, ealle in domes dæge to heofona rice same death had all in of-doom day to of-heavens kingdom becumað; 7 monige eac swylce lifigendra manna bene 7 come and many also likewise of-living men supplications and gebeda 7 ælmesse 7 fæsten 7 ealra swiðust mæssesong prayers and alms and fasting and of-all most mass-song gefultumed, þæt heo ær domes dæge generede beoð. 7 wite helps that they before of-doom day saved are and know ðu þæt se legfamblawenda seað 7 se fula, þone ðu gesawe, thou that the flame-blowing pit and the foul which thou sawest þæt wæs helle tintreges muð, in ðone swa hwelc mon swa that was of-hell torment mouth into which so which man so ænige siðe in befalleð, næfre he þonan in ecnisse genered bið.

any time in falls never he thence in eternity saved is 432.10

Sio blostmberende stow þonne, in ðære þu ðæt fægreste

The blossom-bearing place then in which thou the fairest weorud in giogoðhadnesse gesawe scinan 7 wynsumian, þæt host in youthfulness sawest shine and rejoice that is seo stow, in ðære beoð onfangne soðfæstra saula, ða is the place in which are received of-righteous souls those þe on godum wiorcum of lichoman gongað, 7 hwæðre which in good works from body go and however ne beoð swa micelre fullfremednesse, þæt hio sona sion in not are of-so great perfection that they at-once be into heofona rice gelædde. Ealle ða hwæðre in domes dæge to of-heavens kingdom led All those however in of-doom day to Cristes gesihðe 7 to gefean þæs heofonlican rices íngongað.

of-Christ sight and to joy of-the heavenly kingdom go-in Forðon swa hwelc swa in eallum worde 7 wiorce 7 in Because so which so in all word and work and in geðohte fullfremede beoð, sona ðæs ðe of lichoman gongað, thought perfect are soon that that from body go becumað to ðam heofonlican rice. To ðæs rices nioweste come to the heavenly kingdom To of-the kingdom neighborhood belimpeð sio stow, þær ðu þone sweg ðæs weðan songes mid belongs the place where thou the sound of-the sweet song with ðy swicce þære swetnesse geherdest, 7 þa beorhtnesse þæs the fragrance of-the sweetness heardest and the brightness of-the miclan leohtes gesawa. Ac ðu þonne, forðon þu nu scealt great light sawest But thou then because thou now shalt eft to lichoman hweorfan 7 eft betwih mannum lifgan, again to body return and again among men live gif ðu ðine dæde 7 þeawas 7 þin word in rihtnesse 7 if thou thy deeds and customs and thy words in rightness and in bilewitnisse geornlice haldan wilt, þonne onfehstu æfter in simplicity earnestly keep wilt then receivest-thou after deaðe þa wunenesse stowe betwih ða blissiendan weorud death the of-dwelling place among the rejoicing hosts þara eadigra gasta, ðe ðu nu nehst gesawe 7 sceawadest. of-the blessed spirits which thou now last sawest and beheldest Ond eac wite ðu, þa ic sume tid fram ðe gewat, to ðon 432.26 And also know thou when I some time from thee departed to that ic ðæt dyde, þæt ic wolde geahsian 7 gewitan hwæt be I that did that I would learn and know what about ðe beon scolde. Mid ðy he ða to me cwæð, þæt ic eft to thee be should With that he then to me said that I again to lichoman hweorfan scolde, þa wæs ic ðæs swiðe wundrigende body return should then was I of-that greatly wondering 7 onscuniende 7 me lað wæs. Forðon þe ic lustfullede and shunning and to-me hateful was Because that I delighted-in þære stowe swetnesse 7 wlite, ðe ic ðær geseah, 7 of-the place sweetness and beauty which I there saw and eac somod þara gemænan 7 eadignesse brucan, ðe ic on also together the fellowship and blessedness enjoy which I in ðære stowe sceawade. 7 ic hwæðre minne lateow ne dorste the place bebold and I however my leader not dared owiht biddan. Ah nu betwihn ðas ðing, ne wat ic hwelcre anything ask But now among these things not know I in-what ændebyrdnisse, ic mec nu geseo betwih monnum lifigan. order I me now see among men live Ða ðing 7 eac oðero, ðe se Dryhtnes wer geseah, 434.4 Those things and also others which the of-Lord man saw nales eallum monnum æhwer suongrum 7 heora liifes not-at-all to-all men anywhere to-sluggish and of-their life ungemendum sæcgan wolde; ah ðam anum, ða ðe oðþe for careless say would but to-those alone who — either for ege tinterigo afyrhte wæron, oðþe mid hyhte þara ecra gefeana fear of-torments frightened were or with hope of-the eternal joys ȝ eadignesse lustfulledon, þæm he wolde mid árfæstnesse and blessedness delighted to-them he would with of-piety lufan ða þing cyðan ȝ sæcgan. Wæs sum munuc ȝ love the things make-known and say Was a monk and mæssepreost in nehnesse his cetan eardigende, þæs noma masspriest in nearness of-his cell dwelling whose name wæs Hamgels, ȝ þone hæd mid godum dædum efenlice was Hemgisl and the order with good deeds equally heold; se eft in Ibernia þæm ealonde þære ytmestan eldo held who afterward in Ireland the island in-the last age his lifes in ancorsetle mid medmicle hlafe ȝ cealdan wætre of-his life in anchorite-seat with little bread and cold water awreðede. Pa gelomlice wæs inngongende to ðam ilcan were sustained Then frequently was going-in to the same man ȝ þurh his geornfulle frygenisse fram him geherde hwilice and through his earnest questioning from him heard what ðing ðe he geseah ða he wæs lichoman ongerwed. Purh things that he saw when he was of-body unclothed Through þæs onwriginesse ȝ gesegene eac swylce ða feo ðe we her whose revelation and account also likewise the few which we here writon to usse cyðþe becuoman. Sægde he eac swylce his wrote to our knowledge came Told he also likewise his gesihðe Aldfriðe ðam cyninge, se wæs in halgum gebedum vision to-Aldfrith the king who was in holy prayers se gelæredesta; ȝ he swa lustlice ȝ swa geornfullice wæs the most-learned and he so gladly and so earnestly was fram him gehered, þæt he in ðæt gemyndgade mynster by him heard that he into the mentioned monastery mid his bene inngedon wæs 7 inn munuchade bescoren. with his request put-in was and in monkhood shorn Ond þonne he se cynng in ða dælas ðæs londes becom, þæt 434.20 And when he the king into the parts of-the land came that he gelomlice wæs to him gongende þæt he wolde his word 7 he frequently was to him going that he would his words and his sægene geheran. In ðæm mynstre wæs in ða tid æfestes his account hear In the monastery was in that time of-pious lifes 7 gemetfæstes liifes abbud 7 mæssepreost Æðelwald life and of-modest life abbot and masspriest Æthelwald haten, se eft ðon eft ðæt biscopsetl efenwyrðum dædum called who after that afterward the bishop-seat with-equally-worthy deeds his hades ðære cirican æt Lindesfearona ea sæt 7 heold. of-his order of-the church at Lindisfarne — sat and held Onfæng he se Godes mon in ðæm ilcan mynstre dehle stowe 434.27 Received he the of-God man in the same monastery secret place wunenesse, þæt he ðær meahte freolslice in singalum gebedum of-dwelling that he there might freely in continual prayers his sceppende heran 7 ðeowigan. Ond forðon seo seolfe stow his creator obey and serve And because the same place on ofer ðæs streames wæs geseted, wæs his gewuna for ðære on bank of-the stream was set was his custom for the miclan lufan his lichoman clænsunge, þæt he gelomlice inn great love of-his body chastening that he frequently into ðone stream eode 7 ðær in sealmsonge 7 in gebedum stod the stream went and there in psalm-song and in prayers stood 7 fæste áwunode hwilum oð midden sidan, hwilum oð and fast remained at-times up-to middle side at-times up-to ðone sweoran; 7 hiene in ðæm streame sæncte 7 defde, swa the neck and himself in the stream sank and dipped so longe swæ he gesegen wæs þæt he áræfnan meahte. ⁊ þonne long as he seen was that he endure could and when he ðonan gongende wæs to londe, næfre he ða his wætan he thence going was to land never he then his wet hræl ⁊ þa cealdan forlætan wolde, oðþæt hio eft of his garments and the cold leave would until they again from his seolfes lichoman gewermedon ⁊ adrugedon. Mid ðy * own body warmed and dried With that (conjecture) þe in midwintres tide, ymb hiene flowendum þæm sticcum that in of-midwinter time about him flowing the pieces halfbrocenra iisa, ða he seolfa oft gebræc ⁊ gescēnde, þæt of-half-broken ice which he self often broke and shattered that he stowe hæfde in ðæm streame to standenne oðþe hiene to he place had in the stream to stand or himself to bisæncenne, cwædon him men to, þa ðæt gesawon: Hwæt þæt sink said him men to who that saw Lo that is wundor, broðor Drythelm — wæs ðæt þæs weres nama — is wonder brother Drythelm was that of-the man name þæt ðu swa micle reðnesse celes ænge rehte aræfnan meaht: that thou so great fierceness of-cold in-any way endure canst ondswarode he bilwitlice, forðon þe he wæs bilwitre gleawnisse answered he simply because that he was of-simple prudence ⁊ gemetfæstre gecynde mon, ⁊ cwæð: Caldran ic geseah. and of-modest nature man and said Colder I saw 436.12 Ond mid ðy heo cwædon: Þæt is wundor, þæt ðu swa ræðe And with that they said That is wonder that thou so fierce forhæfdnisse ⁊ swa hearde habban wilt: ondswarode he abstinence and so hard have wilt answered he him: Heardran ⁊ hræðþran ic geseah. ⁊ he swa oð þone them Harder and fiercer I saw and he so until the dæg his gecænenisse of middangearde mid ungeswencedlice day of-bis calling from middle-earth with untiring luste heofonlicra goda þone ealdan lichoman his betwihn desire of-heavenly goods the old body his between dæghwæmlice fæsteno swæncte 7 temede; 7 he monegum daily fasts afflicted and tamed and he to-many mannum ge in wordum ge on his lifes bisene on hælo wæs. men both in words and in of-his life example for salvation was

XIV · THE THANE AND THE TWO BOOKS

In Cenred's reign a Mercian thane, favored by the king for his outward zeal but careless of God, kept putting off repentance. Dying, he told the king he had seen two bright youths give him a small book of his few good deeds, then a host of devils with a huge book of all his sins, two of whom struck him at head and feet. He died in despair; Bede, who had the story from Bishop Pehthelm, explains its meaning.

Ongeæng þissum spelle wæs sum mon in Mercna londe, þæs 436.20 Contrary-to this story was a man in of-Mercians land whose gesihðe 7 word, nales his drohtung 7 his lif, monegum vision and words not-at-all his conduct and his life to-many monna ne eac him seolfum brycsade. Wæs in Cænredes tidum of-men nor also to-him self profited Was in of-Cenred times Mærcna cynges, se æfter Æðelrede to rice fæng, sum wær of-Mercians king who after Æthelred to kingdom succeeded a man inn læwdum hade; wæs cyninges þeng. Ac swa swiðe swa he in lay order was of-king thane But so greatly as he for ðære utran geornfulnesse weoruldlicra dæda þam cyng wæs for the outer zeal of-worldly deeds to-the king was liciende, swa swiðe he for ðære innlican gemeleasnesse Godes pleasing so greatly he for the inward neglect of-God herenisse him seolfum mislicade. Monede se cyning hiene obedience to-him self displeased Admonished the king him gelomlice, þæt he ondette ⁊ bote ⁊ forlete his synna ⁊ frequently that he confessed and amended and forsook his sins and mandæda, ær ðon he mid ofercyme sǣmninga deaðes ealle evil-deeds before that he with oncoming sudden of-death all tid hreowe ⁊ bote forlure. Ond þeah ðe he gelomlice time of-repentance and amendment lost And though that he frequently monad wære, hwæðre he forhogode ða hælo word, ða admonished were however he despised the of-salvation words those þe he hiene lærde, ond hiene het æfterfylgendre tide, which he him taught and himself promised at-following time þonne he eldra wære, his synna hreowe ⁊ ondetnesse don. when he older were of-his sins repentance and confession do 438.3 Ða betwih ðas ðing wæs he gehrinen ⁊ gestonden sǣmninga Then among these things was he touched and assailed suddenly mid untrumnesse: ⁊ sona in bæd gefeol, ⁊ grymme sar with infirmity and at-once into bed fell and grim pain ongon þrowian. Ða wæs se cyng inngongende to him, forðon began suffer Then was the king going-in to him because he hiene swiðe lufode, trymede hiene ⁊ lærde, þæt he he him greatly loved exhorted him and taught that he ða get hreowe ⁊ ondetnesse dyde his synna, ær ðon he then yet repentance and confession did of-his sins before that he swulte. Ondswarode he him ⁊ ðus cwæð, þæt he ða geta died Answered he him and thus said that he then yet nolde his synna ondettan, ac eft, ðonne he eldra wære ⁊ would-not his sins confess but afterward when he older were and of ðære untrymnesse arisen wære, ðy læs him ætwite ⁊ on from the infirmity arisen were the less him blamed and in edwit sette his geðoftan, þæt he for ege ðæs deaðes ða þing reproach set his comrades that he for fear of-the death those things dyde, þe he er gesund don nolde. Puhte him seolfum did which he before sound do would-not Seemed to-him self 7 him gesegen wæs, þæt heardlice 7 stronglice spræce; and to-him seen was that bravely and strongly spoke ah he wæs earmlice beswicen mid deofles searwum, swa swa but he was miserably deceived with of-devil wiles so as hit æfter gecyðed wæs. Mid ðy seo adl swiðe weox 7 it afterward made-known was With that the disease greatly grew and hefegade, eft se cyng ineode to him hiene to niosianne 7 grew-heavy again the king went-in to him him to visit and to lærenne. Ða cleopode he sona earmlicre stæfne: Hwæt to teach Then called he at-once with-wretched voice What woldest ðu oðþe to hwon come ðu hider? forðon ne meaht wouldst thou or for why camest thou hither because not canst ðu me nu ofer ðisne dæg ænige helpe ne geoce gefremman. thou me now beyond this day any help nor succor perform Cwæð he se * cyng: Ne wille ðu swa sprecan; geseoh 438.17 Said he the (conjecture) king Not will thou so speak see ðæt ðu teola wite. Cwæð he; Ne wede ic: ah ða wyrrestan that thou well be-wise Said he Not rave I but the worst ingewitnesse me ic geseo, 7 fore minum eagam hæbbe. conscience for-me I see and before my eyes have Frægn se cyning hiene, hwæt ðæt wære. Cwæð he: Ær Asked the king him what that were Said he Before hwene ðu come, eode inn on þis hus to me twegen geonge a-little thou camest went in into this house to me two young men fægre 7 beorhte, 7 gesæton æt me, oðer æt minum men fair and bright and sat by me one at my heafde, oðer æt minum fotum. Ða teah heora oðer forð fægre head other at my feet Then drew of-them one forth fair boc 7 swiðe medmicle 7 me sealde to rædanne. Ða ic book and very small and to-me gave to read When I ða boc sceawade, þa mette ic ðær awriten ealle ða god ða the book beheld then found I there written all the goods which ic æfre gedyde. Ah ða wæron swiðe feawe 7 medmicle.

I ever did But those were very few and small Ða noman heo eft ða boc æt me 7 me noht to cwædon.

Then took they again the book from me and me nothing to said

438.28 Ða com her sæmninga micel weorud werigra gasta, 7

Then came here suddenly great host of-accursed spirits and wæron swiðe ongrislícum heowe 7 ondwlíotan. 7 ðis hus were of-very horrible hue and countenance and this house utan ymbsætan; innan of mæstan dæle sittende gefyldon. Ða outside beset inside for greatest part sitting filled Then wæs heora sum þeostran onseone 7 þæm oðrum egeslicran, was of-them one of-dark countenance and than-the others more-terrible se wæs setles eldest; 7 me ðuhte 7 gesegen wæs, þæt who was of-seat eldest and to-me seemed and seen was that he heora aldor beon scolde. Ða teah he forð boc ongrýslicre he their chief he should Then drew he forth book of-terrible gesihðe 7 unmættre micelnisse 7 lytesne unabereordlic appearance and of-immense size and of-almost unbearable byrdenne; sealde ða anum his gefeƿena 7 heht me burden gave then to-one of-his companions and commanded to-me beran to ræðanne. Mid ðy ic ða þa boc rædde, ða gemette bear to read With that I then the book read then found ic on hiere sweartum stafum 7 atolecum sweotole awritene

I in it with-black letters and hideous clearly written eall ða man ðe ic æfre gefremede; 7 nales ðæt an all the crimes which I ever committed and not-at-all that alone þæt ic on weorce 7 on worde, 7 eac hwylce þæt ic on that I in work and in word and also likewise that I in þæm medmestan geðohte gesyngode, ealle ða wæron ðær the smallest thought sinned all those were there on awritene. 7 ða cwæð se aldor þara* wergra gasta to in written and then said the chief of-the accursed spirits to ðam fægran monnum 7 ðam beorhtan ðe me æt sæton: the fair men and the bright who me by sat

To hwon sitton ge her? Hwæt git cuðlice witon, þæt þis For why sit ye here Lo ye-two certainly know that this is ure mon. Ondswaredon heo: Soð ge sæcgað; ah onfoð is our man Answered they Truth ye say but receive hiene 7 in heapunge eowerre niðerunge gelædað.

him and into heaping of-your damnation lead

Ðy cwæde heo instæpe from minre gesihðe geweoton. 440.10

That said they instantly from my sight departed

Ond þa wæron arisende twegen ðara atolra gasta; hæfdon And then were arising two of-the hideous spirits had hondseax on heora hondum; slogon mec ða, oðer in heafod, daggers in their hands struck me then one in head oðer in fet. 7 ða wunda nu mid micle sare tintrego other in feet and the wounds now with great pain of-torment togædre swicað in ða innoðe mines lichoman; 7 sona ðæs together creep into the insides of-my body and soon that ðe heo togædre cumað, þonne swelte ic: 7 ða dioflu gearwe that they together come then die I and the devils ready bidað, hwonne heo mec gegrypen 7 to helle locum gelæde. wait when they me seize and to of-hell enclosures lead

Ða he ða se earma man þus mid órmodnisse spræcende 440.17

When he then the wretched man thus with despair speaking wæs, ða swealt he sona æfter on his synnum. Ond þa was then died he soon after in his sins And the hreowe ða he to medmicelre tide mid forgifnisse wæstmæ repentance which he for brief time with of-forgiveness fruit forælde doan, þa he witum underðeoded butan wæstmæ in put-off do that he to-torments subjected without fruit in ecnesse doð. Ond þæt he cwæð, þæt he gesawe ungelice bec eternity does And that he said that he saw unlike books him berene bion þurh ða godan gastas oðþe þurh ða galan, to-him borne be through the good spirits or through the wicked forðon þæt ðurh ða uplican stihtunge Godes ælmihtiges because that through the upper ordaining of-God almighty geworden wæs, þæt we gemunden *þætte usse dæde 7 usse done was that we remembered that our deeds and our geðohtas, nales on þiosne wind in idelnesse toflowenne, ah thoughts not-at-all on this wind in idleness flow-away but to dome þæs hean deman ealle gehaldene beon, 7 us eft for judgment of-the high judge all kept be and to-us again in ende æteowde beon, oðþe ðurh ða freondlican ænglas oðþe in end shown be either through the friendly angels or ðurh ða feondas. Þæt he cwæð, þæt hie ærest ða fægran boc through the enemies That he said that they first the fair book 7 ða hwitan englas forðbrohton, 7 æfter þon deofol þa and the white angels brought-forth and after that devil the sweartan, 7 hi þa englas swiðe medmicle ond þas unmætan, black and they the angels very small and these immense þæt is to ongeotene, þæt he in ðære ærestan ældo his that is to perceive that he in the first age of-his lifes hwelchwugu god dede, ða he hwæðre in midfeorum life some good did which he however in middle life ealle ðurh his unrihte dæde aðeostrade 7 fordilegade. life all through his unrighteous deeds darkened and blotted-out 442.1 Þær he ða wið þon ða gedwolan his cneohthade gereccan If he then against that the errors of-his boyhood correct gemde in giguðhade 7 ða þurh gode dæde from Godes cared in youth and them through good deeds from of-God eagum ahwerfan, þonne meahte he ðara rime geðeoded bion, eyes turn-away then could be to-their number joined be be ðam se sealmscop cwæð: Beati quorum remisse sunt, et about whom the psalmist said Blessed whose forgiven are and cetera. Ða beoð eadge þe heora wonnesse forlætne beoð 7 the-rest Those are blessed who their iniquities forgiven are and þara þe synna bewrigene beoð. Ðis spell ic leornade fram of-those whose sins covered are This story I learned from Pehthelme ðæm arwyrdan biscope, ond ic hit for þære hælo, Pethelm the venerable bishop and I it for the salvation ðe hit leornade oðþe geherde, hlutturlice awrat 7 sægde.

(of-those)-who it learned or heard clearly wrote and said

XV · THE SMITH WHO SAW HELL

Bede knew a brother, a skilled smith, who loved drink and his forge more than church. Dying, he told the brothers he saw hell open, with Satan, Caiaphas, and Christ's killers, and a place ready for him; too late to repent, he said, and died without the viaticum. No one dared pray for him. Stephen saw heaven open before his death; this man saw hell, and his ruin became a warning to others.

Ic * seolfa cuðe sumne broðar, ðone ic wolde ðæt 442.9 I (conjecture) self knew a brother whom I would that ic næfre cuðe, ðæs noman ic eac swylce genemnan mæg, I never knew whose name I also likewise name can gif ðæt owiht bryciæ. Wæs he geseted in æðelum mynstre, if that anything profit Was he set in noble monastery ah he hwæðre unæðelice his lif lifde. Wæs he lomlice but he however ignobly his life lived Was he frequently fram ðam broðrum þread 7 ðæm ealdormonnum þære by the brothers rebuked and the elders of-the stowe; 7 hie hiene monedon 7 lærdon þæt he his life place and they him admonished and taught that he in-his life gecerde to clænsnunge his synna. 7 ðeah ðe he geheran turned to cleansing of-his sins and though that he hear ne wolde, hwæðre he geðyldelice wæs from him eallum not would however he patiently was by them all aræfneð for neðbearfe his utran weorca; wæs he syndryglice endured for need of-his outer works was he specially in smiðcræfte wæl gelæred. Ðiode he swiðe druncennisse ȝ in smith-craft well taught Served he greatly to-drunkenness and mongum oðrum unalefednessum ðæs slæcran lifes; ond he ma to-many other unlawfulnesses of-the slacker life and he more gewunade in his smiðþan dæges ȝ nihtæs sittan ȝ licgan, was-wont in his smithy by-day and by-night sit and lie þonne he wolde on cirican syngan ȝ gebiddan ȝ mid ðæm than he would in church sing and pray and with the oðrum broðrum lifes word ȝ godcunde lare geheran. Þonne other brothers of-life word and divine teaching hear Then him gelomp þæt sume men gewuniað cweðan: Se ðe ne to-him happened what some men are-wont say He who not wile cirican duru wilsumlice geeadmoted ingongan, se sceal will of-church door willingly humbled go-in he shall nede in helle duru unwillsumlice geniþerad gelæded beon. needs into of-hell door unwillingly damned led be 442.24 Ða wæs se mon geslegen ȝ gestonden hefigre adle; ȝ seo Then was the man struck and assailed with-heavy disease and it weox ȝ hefigade, oððæt he wæs to þam ytemestan dæge grew and grew-heavy until he was to the last day gelæded. Ða cygde he ȝ het þa broþor him to. ȝ he led Then called he and commanded the brothers him to and he swiðe gnornienðe ȝ geniðredum gelic ongan him secgan, þæt greatly mourning and to-damned like began to-them say that he gesawe helle opene ȝ Satanan þone ealdan feond moncynnes he saw hell open and Satan the old enemy of-mankind besencedne on þam grundum helle tintreges. ȝ cwæð, þæt sunk in the depths of-hell torment and said that he þær eac gesawe Caiphan þone ealdorman þara sacerda he there also saw Caiaphas the chief of-the priests mid þam oþrum, þa þe Drihten Crist ofslogon, bi him with the others those who Lord Christ slew beside him wrecendum ligum gesealdne beon. In þara neaweste, cwæð he, to-avenging flames given be In whose neighborhood said he wa me earmum, ic geseo me stowe gegearwade beon ecre woe to-me wretched I see for-me place prepared be of-eternal forlorenesse. Ða þa broþor þis gehyrdon, þa ongunnun hi perdition When the brothers this heard then began they hine geornlice trymman 7 læran, þæt he þa gena on lichaman him earnestly exhort and teach that he then yet in body geseted his synna hreowe 7 andetnesse dyde. Andswarode set of-his sins repentance and confession did Answered he mid ormodnesse: Nis me nu, cwæð he, tiid min lif to he with despair Not-is to-me now said he time my life to onwendanne, mid þy ic sylfa geseo minne dom gedemedne change with that I self see my doom judged beon. Ða he þa þus spræc, þa he butan hælo wegnyste be When he then thus spoke then he without of-salvation viaticum of worulde gewat: 7 his lichama wæs bebyriged on þam from world departed and his body was buried in the ytemestan stowum þæs mynstres. 7 nænig mon dorste for hine outermost places of-the monastery and no man dared for him ne sealmas ne mæssan singan ne furlpum for hine gebiddan. either psalms or masses sing or even for him pray Eala mid hu micle gesceade God todælde betwyh leoht 7 444.11 Oh with how great distinction God divided between light and þystro. Se æresta martyr se eadiga Stephanus, þa he wæs darkness The first martyr the blessed Stephen when he was deað þrowiende for soðfæstnesse, geseah he heofonas opene, death suffering for truth saw he heavens open geſeah he Godes wuldur 7 þone Hælend standende Godes saw he of-God glory and the Savior standing of-God on þa ſwiðran. 7 þider þe he ſylfa toweard wæs æfter deaþe, on the right and whither that he ſelf coming was after death þider he his eagan ſende ær his deaðe, þæt he þy bliþelicor thither he his eyes ſent before his death that he the more-bliþely þrowade. 7 wið ðon þes ſmið þæs þyſtran modes 7 dæde, suffered and againſt that this ſmith of-the dark mind and deed þa he his deaþe nealæcte, geſeah helle tintrego opene, geſeah when he to-his death approached ſaw of-hell torments open ſaw he deofles niþrunge 7 his æfterfylgendra. Geſeah he eac he of-devil damnation and of-his followers Saw he alſo ſwylce his ſylfes ungesælige ſtowe 7 carcern betwyh ſwylce, likewiſe his own unhappy place and priſon among ſuch þæt he þy earmlicor georwenedre hælo her nu forwurde; ac that he the more-wretchedly with-deſpaired-of ſalvation here now perished but lifigendum mannum, þe þas þing ongeton, he forlet hælo to-living men who theſe things perceived he left of-ſalvation intingan mid his forlorenesse. Wæs þis niwan geworden on cauſe with his perdition Was this newly done in Beornica mægþe, 7 feor 7 wide gemæred; 7 he monige forð of-Bernicians province and far and wide ſpread-abroad and it many forth acigde butan yldincge þæt hi heora mandæda hreowe dydon, called without delay that they of-their evil-deeds repentance did þæt ic eac ſwylce wiſce forð ſwa on leornunge ura ſtafa. which I alſo likewiſe wiſh forth ſo by reading of-our letters

In 705 Aldfrith died, and his son Osred, a boy of eight, reigned eleven years. Bishop Hædde of the West Saxons died, and so many took healing dust from the spot that a pit formed. His see was divided between Daniel and Aldhelm, whose writings Bede praises, including a book against the Britons' Easter and one on virginity. Forthbere followed Aldhelm; the South Saxons got bishops of their own, then none for many years.

Ða wæs æfter seofon hund wintra 7 fif wintrum æfter þære 446.1 Then was after seven hundred winters and five winters after the Dryhtenlican menniscnesse þæt Ealdfrið Norþanhymbra cyning Lordly incarnation that Aldfrith of-Northumbrians king forðferde ymb twentig wintra his rices, butan an ne wæs departed about twenty winters of-his reign except one not was þa gena gefylled. Feng to his rice Osred his sunu; wæs then yet fulfilled Succeeded to his kingdom Osred his son was eahtawintre cniht, 7 þæt rice he hæfde endleofan winter. On eight-winter boy and the kingdom he had eleven winters In þysses cyninges rice forweardum forðferde Hædde Westseaxna of-this king reign beginning departed Hædde of-West-Saxons bysceop 7 to þam heofonlican life ferde. Wæs he god se bishop and to the heavenly life went Was he good the wer 7 rihtwis; 7 þæt bysceoplice lif ge lare ma beode man and righteous and the episcopal life and teaching more practiced on lufan gastlicra mægena þonne he on leornunge gelæred in love of-spiritual virtues than he in learning taught wære. Be þam bysceope oft gewunlice sæde Pehthelm se were About the bishop often customarily said Pehthelm the arwyrða bysceop, se mid Ealdhelme his æfterfylgende micle venerable bishop who with Aldhelm his successor for-great tid þa gena munuc 7 diacon wæs, þæt on þære stowe, þe time then yet monk and deacon was that in the place where se bysceop forðfered wæs, fore geearnunge his halignesse the bishop departed was for merit of-his holiness monig wundurhælo gefremed wæron. Ond þære mægðe men many wonder-healings performed were And of-the province men gewunelice þa moldan namon for adlum 7 untrumnessum customarily the dust took for diseases and infirmities 7 on wæter sendon; 7 mid byrinesse oððe strægdnesse and into water sent and with tasting or sprinkling þæs wæteres monigum untrumum ge monnum ge neatum of-the water to-many sick both men and cattle to hælo gelomp. 7 for þære gelomlican onwegalædnesse for health happened and for the frequent carrying-away þære halgan moldan þæt þær wæs micel seað geworden. of-the holy dust that there was great pit made 446.17

Ða he þa forðfered wæs, þa wæs se bysceopdom þære When he then departed was then was the bishopric of-the mægðe on twa bisceopscire todæled. Oþer wæs seald Daniele, province into two dioceses divided One was given to-Daniel þa he gen to dæge receð, oðer Ealdhelme, þære he feower which he yet to day rules other to-Aldhelm which he four ger fromlice fore wæs. Wæron hi begen on ciriclicum wisum years vigorously over was Were they both in churchly matters ge on wisdom haligra gewrita genihtsumlice gelæred. Þæt is and in wisdom of-holy writings abundantly taught That is to tacne, þæt Ealdhelm, mid þy he þa gena wæs mæssepreost as token that Aldhelm with that he then yet was masspriest 7 abbud þæs mynstres þe hi nemnað Maldulfes burgh, and abbot of-the monastery which they name Malmesbury — awrat he æpele boc his þeode mid sinopes bebode wið wrote he noble book of-his nation with of-synod command against Brytta gedwolan, þa hi rihte Eastran ne weorpedon on heora of-Britons error when they right Easter not kept in their tide, ge eac oþer monig, þa þe hi þære cyriclican clænnesse time and also other many those which they to-the churchly purity 7 sibbe wiðerword dydon. 7 he monige þara Brytta þe and peace contrary did and he many of-the Britons who Westsexum underðeodde wæron to rihtre weorþunge þære to-West-Saxons subject were to right keeping of-the Dryhtenlican Eastrana mid þa leornunge þyssa boca geteah 7 Lordly Easter with the reading of-these books drew and gelædde. Wrat he eac heah bōc 7 weorðlice de uirginitate, led Wrote he also high book and worthy about virginity 7 þa on bysene Sedulius twifealde weorce meterfersum and it after example of-Sedulius in-twofold work in-meter-verses asang 7 *geradre spræce gesette. Wrat he eac swylce moni sang and in-plain speech set Wrote he also likewise many oþer gewrito. Wæs he se wer æghwonan se gelæredesta; other writings Was he the man in-every-way the most-learned wæs he ge on wordum hluttur 7 scinende ge eac on was he both in words clear and shining and also in gelærednesse gewrito ge freora ge cyriclicra to wundrienne. learning of-writings both liberal and churchly to wonder-at Ða he þa forðferde, þa onfeng fore hine þone bysceophad 448.8

When he then departed then received for him the bishopric Forðhere, se gēn oð to dæge, cwæð se writere, lifigende Forthbere who yet until to day said the writer living is. Wæs se mon eac on halgum gewritum wel gelæred. is Was the man also in holy writings well taught Ðyssum monnum þone bysceophad þeniendum wæs on These men the bishopric serving was in seonoþe geseted 7 gedemed, þæt Suðseaxna mægð sceolde synod set and decreed that of-South-Saxons province should habban agenne bysceop 7 bysceopsetl on heora leodum. have own bishop and bishop-seat among their people

Belumpun hi ær to Wintanceastre bysceopscire, þære þe Belonged they before to of-Winchester diocese which that Daniel se bysceop fore wæs. Ða wæs him to bysceope Daniel the bishop over was Then was for-them as bishop ærest gehalgad Eadbyrht, se wæs abbud þæs mynstres þære first consecrated Eadberht who was abbot of-the monastery of-the eadigan gemynde Willfriðes bysceopes, þæt is nemned Selessea. blessed memory of-Wilfrid bishop which is named Selsey Ða se forðferde, þa feng to þære bysceoppenunge Eolla:
When he departed then succeeded to the bishop-ministry Eolla 7 he þa æfter únmanegum gearum of þyssum leohte and he then after not-many years from this light alæded wæs. 7 se bysceophad þær syððan fela gear blon. led-away was and the bishopric there afterward many years ceased

XVII · CENRED, OFFA, AND THE LIFE OF WILFRID

Cenred of Mercia and Offa of the East Saxons became monks at Rome, and Wilfrid died at Oundle after forty-five years as bishop. His life follows: Lindisfarne at fourteen, the journey to Rome with Benedict Biscop, three years with Dalfinus at Lyons, Ripon, consecration in Gaul, expulsion, preaching to the Frisians, vindication at Rome, the South Saxons, a second appeal, a vision of Michael at Meaux, and four last years of peace.

448.21 Wæs þy feorðan geare Osredes rices þæt Cenred, se Was in-the fourth year of-Osred reign that Cenred who Myrcna rice æþelice sume tide fore wæs, 7 micle æþelicor of-Mercians kingdom nobly some time over was and much more-nobly þæt anweald þæs rices forlet. Forþon he com to Rome, 7 the power of-the kingdom left Because he came to Rome and þær scire onfeng 7 munuc wæs geworden on Constantines there tonsure received and monk was become in of-Constantine tidum þæs papan; ⁊ æt þara apostola stowe on gebedum times the pope and at of-the apostles place in prayers ⁊ on fæstenum ⁊ on ælmesdædum awunade oð ðone and in fastings and in alms-deeds remained until the ytemestan dæg. Þa feng æfter him to Myrcna rice last day Then succeeded after him to of-Mercians kingdom Ceollred Æþelredes sunu, se ær þam Cynrede þæt ylce Ceolred of-Æthelred son who before the Cenred the same rice hæfde. Com eac swylce mid hine to Rome Sigheheres kingdom had Came also likewise with him to Rome of-Sigbere sunu Eastseaxna cyninges, þæs we beforan gemyngedon, þæs son of-East-Saxons king whom we above mentioned whose nama wæs Offa. Wæs he on iuguþe mon willsumlicre yldo ⁊ name was Offa Was he in youth man of-desirable age and fægernesse, ⁊ ealre his þeode leof heora rice to habbanne fairness and to-all his nation dear their kingdom to have ⁊ to healdenne. Wæs he gelicre willsumnesse modes Cenrede and to hold Was he of-like devotion of-mind to-Cenred þam cyninge: forlet he his wif ⁊ land ⁊ magas ⁊ eþel the king left he his wife and land and kinsmen and homeland for Cristes lufan ⁊ for his godspelle, þæt he on þyssum for of-Christ love and for his gospel that he in this life hundteontigfealdlice mede onfenge ⁊ on þære towearðan life hundredfold reward received and in the coming weorolde ecce lif. ⁊ he, sona þæs þe he to Rome com to þam world eternal life and he soon that that he to Rome came to the halgum stowum, scyre onfeng, ⁊ on munuchade his lif wæs holy places tonsure received and in monkhood his life was endiende, ⁊ to gesyhþe þara eadigra apostola on heofonum ending and to sight of-the blessed apostles in heavens becom, þa he lange mid his mode sohte ⁊ willnade. came which he long with his mind sought and desired 450.11 Ða þy ylcan gere, þe þas cyningas Breotone forletan, se Then in-the same year that these kings Britain left the heah bysceop 7 se halga Willfrið æfter fif 7 feowertigum high bishop and the holy Wilfrid after five and forty wintra þæs onfongen an bysceophades þone ytemestan dæg winters of-the received bishopric the last day tynde 7 forðferde on þære mægþe, seo is gecyged closed and departed in the province which is called Inundalum. 7 his lichama wæs on cyste gedon 7 wæs Oundle and his body was in chest put and was gelæded norð ofer gemære on his mynster, þe is cweden led north over border into his monastery which is called Onhripum, 7 æfter gerisenre are swa mycelum bysceope Ripon and after fitting honor to-so great bishop on Scē Petres cyricean þæs apostoles wæs bebyriged. Be in of-Saint Peter church of-the apostle was buried About þysses bysceopes lifes stealle foreweardum we sculon feaum of-this bishop of-life state early we shall with-few wordum gemyngian, þa þe be him gedon wæron. Mid þy words mention those which about him done were With that he wæs godre gleaunesse cniht 7 he þa ylðo mid þeawum he was of-good prudence boy and he the age with customs oferstigende, 7 he swa gemetfæstlice 7 swa ymbsceawiendlice surpassing and he so modestly and so circumspectly hine sylfne on eallum þingum beheold, þæt he be gewyrhtum him self in all things kept that he by desert fram his ealdormannum wæs lufad 7 arweorðad, swa swa an by his elders was loved and honored so as one of him sylfum. Ða he geweaxen wæs 7 hæfde feowertyne of them selves When he grown was and had fourteen winter, þa he mynsterlif þam woruldlife forbær 7 gelufade. winters then he monastery-life to-the world-life preferred and loved

Þæs þe he þæt þa his fæder sæde, forþon his moder

After-that that he that then to-his father said because his mother ær forðferde, he þa lustlice his willan 7 his heofonlicum before departed he then gladly to-his will and to-his heavenly lustum geþafade 7 gefultumade 7 hine het 7 lærde, desires consented and helped and him commanded and taught þæt he þam halwendenan ongynnessum georne gefeole.

that he to-the salutary beginnings earnestly applied

Þa com he hraþe to Lindesfarena ea, 7 hine sylfne þær 450.28

Then came he quickly to Lindisfarne — and him self there on þeowdom gesælde þara muneca. 7 he geornlice þa into service gave of-the monks and he earnestly then ongan leornian 7 don þa þe he ongeat þætte belumpun began learn and do those which he perceived that belonged to þære mynsterlican clænsunge 7 arfæstnesse; 7 forþon to the monastic chastity and piety and because þe he wæs scearpre gleaunesse, he hrædlice his sealmas that he was of-sharp prudence he quickly his psalms geleornade 7 eac fela oþra boca. Ne wæs he hwæþere þa learned and also many other books Not was he however then gena bescoren, ac hwæþere he þam, þa þe on scire maran yet shorn but however he to-those who — in tonsure greater wæron, on þam mægenum eaðmodnesse 7 hyrsumnesse were in the virtues of-humility and obedience nohte þon læssa ne gneðra wæs. Forþon he ge fram þam not-at-all the less nor poorer was Therefore he both by the witum ge fram his efenealdum mid rihtre lufan lufad wæs.

elders and by his equals-in-age with right love loved was Mid þy he þa sum ger on þam mynstre Gode þeowode,

With that he then some years in the monastery to-God served þa onget he se giunga sticcemælum gleawes modes, þæt then perceived he the young-man little-by-little of-prudent mind that þæt ne wæs fullfremed weg gastlicra mægena, þe him fram that not was perfect way of-spiritual virtues which to-him by Scottum sæd ȝ seald wæs. Pohte þa ȝ foresette on his Scots said and given was Thought then and purposed in his mode þæt he wolde cuman to Rome ȝ þær geseon, hwylce mind that he would come to Rome and there see what cyriclice þeawas oððe mynsterþeawas æt þam apostolican setle churchly customs or monastery-customs at the apostolic see healdene wæron. Mid þy he þa þam broþrum þæt sæde, þa held were With that he then to-the brothers that said then heredon hi his gemynd ȝ his foresetenesse ȝ hine sponon praised they his mind and his purpose and him urged ȝ lærdon, þæt he þa fore þurhtuge, þe he on his mode and taught that he the journey accomplished which he in his mind gelufad hæfde. ȝ he hraþe com to Eanflæde þære cwene, loved had and he quickly came to Eanflæd the queen forþon he wæs hire cuð ȝ mid hire geþeahhte ȝ fultume because he was to-her known and with her counsel and help on þæt foresprecene mynster gedon ȝ geþeoded wæs. into the aforesaid monastery put and joined was 452.18 Sægde hire þa his lust ȝ willan, þæt his lufu wære, þæt Told to-her then his desire and will that his love were that he þa stowe neosode ȝ gesohte þara eadigra apostola. Wæs he the places visited and sought of-the blessed apostles Was heo seo cwen sona lustfulliende þære godan foresetenesse ȝ she the queen at-once delighting in-the good purpose and willan þæs iungan. Sende him þa to Cent to Ercenbyrhte will of-the young-man Sent him then to Kent to Eorcenberht þam cyninge, se wæs hyre eames sunu; bæd þæt he hine the king who was of-her uncle son asked that he him arwurðlice to Rome onsende. Þære tide þær on Cent heold reverently to Rome sent At-that time there in Kent held Honorius þone arcebysceophad, se wæs an of discipulum þæs Honorius the archbishopric who was one of disciples of-the eadigan papan Scē Gregorii. Wæs se wer on cyrclicum wisum blessed pope Saint Gregory Was the man in churchly matters healice ontimbred 7 gelæred. Mid þy he þa se iunga highly instructed and taught With that he then the young-man sum fæc þær wuniende wæs mid hine, he þa cwices modes some space there dwelling was with him he then of-lively mind geornlice leornade þa þing, þe he þær geseah 7 sceawode.

earnestly learned the things which he there saw and beheld

Com þider eac swylce on þa sylfan tid oþer iung man: wæs Came thither also likewise in the same time another young man was his nama Bysceop, 7 his freo nama Benedictus; wæs he his name Biscop and his surname — Benedict was he of æpelre strynde Angellþeode: þæs we beforan gemyngodon.

of noble stock of-English-nation whom we above mentioned

Wolde he eac swylce Rome gesecean. Pysses monnes geferscype

Would he also likewise Rome seek Of-this man company se cyning þa Willfrið geþeodde 7 him bebed, þæt he hine the king then Wilfrid joined and him commanded that he him to Rome gelædde. Mid þy hi þa to Lugdunum coman, þa to Rome led With that they then to Lyons came then wæs Willfrið þær gehæfd fram Dalfino þære ceastre bysceope:

was Wilfrid there held by Dalfinus of-the city bishop Benedictus þone ongunnenan siðfæt framlice to Rome geferde.

Benedict the begun journey vigorously to Rome traveled Þa ongan se bysceop lustfullian þæs iungan snytro 7 his 454.4

Then began the bishop delight-in of-the young-man prudence and his wislicra worda 7 his anwlitan fægernesse 7 glædnesse his wise words and of-his countenance fairness and gladness of-his dæda 7 gestæðþinesse his geþohta. 7 he him forðon eall þa deeds and steadiness of-his thoughts and he to-him therefore all the þingc genihtsumlice geaf ⁊ sealde, þe he þearfe hæfde mid things abundantly gave and granted which he need had with his geferum, swa lange swa hi mid him wæron: ⁊ him eac his companions so long as they with him were and to-him also swylce gebead, þæt he him wolde syllan to healdanne ⁊ to likewise offered that he to-him would give to hold and to reccanne mycelne dæl Gallia rices, ⁊ him wolde his broðor rule great part of-Gaul kingdom and to-him would of-his brother dohtor fæmnan to wife gesyllan, ⁊ hine symble on bearnlufan daughter maiden to wife give and him ever in child-love habban wolde. Ða þancode he him geornlice þære ærfæstnesse, have would Then thanked he him earnestly for-the kindness þe he him forgifen hæfde, mid þy he ællþeodig wæs: ⁊ which he to-him given had with that he foreign was and him andswarode, þæt he oðer lif ma cure ⁊ lufade þonne him answered that he other life rather chose and loved than þæt woruldlif, ⁊ he forþon his eþelturf forlet ⁊ to Rome the world-life and he therefore his homeland-turf left and to Rome feran ongunne. Ða he þa se bysceop þæt gehyrde, þa sende travel began When he then the bishop that heard then sent he hine mid laðteowe to Rome ⁊ hine þider wel gescyrpte: he him with guide to Rome and him thither well equipped ⁊ hine het, þonne he eft to his eðle hweorfan wolde, þæt and him bade when he again to his homeland return would that he to him come þæt he hine well ham gescyrpte. Ða com he to him came that he him well home equipped Then came he to Rome, ⁊ þær in gebedum ⁊ on smeauge cyriclicra he to Rome and there in prayers and in study of-churchly wisena, swa swa he on his mode foresette, mid dæghwamlicre matters so as he in his mind purposed with daily geornfullnesse þeowiende wæs, becom he to freondscipe þæs zeal serving was came he to friendship of-the halgan weres 7 þæs gelæredestan Bonifatius archidiacones, se holy man and of-the most-learned Boniface archdeacon who wæs eac swylce wita 7 geþeahtere þæs apostolican papan. was also likewise councilor and adviser of-the apostolic pope Þæs lareowdome he of endebyrðnesse geleornade feower 454.23 By-whose teaching he in order learned four Cristes bec 7 getæl rihtre Eastrena 7 monig oþre, þa þe of-Christ books and reckoning of-right Easters and many others those which belumpon to cyrclicum þeodscypum, þe he on his eþle belonged to churchly disciplines which he in his homeland leornian ne mihte. 7 se ylca magister him æghwæper ge bec learn not could and the same master to-him both and books sealde ge lare. 7 mid þy he þa fela monþa þær gesæligum gave and teaching and with that he then many months there with-happy gelesum geornlice abysegad wæs, þa hwearf he eft on Gallia studies earnestly busied was then turned he again into of-Gaul rice to Dalfino þam bysceope his freonde, 7 þreo winter kingdom to Dalfinus the bishop his friend and three winters wæs mid him wuniende. 7 he wæs to preoste besceoren was with him dwelling and he was as priest shorn fram him, 7 on swa micelre lufan hæfd wæs, þæt he þohte by him and in so great love held was that he thought hine him to yrfewearde gedon. Ac þæt hwæpere swa wes an him for-himself as heir make But that however so be ne mihte, forðon se bysceop wæs forgripen mid wællhreowe not could because the bishop was seized with cruel deaðe, 7 Willfrið wæs má gehealden Ángelpode to death and Wilfrid was rather kept for-English-nation as bysceope. Sende Balthild seo cwen mycel weorod, 7 het bishop Sent Balthild the queen great host and commanded þone bysceop ofslean. Ða he þa to þære stowe læded wæs, the bishop slay When he then to the place led was þær him mon sceolde heafud ofslean, þa fyligde hine Wilfrið where him one should head strike-off then followed him Wilfrid his preost 7 his hondþeng. 7 he willnade ætgædere mid his priest and his hand-servant and he desired together with him sweltan, þeah þe se bysceop him þæt swiðe bewerede. him die though that the bishop him that greatly forbade Ac þæs þe þa cwelleras hine þa elpeodigne ongeaton, 7 But after-that that the executioners him then foreign perceived and þæt he of Engle cumen wæs, aredon him þa 7 ne woldon that he from Angles come was spared him then and not would hine cwellan mid þy bysscope, þeah þe þæt his willa wære. him kill with the bishop though that that his will were 456.12 7 he þa eft on Breotone com 7 hine geþeodde on and he then again into Britain came and himself joined in freondscype Ealhfrīðes þæs cyninges. Se cyning geleornade þæt friendship of-Alhfrith the king The king learned that he symble rihte regolas Godes cyricean fyligde 7 lufade. 7 he ever right rules of-God church followed and loved and forþon þe he hine Wilfrið rihtgefremedne 7 wisne onfunde because that he him Wilfrid orthodox and wise discovered 7 gemette, geaf he him sona 7 sealde tyn hiwisca landes and found gave he to-him at-once and granted ten hides of-land on þære stowe, þe cweden is Stanford. 7 æfter medmiclum in the place which called is Stamford and after brief fæce sealde him mynster þritiges hiwisca on stowe, seo is space gave to-him monastery of-thirty hides in place which is gecyged Inhripum. Þa stowe he ær sealde mynster on to called Ripon That place he before gave monastery on to timbrienne þam monnum, þa þe to Scotta lare fyligdon. build to-the men those who to of-Scots teaching followed Ac forþon þe hi æfter fæce, þa him ƿwiisc seald wæs, But because that they after space when to-them choice given was ma woldon of þære stowe gewitan, þonne hi woldan rihte rather would from the place depart than they would right Eastran healdan, 7 eac oþre regollice ðeawas onfon æfter Easter hold and also other regular customs receive after gewunan þære Romaniscan cyricean 7 þære apostolican, 7 custom of-the Roman church and the apostolic and forþon he þa stowe þam sealde, þone þe he geseah beteran therefore he the place to-him gave whom that he saw with-better þeodscypum 7 þeawum gelæredne. On þa tid to hæse þæs disciplines and customs taught In that time at bidding of-the foresprecean cyninges wæs Willfrið to mæssepreoste gehalgad aforesaid king was Wilfrid as masspriest consecrated on þam ylcan mynstre fram Ægelbyrhte Westseaxna byscope, in the same monastery by Agilbert of-West-Saxons bishop þæs we beforan gemyngedon. Willnade he se cyning þæt se whom we above mentioned Desired he the king that the wer swa micelre gelærednesse 7 æfestnesse him syndrilice man of-so great learning and piety to-him specially untodælede geferscype mæssepreost 7 lareow wære. with-undivided company masspriest and teacher were Ðone he eft nalæs æfter miclum fæce sende on Gallia 456.30 Whom he afterward not-at-all after great space sent into of-Gaul rice mid geþohte 7 geþafunge Oswioes his fæder; bæd kingdom with counsel and consent of-Oswy his father asked þæt hine mon him to byscope gehalgade, mid þy he þa that him one for-him as bishop consecrated with that he then hæfde þritig wintra.

had thirty winters Wæs se ylca Ægelbyrht on þa tid Parisiace þære ceastre 458.4 Was the same Agilbert in that time of-Paris the city byscep. Mid þone wæron cumende oþre endlufon bysceopas bishop With him were coming other eleven bishops — he wæs twelfta — to his halgunge; ⁊ hi swiðe he was twelfth to his consecration and they very arwyrðlice þa þenunge gefylðon. Mid þy he þa gena wæs reverently the ministry fulfilled With that he then yet was begeondan sæ wuniende, het Oswio se cynincg gehalgian beyond sea dwelling commanded Oswy the king consecrate to bysceope on Eoforwicceastre Ceaddan þone halgan wer, as bishop in York Chad the holy man swa swa we beforan gemyngedon. ⁊ he þreo winter healice so as we above mentioned and he three winters highly þa cyricean wæs reccende ⁊ styrende; æfter þon he gewat the church was ruling and governing after that he departed to his mynsterscire, þæt is on Læstinga ea. Ða feng to his monastery-charge that is at Lastingham — Then succeeded Willfrið to bysceopscire eallra Norþanhymbra mægþe: ⁊ he Wilfrid to bishopric of-all Northumbrians province and he æfter þon on Ecgfriðes rice þæs cyninges wæs adrifen of after that in of-Ecgfrith reign of-the king was driven from his bysceopscire, ⁊ oðre bysceopas fore him gehalgade, þara his bishopric and other bishops for him consecrated whom we beforan gemyngedon. Ða wæs he to Rome ferende ⁊ we above mentioned Then was he to Rome traveling and beforan þam apostolican papan his intingan wæs reccende. before the apostolic pope his cause was pleading Sona þæs þe he on scyp eode ⁊ astagh, blew westwind: Soon that that he into ship went and embarked blew west-wind ⁊ he wæs adrifen þæt he com up on Frysana land. ⁊ and he was driven that he came up on of-Frisians land and he arwyrðlice wæs onfangen fram þam ællreordum ⁊ fram he reverently was received by the foreign-tongued and by Ealdgylse heora cyninge. Bodade he him sona ⁊ lærde Aldgisl their king Preached he to-them at-once and taught Cristes geleafan 7 monig þusendo heora mid soðfæstnesse of-Christ faith and many thousands of-them with of-truth worde wæs ontimbrende, 7 hi fram unsyfernessum heora word was instructing and them from impurities of-their synna aðwoh mid fullwihte bæpe. 7 þæt æfter fæce sins washed with of-baptism bath and that after space

Willbrord se arwyrða Cristes bysceop on micelre willsumnesse Willibrord the venerable of-Christ bishop in great devotion gefylde, he ærest ongan þæt weorc Cristes godspell læran. 7 fulfilled he first began the work of-Christ gospel teach and he þær þone winter mid þy niwan folce þe he gestrynde, he there the winter with the new folk which he won gesæliclice 7 wel wunade; 7 swa his siðfæt trymede 7 happily and well dwelt and so his journey arranged and to Rome com. 7 þæs þe his intinga wæs geondsohte to Rome came and after-that that his cause was examined beforan Agathone þam papan 7 manegum byscopum, 7 before Agatho the pope and many bishops and ealra heora dome he unscyldig 7 butan leahtrum wæs of-all their by-judgment he guiltless and without vices was clæne gemeted þara þinga, þe hine mon forewregde 7 clean found of-the things which him one accused and onstælde; 7 þæt he wære his biseophade wel wyrðe. charged and that he were of-his bishopric well worthy

On þa sylfan tid se ylca papa þa Agathón gesomnade sinoð 460.1 In the same time the same pope then Agatho gathered synod on Rome byrig fif 7 hund twelftig byssceopa wið ðam in of-Rome city five and hundred twenty bishops against the gedwolmannum, þa ðe bodedon 7 lærdon ænne willan 7 ane heretics those who preached and taught one will and one wyrtnesse beon on Dryhtne Hælende. Ða het he se papa operation be in Lord Savior Then commanded he the pope eac Willfrið bysceop to þam sinoþe laþian; 7 him mon tæhte also Wilfrid bishop to the synod invite and to-him one assigned setl betwyh oðre bysceopas, 7 het secgan his geleafan 7 seat among other bishops and commanded say his faith and somod þæs ealandes 7 þære þeode, ðe he of com. Mid þy at-once of-the island and of-the nation which he from came With that he wæs rihtgelyfed on geleafan mid his geferum gemeted, þa he was orthodox in faith with his companions found then licade ðis betwih oþre dæde þæs ylcan sinoþes þæt hi on heora pleased this among other deeds of-the same synod that they in their sinoðgewrit ongeþeoddon, 7 þus writon betwyh him: Wilfrið synod-writing inserted and thus wrote among them Wilfrid Gode se leofa bysceop Eoforwicceastre þæt apostolice setl be to-God the dear bishop of-York the apostolic see about his intingan wæs geseccende, 7 fram þære apostolican mihte be his cause was seeking and by the apostolic power of cuþum 7 uncuþum þingum wæs onlysed: 7 mid oþrum fif known and unknown things was absolved and with other five 7 hund twelftigum his éfenbysceopum on sinoþe on domsetle and hundred twenty his fellow-bishops in synod on judgment-seat sittende wæs: 7 for eallum norðdæle Breotone 7 Hibernia sitting was and for all north-part of-Britain and Ireland þam ealande, þa fram Angellðeodum 7 Brytta 7 Scotta the island which by English-nations and of-Britons and of-Scots 7 Pehta wæron begongne, soðne geleafan 7 rihtgelyfedne and of-Picts were inhabited true faith and orthodox wæs andettende, 7 mid his handgewrite getrymede. was confessing and with his hand-writing confirmed 460.18 Æfter þyssum he hwearf eft to Breotone, 7 Suðseaxna After this he turned again to Britain and of-South-Saxons mægðe fram deofolgylda þeawum to Cristes geleafan gecyrde; province from of-idols customs to of-Christ faith turned 7 eac swylce Godes wordes þegnas sende on Wyht þæt and also likewise of-God word ministers sent into Wight the ealond. 7 þy æftran geare Ealdfriðes rices þæs cyninges, island and in-the second year of-Aldfrith reign of-the king se æfter Ecgfriðe to rice feng, his bysceopsettle onfeng: who after Ecgfrith to kingdom succeeded his bishop-seat received 7 hine Ealdfrið se cyning togelapade. Æfter fif gearum eft and him Aldfrith the king invited After five years again he wæs oncunnen fram þam ylcan cyninge 7 monigum he was accused by the same king and many bysceopum; 7 eft of his bysceopscire adrifen wæs, 7 to bishops and again from his bishopric driven was and to Rome com; 7 him wæs lyfnes seald þæt he him moste Rome came and to-him was leave given that he himself might scyldan 7 besecgan on andweardnesse his gesacona. Wæron defend and excuse in presence of-his adversaries Were þær monige bysceopas sittende mid Iohannem þone apostolican there many bishops sitting with John the apostolic papan, 7 eallra heora dome wæs cyped, þæt his wregend pope and of-all their by-judgment was made-known that his accusers 7 his gesacan on miclum dæle licettunge 7 lease wið and his adversaries in great part feigning and false against hine syredon 7 onsægdon. 7 ða heht se foresprecena him plotted and charged and then commanded the aforesaid papa ærendgewrit writan to Æþelrede 7 to Ealdfriðe pope letter write to Æthelred and to Aldfrith Ongelcýningum, 7 þær on bead þæt hi æninga gedyden, English-kings and there in bade that they by-all-means caused þæt Willfrið wære onfongen on his bysceopscire: forþon þe that Wilfrid were received in his bishopric because that he hire unrihtlice benumen wære. Mid þy he þa wæs eft he of-it wrongfully deprived were With that he then was again hweorfende to Breotone, 7 he becom on dælas Gallia rices, returning to Britain and he came into parts of-Gaul kingdom þa wæs he gehrinen 7 gestonden semninga mid untrymnesse. then was he touched and assailed suddenly with infirmity 7 seo to þon swiðe weox 7 hefegade, þæt he æt nyhstan ne and it to that greatly grew and grew-heavy that he at last not gan ne on horse ridan mihte; ac on his þegna handum þæt walk nor on horse ride could but on of-bis thanes hands that he bære boren wæs, 7 swa gelæded wæs on Middan Gallia he on-bier borne was and so led was into Meaux of-Gaul ceastre. 7 he þær læg iiij dagas 7 iiij niht swa swa déad city and he there lay four days and four nights so as dead mon, nemne ðynre eðunge ánre ætywde þæt he lifes wæs. man except by-thin breathing alone showed that he of-life was 462.7 Mid þy he swa butan mete 7 drynce 7 butan stæfne 7 With that he so without food and drink and without voice and gehyrnesse iiij dagas 7 nihte fulle awunode, þa æt nyhstan bearing four days and nights full remained then at last on dagunge þæs fiftan dæges, swa he of hefigum slæpe in dawning of-the fifth day as he from heavy sleep onbrude, 7 wæs arisende 7 úp asæt, 7 his eagan ontynde awoke and was arising and up sat and his eyes opened 7 geseah ymb hine þreatas singendra broðra somod 7 and saw about him troops of-singing brothers together and wependra. 7 he sume hwile sāt 7 sworete. Frægn ða 7 of-weeping and he some while sat and sighed Asked then and acsade, hwær Acca mæssepreost wære. Cygde hine mon sona; inquired where Acca masspriest were Called him one at-once 7 he into him eode 7 geseah, þæt him bet wæs 7 he and he into him went and saw that to-him better was and he spreca mihte; 7 he his cneow bigde, 7 Gode þanc sægde speak could and he his knee bent and to-God thanks said mid eallum þam broðrum þe þær inne wæron æt him. 7 mid with all the brothers who there inside were by him and with þy hi ða sum fæc somod sæton 7 sumu þing forhte sprecan that they then some space together sat and some things fearful speak ongunnon be þam upplican domum Godes ælmihtiges, ða began about the upper judgments of-God almighty then hét se biscop ða oðre broðru sumu hwile utgán, 7 wæs commanded the bishop the other brothers some while go-out and was ðus sprecende to Accan þam preoste: Me ætywde, cwæð thus speaking to Acca the priest To-me appeared said he, hwéne ær ondrysnlico gesihð, þa ic ðe wylle secgan he a-little before terrible vision which I thee will say 7 cyðan; 7 þe hate, þæt ðu hi gehele 7 gehealde, and make-known and thee bid that thou it conceal and keep oð ðæt ic wite hwæt God wylle, hwæt be me gewurðe. until that I know what God will what about me happen Com me tó 7 ætstód sum swiðe beorht mon 7 scínende on 462.22 Came me to and stood-by a very bright man and shining in hwítum gegyrelan: cwæð þæt he wære Michael se heah engel: white garment said that he were Michael the high angel 7 forðon ic eom sendeð, þæt ic ðe fram deaðe generede and therefore I am sent that I thee from death saved 7 alyse. Forgeaf ðe Drihten lif þurh gebedo 7 tearas and released Gave to-thee Lord life through prayers and tears ðinra discipula 7 ðinra broðra 7 þurh þingunge his þære of-thy disciples and of-thy brothers and through intercession of-his the eadigan meder ðære unmlæn fæmnan Scā Mariam. Forðon blessed mother the spotless virgin Saint Mary Therefore ic ðe secge þæt þu nu bist hræðlice fram þysse untrumnesse I thee say that thou now art quickly from this infirmity gehæled. Ac westu gearo; forðon æfter feower gearum ic healed But be-thou ready because after four years I eft hwyrfe 7 þe neosige. Þu becymest to þinum eðle; again return and thee visit Thou comest to thy homeland 7 þone mæstan dæl ðinra æhta þu onfehst, þa ðe on and the greatest part of-thy possessions thou receivest those which from þe genemde wæron, 7 on smyltre sibbe ðin lif geendast. thee taken were and in calm peace thy life endest 464.1 Hwæt he se biscop hine ða hraðe getrumade, 7 ealle Lo he the bishop himself then quickly strenghtened and all his geferan to þon gefégon 7 Gode þoncunge dydon; 7 his companions at that rejoiced and to-God thanks did and þy ongunnenan siðfate to Breotone côm. 7 he sealde þa with-the begun journey to Britain came and he gave the ærendgewrito, þe he brohte fram þam apostolican papan, ærest letters which he brought from the apostolic pope first Brihtwalde þam arcebiscope to ræðanne, 7 eft Æþelrede, to-Berhtwald the archbishop to read and afterward to-Æthelred se wæs ær cyning; wæs ða Beardsætena abbud. 7 hi begen who was before king was then of-Bardney-dwellers abbot and they both him lustlice 7 ánmodlice fultumedon be þæs papan hæse; 7 him gladly and unanimously helped by of-the pope bidding and Æþelred sona to him gelaðede Cenred þone cyning, þam Æthelred at-once to him invited Cenred the king to-whom he Myrcna ríce sealde. 7 he hine bæd 7 het, þæt he he of-Mercians kingdom gave and he him asked and commanded that he inlice þam biscope freond wære: 7 he swa wæs. Ac Ealdfrið heartily to-the bishop friend were and he so was But Aldfrith Norðanhymbra cyning hine forhogode onfôn: ne he langre of-Northumbrians king him scorned receive nor he for-long tide ofer þæt lifigende wæs. Ða wæs geworden, sona ðæs time beyond that living was Then was become soon that þe Osred his sunu to rice feng, þæt sinoð wæs gesomnod that Osred his son to kingdom succeeded that synod was gathered be Nide streame. ⁊ æfter hwylcehugu geflite æghwæðeres by of-Nidd stream and after some contention of-each dæles, þa æt nyhstan, him eallum fultumiendum, wæs Wilfrið party then at last them all helping was Wilfrid onfangen in biscophád his cyricean. ⁊ he swa IIII géar, þæt received into bishopric of-his church and he so four years that is oð ðone dæg his forðfóre, he his lif lædde on smyltre is until the day of-his departure he his life led in calm sibbe, ⁊ gefeonde þa heofonlican rico gestah ⁊ gesohte. peace and rejoicing the heavenly kingdom ascended and sought Ferde he forð on his mynstre, þe he hæfde on Undalana 464.17 Passed he forth in his monastery which he had in of-Oundle mægðe under gerece Cuðbaldes þæs abbudes; ⁊ mid ðenunge province under rule of-Cuthbald the abbot and with ministry his broðra wæs gelæded on his þæt ærre mynster, þæt is of-his brothers was led into his the former monastery which is gecyged Onhripum, ⁊ wæs arwurðlice geseted ⁊ bebyriged called Ripon and was reverently set and buried on Scē Petres cyricean þæs apostoles be þam wigbede in of-Saint Peter church of-the apostle by the altar suðan, swa swa we ær beforan sægdon ⁊ gemyngedon. to-the-south so as we before above said and mentioned

Abbot Hadrian died forty-one years after reaching Britain, and his pupil Albinus, who knew Greek well and Latin as well as English, succeeded him. Wilfrid's priest Acca became bishop of Hexham, adorned Saint Andrew's church, gathered relics and books, and kept the singer Maban twelve years. Raised by Bosa of York, Acca was a fine singer and scholar, served Wilfrid to the end, and went with him to Rome.

464.23 Ðy nyhstan geara æfter forðfore þæs foresprecenan fæder, þæt In-the next year after departure of-the aforesaid father that is þy fiftan geara Osredes rices þæs cyninges se arwurða is in-the fifth year of-Osred reign of-the king the venerable wer Adrianus abbud forðferde, se wæs æfenwyrceð on Godes man Hadrian abbot departed who was fellow-worker in of-God worde ðære eadigan gemynde Theodorus arcebiscop; 7 on word of-the blessed memory Theodore archbishop and in his mynstre on cyricean þære eadigan fæmnan Scā Marian his monastery in church of-the blessed virgin Saint Mary bebyriged wæs ymb án 7 feowertig wintra, ðæs þe he buried was about one and forty winters after-that that he fram Uitaliano þam papan hider mid ðeodor biscop sendeð by Vitalian the pope hither with Theodore bishop sent wæs. Ðæs abbudes lare ætgædere 7 ðeodores þæs biscopes was Of-the abbot teaching together and of-Theodore the bishop betwih oðre cyðnesse sagað, þæt Albinus ðæs abbudes discipul, among other testimony says that Albinus of-the abbot disciple se to his mynstres gerece æfter him feng, þæt he wæs swa who to of-his monastery rule after him succeeded that he was so swyðe on gelesum haligra gewrita gelæred, þæt he Grecisc greatly in studies of-holy writings taught that he Greek gereord of miclum dæle cuðe, ⁊ Leden him wæs swa cuð language from great part knew and Latin to-him was so known ⁊ swa gemimor swa swa Englisc, þæt him gecyndelic wæs. and so familiar so as English which to-him native was Ða onfeng for Wilfriðe biscopphád ðære cyricean æt 466.4 Then received for Wilfrid bishopric of-the church at Heagostealdes ea Acca his mæssepreost. Wæs he se wer se Hexham — Acca his masspriest Was he the man the fromesta ⁊ for Gode ⁊ for mannum micellic. ⁊ he his boldest and before God and before men great and he his cyricean getimbrade, seo on are Scā Andreꝥ þæs apostoles church built which in honor of-Saint Andrew the apostle gehalgad is, monigfealde wlite ⁊ wundorlicum weorcum hallowed is with-manifold beauty and wondrous works gebrædde ⁊ gemonigfylde. ⁊ he micle geornfulnesse dyde, broadened and multiplied and he great zeal did þæt he æghwanon mæst reliquia begéate þara eadigra apostola that he from-everywhere most of-relics obtained of-the blessed apostles ⁊ martyra, ⁊ on heora weorðunge wibedas sette ⁊ porticas and martyrs and in their honor altars set and porches worhte ⁊ todælde on þæt sylfe binnan þære ylcan cyricean made and divided for that same within the same church weallum. Swylce eac spell heora ðrowunge ætgædere mid walls Likewise also stories of-their passion together with oðrum cyriclicum bocum mid micelre geornfulnesse gesomnade, other churchly books with great zeal gathered ⁊ ðider micel bóggestréon ⁊ æðele begéat. Swylce he eac and thither great book-treasure and noble obtained Likewise he also husulfatu ⁊ leohtfatu ⁊ monig oðer þysses gemetes, þa housel-vessels and lamps and many other of-this sort those ðe to Godes huses frætwednesse belimpað, he geornfullice which to of-God house adornment belong he earnestly gegearwode. Eac swylce he sumne æðelne cyricsangere begéat, prepared Also likewise he a noble church-singer obtained se wæs Mafa haten, se wæs on Cent on sangcræft gelæred fram who was Maban called who was in Kent in song-craft taught by æfterfyligendum þara discipula þæs eadigan papan Scē Gregorii; successors of-the disciples of-the blessed pope Saint Gregory ⁊ he þone XII winter mid him hæfde. ⁊ he gehwæðer ge and he him twelve winters with him had and he both and þa cyricsangas lærde, þe hi ær ne cuðan, ge eac, þa ðe hi the church-songs taught which they before not knew and also those which they iu cuðan ⁊ mid langre gymeleasnesse ealdian ongunnon, formerly knew and with long neglect grow-old began þa eft mid his lare on ðone ærran steall geedniwode wæron. those again with his teaching into the former state renewed were 466.23 Wæs he éac sylfa Acca biscop se getydesta sangere; swylce eac Was he also self Acca bishop the most-skilled singer likewise also he wæs on halgum gewritum se gelæredesta, ⁊ on andetnesse he was in holy writings the most-learned and in confession þæs rihtan geleafan se clænesta; ⁊ he wæs in reogolum of-the right faith the purest and he was in rules cyriclicre gesetnesse se behydegæsta þa to healdenne. ⁊ he of-churchly institution the most-careful them to hold and he þæs ne blon, oððæt he fram Gode mede onfeng his arfæstre that not ceased until he from God reward received of-his pious wilsumnesse. Wæs he ærest fram his cnihtåde on geferscipe devotion Was he first from his boyhood in company þæs halgan Bosan ⁊ Gode þæs leofan Eoforwicceastre of-the holy Bosa and to-God of-the dear of-York biscopes aféded ⁊ gelæred. Æfter þon he cóm to Wilfriðe bishop fed and taught After that he came to Wilfrid biscope mid hyhte beteran foresetnesse, ⁊ eall his yldo ⁊ bishop with hope of-better purpose and all his age and líf on his þenunge gefylde oð his forðfore. Mid þone he eac life in his service fulfilled until his departure With him he also swilce to Rome wæs cumende 7 monig nytlico ðing, ðe he likewise to Rome was coming and many useful things which he on his eðle ne mihte, cyriclicra gesetnessa þær he geseah in his homeland not could of-churchly institutions there he saw 7 geleornode, 7 ða wel heold læste oð his lifes ende. and learned and them well held performed until of-his life end

XIX · NECHTAN AND CEOLFRITH'S LETTER

Nechtan, king of the Picts, moved by his reading, asked Ceolfrith, abbot of Wearmouth and Jarrow, for a letter on the right Easter and tonsure and for a master-builder to build a stone church for Saint Peter. When the letter was read and translated, Nechtan knelt before his nobles and thanked God, and ordered the nineteen-year Easter cycles to be copied and taught throughout his kingdom, and all its clergy took Peter's tonsure.

Ðyssum tidum Naitan Peohta cyning, ðe þone norðdæl 468.3
In-these times Nechtan of-Picts king who the north-part Breotone eardiað, wæs he monad mid gelómligre smeawunge of-Britain inhabit was he admonished with frequent study 7 leornunge cyriclicra gewrita þæt he gedwolan wiðsóc 7 þone and learning of-churchly writings that he error renounced and it ne geðafode, se oð þæt on his þeode hæfæd wæs, be gehylde not consented which until that in his nation held was about keeping rihttra Eastrana. 7 he hine 7 his ðeode gelædde to mærsianne of-right Easters and he himself and his nation led to celebrate 7 to weorðianne þa rihtgesettan tide þære Drihtenlican æriste. and to honor the right-set time of-the Lordly resurrection 7 þæt he þæt mihte mid ðy maran ealdorlicnesse þurhteon and that he that might with the greater authority accomplish 7 gefremman, sohte he him fultum of Angolþeode, þe and perform sought he for-himself help from English-nation which he geare ongeat 7 wiste, þæt hi ða æfestnesse geleornad 7 he well perceived and knew that they the religion learned and onfongen hæfdon to bysene þære halgan Romaniscan cyrican received had after example of-the holy Roman church 7 ðære apostolican. Sende he ærendracan to þam arwurðan and the apostolic Sent he messengers to the venerable were Ceolfriðe, se wæs abbud ðæs mynstres þara eadigra man Ceolfrið who was abbot of-the monastery of-the blessed apostola Petrus 7 Paulus, þæt is æt Wīre muðan 7 be Tīnan apostles Peter and Paul that is at Wear mouth and by Tyne þære ea, on ðære stowe ðe is gecyged On Gyrwum. Þam the river in the place which is called At Jarrow The abbudome he Ceolfrið wuldorlice fore wæs æfter Benedicte, abbacy he Ceolfrið gloriously over was after Benedict be þam we beforan sægdon. Bæd he se cyning þone abbud, about whom we above said Asked he the king the abbot þæt he him sende trymmendlice stafas 7 gewrito, mid þam that he to-him sent exhorting letters and writings with which he ðy mihtlicor wiðscufan mihte, þa ðe gedyrstigedon þæt he the more-mightily repel could those who presumed that hi Eastran heoldan 7 wurðedon butan heora rihtre tide. they Easter held and honored outside their right time

468.20

Swylce he eac befrægn 7 acsade be geméte 7 rihte Godes Likewise he also questioned and asked about manner and right of-God
 * þeowa scéare, þe þreostas 7 Godes þeowas (conjecture) servants tonsure with-which priests and of-God servants getacnode beon sceoldon. Bæd he se cyning eac hine þæt he marked be should Asked he the king also him that he him onsende sumne heahcræftigan stangeworces, þæt he mihte to-him sent some master-builder of-stonework that he might æfter Romana þeawe cyricean timbrian: 7 wæs gehatende after of-Romans custom church build and was promising þæt he þa wolde on áre ðæs eadigan ealdres þara apostola that he it would in honor of-the blessed chief of-the apostles gehalgian Scē Petres. 7 eac gehét, þæt he sylfa wolde mid consecrate of-Saint Peter and also promised that he self would with ealre his ðeode þone þeaw symble onhyrian 7 healdan ðære all his nation the custom ever imitate and hold of-the Romaniscan cyricean 7 þære apostolican, swa forð swa we Roman church and the apostolic so forth as we fyrrest geleornian magon. Ðæs cyninges arfæstnesse willum 7 best learn can Of-the king of-piety to-wishes and benum wæs gefultumiende se arwurða abbud Ceolfrið. Sende prayers was helping the venerable abbot Ceolfrið Sent him cræftige wyrhtan stænene cyricean to timbrianne: sende to-him skilled workmen stone church to build sent him eac stafas 7 gewrit be gehealde rihtra Eastrana 7 to-him also letters and writing about keeping of-right Easters and be Godes þeowa scéare, eac oðrum rihtum Godes cyricean. about of-God servants tonsure also other rules of-God church Mid ðy þæt gewrit ða wæs ráded beforan þam cyninge 7 470.3 With that the writing then was read before the king and monigum gelæredum werum 7 him geornlice wæs reht many learned men and to-him earnestly was expounded on his agen gereorde fram þam, ðe hit ongitan mihton, is in his own language by those who it understand could is þæt sáð, þæt he wære be his trymnesse 7 lare swyðe that said that he were about its exhortation and teaching greatly gefeonde 7 wære arisende of his setle of middum his rejoicing and were arising from his seat from midst his ealdormannum 7 his wítum; 7 his cneow bigde on eorðan ealdormen and his councilors and his knee bent on earth

7 Gode þancunge dyde, þæt he geearnode swylce gif e onfón and to-God thanks did that he earned such gift receive of Angolþeode. 7 þus cwæð: Cuðlice ic þæt ær wiste 7 from English-nation and thus said Certainly I that before knew and ongeat, þæt ðis wæs riht weorðung soðra Eastrana. Ac swa perceived that this was right keeping of-true Easters But so swiðe ic nu þæt riht ongite ðisse tide to healdanne, þæt me greatly I now the right perceive of-this time to hold that to-me is eallunga lytel 7 medmicel gesewen, þæt ic ær ðyssum is altogether little and small seen what I before this cuðe 7 ongeat. Forðon ic þonne nu eow openlice andette 7 knew and perceived Therefore I then now to-you openly confess and cyðe, þe her andwearde sittað, þæt ic ðas tide Eastrena make-known who here present sit that I this time of-Easters ecelice healdan wille mid ealre minre ðeode, þe ic nu eternally hold will with all my nation which I now rihte ongite 7 ocnáwe; 7 ealle preostas 7 Godes ðeowas, rightly perceive and acknowledge and all priests and of-God servants þa ðe on minum rice syndon, ða scéare onfón sculon, those who in my kingdom are the tonsure receive shall ðe we gehyrað fulle beon ealre rihtwisnesse. 7 he ða which we hear full be of-all righteousness and he then butan ylðinge mid his cynelicre ealdorlicnesse gefremede þæt without delay with his royal authority performed what he cwæð; 7 sona sende geond eall his ríce, 7 het he said and at-once sent throughout all his kingdom and commanded writan 7 leornian 7 healdan þurh ealle Peohta mægðe þa write and learn and hold through all of-Picts provinces the nigontýnlican hringas rihtra Eastrana. 7 het fordilgian nineteen-year circles of-right Easters and commanded blot-out ðurh ealle ða gedwolhringas feower 7 hundehtatig geara. through all the error-circles of-four and eighty years

Ða wæron scorene ealle munecas 7 sacerdas on ðone beh 470.22 Then were shorn all monks and priests in the crown Scē Petres scēare. 7 hi swa swa niwe discipulhada þæs of-Saint Peter tonsure and they so as to-new discipleship of-the eadegestan ealdres þara apostola Scē Petres underðeodde most-blessed chief of-the apostles of-Saint Peter subjected beon 7 mid his mundbyrde gescylde 7 eall seo ðeod be and with his protection shielded and all the nation geriht gefeah 7 blissade. corrected rejoiced and exulted

XX · IONA KEEPS THE RIGHT EASTER

Not long after, the monks of Iona were brought to the right Easter and tonsure by Ecgberht, who came there in 716, the year Osred was killed. Bede contrasts the Irish, who shared their faith freely with the English and learned in turn, with the Britons, who still hold to their errors. Ecgberht stayed on Iona and died there on Easter Day, the first time it was kept on that day.

Ne wæs þa æfter miclum fæce þæt eac swylce ða munecas 470.26
Not was then after great space that also likewise the monks Scotta cynnes, þa ðe Híi þæt ealond eardedon 7 beeodan of-Scots race those who Iona the island inhabited and occupied mid þam mynstrum þe him underðeodde wæron to with the monasteries which to-them subject were to reogollicum þeawe rihtra Eastrena 7 scyre þurh Drihtnes regular custom of-right Easters and tonsure through of-Lord gyfe gelædde wæron. Wæs ymb seofon hund wintra 7 grace led were Was about seven hundred winters and syxtene fram Drihtnes menniscnesse, þy geara Osred sixteen from of-Lord incarnation in-the year Osred cyning wæs ofslegen 7 Cynred æfter him ða steore onfeng king was slain and Cenred after him the rule received Norðanhymbra rices, ða com on Hií þæt ealond of of-Northumbrians kingdom then came onto Iona the island from Hibernia Gode se leofa fæder 7 sacerd 7 mid ealle are Ireland to-God the dear father and priest and with all honor to nemnenne Ecgbyrht se halga, ðæs we beforan gelomlice to name Ecgbryht the holy whom we above frequently gemyngedon. 7 he arwurðlice 7 mid micle gefean fram mentioned and he reverently and with great joy by him onfangen wæs, forðon he wæs se swetesta lareow 7 se them received was because he was the sweetest teacher and the wynsumesta 7 ðara þinga, ðe he oðre lærde to donne, he most-delightful and of-the things which he others taught to do he sylfa wæs se wilsumesta fylgend 7 læstend: 7 he lustlice self was the most-devoted follower and performer and he gladly fram him eallum gehyred wæs. 7 he onwende mid his by them all heard was and he changed with his arfæstum trymenessum 7 geornfulnesse þone ealdan þeaw 7 pious exhortations and zeal the old custom and gesetnysse heora ealdra, be þam mæg þæt apostolice word institution of-their elders about which can the apostolic word cweden beon, þæt hi hæfdon Godes ellnunge ac nalæs æfter said be that they had of-God zeal but not-at-all after wisdom. 7 he hi ðy apostolican þeawe monade 7 lærde, wisdom and he them to-the apostolic custom admonished and taught þæt hi ða weorðunge þære mæstan symbelnesse, swa swa we that they the keeping of-the greatest festival so as we cwædon, heoldan 7 dydon under bycnunge þæs ecan biges. said held and did under sign of-the eternal crown

Wæs þæt mid wunderlicre stihunge þære godcundan arfæstnesse 472.14

Was that with wondrous ordaining of-the divine mercy swa geworden, þæt, forðan seo þeod þone * wisdom, so done that because the nation the (conjecture) wisdom ðe heo cuðe, þære godcundan cyððe lustlice butan æfeste which it knew of-the divine knowledge gladly without envy Angelfolcum cyððe 7 gemænsumede, hi ða swylce æfter to-English-folks made-known and shared they then likewise after fæce þurh Angelþeode, on þam þingum þe hi won hæfdon, space through English-nation in the things which they lacking had to fulfremedum gemete rihtes lifes becóm. Swa swa Brittas to perfect measure of-right life came So as Britons wiððon, þe næfre woldon þa cyððo þæs cristenan geleafan, against-that who never would the knowledge of-the Christian faith þe hi hæfdon, Angelcynne openian 7 cyðan, ono þa which they had to-English-race open and make-known lo the gelyfendum eft Angelfolcum 7 þurh eall well ontimbredum believing again English-folks and through all well instructed 7 gelæredum on reogole rihtes geleafan, hi nu gýt heora and taught in rule of-right faith they now yet their ealdan gewunon healdað, 7 fram rihtum stigum healtiað; old custom hold and from right paths limp 7 heora heafod ywað butan beage Scē Petres sceare; 7 and their head show without crown of-Saint Peter tonsure and Cristes symbolnesse † rihte Eastran butan geðeodnesse of-Christ festival (corrupt) right Easter without fellowship ealra Godes cyricena healdað 7 weorþiað. Ða onfengon of-all of-God churches hold and honor Then received Híisetena munecas þurh Ecgberhtes láre rihtgelyfede of-Iona-dwellers monks through of-Ecgberht teaching orthodox þeawas on to lifgenne, under Dunchade þæm abbode æfter customs on to live under Dunchad the abbot after hundehtatigum wintra þæs þe hie sendon Aidan þone eighty winters after-that that they sent Aidan the bisceop Ongelþeode to lareowe. Wunade se Godes wer bishop to-English-nation as teacher Dwelt the of-God man Ecgbreht twelf winter in þam ealonde, þæt he sumre neowre Ecgbreht twelve winters in the island that he with-a new gefe lihtendre þære ciriclican geþeodnesse and sibbe gehalgade. grace shining of-the churchly fellowship and peace consecrated 474.1 Ond æfter seofon hund wintra 7 nigon 7 twentigum And after seven hundred winters and nine and twenty æfter þære Drihtenlican menniscnesse þy geare, þa mærsad after the Lordly incarnation in-the year when celebrated wæs 7 weorþad se Drihtenlica Eastordæg, þæt wæs þy was and honored the Lordly Easter-day that was on-the eahtopān dæge Kalendarum Maiarum, mid þy he þa ilcan eighth day of-the-Kalends May with that he the same Drihtenlican æreste mid symbelnesse mæssesonga mærsade Lordly resurrection with festival of-mass-songs celebrated 7 weorþade, þy ilcan dæge he forðferde to Drihtne. and honored on-the same day he departed to Lord Ond gefean þære hean symbelnesse, þone he mid þam And joy of-the high festival which he with the broðrum ongon, þa he to annesse gife gehwyrfe, he mid brothers began whom he to of-unity grace turned he with Drihtne 7 þam halgum apostolum ond mid oðrum heofones Lord and the holy apostles and with other of-heaven ceasterwarum gefylde; oþþe þæt gen soþre is þæt seolfe he citizens fulfilled or that yet truer is the same he ne blinneþ mærsian 7 weorþian a butan ende. Wæs þæt not ceases celebrate and honor ever without end Was that wunderlico stih tung þære godcundan foreseonesse, þætte se wondrous ordaining of-the divine providence that the arwyrða wer nales þæt an þæt he in Eastran forðferde venerable man not-at-all that alone that he at Easter departed of þissum middangearde to Gode Fæder, ac eác swylce mid from this middle-earth to God Father but also likewise with þy þætte þy dæge Eastran mærsode wæron, þe hie næfre that that on-the day Easter celebrated were which they never ær gewunedon in þæm stowum weorþade beon. Ond þa before were-wont in the places honored be And then gefegon þa broþor be ongesetenesse þære cupan 7 þære rejoiced the brothers about establishment of-the known and of-the rihtgelefdon Eastortide. Ond hie blissedon þa mundbyrde þæs orthodox Easter-time And they rejoiced the protection of-the farendan fæder to Drihtne, þurh þone hie gerihte wæron. departing father to Lord through whom they corrected were Ond he blissade in þon, þæt he oð þæt in lichoman 474.17 And he rejoiced in that that he until that in body gehealden wæs, oð þæt he geseah þa his geherend þone kept was until that he saw then his bearers the Eastordæg onfon, ond mid hine in weorþunge habban, þone Easter-day receive and with him in honor have which hie simle ær þon warenedon to anfonne. Ond swa gewis they ever before that shunned to receive And so certain be hiora gerehtnesse se arwyrþa fæder blissade, þæt he about their correction the venerable father rejoiced that he gesawe Drihtnes dæg, 7 he hine geseah 7 gefeonde wæs. saw of-Lord day and he it saw and rejoicing was

In 725 King Wihtried of Kent died, leaving three sons; the next year Tobias of Rochester died, a pupil of Theodore and Hadrian fluent in Greek and Latin, and Ealdwulf succeeded him. In 729 two comets appeared, and the Saracens ravaged Gaul. Egberht died that Easter, and King Osric of Northumbria soon after, naming Ceolwulf his heir, whose reign is so troubled that no one yet knows what to write of it.

474.23 Þa wæs ymb seofon hund wintra 7 fif 7 twentig æfter Then was about seven hundred winters and five and twenty after þære Drihtenlican menniscnesse, þæt wæs þæt seofope gear the Lordly incarnation that was the seventh year Ósrices Norþanhymbra cyninges, se æfter Cenrede to rice of-Osric of-Northumbrians king who after Cenred to kingdom feng, þa Wihtried Ecgbrihtes sunu Cantwarena cyninges succeeded when Wihtried of-Egberht son of-Kent king forðfered wæs þy nigeþan dæge Kalendarum Maiarum; ond departed was on-the ninth day of-the-Kalends May and þæm rice, þe he hæfde feower 7 þritig wintra ond to-the kingdom which he had four and thirty winters and þæt fife healf, his sunu þry yrfeweardas forlet Æþelbryht the fifth half his sons three heirs left Æthelberht 7 Eadbryht 7 Æþelric. Æfter þæm þy nyhstan gear and Eadberht and Æthelric After that in-the next year Tobias Hrofeceastre bisceop forþferde. Wæs se wer micellice Tobias of-Rochester bishop departed Was the man greatly gelæred; wæs he discipul þære eadgan gemynde Theodores learned was he disciple of-the blessed memory of-Theodore ercebisceopes ond Adrianus þæs abbodes. Ond he forþon, swa archbishop and of-Hadrian the abbot And he therefore so swa cweden is, mid þa getydnese ge ciriclicra gewrita ge eac as said is with the learning both of-churchly writings and also gemænelicra, þæt he eác swilce swa Grecisc geleornade mid of-common that he also likewise so Greek learned with Lædene, þæt him ða swa cuð wæron swa his agene reorde, Latin that to-him they so known were as his own language þe he in acenned wæs. Wæs he bebyrged in Scē Pauls which he in born was Was he buried in of-Saint Paul portice þæs apostoles, se is in Scē Andreas ciricean, þær porch of-the apostle which is in of-Saint Andrew church where he seolfa byrgenstowe geworhte. Æfter þām feng Aldwulf to he self burial-place made After that succeeded Ealdwulf to þære bisceopþenunge, þone Berhtwald ercebisceop gehalgode. the bishop-ministry whom Berhtwald archbishop consecrated Æfter þissum wæs ymbe seofan hund wintra 7 nigon 476.6 After this was about seven hundred winters and nine and twentig æfter þære Drihtenlican menniscnesse; æteowdon and twenty after the Lordly incarnation appeared twegen steorran ymb þa sunnan utan, þa syndon on two stars about the sun around which are in bocum cometa nemde; 7 hy mycle fyrhto onstyredon þām books comets named and they great fear stirred to-the monnum þe hie sceawodon 7 gesawon. Oðer hiora foreode men who them bebold and saw One of-them preceded þa sunnan on morgen, þonne hio upgangende wæs, oþer on the sun in morning when it rising was other in æfenne æfterfyligde, þonne hio on setl eode, swa swa hie evening followed when it into setting went so as they witegan were grimmes wæles uppeornendre sunnan samed prophets were of-grim slaughter to-rising sun together 7 setlgongendre, þæt hi gehwæþere tide ge on dæg ge on and setting that they at-either time both in day and in niht micel yfel monnum toward tæcnedon. Stod se leoma night great evil to-men coming betokened Stood the gleam him of, swilce fyrenþecele, onġean norðdæle middangeardes.

them from as fiery-torch toward north-part of-middle-earth

Æteowdon hie þa steorran in Ianuarius monðe 7 twa wucan Appeared they the stars in January month and two weeks awunedon. Þære tide sona æfter se hefigesta wol Sarcina remained At-that time soon after the heaviest pestilence of-Saracens þeode Gallia rice mid sarlice wæle ond earmlice fornaman nation of-Gaul kingdom with grievous slaughter and miserably destroyed 7 forhergodon; 7 hie sona æfter medmiclum fæce in þære and ravaged and they soon after brief space in the ilcan mægþe wyrþe wite onfengon 7 þrowedon hiora same province worthy punishment received and suffered of-their getreowleasnesse. Þy ilcan gear swilce se halga Godes wer faithlessness In-the same year likewise the holy of-God man Ecġbreht, swa swa we beforan gemyngedon, þy seolfan

Ecġberht so as we above mentioned on-the same

Eastordæge forþferde to Drihtne; 7 sona ofer þa Eastortide, Easter-day departed to Lord and soon after the Easter-time þæt is septima Idus Maias, Osric Norþanhymbra cyning of life that is seventh Ides May Osric of-Northumbrians king from life gewat, æfter þon þe he þæt rice .XI. gear hæfde 7 styrde.

departed after that that he the kingdom eleven years had and governed 476.24 Oñd he wolde 7 gedemed hæfde þætte Ceolwulf æfter

And he wished and decreed had that Ceolwulf after him cyning wære 7 his rices æfterfylgend. Wæs he him king were and of-his kingdom successor Was he Cenredes broþor þæs cyninges, se ær him rice hæfde.

of-Cenred brother of-the king who before him kingdom had

Þæs cyninges rice ge foreweard ge forðgong swa monegum

Of-the king reign both beginning and progress with-so many 7 swa miclum styrenessum wiperweardra ðinga yþiað 7 and so great commotions of-adverse things surge and gemengde syndon, þætte þæt mon nu geta gewitan ne mingled are that that one now yet know not mæg, hwæt be þissum mon writan scyle, oððe hwilcne can what about these one write shall or what ende syndrigo þing hæbbende seondon. end separate things having are

XXII · THE STATE OF BRITAIN, AND BEDE'S OWN WORKS

In 731 Archbishop Berhtwald died and Tatwine succeeded him. Bede lists the bishops of each kingdom, notes that the Picts are at peace, the Scots content, and the Britons hostile but subject, and that many Northumbrians now enter monasteries. He tells his own life, given at seven to Wearmouth, deacon at nineteen, priest at thirty, lists his books, and ends praying to Christ and asking his readers' prayers.

Wæs þa ymb seofan hund wintra ond XXXI. æfter þære 476.31 Was then about seven hundred winters and thirty-one after the Drihtenlican menniscnesse þætte Beorhtwald ercebisceop Lordly incarnation that Berhtwald archbishop longre eldo fornunen forþfered wæs þy fiftan dæge Iduum by-long age consumed departed was on-the fift day of-the-Ides Ianuariū. Sæt he þæt bisceopsetl seofon 7 þritig wintra January Sat he the bishop-seat seven and thirty winters 7 .VI. monað 7 feowertyne dagas. For þam þy ilcan and six months and fourteen days For him in-the same geare wæs ercebisceop geworden Tatwine, se wæs of year was archbishop become Tatwine who was from Myrcna mægþe. Wæs he ær mæssepreost in þam mynstre, of-Mercians province Was he before masspriest in the monastery þe is geceged Breodun. Wæs he gehalgod in Cantwarena which is called Breodon Was he consecrated in of-Kent byrig from þæm arwyrbān werum Daniele Wintanceastre city by the venerable men Daniel of-Winchester bisceope ond Ingwalde Lundenburge bisceope ond Aldwine bishop and Ingwald of-London bishop and Aldwine Liccetfelda bisceope ond Aldulfe Hrofesceastre bisceope þy of-Lichfield bishop and Ealdwulf of-Rochester bishop on-the teoþan dæge Iunius monþes; wæs Sunnandæg. Wæs se wer tenth day of-June month was Sunday Was the man mære in æfæstnesse 7 in snytro 7 in wisdom and swylce famous in piety and in prudence and in wisdom and likewise eac in halgum gewritum æþellice intimbred 7 gelæred. also in holy writings nobly instructed and taught 478.12

Seondon nu 7 in ondweardnesse Cantwarena ciricena Are now and in present of-Kent churches bisceopas Tatwine 7 Aldwulf; ond Ingeweald Eastseaxna bishops Tatwine and Ealdwulf and Ingwald of-East-Saxons bisceop; Eastengla bisceopas siondon Aldberht 7 Heaþolac; bishop of-East-Angles bishops are Ealdbert and Heathulac Westseaxna bisceopas siondon Daniel 7 Forðhere; Mercna of-West-Saxons bishops are Daniel and Forthbere of-Mercians bisceop is Aldwine. Ond þæm folcum þa þe eardiað be bishop is Aldwine And to-the folks those who dwell to-the westan Sæferne is Wealhstod bisceop. Wilfrið is Huicna west-of Severn is Walhstod bishop Wilfrid is of-Hwicce bisceop. Is Cyneberht Lindesfearona bisceop. Sio biscopscir bishop Is Cynebert of-Lindsey bishop The diocese Wihte þæs ealondes belimpeþ to Daniele Wintanceastre of-Wight the island belongs to Daniel of-Winchester bisceope. Suðseaxna mægð wæs wuniende fela geara butan bishop of-South-Saxons province was remaining many years without bisceope 7 him bisceopþenunge secað to Westseaxna bishop and for-themselves bishop-ministry seek to of-West-Saxons bisceope. ond ealle þas mægþe 7 eác oðre suðmægðe of bishop and all these provinces and also other south-provinces to gemære Humber streames mid heora cyningum eác swilce border of-Humber stream with their kings also likewise Æþelbolde Mercna cyninge in hyrsumnesse underþeodde to-Æthelbald of-Mercians king in obedience subjected seondon. Ond þonne Norþanhymbra mægþe þæm Ceolwulf se are And then of-Northumbrians in-province which Ceolwulf the cyning in cyndome ofer is, feower bisceopas nu biscopscire king in kingship over is four bishops now dioceses habbað, Wilfrið bisceop in þære circean Eoforwicceastre, have Wilfrid bishop in the church of-York Æþelwald in Lindesfearona eá, Acca in Heagostealdes eá, Æthelwald in Lindisfarne — Acca in Hexham — Pethhelm in þære stowe, þe is geceged Æt Hwitan Ærne.

Pethhelm in the place which is called At White House Seo stow neowan gemonigfealdedum geleafsumum folcum in The place with-newly multiplied faithful peoples in setle bisceopstoles wæs toæted, ond wæs þære stowe se seat of-bishop-see was added and was of-the place the æresta bisceop. Swilce eác Pehta cyn in þas tid hafað sibbe first bishop Likewise also of-Picts race in this time has peace 7 were mid Ongelþeod, ond eac þære rihtgelyfedan sibbe 7 and covenant with English-nation and also of-the orthodox peace and soþfæstnesse mid ealre Godes circean gifeð dælnimende beon. truth with all of-God church rejoices partaking be Scottas, þa þe Breotone eardiað, wæron þoncfulle heora Scots those who Britain inhabit were content with-their gemærum; 7 hi ne setunge ne gestrodo wið Ongelþeode borders and they neither plots nor plunder against English-nation serwað. Bryttas þonne, þeah þe hie óf miclum dæle contrive Britons then though that they from great part 478.32

mid inlice hete ond fenge Ongelpeode ond þone steall with inward hate and hostility English-nation and the state ealre rihtgelyfedre Godes ciricean, ge in gehælde unrihtra of-all orthodox of-God church both in keeping of-wrong Eastrana ge in ungestum þeawum afehten, hwæþere him Easters and in reprobate customs attack however to-them is ge mid godcunde mægene ge mid mennisce wipstonden, is both with divine power and with human withstood þæt hi no hwæþerum hira willnunge habban ne þurhteon that they not in-either their will have nor accomplish magon. Ond þeah ðe hie synd of miclum dæle heora can And though that they are from great part of-their seolfes ónwealdes, hwæþere of miclum dæle hy syndon own power however from great part they are Ongelcynnes þeowdome betæhte 7 underþeodde. Þissa tida of-English-race to-service committed and subjected Of-these times sibbe 7 smoltnesse nu monige in Norþanhymbra þeode ge in-peace and calm now many in of-Northumbrians nation both æpele ge unæpele hi seolfe 7 hira bearn ma gyrnað in noble and ignoble them selves and their children rather desire into mynster ond on Godes þeowdomhad to sellenne, þonne hie monastery and in of-God service-order to give than they syn begongende weoroldlicne comphad. Sio wise hwelcne be practicing worldly warfare The matter what ende hæbbende sie, sio æfterre eldo gesið 7 sceawað. end having be the later age sees and beholds

480.14

Þis is nu in ondwardnesse gestal ealre Breotone ymb tu This is now in present state of-all Britain about two hund wintra 7 fif 7 hundeatig Óngelcynnes cymes in hundred winters and five and eighty of-English-race coming into Breotone ealond. And ymb seofon hund wintra 7 XXXI þære Britain island And about seven hundred winters and thirty-one of-the Drihtenlican menniscnesse in þæs Drihtnes þæm ecean rice Lordly incarnation in of-the Lord the eternal kingdom gefeoð eal eorþe; 7 efenblissindre Breotone in his geleafan rejoices all earth and with-rejoicing-alike Britain in his faith 7 monig ealond blissiað 7 ondettað gemynde his halignesse. and many islands rejoice and confess to-memory of-his holiness Þas þing by stære Ongelþiode cirican on Brytene, swa swa 480.20 These things about history of-English-nation church in Britain so as geo of manna gewritum oððe of ealdra gesegene oððe of formerly from of-men writings or from of-elders account or from minre sylfre cyþeþe ic gewitan mihte, mid Dryhtnes fultume my own knowledge I know could with of-Lord help gedyde ic Beda Cristes þiow 7 mæssepreost þæs minstres did I Bede of-Christ servant and masspriest of-the monastery þara eadigra apostola Petrus 7 Paulus, þæt is æt Wiramufon of-the blessed apostles Peter and Paul that is at Wearmouth 7 on Gyrwum. Wæs ic acenned on sundurlonde þæs ylcan and at Jarrow Was I born on private-land of-the same mynstres. Mid þy ic wæs seofanwintre, þa wæs ic mid gimene monastery With that I was seven-winters-old then was I with care minra maga seald to fedanne 7 to lærenne þam arwyrþan of-my kinsmen given to feed and to teach to-the venerable abbude Benedicte 7 Ceolferþe æfter þon. 7 siðþan ealle tid abbot Benedict and Ceolfrið after that and afterward all time mines lifes on þæs ilcan mynstres eardunge ic wæs donde; of-my life in of-the same monastery dwelling I was doing 7 ealle geornesse ic sealde to leornienne 7 to smeagenne and all diligence I gave to learn and to study halige gewritu. 7 betwih gehild regollices þeodscipes 7 þa holy writings and between keeping of-regular discipline and the dæghwamlican gimene to singanne on cyrcan me symble daily care to sing in church to-me ever swete 7 wynsum wæs, ðæt ic oppe leornode oppe lærde sweet and delightful was that I either learned or taught oððe write. 7 þa þy niganteoþan gere mines lifes, þæt ic or wrote and then in-the nineteenth year of-my life that I diaconhade onfeng, 7 þy ðritigoðan mæssepreosthade, 7 deaconhood received and in-the thirtieth masspriesthood and æghwæðerne þurh þenunge þæs arwyrþan bisceopes Iohannes each through ministry of-the venerable bishop John þurh hæse 7 bebod Ceolferþes abbudes. Of þære tide þæs through bidding and command of-Ceolfriþ abbot From that time after-that þe ic mæssepreosthade onfeng oð nigan 7 fiftig wintra that I masspriesthood received until nine and fifty winters minre ylðo ic þas bec for minre nidþearfe 7 minra freonda of-my age I these books for my need and of-my friends of geweorcum arwyrðra fædera wrat 7 sette, ge eac swilce from works of-venerable fathers wrote and set and also likewise to mægwlite andgites 7 gastlicre gerecenesse ic toæctect. to form of-sense and of-spiritual interpretation I added 482.11 Ærest on fruman Genesis oð Isaces gebyrd 7 aworpenesse First on beginning of-Genesis until of-Isaac birth and casting-out Ismahelis ic sette feower bec. of-Ismael I set four books

482.13 Be þam Tabernaculo 7 his fatum 7 sacerdlicum hræglum About the Tabernacle and its vessels and priestly garments þryo bec.
three books

482.15 On þone ærestan dæl Samuelis, þæt is oð Sawles deað On the first part of-Samuel that is until of-Saul death þæs cyninges, feower bec. of-the king four books

Be þæs Temples getymbro 7 þære becnendlican race twa 482.17 About of-the Temple building and the figurative account two béc.

books

Eft on cyninga béc XXX questionem. 482.18

Again on of-Kings book thirty questions

In Prouerbiorum Salomonis .III. béc. 482.19

On of-Proverbs of-Solomon three books

In Cantica Canticorum six béc. 482.20

On Song of-Songs six books

In Esdram 7 Neemiam þryo béc. 482.21

On Ezra and Nehemiah three books

In Canticum Abbacuc ane boc. 482.22

On Song of-Habakkuk one book

On boc þæs eadegan fæder Tobius becnendlicre race be 482.23

On book of-the blessed father Tobit of-figurative account about Criste 7 circan ane béc.

Christ and church one book

In godspelle Marce feower béc. 482.25

On gospel of-Mark four books

In godspelle Luce six béc. 482.26

On gospel of-Luke six books

Ofer godspel Omeliarum twa béc. 482.27

Upon gospel of-Homilies two books

In apostol, swa hwilc swa in geweorcum Scē Agustines 482.28

On apostle so which so in works of-Saint Augustine gemete, eal þurh endebyrdnesse ic awrat.

found all through order I wrote

In Actus Apostolorum twa béc. 482.30

On Acts of-Apostles two books

In septem Epistolas Canonicas syndrie béc. 482.31

On seven Epistles Canonical separate books

- 482.32 In Apocalipsin Scē Iohannes þreo béc.
On Apocalypse of-Saint John three books
- 484.1 Be þam syx yldum worulde ane boc.
About the six ages of-world one book
- 484.2 Be wunenessum Israhela bearna ane boc.
About dwellings of-Israel children one book
- 484.3 Be þam þe Esaias cwæð: et claudentur ibi in carcerem About that which Isaiah said and they-shall-be-shut there in prison & post multos dies uisitabuntur. and after many days they-shall-be-visited
- 484.5 Bi ryhte bissexe ane boc.
About right of-leap-year one book
- 484.6 Bi efenneahte æfter Anatolius race ane.
About equinox after of-Anatolius account one
- 484.7 Bi haligra spellum.
About of-saints stories
- 484.8 Sci Felices confessor lifes bók ȝ þrowunge. of-Saint Felix confessor of-life book and of-passion
- 484.9 Paulinus boc of metergeweorce in rade spræce ic gehwifde. of-Paulinus book from meter-work into plain speech I turned
- 484.10 Lifes boc ȝ þrowunge Scē Anastase martyr, sio wæs yfle Of-life book and of-passion of-Saint Anastasius martyr which was ill of Grecesce on Læden gehwyrfed ȝ gyt wyrs from sumum from Greek into Latin turned and yet worse by some ungetydum geryhted, swa swa ic mihte, ic to ondgyte geryhte. unskilled corrected so as I could I to sense corrected
- 484.13 Þæs halgan fæder lif ȝ muneces somed ȝ biscopes Scē Of-the holy father life and of-monk together and of-bishop of-Saint Cupbertes ærest eroico metere ȝ æfter fæce gerædeword ic Cuthbert first in-heroic meter and after space in-plain-words I awrat.
wrote

Para abbuda stær ȝ spel þisses mynstres, on þam ic geþeo 484.15

Of-the abbots history and story of-this monastery in which I rejoice þiowian þære uplican arfæstnesse, Benedictes ȝ Ceolferðes serve the upper mercy of-Benedict and of-Ceolfrith ȝ Hwætberhtes, on twam bocum ic awrat.

and of-Hwætberht in two books I wrote

Ðæt cyriclice stær usses ealondes ȝ þiode ic on fif bec 484.18

The churchly history of-our island and nation I in five books gesette.

set

Martyralogium be symbeldægum haligra martyra, on þære 484.19

Martyrology about feast-days of-holy martyrs in which ealle þa þe ic gemetan mihte, nales þæt an hwilce all those which I find could not-at-all that alone on-what dæge ac eac swilce hwilce cyne compes, oþþe under hwilcum day but also likewise what kind of-combat or under which deman hie middangeard oferswiðden, ic geornlice awrat.

judge they middle-earth overcame I earnestly wrote

Ymenbec misenlice metre. 484.23

Hymn-books in-various meter

Boc epigrammatum eroico metre. 484.24

Book of-epigrams in-heroic meter

Be gecynde wisana ȝ be tydum sindrie bec. 484.25

About nature of-things and about times separate books

Eft be tidum ane micle boc. 484.26

Again about times one great book

Boc de orthographia mid stæfræwe endebyrdnesse tosceadene. 484.27

Book about orthography with alphabet order divided

Boc de metrica arte, ȝ oþere to þisse * geþydde 484.28

Book about metrical art and other to this (conjecture) joined be scematibus ȝ tropes boc.

about figures and tropes book

- 486.1 Be gesetenessum 7 gemetum spræccynna, þam þæt About institutions and measures of-speech-kinds with-which the halige gewrit se canan awriten is. holy writing the canon written is
- 486.3 Ond nu ic þe bidde, duguþa Hælend, þæt þu me milde And now I thee pray of-blessings Savior that thou to-me mildly forgife swetlice drincan þa word þines wisdomes, ðæt þu grant sweetly drink the words of-thy wisdom that thou eac fremsumlice forgife, þæt ic æt nihstan to ðe þam also kindly grant that I at last to thee the willan ealles wisdomes becuman mote 7 symle ætywan fount of-all wisdom come may and ever appear beforan þinum ansyne.
before thy countenance
- 486.7 Eac þonne ic eaðmodlice bidde þætte to eallum þe þis ylce Also then I humbly pray that to all whom this same stær to becyme ures cynnes to rædenne oþþe to gehyrenne, history to come of-our race to read or to hear þæt hie for minum untrymnessum ge modes ge lichoman that they for my infirmities both of-mind and of-body gelomlice 7 geornlice þingien mid þære uplican arfæstnesse frequently and earnestly intercede with the upper mercy Godes ælmihtiges, 7 on gehwilcum hiora mægþum þas mede of-God almighty and in each of-their provinces this reward hiora edleanes me agefe, þæt ic þe be syndrigum mægþum of-their recompense to-me give that I who about separate provinces oððe þam heorum stowum, þa þe ic gemyndewyrðe 7 þam or the more-famous places those which I memorable and to-the bigengum þoncwyrrþe gelyfde, geornlice ic tilode to awritenne, inhabitants acceptable believed earnestly I strove to write þæt ic mid eallum þone wæstm arfæstre þingunge gemette. that I among all the fruit of-pious intercession found

AFTER THE HISTORY

THE WEST SAXON GENEALOGY

A list of the West Saxon kings that manuscript Ca places after the preface and Miller prints after the History. Cerdic and his son Cynric landed at Cerdicesora in 494 and six years later won the kingdom from the Welsh; Cerdic's line is traced back to Woden, and the kings are counted from him to Alfred, who began to reign at twenty-three, three hundred and ninety-six years after his family first conquered the land.

Ða wæs agangen fram Cristes accennednyse CCCC 7 Then was gone from of-Christ birth XCIII wintra, þa Cerdic 7 Cyneric his sunu coman ninety-four winters when Cerdic and Cynric his son came upp æt Cerdices oran mid fif scipum. 7 se Cerdic up at of-Cerdic shore with five ships and the Cerdic wæs Elesing, Elesa, Gewising, Gewis Wiging, Wiging was son-of-Elesa Elesa son-of-Gewis Gewis son-of-Wig Wig Freawining, Freawine Freoþo-garing, Freoðogar Bronding, son-of-Freawine Freawine son-of-Fritbugar Fritbugar son-of-Brand Brond Bældæging, Bældæg Wodening. Þæs ymbe syx Brand son-of-Bældæg Bældæg son-of-Woden After-that about six gear, þæs þe hi upp coman, geodan Westseaxna rice. years after-that that they up came conquered of-West-Saxons kingdom Þæt wæron ða ærestan cyningas þe Westseaxena land on Those were the first kings who of-West-Saxons land from Wealum geodan. 7 he hæfde þæt rice sixtyne gear Welsh conquered and he had the kingdom sixteen years 7 ða gefor he; 7 þa feng his sunu Cyneric to þam and then died he and then succeeded his son Cynric to the rice, 7 hit heold XXVII wintra. Ða he forþferde, kingdom and it held twenty-seven winters When he departed	486.16
---	---------------

þa feng Ceaulin his sunu to, 7 heold seofon winter.

then succeeded Ceaulin his son to and held seven winters

Ða he gefór, þa feng Ceol to þam rice 7 heold syx

When he died then succeeded Ceol to the kingdom and held six gear. Ða he gefor, ða feng Ceolwulf to his broðor; 7 years When he died then succeeded Ceolwulf to his brother and he ricxade seofontyne gear. Heora cynn gæð to Cerdice.

he reigned seventeen years Their race goes to Cerdic

Ða feng Cynegyls Ceolwulfes broðer suna to rice, 7

Then succeeded Cynegils of-Ceolwulf brother son to kingdom and hæfde an 7 þrittig wintra. 7 he onfeng ærest fulluhte had one and thirty winters and he received first baptism Westseaxna cyninga. Ða feng Kenwalh to rice 7 heold of-West-Saxons kings Then succeeded Cenwalh to kingdom and held hit þrittig winter. Se Cenwalh wæs Cynegelses sunu; 7 it thirty winters The Cenwalh was of-Cynegils son and þa heold Seaxburg his cwæn an gear þæt rice æfter then held Seaxburb his queen one year the kingdom after him.

him

488.4 Ða feng Æscwine to rice; þæs cyn gæð to Ceardice; 7

Then succeeded Æscwine to kingdom whose race goes to Cerdic and he heold twa gear. Ða feng Centwine to Westseaxna rice, he held two years Then succeeded Centwine to of-West-Saxons kingdom Cynegelsing, 7 ricsade nigon gear. Ða feng Ceadwala son-of-Cynegils and reigned nine years Then succeeded Cædwalla to þam rice; ðæs cynn gæð to Cerdice; 7 he heold to the kingdom whose race goes to Cerdic and he held III gear. Ða feng Ine to þam rice; þæs cyn gæð to three years Then succeeded Ine to the kingdom whose race goes to Cerdice; 7 he heold twa 7 þrittig winter. Ða feng

Cerdic and he held two and thirty winters Then succeeded Æþelheard to rice 7 heold feowertyne winter. Ða feng Æthelheard to kingdom and held fourteen winters Then succeeded Cuðred to; þæs cynn gæð to Cerdice; 7 he heold syxtyne Cuthred to whose race goes to Cerdic and he held sixteen winter. Ða feng Sigebyrht to; þæs cyn gæð to Cerdice; winters Then succeeded Sigeberht to whose race goes to Cerdic 7 he heold an gear. Ða feng Cynewulf to rice, þæs and he held one year Then succeeded Cynewulf to kingdom whose cyn gæð to Cerdice; 7 he heold an 7 ðrittig geara. race goes to Cerdic and he held one and thirty years Ða feng Beorhtric to rice, 7 he heold sixtene gear.

Then succeeded Beorhtric to kingdom and he held sixteen years Ða feng Ecbyrht to þam rice 7 heold seofon 7 Then succeeded Ecgerht to the kingdom and held seven and þrittig geara 7 seofen monað: 7 þa feng Æðelwulf his thirty years and seven months and then succeeded Æthelwulf his sunu to, 7 heold nigontoðe healf gear; 7 se Æðelwulf son to and held nineteenth half year and the Æthelwulf wæs Ecbyrhting, Ecbyrht Ealhmunding; Ealhmund Eabing; was son-of-Ecgerht Ecgerht son-of-Ealhmund Ealhmund son-of-Eafa Eaba Iopping; Ioppa Ingilding; Ingild Cenreding: 7 Ine Eafa son-of-Eoppa Eoppa son-of-Ingild Ingild son-of-Cenred and Ine Cenreding: 7 Cuðburh Cenreding; 7 Cwenburh Cenreding; son-of-Cenred and Cuthburh child-of-Cenred and Cwenburh child-of-Cenred Cenred Ceolwaling; Ceolwald Cuðwulfing; Cuðwulf Wining; Cenred son-of-Ceolwald Ceolwald son-of-Cuthwulf Cuthwulf son-of-Wine Cuðwine Celming; Celm Cynricing; Cyneric Creoding; Cuthwine son-of-Celm Celm son-of-Cynric Cynric son-of-Creoda Creodda Cerdicing.
Creoda son-of-Cerdic

488.22 Ða feng Æþelbald his sunu to rice, 7 heold fif Then succeeded Æthelbald his son to kingdom and held five gear. Ða feng Æðelbyrht to his broðor, 7 heold years Then succeeded Æthelberht to his brother and held .V. gear. Ða feng Æðered his broðor to rice, 7 five years Then succeeded Æthelred his brother to kingdom and heold .V. gear. Ða feng Ælfred hyra broðer to held five years Then succeeded Alfred their brother to rice; 7 þa wæs agangen his ylde þreo 7 twentig kingdom and then was gone of-his age three and twenty wintra, 7 þreo hund 7 six 7 hundnygantig wintra winters and three hundred and six and ninety winters þæs þe his cyn ærest Westseaxna land on Wealum after-that that his race first of-West-Saxons land from Welsh geeodon.
conquered
